Rev. Fred L. Lowery, Jr. Pastor

Our pastor, Rev. Fred Lowery visited with relatives and friends in Aiken, S. C., this week end.

Bro. David Deaton brought the day's service.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Smith had as their Sunday dinner guest Bro. David Deaton.

Mrs. Edna Gilbert Mims is in the Chilton County hospital at this writing. Let's be much in prayer for her and other sick and shut-ins.

Benny Harris is slowly improving at St. Vincents Hospital in Birmingham. Keep praying for him.

Everyone enjoyed our social we had the past Thursday night. It was well attended. Hot dogs and drinks were served.

We were happy to see all our old members in church Sunday and some visitors, too.

This church sends it's heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Ivan Smith family and the Campbell family in the death of her Uncle who was killed in an acident in North Alabama.

Mrs. Dolly Melton's condition remains the same, critical.

Let us be much in prayer for Mrs. Lee Cleckler who entered the Birmingham hospital for major surgery this week.

We are having a very good attendance and let's keep coming and praying.

Sanford Cole remains in the Veterans Hospital in Birmingham.

HOSTESSES WITH THE MOSTEST

High-flying Braniff Airlines Jet Hostesses have a magic carpet for the future—U. S. Savings Bonds. A recent Bond Drive ended with 91 per cent of the Braniff hostesses signed up for Payroll Savings, to help their company win top honors in employee participation in the air transportation industry.

The campaign was part of an industry-wide Payroll Savings drive headed by C. E. Woolman, President of Delta Air Lines, whose company achieved second-highest participation in the air transport industry.

Twenty-seven other major industries participated in the nationwide Payroll Savings effort, which to date has resulted in more than one million new savers signed up. Each drive was organized and directed by a top industry leader as a member of the Treasury's U. S. Industrial Payroll Savings Committee. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon appointed the committee, with Harold S. Geneen, President of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, as chairman, and outlined its assignment at a special Washington meeting in January.

Where to "plant" your spare coins to reap a big money harvest

Plant them in U.S. Savings Bonds!

America's farmers have grown millions of extra dollars this way. In less than eight years, every $75 invested in U.S. Savings Bonds becomes $100—automatically. And Uncle Sam guarantees it himself.

Best yet, you can plant in any weather, any time of the year! A little at a time soon grows into the money you need for the things you want. New land or equipment, perhaps. Or college for your youngsters.

Isn't now a good time to start planning your harvest?

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

SON Mark is very serious about the newspaper business as a vocation for himself in years to come. He was watching one of us run a machine the other morning. ond after closely watching the operation for about five minutes, he said: "What do you do, turn that machine on, and get it to runnin'. . . and then start runnin'?" He knows more about our machinery than we thought!

BOBBY Easterling is in a new predicament! He got out of the service station business long enough to go three blocks and get right back into it again. It must be something like printer's ink. . . once that cup grease gets into your blood there's just no escape. Any way, Bobby has teamed up with Herb Salter in a new American Station just north of the News here on Hwy. 31. Bobby is aiming to please, and he has the same friendly, courteous crew that he had at the "31" Service Station south of town. If you want to know their number, see their ad in this issue!

DON Sumrall had some very bad luck last Saturday. His new building, under construction fell in, an now it's a mess. The culprit, as we understand it, was the wind, which got to playing around in the rafters and didn't know when to quit. The rafters swung own, and the walls caved "out". Beaver-like, Don and his boys set in to clean up the mess so they can start over again. Old Don didn't get to a positiin for a new building by sitting around moaning. He's a go-getter!

UNDERSTAND that our friend Doc Wilkerson has undergone surgery and is in the local hospital since last Tuesday. Hope he's getting along O.K. Doc is one of the nicest guys around, and we don't want anything to happen to him. Our best wishes are with him!

AND speaking of hospitals the local Hospital Auxiliary will meet on Thursday, November 14th at 9:00 A.M. We assume they will meet at the Hospital. . . they didn't say!

REV. Rendal W. Caviness. of Miss., and a former resident of Clanton, was a welcome visitor to his many friends here last week. Rev. Caviness was recently elected Vice-President of the Ministerial Association of Warren County.

His Clanton friends congratulated him and wish him God's speed in his many worthwhile endeavors.

IF you have ever doubted that our's is a beautiful, wonderful, life, full of lovely surprises and "thank you's", here's a letter to prove it: "Dear Editor: Please send me a free copy of your newspaper containing the obituary of my aunt. Also publish the enclosed clipping of the marriage of my niece, And I wish you would mention it in your column, if it doesn't cost anything. that I have two bull calves for sale; and our church is having a chili supper. Tickets are 75 cents. As my subscription is out, please stop the paper as times are too hard to waste money on newspapers."

Eighth Grade Boys 4-H; New Officers

The Clanton eighth grade boys' 4-H Club organized recently. Officers are: President, Roger Crew, Vice-President. Larry Williams: Secretary, Franky Baker; and Reporter, Mike Alexander.

Concert Series Begins New Season Here Next Monday Evening

Now in their fourth season of touring, The Rondoliers Male Trio offers something special in the field of concert attractions. Three outstanding young soloists, headed by Edmond Karlsrud the distinguished Bass-Baritone, combine their talents in a unique and varied program of Art Songs, Operatic Selections, Show Tunes, Folk Songs, and Negro Spirituals with all special vocal arrangements by their accompanist, arranger, Charles Touchette.

The Rondoliers Trio will appear at the CCHS Auditorium on November 11, 1963 at 7:30 p.m.. in concert.

Those in the audience who tuned in their radios several years ago will recognize the trio's famous name. In the early days of network radio (the 1930's) the original Rondoliers were appearing regularly on such shows at "The Paul Whiteman Show.", "The Cliquot Club Eskimos", and and "The Arco Birthday Party." Charles Touchette, original accompanist-arranger for the Rondoliers is still in charge of the musicol direction of the group.

Members of the Rondoliers Trio are: Edmond Karlsrud, Bass-Baritone. Paul Solem, Tenor, and Max Mendenhall, Baritone.

If you are interested in a membership series and have not gotten one yet, we will continue to sell them until Monday, November 11, 1963 - the date of the first concert. You may contact Mrs. W. C. Golden. Mrs. Zora G. Smith, or W. Roy Wood.

Stolen Auto In Wreck Here Sunday Night

A car stolen from Shelton Motors here in Clanton, was in an accident Sunday evening about 6:00 near the new high school south of Clanton. The car, a white Oldsmobile station wagon had been at Shelton's being worked on when it was taken. It is owned by a party in Calera, Alabama.

According to local police, a kidnapping was reported in connection with the accident of the stolen vehicle, but they have yet to come up with conclusive proof of any such event. The car apparently had just been taken from the auto shop when it was involved in the accident. Local police are still investigating the theft and burglary.

Chief Deputy In Hospital

CHIEF Deputy Sheriff T. J. Lockhart has been in the Veterans Hospital in Montgomery since last Friday, undergoing some tests. The Sheriff's office could not tell the News just how long Deputy Lockhart would be in the hospital, but apparently it is nothing too severe. He has been a Deputy Sheriff in Chilton County for a number of years.

FHA Office Closed Monday

The County Office of the Farmers Home Administration will be closed all day Monday, Nov. 11. in observance of Veterans Day.

Clanton Jr. 4-H'ers Elect Officers

The Clanton 4-H Club, meeting in Mrs. Thompson's 5th Grade Room recently elected the following officers:

President, Jan Williams; Vice President, Jennifer Hardiman; secretary-treasurer, Karen Roberts.

Civil Rights Bill Is Treason!

WE strongly urge you, our readers to read Representative Armistead Selden's "Report From Washington" column, on editorial page of the News this week.

After carefully reading it, (the content of the article) this editor says that it is treason; and any representative of any peoples of the United States who supports it, is guilty of same!

We say it is treason to recommend that the government be a watchdog over a man's private business.

We say that it is treason to support the idea that the government should have the power to tell a man who he can employ, and who he can and cannot associate with.

We say that it is foolishness to support the idea that literacy tests are wrong. This Country has never in its history come so close to being run by a bunch of illiterates, as it is today — all the more reason why we should strengthen our literacy test laws.

White Heads Mental Health

Dr. Grady O. Segrest of Mobile announces the appointment of Judge J. C. White as Chairman of the Chilton County Mental Health and retarded children school fund drive.

The fund drive for 1963 in Chilton County will support the work in improving the care and treatment of Chilton County's 95 mentally ill and retarded confined to Bryce and Searcy Hospitals and Partlow State School. In addition, one half of the funds collected will be given to the Board of Directors of our Chilton County retarded children's school, which at this time is in dire needs of funds.

Judge White is completing the organizational work and is grateful to all of those who have already offered their services.

Volunteers are always needed in this worthy cause, and all who are interested in the work of our retarded children's school and mental health are urged to contact Judge White.

The fund drive will begin on November 17th and end on November 24th. When a volunteer calls on you, make a generous contribution and do so with understanding. It is up to you and I to help those who cannot help themselves. . . those who suffer from the world's "loneliness sickness" . . . mental illness.

"Born To Witness" To Be Seen At Youth Rally

FOR the young man, Tony Barton. witnessing to his faith in Christ is as normal as doing his everyday work in his dad's radio and TV shop.

His dad objects to Tony's witnessing. While installing some hi-fi equipment in the home of a girl injured in an auto accidet, Tony can't help but share his faith with her.

.What happened in the home of the girl and her parents as a result of Tony's witnessing — and how Tony's dad reacted — is an inspiring message of the influence one's faith in Christ can have when it is shared with others.

Every Chirstian should see "Born To Witness". You do not want to miss this compelling motion picture. so attend the November 9th Associational Youth Rally at the Macedonia Baptist Church at 7:30.

Great singing under the direction of Larry Draper, this inspiring motion picture, food, fun, and fellowship to follow. We're counting on seeing you there.

Progress At Verbena--

ABOVE is pictured the pastorium recently completed at the Verbena Baptist Church. This building was erected in memory of Mrs. Mary E. Oliver who loved her church and left the sum of $8,000 for the pastorium to be built. We, the members of Verbena Baptist Church say a hearty and heartfelt "Thank You" to each person who helped us in anyway with prayers, kind words. encouragement and monetary gifts. May God's richest blessings be upon each one is our prayers.

English Teachers Study Teen-Age Fiction Habits

MEMBERS of Chilton County High School English Department heard Mrs. Mozelle Cummings, director of Field Service, Alabama Public Library Service last Wednesday at the school when she spoke on "Directing Teen-Age Reading."

Mrs. Cummings. who has a MA degree in English and a MS degree in library science from Peabody College, stressed that there is no single nor perfect book list for teen-agers. She added that the adolescent should be allowed to choose from modern fiction as well as from traditional classics.

In regard to buying fiction for the library, Mrs. Cummings emphasized the importance of using the Standard Catalog for High School Libraries. Basic Books For the High School Library and other so-called tried and true lists compiled by the American Library Association.

Adding to the effectiveness of her talk, Mrs. Cummings displayed several pertinent books and distributed various reading lists. Briefly she called attention to two recent examples of good teen-age fiction: "The Incredible Journey" by Burnford and "Now We Are Enemies" by Fleming.

The discussion by a representative of the State Library Service is a second in a series of in-service studies by the Chilton County High School English Department.

The next program will be on Wednesday, November 20th.

Rainfall recorded last week was .34 on Saturday. We received no rainfall during the entire month of October.

There are 74 dormant hours below 45 degrees last week and to date.

Two Held in Local Jail On Vagrancy Charge

TWO brothers, John Fryer, 52, and Clyde Leon Fryer, are being held in County Jail on a change of vagrancy, pending the completion of an investigation by Sheriff Hugh Champion and State investigators into a possible cahrge of auto theft.

The two men, who list a Montgomery address, and who are natives of Elmore County, were picked up Monday evening in Clanton about 8:00 P.M. The car which they were driving had Texas license plates, and the two allegedly could not produce the proper credentials and papers for the late model car, or the license plates.

According to the Sheriff's office, the pair say they rented the car in Texas. They are being held under investigation.

EDITORIALS

Something We Pursue--

WE would rather be 10 times wrong in believing a man were honest; than to only once falsely accuse him of dishonesty.

There is not a publication that we pick up today, in which we do not read evidence of doubt and distrust, one for another; nation or individual. That is an unhealthy atmosphere in which to live and to raise our children.

Everyone doubts everyone else. No one's word seems to be worth very much anymore; and new organizations are being founded daily for first one cause and then another.

Doesn't it seem logical that all this "self preservation"; insurance against an unseen, often unknown enemy would be of little importance, if we could only regain our trust in one another.?

Dintrust and suspicion have a way of breeding themselves; and the offsprings, as Nature would have it no other wty, are distrust and suspicion magnified. The "child" always seems to grow greater than the "parent", until today. it is difficult to find trust, and nearly impossible to understand another's point of view.

It comes into our political lives, our religious lives, our social lives, and unfortunately creeps even into the lives of the members of our families. No one is safe from distrust, and therefore

We realize that to "trust" another in this day and time is dangerous; because one mistake can very well be a fatal one; for an individual as well as for nations of men. But what have we to lose that is so much more precious than our faith in and love for our fellowman. Are material possessions so wonderful. Are our lives themselves so valuable, tnat we are willing to put into the fire our self-respect and feelings as humtn beings -- creatures of God?

The skies of life are cloudy; and doubt and fear and things of earth are not calling to us in vain, as tne old hymn goes. They seem to be occupying top positions in our everyday lives.

Not until we put away our Devilish hatreds, our childish prejudices, and foolish doubts, will we be able to see the bright blue day of a good life on this earth.

People and things, in daily repitition are feeding the flames of distrust and suspicion, sometimes unknowingly or at least unthinkingly. We can only blame ourselves for the troubled world; and, it follows then; that only we can do anything about getting it out of it's trouble.

We read that "Credit is a Trust. . ." which is true; but to the individual and, in our opinion, to nations of men, the ultimate mark to our credit is our Trust in one anotner. Someone is not doing his share of it!

Giving And Getting--

IT is better to give than to receive. But, it's even better if you can do both; and that's what a lot of us are driving at when we say to another who is being solicited for a worthy cause: "It's deductible, you know."

We have known persons to contribute to so-called worthy cases largely on the premise that "it was deductible". But, when this creeps into a situation, what are you really giving? Giving some in order to get back some more, is not true giving, in the sense that Christ meant when he made the above quotation. We don't think he said that it was not blessed to give in order to receive; but we do think he assumed that we have sense enough to know tne value of each.

We are playing the fool, and defeating our own purpose, when we give, to receive. It completely dissolves the entire nature of giving. So what do you have, then. Exchange is about all!

Durability of Your Newspaper--

A fellow we were talking with the other day, did his level best to convince us that the life of a newspaper was very fragile and very brief. We seldom argue with a customer, or even prospective customers, but this was an exception. and we tried to prove our point. . . and, in fact, did make some progress toward enlightment.

"Nothing is as dead as yesterday's newspaper."

"That old adage," he assures his readers," is not true and it never was true, but because it sounds cute and has a twist, it has lived thru the years. In truth, nothing is as alive as yesterday's newspaper to someone who hasn't read it. The newspaper does not enter or leave the home with the speed of light. It hangs around until every member of the family has read it. Sometimes for weeks.

"Watch that newspaper in your home. Notice that every time anyone picks it up the newspaper is new. Another thing, the whole family doesn't need to be present at any one time to enjoy their newspaper. Dozens of obstructions and delays may interfere with a person's newspaper reading. You may be called to the phone when it is delivered, sister may be studying, brother may be practicing ball. pop may be attending an important meeting, but the newspaper is waiting-brand new - until each person has an opportunity to read it. . . No matter how many people have read it before, the newspaper is alive to the person about to read it.

"If you don't agree with statements carried in your newspaper, you can usually present your views. All it takes, in most cases, is a signed 'Letter to the Editor' . . .

"Nothing is more alive than any newspaper that is waiting to be read. You make no date with your newspaper. It stays alive for a day - or a week. It is alive until you find time to read it."

Between Thoughts--

TIM TUCKER IS A GOOD BOY SOMETIMES. MARK TUCKER IS A GOOD BROTHER MARK TUCKER IS A BAD BOY TONIGHT, BUT WE LOVE HIM JUST THE SAME.

Goes Without Saying--

WE have been intending to write our Congressmen and Senators; but. human-like, we have put it off.

It should go without saying, howeven, that we are opposed to the proposed Civil Rights bills now pending in Congress. And to go a step further; we are opposed to any such measures that would give the Federal Bureaucracy any further powers over the individual, be he businessman, farmer or fund-raising athlete.

We are irrevocably against those Civil Rights measures that would smother our freedoms; and we are convinced that our Congressmen and Senators in Washington feel the same.

If, by chance there is one among them who does not feel as we do about this particular field of concern; let this be our personal notification to him: If it gives the Federal Government additional power in any shape, form or fashion. . . we're a'gin it!

State Aids 149 Chilton County Children

Pensions and Security Commissioner Ruben K. King has reported that September figures show the alrgest decrease in Alabama's aid to dependent children rolls in any one month since August 1960. The decline contrasts sharply witr a rise of over 1,000 cases within the three year period since 1960.

In Chilton County, fafilies receiving aid to dependent children in September numbered 149 compared lwith 155 in August.. This is a decline of 24 recipients in 6 families.

Both Director Joyce Clements and Commissioner King are highly encouraged because they think this is a concrete result of concentrated efforts to help these families bceome self supporting.

Recipients throughout the State in September totaled 91,059 is 22,386 dependent children faimlies, a decline since August of 363 recipients in 110 families.

The Department is working particularly to gain support from absen tfathers and to help families achiebe rehabilitation and become wholly or partially sulf-supporting.

"Though the Legislature did not make it a felony to fail to comply with a court order of support, the Department is helping public assistance recipients who file for support. Also, the Department of Pensions and Security uses unemployment compensation claims, drivers' licenses and auto registration to locate deserting fathers."

Joyce Clements, County Director, said that workers serving aid to nependent children families now have caseloads of 120 to enable them to make more frequent visits and redetermine eligibility at least twice a year. She anticipates that more of these families are becoming independent either through rehabilitation or through support frim now absent fathers.

'Sweetheart' from Day of Birth Is National March of Dimes Girl

"She was a sweetheart from the day she was born."

This is the way her mother describes winsome, bright little Mary Lou Graves, 5, of Flint, Mich., who has been named the 1964 National March of Dimes Child.

Blonde, blue-eyed, vivacious Mary Lou is indeed a sweetheart, but one who has had more than her share of sadness. She was born with a birth defect called spina bifida, which means that the base of her spine was not closed properly. At the age of one month, she underwent an operation to correct this condition. Since then, Mary Lou has fought to be able to walk, and sometimes, she has had to fight to live.

Today, the lower part of her body is paralyzed, and she is extremely vulnerable to infections. In spite of this, Mary Lou is a cheerful little girl determined not to miss any of the pleasures of growing up.

Proud of the fact that she lives in a state known as the auto capital of the world, Mary Lou tells visitors that her wheel chair is a "Kadlac." She has a frisky puppy named Prince, and she scurries after him as fast as Kadlac's wheels can take her. She tags along after her mother, helping to sweep the floor, dust the furniture and dry the silverware.

One of her favorite jobs is baby sitting for her two younger sisters and brother who were all born without defects.

Favorite hairdresser of Mary Lou Graves, 1964 National March of Dimes Child, is her mother, Mrs. Raymond Graves of Flint, Mich.

March of Dimes Symbol

The National Foundation-March of Dimes has chosen Mary Lou to symbolize the 250,000 children born with a serious birth defect each year in this country.

Basil O'Connor, president of The National Foundation, explains the problem of birth defects, and the voluntary health organization's attack on it, in this way:

"Why did something go wrong when Mary Lou's tiny body was being formed? Why is a seriously defective child born to one out of 10 American families?

"Can more of these children be helped with present medical knowledge?

"What more must we know to prevent this from happening to babies yet unborn?

"Simply stated, these are the questions for which hundreds of March of Dimes-supported scientists seek answers."

Because the answers which come from scientific research will come too late to help children already afflicted like Mary Lou, the March of Dimes is fighting the problem of birth defects in still another way—through a growing nationwide network of March of Dimes hospital centers seeking the most effective treatment for these children. Currently, there are 44 of these centers across the country.

Grateful for Help

Mary Lou may be unaware of all the national and international efforts to help solve the birth defects mystery, but her parents are not. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Graves are grateful to the Genesee County (Mich.) Chapter of The National Foundation for financial aid to help with Mary Lou's frequent hospitalizations.

"The March of Dimes is the greatest friend we ever had," Mrs. Graves says. "The March of Dimes helped us pay for hospital bills, medications, the wheel chair and other necessary items."

Mary Lou wants to be a nurse when she grows up, Mrs. Graves reports. "Wouldn't it be wonderful if she could be?" the March of Dimes Child's mother says. "Then maybe she could pay back some of the kindness shown to her. Until then, my husband and I can only say thank you to everyone who contributes to the March of Dimes, because more knowledge might mean more medical techniques that may help our Mary Lou."

As March of Dimes President O'Connor points out, the ultimate aim of knowledge gathered from this scientific research is to prevent birth defects from harming thousands of tiny bodies not yet born.

Report from Washington

BY

Alabama Congressman

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

After months of controversy a so-called civil rights bill was reported favorably from the House Judiciary Committee last Tuesday.

Not since President U. S. Grant in 1875 signed into law an equal accomodations act has the Congress been so torn by such far-reaching and all inclusive civil rights legislation. The Reconstruction public accomodations law was short lived, however. In 1883, the Supreme Court overruled the law, declaring it unconstitutional and pointing out that Congress had no authority by virtue of the 14th Amendment to enact such legislation.

In the 80 years since this Supreme Court decision. the precedent of the 1883 decision has been followed. As recently as 1959 the court ruled that the commerce clause and the 13th and 14th Amendments did not prevent a restaurant proprietor from excluding Negroes from his business establishment, if he so desired.

However, as a result of the current wave of mass hysteria plus lobbying from the White House, Congress is now in the process of rewarding mob rule and lawlessness by attempting to invalidate the court's decisions.

Dangerous Bill

The bipartisan bill which was reported last week was a compromise between the original Kennedy civil rights package and the ultra-liberal subcommittee bill. But contrary to press reports, the bill now pending before the House is not a watered-down measure. It is even stronger than the original Kennedy proposal and, in my opinion, is the most dangerous domestic legislation of this Century.

The bill reported by the Judiciary Committee contains 10 titles, including the much-heralded public accomodations section. The measure would make the Civil Rights Commission a permanent body with additional power; authorize a census to determine Negro voting with an eye toward reapportionment of Southern states where Negroes are denied voting rights; give the Attorney General authority to sue for school integration; outlaw literacy tests and strengthen federal authority over elections.

One of the most far-reaching provisions of the bill would cut off federal funds to a state where some discrimination may exist. This title, which could stop welfare and social security payments among others, provides a legislative vehicle by which the President can use coercive powers to attain Executive ends.

Submerges Rights

The creation of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission will set up a watchdog over American business and labor unions. This section of the bill, if passed. will produce a veritable "Star Chamber Empolyment Bureau," and will investigate alleged hiring discrimination in businesses with as few as 25 employees. If the Commission finds evidence of discrimination it would have the power to issue a stop order or to secure a federal court injunction against the business or labor union.

While this so-called civil rights legislation purportedly insures individual rights, in reality it submerges individual rights to the power and control of a centralized government and its agencies. History has clearly demonstrated that the greatest enemy of individual rights is a centralized government empowered to direct the lives, associations. employment and property usage of its citizens.

Although the leadership of the Congress has indicated that we will continue in session until the new Congress convenes in January, there is an excellent possibility that Southern opposition to this unwise measure may block its passage — at least during the present session.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

For a long time, the nation's independent business proprietors, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have requested Congress to take government out of private business.

* * *

Much has been accomplished, but inasmuch as government encroachment in private business to provide more and more jobs for more and more bureaucrats is a many-headed hydra, there are still many heads to be chopped before the final solution is reached.

C. W. Harder

A case at point is the practice of many federal agencies, and some states, to carry on their payrolls huge staffs of engineers. This has resulted in a decline in the use of private engineering firms, with a resultant heavy cost to the public.

* * *

At the present time the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Park Service, and many others have become "engineer happy."

* * *

No one so far can come up with the true figures on what this is costing the taxpayers.

* * *

Perhaps best insight into the appalling waste involved is the example of the mammoth California highway building programs, where figures and data do exist. Most of this is paid for, of course, by Federal grants.

* * *

In addition, the California highway department maintains a staff of engineers, using no private engineering firms. The engineering costs are startling.

* * *

The most recent year on which figures are available, 1957-58, $213,083,112 worth of highway work was done in California. The engineering costs were $41,052,749, or 23.95% of the total cost of the completed roads.

* * *

In the same period, using private engineering firms, the Texas Turnpike Authority built $36 million worth of roads with an engineering cost of only 8.43% Illinois Toll Highway Commission almost $290 million worth with engineering only 9.02%, New York almost $800 million worth with engineering costing 9.62%, the Florida Turnpike Commission built $43 million worth with an engineering cost of 7.85%.

* * *

The average, where states do not maintain the luxury of huge engineering staffs, is about 9%. Thus, the taxpayers to the State of California, as well as all taxpayers who contribute to the federal grants to California roads, pay 15% more to help maintain a huge California bureaucracy. In one year this amounted to over $41 million.

* * *

Or to put it another way, for every 100 miles of highway built in Florida only 84 miles can be built in California.

* * *

With California finding this luxury so expensive, it causes shudders to even try to contemplate what the Federal government waste on engineering costs totals. But it all seems to follow a pattern. Socialize engineering, then take the next step. Eventually, everybody could be either on the government payroll, or relief, and the theme song in Washington will then be "I wonder where the taxpayer went?"

Baptist Weekly News Bulletin

CORRECTION!

Correction! Men and boys of the Churches. The Brotherhood Quarterly meeting definitely meets Monday, November 18, 7:00 p.m.. at the Concord Baptist Church. Just desregard the date mentioned on the bulletin you received last week. That was in error. Please announce and enroll men and boys at the next two Sunday services to attend this outstanding Brotherhood meeting at Concord. The refreshments, weiners and the trimmings will be furnished the men and boys by their church. The host church will furnish the cold drinks.. The Brotherhood program theme: Royal Ambassadors. Several boys will be used to conduct the program. The men and boys of all the churches are invited and urged to attend.

SUNDAY, November 12th is "H" Day in the Chilton-Unity Association. To date 30 churches have requested Howard College Ministerial students to fill the pulpits and represent the College. This is a happy experience for the churches who give prayerful support to a group of Christian men who are dedicated to the call of God; to the gospel ministry either to serve as pastor, evangelist, missionaries, or a secular vocation, at home or on foreign fields of service.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Pastor's Conference will convene Saturday, November 9, 2:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Clanton. Rev. Robert C. Edge, Jr., will preside at the opening business session.

Rev. Arthur Duke, Program Chairman, has announced a very interesting program for the latter half of the one-hour service. All ministers and other visitors are cordially invited.

BETTER than the best awaits all at the Youth Rally Saturday, November, 9, 7:30 P.M. at the Macedonia Baptist Church. Born to Witness", the title of a sound film, will be shown. The singing and fellowship of the youth and adult leadership will be outstanding. The host church will serve the refreshments.

The young people and adult leaders of all the churches in the Chilton-Unity Association are cordially invited and urged to attend. Rev. Don Graham, president.

ALABAMA Baptist will meet Tuesday through Thursday, November 12-14 at the First Baptist Church for the day sessions, and at the Central Park Baptist Church for the night sessions in Birmingam, for the Baptist State Convention. The pastor's Conference will convene on Monday before at 2:00 — 7:00 P.M. The pastors and other leaders of the churches of the Chilton - Unity Association will look forward to attending this most important Baptist meeting of the year. The churches will make it possible for the pastor to go and reside in Birmingham to enable them to attend every session throughout the Convention.

THE Bible School enrollment of the Howard College Extension Clanton Center, which meets each Tuesday 6:45 — 8:00 P.M. at the West End Baptist Church is increasing. Every minister and church worker is cordially invited to visit this Bible School.

NEWS OF—

REFUGE

An old Miner explained to a visitors inquiry, "I let my mules spend one day a week outside the mines to keep them from going blind." When the Lord's children worship together in the Lord's House, the sunshine of God's love breaks through and prevents them from becoming a spiritual paralytic.. Let us remind ourselves that there is nothing that will take the place of worship on the part of God's children.

We are glad to report good services over the last week end. The attendance was fair and the interest was good at both services.

Our building program is progressing nicely. We have the paneling up and will be putting up the celotey soon. A row of lights on either side of the auditorium will take the place of the center lights.

We like the way our people are responding to the work and also in their gifts to the building program. We noticed a one hundred dollar bill which was given by one of the young men of our church last Sunday which went into the building fund. Other nice gifts were very much appreciated. Two of the brethern volunteered to buy two lights each which amounts to about $20.00. Well, that covers half of the light fixtures. Maybe some of you would accept the challenge and buy the other four; or at least one. If you are too far away and cannot come, just sit down and write us a nice check and send it to Mr. M. Lloyd Mims. Route 1, Clanton, Ala..

A committee of ladies are arranging an interesting Christmas Program which we will be hearing lots about as the days go by..

Mr. Andrew Mims is confined to the bed, but his condition remains about the same as for the past few weeks. The family has procured a nice Hospital bed which facilitates matters greatly in the nursing and carrying for Mr. Mims.

We would like to remind you that Refuge has gone full time, and we will be looking for you and all the family next Sunday.

Finley-Bentley Vows Said

THE Thorsby Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Rebecca Ann Bentley and Bob Ray Finley at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, on October 12, 1963. The Reverend Laney W. McReynolds officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Bentley, of Thorsby, Alabama, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Finley, Lamison, Alabama. The bride is the grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dudley Nix, Maplesville, Alabama, and Mrs. E. N. Bentley, Thorsby and Magnolia Springs, Alabama, and the late Mr. Bentley. The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Sealy, Lamison, and Mrs. James Martin Finley, Lamison, and the late Mr. Finley.

Miss Barrie Shell, Bessemer, was maid of Honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Charles Green, Gainesville, Florida; Mrs. Jimmy Ryan, Pensacola, Florida; Mrs. Jimmy Martin, Clanton; Mrs. Don Guy and Miss Doris Smith, Thorsby; and Miss Sarita Baggett, Birmingham. Susan Bentley, sister of the bride and Cathy Graham, Maplesville, cousin of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Cynthia Singley, Thorsby, was flower girl.

They wore floor length frocks in vintage red Italian velvet, and coronets of pearls.. Each wore a two-strand pearl bracelet, a gift of the bride. They carried a white cabbage rose outlined with a white lace handkerchief.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of ivory satin and ecru alencon lace appliqued with lace rosettes, terminated in a cathedral train. A pill box of ivory lace held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white orchids.. She wore a single strand of pearls, given to her by her paternal grandmother.

Mr. George A. Finley served his son as best man. Ushers were John Finley, brother of the groom, James Pritchett, cousin of the groom, Ray Sirman, Mike Holmes, Tommy Sides, Bob Sewell and Tom Bentley, brother of the bride.. Brad Pritchett, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer. He wore vintage red Italian velvet pants and white satin shirt with a red satin cumberband.

The candles were lighted by Ray Sirman and Mike Holmes. Nuptial music was presented by Miss Judy Childress and Roy Kendrick, Jr., accompanied by Mrs. B. V. Ray of Prattville..

The reception was held at at the home of Mrs. Henry H. Robinson, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Jeff Cleckler registered the guests.

The bride's cake, an all white double ring, held an open Bible and a cascade of orchids and calla lillies. Presiding at the bride's table was Mrs. Jimmy Kincaid, assisted by Mrs. Howard Graham and Mrs. Jack Vardaman. Miss Kathleen Thompson, Auburn, Mrs. Cecil Carlton, Mrs. James Giles and Mrs. Tom Sharman served coffee and punch on the patio. The groom's cake was served by Mrs. John Finley, Mrs. James Pritchett and Mrs.. Robert Graham.

Mrs. Malcolm Lyell and the bride's attendant served as floating hostesses.

Mrs. P. F. Singley and Mrs. Frank Porter were hostesses at the home of the bride where the gifts were on display.

For going away the bride wore a knitted white wool suit with matching stole and leopard accessories Her corsage was a green orchid.

Pvt. and Mrs. Finley are at home at 437 Carmel Avenue, Apt. F.. Mariana, California, where he is stationed with the United States Army.

Produce For Children's Home

The produce for the Children's Home at Troy will be assembled at the peach shed in Clanton on November 12th (Tuesday), from 7 A.M. until noon. Since it will affect everyone of the 54 churches in the Association as well as friends from other churches, who always have a part, we are urging that all fruits be well packed and that all food and feed material be well sacked or wrapped.

Let every committee evaluate and itemize a list of produce brought and hand in same at the truck at the peach shed.. This will facilitate matters greatly since we will only load until the noon hour on the above date. Canned fruits will be valued at 50c per quart and preserves and jellies will be valued at 75c per quart. Other produce will be valued according to market price as near as possible.

There was nothing brought in last year after the noon hour. Hence, the reason for leaving immediately following the noon hour this year. Please bear this point in mind.

The churches and friends of the Home gave $2,600.00 in cash and produce on the above occasion last year.

Study Club Tea Highlight At Shackleford's

The Study Club of Clanton held its first meeting of the 1963-64 season on Friday afternoon, October 4th in the home of Mrs. Dyer Shackelford.

Mrs. Robert Powers president, presided. On arrival she presented each member with a most artistic folder designed and made by her. The oute rcover was embellished with long stemmed hand made carnations in the club. colors of green and write. Enclosed was the beautiful club Litasy. Mrs. Powers led the Litany with the club giving the response.

A lenghty business session followed. Chairmen of all committees gave brief outlines of projects for the year. A budget submitted by the treasurer and accepted by the club, will make possible, donations for worthy drives, scholarship funds and other causes.

The Louise Wilson Library award presented to the Study Club by the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs asd has been on display at the Clanton Public Library, was on display at the first meeting for all to admire this beautiful silver trophy.

Mrs. A. M. Thornton, program chairmas spoke briefly of the years programs; the first two will be on Changes in a Changing Social Order; two os Conservation needs; trree os Latin America. She introduced the subject for the afternoon "William Faulkner" and the guest speakers, Mrs. Reese Mullins and Miss Janet May. Mis May read beautifully William Faulkner's acceptance speech of the Nobel prize he received in Stocnholm Sweden on December 10, 1950. Mrs. Mullins gave an excellent paper on William Faulkser.. It was a most interesting and stimulated program most warmly received by the twenty members present.

Immediately following, the hostess invited the club into the dining room where the beautifully appointed table was laid for tea. Mrs. Robert Powers and Brs. Berber Farley poured at the twin silver service. The hostess received tea guests until six.

Ala. Baptist State Convention Nov. 12

All the churches of the Chilton Unity Association are looking forward to the Alabama Baptist State Convention which will convene in Birmingham, on Tuesday through Thursday, November 12-14 at 9:00 a.m. each day, Every pastor and members, especially the workers in the churches should plan to attend at least part of the sessions of the conference and of the convention, which is very convenient to all the Churches in Chilton County. The pastor's Conference will meet Monday, November 11, 2:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. The printed programs indicate that a great inspiring convention for all Baptist will be conducted, Every church should make it possible for their pastor to attend the conference and the convention in Birmingham this year

NEW CHEVELLE!
BY CHEVROLET

The kind of handling ease you'd expect in a smaller car. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

Only a car that looks as good as this could come between Chevrolet and Chevy II. Come on down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!

And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

The American Association of University Women held its October meeting at the Holiday Inn. Hostesses were: Mesdames Norman Roberts, Gordon Thampson, Harold Lewis and Joseph J. Mullins. Upon arrivel the guests were invited to the tea table for party refreshments. The table was covered with a beautiful hand made mported cloth. The centerpiece was orange colored mums..

A number of visitors were welcomed by the president Mrs. Norman Roberts.

The program chairman Mrs. Harold Parr stated that the year books were not ready and she read the programs for the coming year. The new plon of study for the coming year was given by Mrs. Dan Mims. Mrs. Parr introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. Leo Langston who reviewed the book Nineteen Husdred Seventy Five in a very entertaining and humerous manner.

Telephone Talk

Charles M. Nicholson
Your Telephone Manager

TELEPHONE TALK SALUTES the Alabama Power Company. In Chilton County alone this utility provides 75 jobs. Its dams have given us some of the finest water recreation areas to be found anywhere. It's also our number one taxpayer. This year it paid the county nearly $85,000 in taxes.

SERVICE TO CUSTOMERS is the primary concern of the power company people. Power problems which might occur after normal business hours should be reported to the numbers shown below. This list is more complete than the one pubished in the current Clanton Telephone Directory. Why not cut it out and paste it in the lower right hand corner of page 13 of your directory.

ANOTHER STEP OF PROGRESS for all Chilton County was the mass turnout of citizens Sunday, October 20, to receive Sabin polio immunization. Over 16,900 persons received their sugan lumps. Don't forget to go by again on December 1, and January 12 to receive Type 2 and 3.

AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY for you to do your part in getting additional state revenue for education will present itself early in December. I urge each one of you to go to the polls at that time and cast a vote in favor of the constitutional amendment which will increase the state corporate income tax from the present rate of 3% to 5%. This amendment will provide for the continuation of the deduction of Federal Income Tar returns on corporations. The additional state revenue will go to Alabama's special educational trust fund and will be used for education throughout the state.

Misses Rich; Stephens Grads At Massey College

Shirley Rich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rich of Clanton, and Willa Sue Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Allen of Maplesville, were among the 60 graduating seniors who recently received degrees and dipolmas from Massey College in Birmingham.

Shirley received the Professional Secretarial diploma and was awarded top scholastic honors in her course. She was also presented achievement awards for typewriting proficiency, perfect attendance. and finished honors in the Miss Secretary series. She has been placed by the College Employment Office as a secretary with the law firm of Barnett and Tingle in Birmingham.

Willa Sue was presented the Junior Accounting diploma and received special recognition for her honors record in tne American Institute of Certified Public Accountants College Testing Program. She has been placed as an accountant with Walker Plywood Company in Birmingham. She is a 1962 graduate of Maplesville High School.

Shirley graduated from the Chilton County High School with the Class of 1962.

Franklin Johnson Enters Ministry

It is a very happy occasion when one of our church members makes a decision to enter full time Christian service. Franklin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson, recently accepted God's call to enter the Christian Ministry.

Franklin is now attending the U of A, Tuscaloosa, where he is pursuing his pre-ministerial studies. He is also doing correspondence work which will lead to his being liscensed to preach in the Methodist Church. He expects to have this work completed in December. We wish him courage, strength and determination in this undertaking and pray God's continued blessings upon him as he continues preparing on this marvelous field of endeavor.

Assembly Program

The title of the general assembly program the 3rd, "Worship". Song, O Worship the King.

Wililam Vines. General Supt. led in prayer. To aid worship, Mr. Vines urged teachers to step up the visitation program of absentees and prospects; to do more Bible reading and bring Bibles to Sunday School.

Ushers at the morning service at the Baptist Church: Harry Hale Mike Chandler, Donald Davenport and Sidney Chandler, who led the offertory prayer. These young people are members of the RA Chapter.

JOY Class Meeting

Monday, October 28th was the regular meeting day for the JOY Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church. Seven of the ten members and the teacher met at 2:30 at the church. Mrs. M. E. Guy served refreshments. Mrs. Eula Cost led in prayer.

Mrs. I. H. McNeill, Sr. read the scripture and a love offering was made. Mrs. Cost read the minutes and gave a financial report. Plans were begun on reaching the Standard of Excellence and the Standard of Efficiency.

Present: Mds. Annie Cooper. George Naish, Cora Ellison, Eula Cost. I. H. McNeill, Sr., F. E. Chapman and the teacher, Miss Mary Clements.

Parade For Kindergarten School

All ages of "children" enjoy a parade; but to the kindergarten group the one Thursday morning was the highlight of the school session.

Eighteen school age children in their false faces and colorful costumes marched through the downtown area. There were clowns. ghosts, skeletons, goblins, a bear, a witch, three devils and a hobo. The march led to the home of Mrs. Leroy Peterson. where the children were served refreshments. The teachers, Mrs. Lynn Cobb and Mrs. I. H. McNeill Jr., joined in also.

Friday morning, the younger group, 13 in number, all dressed up; paraded around the block. and then to classroom for refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hubbard of Birmingham spent the 28-29 of October with her mother Mrs. A. M. Attaway.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Cooper of Knoxville, Tenn., were here visiting her mother, Mrs. Mattie Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lloyd Bean and two children of Birmingham were Sunday visitors of his mother, Mrs. Ida Bean.

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

"SMALL" people in big, new automobiles. are like Robert Kennedy. . . too much power, and not enough "cogs"! They like to make things "squeel".

ROY Adkins is somewhat noted for his consistent frugality (to put it mildly.) A neighbor of his'n tells us that Roy was out picking up pecans the other day, when a Jaybird swooped down and got one of his tasty morsels. It made Roy so mad, according to the neighbor, that he went right out and bought himself a $240..00 shotgun! Heck Roy, pecans just ain't bringing that much nowadays. . . and neither are Jaybird!

WE take time from the "petty pace" to recognize the fact that one who stood tall in the field of Journalism -- the place we call home — has departed this life. Ed Field, Editor of the Selma Times Journal for many yearh, died last week in a Selma hospital. It may seem odd to those who knew him personally, that we claim any relationship with him at all. You see, we had never met the man.. Even so, our "knowing" him was real, and personal to us. When a stranger dies, you don't feel a lump in your throat, as we do now. There have been times in the past when it seemed that nobody patricularly was listening to what we had to say. Ed would come through with a brief note of criticism or praise, and we felt the world had not completely turned it's back.

We feel unqualified to claim him as a friend; but we feel as though we have lost a good one.. He was an editor's editor; and a man's man; and he looked with favor and constructive criticism on efforts of those who, though perhaps unqualified, still made an effort. He was a free-thinker who felt it his personal obligation to respond with a passion; and to encounter with enthusiasm. Our profession has lost a Knight; and we mourn his pashing.

OUR good friend M. E. Kilpatrick in the Magic City, informs us that Mr. William R. Collins, of Rt. 3, Clanton, in the Fairview Community, has been appointed as a field representative for Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Company.. "Pat" is the state manager for W.O.W. He had an awful lot to do with the setting up of the Youth Camp which is located south of Clanton in the Enterprise Community.

As for Mr. Collins; he is a native of Tennessee, but moved to Hartselle, Ala. at an early age. His wife is formerly of Cullman, and they have one son, Bobby Joe, 18. Welcome Collins all.

RECENTLY welcomed into the Nursing School at University Hospital in Birmingham, is Miss Sherry F. Wyatt of Clanton. She is a member of the largest freshman class in the 60 year history of the school. 101 students will (if everything goes well) be members of the graduating class of 1966. We wish 'em all the best. . . and especially Miss Wyatt. She's one of us, you know.

ACCORDING to the Alabama Heart Association, Alabama deer hunters are in more danger from possible overloading of their hearts, than from stopping a stray bullet. That's interesting, but we'd say neither prospect was particularly appealing. Remember that, you "buck hunters"!

Bank Robbers Caught Near Clanton

A Negro man, who claimed he was from "hell", and that he "wasn't afraid to die", was apprehended early Wednesay morning just south of Clanton, along with his accomplice.

The two men, identified by Chilton County Sheriff Hugh Champion as Elbert Lee Gulley. 35, and Ernest Hooks, Jr., 25, robbed the bank of Dozier, Alabama late Tuesday morning of an estimated sum of $33.000.

Both men were from Ohio, and and were driving a 1957 model automobile with Ohio License plates. Gulley had lived for a time in South Alabama in Crenshaw County.

Al Lingo and Major John Cloud noticed an automobile which passed them on old Highway 31 in Autauga County late Tuesday night. On a hunch, the two officers gave pursuit. Just below the intersection of Highways 22 and 31, near Verbena, the car with the bank robbers in it wrecked. The two men took to the woods, after being "shot" out of the car by Chilton County State Troopers Harvey Nelson and Neeley Strength.

Dogs were brought up from Draper and about midnight Tuesday, one of the men was apprehended very close to where he left the automobile. The other was captured some two hours later.

Sheriff Champion said that four FBI men were on the scene along with the State Troopers and the Sheriff's forces. The two men, when captured, were very cold and cut and bruised from their chase through the woods, which are very dense in that area.

The fugitives were taken back to Montgomery upon their capture. Some $26,000 of the stolen money was confiscated in two suitcases in back of the car.

Dozier is a small town of about 300 population in South Alabama.

DR. ANGEL MARTINEZ

Martinez To Speak At First Baptist Here

This dynamic Southern Baptist evangelist, Dr. Angel Martinez, was born in San Antonio, Texas, September 20, 1921, of Latin-American parents. His father was born in Spain and his mother in Mexico.

Angel Martinez was converted in a Baptist mission in San Antonio, Texas, in July 1935 at the age of thirteen and preached his first sermon in September of the same year. Immediately he began to get invitations for revivals and has averaged better than a sermon a day during the past twenty nine years.

Reverend Martinez is a graduate of Baylor University (1945) with a B.A. degree. He is also a graduate of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky (1949). He has completed more than two years study on a law degree and has memorized the entire New Testament. He has an honorary Doctor of Divinty degree and is the author of six books.

Evangelist Angel Martinez held forty nine revivals while a student in Baylor in Waco, Texas: and while attending Southern Baptist Theological Seminary he conducted fifty one revivals in Louisville. The dynamic young man of God has preached in most of the large Southern Baptist churches.

Angel Martinez is married and the father of two children. Fort Smith, Arkansas, is his home and headquarters between revivals.

Dr. Carl E. Bates says of this man: "I firmly believe that Angel Martinez has no peer among contemporary evangelists. He is not only compassionate in his preaching, he is scholarly as well. He is endowed with the capauity to draw crowds of lost people to hear him preach night after night. His ministry in our church was absolutely above reproach in every respect."

This is the third time Angel Martinez has conducted a revival here. The Sunday services will be at the regular hours. Morning services Tuesday through Friday will be held at ten o'clock, and the services each evening, including Saturday, at 7:30.

Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, the pastor extends a cordial invitation to Clanton and Chilton County to hear Angel Martinez, outstanding Southern Baptist evangelist.

Good roads!

The above picture shows final work being done on the Durbin Store Road. This is another Farm to Market Road being built by Chilton County using county equipment and county employees. This road connects the Billingsley Highway with the Sardis Church Road. The road is 4.6 miles in length. Most of the road is located in District Two. There are 3.1 miles in District Two, .9 mile in District Three, and .6 mile in District Four.

The County has completed 19.7 miles to date this year with 4 more miles to be completed before the en of the year.

Jemison P.T.A. To Meet

The Jemison P.T.A. will meet Monday night at 7:30. The teachers from the upper elementary grades will present the program. They will discuss the curriculum in grades 4 through 6 and in special education. Parents are invited to visit these rooms from 6:30 to 7:30.

Music Lovers Meet Tuesday

THE Clanton Music Appreciation Club meets Tuesday afternoon. November 9th at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. C. Golden. All members are urged to attend.

Honored At Temple Assembly

LAST week three from the Temple were honored by receiving special awards for five years of perfect attendance. They were left to right, Mrs Ella Mims. Mr. L. C. Ray and Mrs. Effie Mae Driver. In order to win this special award, it was necessary to be present in Sunday School every Sunday. . This past month, out of 188 enrolled, 160 had perfect attendance. Absenteeism is very minor, averaging usually not more than 5 percent of the total enrollment. All of this good record is made possible by an honor roll system in which faithful attendance is noticed and awarded, plus the hard work of each teacher to keep a close contact on each absent pupil.

Our attendance for last Sunday was 198. We were very happy to have several visitors in our Sunday School and we want them to feel welcome to our church.

Bro. White's sermon subject for the Worship hour was "Substitution". His text was II Cor. 5:14-21. "Fireproof Faith" was the subject chosen for the Evangelistic Service. Daniel 3:25 was his text.

FICTION . . . or Fact!

By Bob Tucker

IT was just dark when I started down the trail toward home. I had been working a little late at the mine (salt) and was dog tired from a reasonably successful day of "digging."

With my five guides (I lose my way a lot), I had gone about a mile and a half, and hit the main trail when it happened.

Just as I turned a bend in the trail, the lights of another "hunter" (on his way to his own "Sugar Shack") blinded me for a brief instant. I was on it before I knew it was even anywhere around.

"What's that"! Shouted one of my guides; and by that time I was right up to the thing! I tried to stop my "caravan", but it was too late. . , we had to do something. .. . quick!

So we hit it!

As soon as we could get our bearings again; and after the shouting died down; I moved in for a closer look at the giant (for that neck of the woods, it was a whopper).

We got it alright! Dead center. It just lay there on the side of the trail. . like dead wood!

My curiosity was aroused. It measured aout three cubidabblers in height; and was about 30 cemicules in diameter. It's outer hide was rough and scaly; and it was badly scarred from encounters with other "hunters" of some description.

It didn't have any head, just a trunk, with one foot on it. "That thing's been through the mill," said one of my guides! "Yes", I said. "it looks like a battle-scarred veteran of the forest for sure!"

"No telling how old it is." offered another frightened guide. "It's been around, you can tell that," I answered. "But I wonder what it was doing on the main trail?"

"Probably got lost," said the older guide; "I've seen it happen before, but I've never run into one of them personally."

"I don't want to run into another," I said with sincere feeling. "That thing gave me quite a scare!"

"You gonna mount it, Dad?" (I've got some cool cats for guides). "No," I answered; "I think I'll just stand it at the entrance of the mine; so I can look at it. . . and remember this hair-raising experience!"

"Yeh, maybe it will come in handy," said a young native; "with a political year coming on."

And that gave me an idea. . .

Anyone who needs a genuine "stump" to speak from during the coming campaign. can use the one I bagged! I got it on the first try with a 1962 Corvair Monza with the brakes applied. . . It has a very good range . . . and until this "expedition" it wasn't modified. Now, it is. . . in a few places!

The stump? Well, we'll loan or rent it, but that's all. It has a sort of sentimental value. . . and besides, we haven't gotten the bill from Stokes yet!

THE WOODEN END!

DR. and Mrs. W. T. Parker, host performers for the Hootenanny this Friday night, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Chilton County High School Auditorium.

Hoot "Nanny," The Swingers Are Coming

Don't miss the Hootenanny this Friday, November 15th, in the Chilton County High School Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The Pyramids of Jacksonville State College, a most unique group, consist of a young lady with a clear and most pleasing voice and a young man who plays back ground guitar. The third member of the trio plays flute in harmony to the girls voice. . . the result is indeed different and extremely pleasing to the ear.

They have appeared in Hootenannys in Huntsville, Horse Pens-40, their own Jacksonville State College, where the trio originated and across North Alabama.

Others featured on the program will be Steve Young, outstanding guitarist who now calls Birmingham home and Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Parker of Clanton. Along with these will be Montgomery, Birmingham, and local talent Master of ceremonies will be Morris McKee of WSFA-TV, Montgomery experienced in announcing programs of this type.

Bring the family and come on out for an evening of outstanding entertainment. Admission is $1.00 per person, proceeds to benefit the Explorer Scouts. Advance tickets on sale at all drug stores in Clanton.

Large Group To Hear Hanes

The local Legion Post has invited the Mayor's of Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby and Clanton, to hear Art Hanes, Saturday.. Probate Judge J. C. White has indicated he will also attend.

These will be among the many guests to be present. A wonderful program has been planned for all local Legionnaires as well as the guest.

The Ladies Auxilliary will serve a most delicious meal, for everyone. If you stand for good government, make your plans to be at the Veteran's Club, Saturday, 7 p.m.

D. O. "BUD" BURNETT

Santa Comes A Little Early

BET you thought this was Santa Claus! Well, you'll really think it is, when you deal with the new salesman at Clanton Motors, Mr. D. O. "Bud" Burnett..

"Bud" came to Clanton Motors about a week ago, but he isn't new to the automobile business. He was with a dealer in Selma for some five or six years. He is a native of Stanton in West Chilton and is the father of two sons, Mike, age 7, and Dennis, age 12. Both are students in the Maplesville schools.

Mr. Burnett is married to the former Dolly Jean Dennis, of Maplesville, and the family belongs to the Stanton Baptist Church.

"Bud" says, "I may not be Santa Claus, but those folks who deal with me at Clanton Motors will think I'm his second cousin!"

Welcome to town, "Santa"!

Chilton to Organize Choral Group Soon

It was announced here today that Chilton County will be fortunate in having a community chorus organize here. Making the announcement were members of the Chorus' Organization Committee who explained, "The chorus is being composed of members from communitieh all over Chilton County and we encourage you to join us if you like good music and enjoy singing."

Clanton itself has had similar groups at Christmas time in years gone by; however, this choral society is planned to include members from all parts of our county.

The Committee further disclosed that this is not an effort to organize the group for Christmas or any other ONE season, rather its organizational structure has been carefully designed so as to make it permanent.

Membership is open to anyone who has an appreciation for what is recognized as good music and who is at least a freshman in Senior High School. There is a limit on the membership so be one of the first to join.

Of the following you may contact the one nearest you:

W. Roy Kendrick, Jr., Thorsby. Mrs. P. F. Singley, Thorsby. Mrs. R. B. Johnson, Jemison. Mrs. Earl W. Caver, Billingsley; Mrs. Bert H. Snead, Clanton; Mrs. Herbert Dennis, Clanton; Mrs. J. Sam Johnson, Clanton; Miss Peggy Murrah, Clanton; Mr. Roy Wood, Clanton; Mrs. Lamar DeLoach, Clanton.

Representing the young people is Miss Sheryl Crew, also on the Organization Committee.

You are encouraged to join today before membership is closed.

Executives To Meet Nov. 24th

The Baptist Executive Committee of the Chilton-Unity Association meets for the regular monthly conference Sunday, November 24, 2:15 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Clanton. Governor Has Horseshoe--

ALABAMA'S Governor George Wallace was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, or anywhere in the vicinity; but it appears he does have a lucky horseshoe in his hip pocket. And it is reaping dividends for him, as well as for the American way of life, wherever he goes.

On his recent trek North, Governor George encountered some very hostile natives; but he came through the fray, not only with his scalp intact; but with his, and the State of Alabama's reputation greatly advanced.

It is the opinion of this newspaper, that Governor George is increasing his popularity and the success of his (and our) cause daily; through his insight into the affairs of the nation; through diligence and unselfish devotion to his people, and, of course, that horseshoe!

If ever there were a man in history who seemed to be standing alone among the big-wigs, it is George Wallace. But, make no mistake about it, he is not alone when it comes to numerical strength. He has the backing of the people of this State and the South; and an apparent daily increase of support from those in other parts of the nation who are becoming better acquainted with his ideals and principles.

Freedom is universally loved, though not so enjoyed. It is men like George Wallace who keep the fires of liberty glowing. And it is people like you, reader, who are, and should stand beside him, just as long as he is openly for the best interests of you, the people.

We are proud of the fact that we have, for a long time, stood for George Wallace: because he is now standing for us and our future. That is the reason we stood for him in the first place, and he so far, has not let us down!

The Outer Limits--

AFTER seeing what the President has to say about Foreign Aid, we have a differing opinion.

We don't think the idea of cutting down on Foreign Aid parallels the idea of aiding and abetting communist aggression. There is a limit to the endurance of our financial support to communist nations, regardless of their poverty. At least we can spend what we have to spend more wisely than we have been doing in some quarters.

Making an enemy of a friend, in order to lavish affection on a known, ruthless enemy, just doesn't fit into the pattern of logic.

From our observation of President Kennedy, and his lack of respect for frugality and common sense in spending, we get the distinct impression that he thinks everyone in the United States of America is "filthy rich" simply because they are Americans. Brother Kennedy, suh; this just ain't so!

Where are the men of sound logic; who were taught the real meaning of earning a dollar, and how much it is worth to him who really sweats to earn it?

Where Apathy Lives--

JUSTICE is dead only when and where apathy lives.

And just as government, as we want it, is of and by the people. . .so is apathy!

Readers: Write your Congressmen and tell them, in no uncertain terms. that you are against the so-called "Civil Rights" legislation now pending in Congress. Reiterate your view of what government in a free society should be; and tell that Congressmen that you expect him to represent your views.

Kennedy-Brand Flag Waving--

WE must have misunderstood President Kennedy when he first began mentioning "New Frontiers". His Boston accent must have got in there somewhere. It must have been "New Fanfares". He and his brother, Robert seem to thrive on the radical change. and feel very uninterested in the Status Quo.

A lot of jokes have been made about the Status Quo, but there is still much to be said in favor of it, especially after digesting a round of "Kennedyism"! (Did we say digesting)?

Help The Zip--

SANTA Claus has made it known that if good little children include the "Zip Code" in both the address and return address of their letters to him this year, he will most certainly answer their letters.

You must mail them by December 15th in order to get the promised reply.

The Houston (Texas) Post Office has the "open line" to Santa, and they are doing a little "politicking on the side. When you get Santa working in your corner, there's just nothing you cannot do.

And say kids; Santa's "Zip Code" number is 99701.

What Is A Hundred Billion $$?--

THE reason we are strongly against further spending by the Federal Government, over and above what it is already spending, is simple when you break it down into everyday "bread and butter" terms.

The Library of Congress has estimated the number of families in the United States as being some 46.3 million.

The Federal Budgt for the 1964 Fiscal Year is $98.8 billion.

A little complicated arithmetic, and that averages out to about $2.133.90 per family. $177.82 per month.

Can you afford to spend that much money on public works, overseas charities, flat giveaways to other governments, and unbusinesslike spending here at home? We don't know about you, but we are dead certain that we cannot afford such!

In our business, when we cannot afford a thing, we just simply cannot afford it, and we make do with what we have. If we need a new machine (which we do) we either scrounge around until we can pay for it, or make arrangements to do same within a given length of time. Otherwise, we make do until prosperity of some sort sets in.

If our business, which is not so strange to any other, must operate on this basis; why then does not the Federal Government's business?

Congressmen: We can't take any more. . . we can't afford any more. . , the taxes are killing our business. And just as this country cannot long survive without free-enterprise newspapers. such as ours; what about grocery stores, dry goods stores, hardware stores and automobile distributors (as well as thousands of others)? Do something for us, will you? Don't spend our money. . . save it for us!

To Heck With Terms--

"SOCIALISM", "Conservatism", "Communism", "Left", "Right". "Radical", "Independent", "Progressive"! Just a bunch of meaningless words, and the Webster's on our desk is full of them.

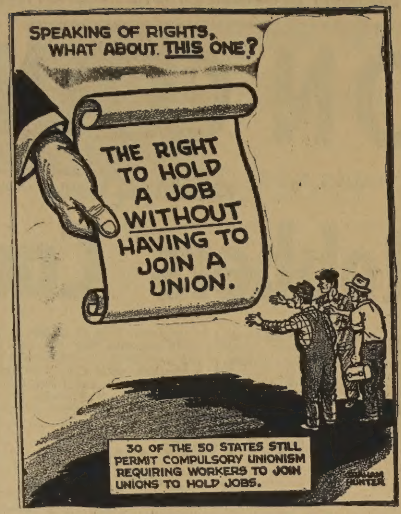
Words are becoming meaningless because so many are seeking to express themselves in so many ways; and lacking a more effective route, they resort to the use of "words"! Ignorance, arrogance, and selfishness are words which should describe those who are destroying the meaning of the words in our language.

Indeed, an impressive vocabulary is oft times useful. But, those who take advantage of words. and who twist their meaning, either to satisfy themselves, or because they do not understand them, are ruining our language and destroying our freedoms. They are the ones who have us confused on issues of great importance. They are the ones who will destroy us.

We suggest two things:

1. "Moderation" is a key word in expressing one's self: as well as in daily living. . . politics included.

2. Practice the old tried-and-true addage: "If you can't say something good about somebody. . . just keep your yap shut!



SPEAKING OF RIGHTS, WHAT ABOUT THIS ONE?
THE RIGHT TO HOLD A JOB WITHOUT HAVING TO JOIN A UNION.
30 OF THE 50 STATES STILL PERMIT COMPULSORY UNIONISM REQUIRING WORKERS TO JOIN UNIONS TO HOLD JOBS.
GRAHAM HUNTER

THE MISSING RIGHT!

IN all the current furor over civil rights we have not heard nor seen a single mention of an extremely important right —the right of a worker to join, or not to join, a labor union.

The fact that 30 of the 50 states of the union still permit compulsory unionism is a grave oversight.

We have stated many times in hte past; and we restate; unionism has meant much to the working man in America in the past 50 years.

But, the very same blessing has come to be the curse — unionism, when allowed to run rampant. has created a "stranglehold" on our economic security. When a union has the power to tell a man: "You either work for us, our way, or you don't work"; it has gone too far in the opposite direction to what it was in the early 1909's.

Unionism is fine — it is a blessing — but Freedom is better; and that includes the freedom of a man to choose his job, and an employer to choose his employee.

Free choice as to union membership, should be a positive inherent right of a free people in a free nation.

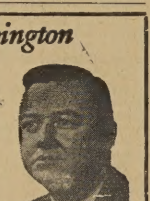
Some kind of a "Right-To-Work" law will insure that right for us. and our children who will follow.

Report from Washington

BY

Alabama Congressman

ARMISTEAD SELDEN



The House during the past week passed the first major education measure of this year and voted to raise the public debt limit for fiscal 1964.

Part of the Administration's $1 billion omnibus education package, the $1.2 billion construction bill provides for a three year program of federal loans and grants for construction of various college facilities. Although the section which provided aid to church connected schools created some controversy when the House Senate compromise was considered, the bill passed by a vote of 258 to 92.

Ceiling Raised

Last Thursday the House voted to continue the national debt ceiling at $309 billion from Dec. 1, 1963, to June 29, 1964. There is a provision in the bill. however. that provides an additional leeway of $6 billion to be used in fiscal 1964 for seasonal variations in receipts of revenue and payment of government bills.

Last week's action is the third temporary debt ceiling raise this calendar year, and the most recent bill passed by a slim seven-vote margin. If the bill had been defeated, a strait-jacket would have been placed on the federal debt, which could have cost the United States additional millions in interest. In 1957. the Eisenhower Administration was faced with a very tight debt ceiling. Consequently, disruptions occurred in some progress and payments to Defense and other contractors were delayed.. Some observers believe that this contributed to the adverse economic conditions which triggered the 1957-58 recession.

Setting an unrealistically low debt ceiling is not an effective way of controlling government spending. Restricting appropriations rather than restricting the ability to pay incurred debts is the only meaningful way to curb government spending.

Curbs Being Made

The House this year already has voted some cutbacks in spending, and, if these cuts are sustained by the Senate, there will be a reduction in the fiscal 1964 budget. As you know, I have long advocated placing our government on a pay as you go basis, but it is my opinion that the place for an economy vote is in the reduction of appropriations at the time they are requested not when the bills are due. I am opposed to deficit spending-- if it can be avoided without endangering the security of our nation. For this reason. I not only have voted to cut many appropriations measures, but in September I voted against the reduction of government revenues.

It is my opinion that it would be putting the cart before the horse to reduce taxes before an equivalent reduction in spending has been made. I feel that the same is true as far as cutting off the ability to pay one's debts after those debts have already been incurred.

Chosen for Conference

As chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs Subcommittee, I was chosen by the speaker of the House to serve this week as special Congressional advisor at the top level Inter-American Council meeting in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Other Congressional members of the U. S. delegation at this second annual meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council in Sao Paulo include Congressmen John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin (chairman of the Republican Policy Committee), Cecil R. King of California and F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

(This series of questions about Social Security is compiled from the questions sent to The Selma Social Security Office from Chilton County and answered by David G. Adams. Field Representative. Any Questions that you want answered may be sent to: Social Security. C|o Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala..)

Q. Can I get disability checks if I am temporarily ill or disabled?

A. No. Payments are not made for a temporary disability. To get disability checks, your conditions must be one that is expected to last indefinitely or to cause death.

Q. If I get disability payments, what should I do if I get able to return to work?

A. You should tell us. Your checks may continue for as much as thre months-- p to twelve months under certain circumstances. We are sending you booklet 29, "If You Become Disabled" to help you answer any other questions you have about your disability.

Q. Is there a waiting period before a disabled person can draw benefits?

A. Yes. A person must be disabled a full six months before any checks are due.

Q. I'm a widow. I get monthly payments on my husband's record for myself and my little boy. If I take a full time job will it cut off our social security checks?

A. No matter how much you make it won't affect your son's payments. How much of your payments you'll lose depends on what you make from your work.

From Crop Control - To People Control

By John C. Satterfield

Past President American

Bar Association

Last spring the American had made his point in dejecting wheat farmer thought that he federal control. But farmers who fought the battle against further federal management of their farms are discovering that President Kennedy's civil rights bill brings even sharper federal regimentation to the farm.

Instead of crop control, the President is proposing people control.

If the present civil rights bill is passed, the farmer will find a whole new crew of federal agents watching his farm. Each individual farmer will be told whom to fire and hire, promote and emote. No farmer will be able to make his own free decisions about which tenants to put on his property and which to put off.

No farmer will be free to decide which man can be trusted with expensive tractors and equipment. He cannot freely choose the men who will gather his wheat and and dust his cotton.. And if he gets fed up with it all, he can't even sell out unless is buyers are acceptable to the federal government.

Instead, in all of these decisions, the farmer will be bound by the whim of a Civil Rights Commission appointed by Prehident Kennedy or by the authority to withhold federal funds granted in the bill. The proposed law directs the Commission to hire as many agents as are necessary to do its work The agents will have the power to examine any farmer's records and books. It will study all of his transactions and the day to an affairs of the farm.

The Commission and its agents (or the President's present committee with the authority granted in Title VI of the Bill) will then say whether it finds "imbalance" as to race, creed. color, or national origin in the conduct of the farmer's business. However. this word "imbalance" is nowhere defined in the President's bill. The definition can be made up by the Commission or Committee as it goes along.

The Commission could decide for instance, that a farmer has hired too many Protestant Negroes and order him to hire more Catholic Mexicans. It could direct him to evict a Belgian tenant and rent to an Italian. It could require him to demote a Chinese and promote a Japanese.

These examples sound farfetched only to those who have not studied the bill. There is only one limitation to the powers which can be given to the Commission. The President can grant it only "such powers as he deems appropriate."

If the the civil rights bill is passed, the farmer has only one hope of escaping federal regimentation. Any farmer is included in the controls if he is a federal contractor, directly or indirectly. . He can escape only if he does not receive the benefits of any federal assistance program.

Even so, the federal government has enmeshed itself so deeply in the ecenomy that nearly everyone can be considered a federal contractor under the pdoposed law. And all federal contractors can have their benefits cut off if they do not accept the verdict of the appointed Civil Rights Commission. In short, any farmer who does not submit can be quickly strangled. His crop subsidies could be cut off. Payments from the Federal Land Banks could be stopped an he could be denied help from the Agricultural Marketing Service.

The farmer would be trapped if he depends in any degree on benefits from the Farm Credit Administration, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Soil Conservation Service, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. the Farmers Home Administration, or the Forestry Service.

Worse than all of this, many innocent people would suffer. The farmer's bank must call in his loans or withdraw from the Federal Reserve System. No depositor in any bank where he has a savings account would be protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The farmer's cooperative would have its low interest loans recalled by the Banks for Cooperatives. The Rural Electrification Administration would not be allowed to continue to aid his power co-op. To protect his neighbors, the farmer must either submit to federal regulation or give up te services which are necessary to survival.

All of this federal regulation is contained in President Kennedy's civil right bill. That is why many farmers have come to the conclusion that the bill is only 10 per cent civil rights and 90 per cent expansion of federal power.

Highlights Of Freedom

Dear Editor,

The Prussian Hun of 1914-18 waged a massive war of extermination against freedom and liberty. He lost.

Hitler and his Fascist blackshirts set out to conquer the world. They failed.

Krushchev boasts that communism one day will engulf the earth. It won't.

The Huns lost. Hitler failed and communism cannot win because in this century our America has accepted the sacred responsibility of preserving freedom and democracy against the forces which would enslave all mankind.

In just the last 45 years, Americans have marched off to war three times to rescue ourselves and the free world from imminent destruction.

More than 377,000 American Marines, soldiers, airmen and sailors have died "in honored glory" in defnsee of freedom at such far away places as Belleau Woods, Chateau Thierry, Bataan, Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima, Normandy. Bastogne, Sicily. Inchon, the Yalu River. And now Viet-Nam.

War is never glamorous. It is always harsh and brutal.

Why, then, has America so willingly accepted the hard task of standing up for freedom and liberty all over the world? Perhaps our people realize, as Churchill did, that "We shall not escape our dangers by recoiling from them."

The dangers still exist--to a degree never before known to the human race. But only the near-sighted would recoil from them; only the faint hearted would rather be Red than dead. And only the thoughtless could or would advocate that this nation rattle the saber and plunge the world into atomic war.

The United States of America today is the strongest and most powerful nation on the face of the earth. Krushchev and Mao and even the puppet Castro realize that any attack on this country would result in his own swift annihilation.

The source of this nation's great strength does not flow directly from the fearsome hydrogen bomb or from our huge fleet of super-bombers or from the mighty Polaris submarines which lurk beneath the seas, their deadly missiles pointed always at the heart of Communist Russia.

This nation draws its strength and inspiration from the millions of men and women who in the past as in the present are determined that democracy shall live on, that the American way of life shall not be ground out beneath the heel of communism.

I recall standing earlier this year on Suicide Ridge at Guantanamo, Cuba. This oasis of freedom is surrounded on three sides by Communist territory. Enemy troops could be seen on patrol not more than 50 feet from where I stood. But beside me, manning the ramparts of liberty, was a young Marine from Winfield, Alabama. He had come 2,000 miles to that lonely outpost in the Caribbean. And America--the whole free world--was stronger and safer for his presence. For that young Alabamian is symbolic of all the citizen-soldiers who in 187 years have served this nation in its darkest hours of crisis.

These are the men whom we honor on Monday, November 11--Veterans Day. Mankind has always memoralized its heroes. We honor ourselves when we honor our gallant dead--and when we pay deserving tribute to the living who now man the arsenal of democracy.

These are my thoughts on the eve of Veterans Day 1963.

In Support Of REA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8—Congressman Bob Jones (D.-Ala.) does not agree with Sen. Barry Goldwater (R.-Ariz.) that the Rural Electrification Administration should be abolished, because 98 percent of American farms have electricity and its work is finished.

"If electrification of even all of our farms is a reason for abolition of the REA," Jones said, "then all electrical utilities can go out of business, because all of our urban areas have electricity and have had it for many years. Criticism of the REA for selling bonds. borrowing money and using retained funds for expansions is one sided, because all utility companies do this. Power companies, whether they are public or private, either must expand constantly or go out of business," Jones said. "There is an ever-growing, insatiable demand for more electrical power, so there is no such a thing as 'almost adequate' service for a utility company.

"With an expanding population. enormous suburban and rural growth with many more homes and industries. the REA must continue to expand, just as other utilities," Jones continued. "The widespread belief that the REA serves only farms is not true. About half of its power is sold to non-farm consumers. such as homes in small towns and to a substantial number of local industries.

"Instead of being a fierce competitor of the private utilities, the REA is one of their best customers," Jones declared. "The REA produces only 16 or 17 percent of the power it delivers. It buys about 40 percent of its power from private utility companies and the remaining percentages from other federal, state or locally owned power companies.

"REA was established to give power to 'unserved areas.' It has done this in splendid fashion and must be allowed to continue doing this, just as the private utilities are expanding to meet increased needs. We need all the electrical power that can be produced, including that from the REA," Jones concluded.

IT'S YOUR WELFARE

Q. Does every old person have a right to both Social Security and the old age pension?

A. The right to a pension comes only if the person needs it whereas the right to Social Securitf applies to those who have earned coverage (or had it earned for them.)

Q. Can I draw both Social Security and an old age pension at the same time?

A. Yes, if your Social Security check is not enough for your needs according to the agency's rules.

Q. Do many people in Alabama draw both a pension and Social Security?

Yes, nearly 37,000 of the old age pensioners (35%) also draw Social Security. In Chilton County 501 pensioners draw Social Security, too.

Q. How many people in Chilton County get an old age pension?

A. 1,337.

Q. What is the average old age pension in Chilton County? In Alabama? In the Nation?

A. - Alabama. $67.90 (July) Chilton - $66.26. Nation - $77.89

Q. Why are some pension checks more than others,

A. Because checks are based on unmet need. The person who lacks more gets a bigger check than the one who can meet part but not all of his needs.

Q. What does the Pensions and Security Department do besides give checks to needy people?

A. The Department tries to help people get back on their feet, it works on such problems as finding a nursing home or making referral for rehabilitation it provides many child welfare services, and it works with other agencies, groups, and individuals for community betterment.

Q. Does a husband's income count against his wife's old age pension check?

A. Yes, when a husband and wife are living together, their total income must be considered in regard to eligibility for a pension. If a man makes only enough for his own needs, or for part of his wife's needs, as figured by agency standards, she may be eligible for a pension.

Q. Can a person claimed by someone else as an income tax dependent draw an old age pension?

A. A person who claims another as an income dependent is expected to furnish at least half the dependent's support. If he furnishes no more than that, it is possible for the person to be eligible for a pension on up to half his needs by agency standards.

Q. Can you buy a home while drawing an old age pension?

A. Yes, you can, in line with Department rules. Ask your county department for details.. You may also accept a home as a gift if you do not own one already.

B. How long do you have to live in Alabama to get an old age pension?

A. You must live in Alabama at least a year before you can apply.

Q. Will your pension check stop if you move from Chilton County to another county in Alabama?

A. No, unless your situation changes by the move.

Q. Can I get welfare for my children? My husband has no job and we have used up all we had?

A. No, there is no program in Alabama for children who are needy because the father is out of a job, if the father is able to work. You can get help if your husband is physically unable to work, and you meet the other requirements.

Q. Do you get welfare checks from the Chilton County office?

A. No, the checks are mailed from the State office in Montgomery after you are approved by the Chilton County Department.

See You IN CHURCH Sunday

"100 YEARS AGO"—

Federal Expedition from Whitesburg to Decatur

ONE hundred years ago this week. Federal troops marched through the area between the Memphis and Charleston Railroad and the Tennessee River, scouring the country between Whitesburg and Decatur, Ala. Their main objective was the destruction of Confederate cavalry units operating in the area under Philip D. Roddey, the "defender of North Alabama" and Stephen D. Lee.

Major J. Morris Young of the 5th Iowa Cavalry, who led the expedition, later reported his 3 objectives as follows:

"To drive out or capture" the Confederates; to capture and destroy all boats and ferries on the river from Whitesburg to Decatur;" and; "to destroy or render unserviceable a grist and sawmill in that vicinity."

Beginning the expedition on November 14 with around 400 men, the Union troops moved across the mountains to Whitesburg, by-passing Huntsville.

Reaching Triana, the expedition found two Confederate ferry boats on the opposite side of the river, and under cover of 25 sharpshooters, eleven of the men succeeded in crossing the river and capturing the boats.

On November 16 the Federal commander received information that the Confederate landing down the river near Decatur was covered by two large pieces of artillery and that troops from Confederate units commanded by Brigadier Generals Philip D. Roddey and Stephen D. Lee were intrenching in the area. Young decided not to attack.

"Rather amused than otherwise at so unexpectedly stirring up so much trouble for the rebels, I deemed it not advisable to attempt just at that time capturing the only remaining boat mentioned in my instructions," he reported. He burned the captured boats in his possession before separating the command with instructions to concentrate later at Huntsville.

In his official report Young stated: "As a result of the expedition, we captured and destroyed 9 ferry boats (captured) 9 Confederate States soldiers, and remounted the command with from 130 to 200 fine mules and horses with a loss of one man."

In addition, he had helped to lay waste the beautiful Tennessee Valley, one of the most "fought over" areas in the South during the Civil War. He had failed to capture or destroy Roddey's Cavalry, however, which would continue to raid and harass the Federals in the Valley.

25 YEARS OF CHANGE AND PROGRESS

This week the more than 2500 Lincoln-Mercury dealers across the country will celebrate the Silver Anniversary of the Mercury car and the 4½ million Mercurys built since 1938. Significant changes in the Mercury over a quarter century are pictured here. The first Mercury, illustrated by a 1939 four-door Town Sedan (left), featured a 239 cubic-inch V-8 developing 95 horsepower. The latest model, shown by a 1964 Montclair Marauder four-door hardtop (right) offers a choice of six V-8's ranging from 390 cubic-inches and 250 horsepower to 427 cubic-inches and 425 horsepower.

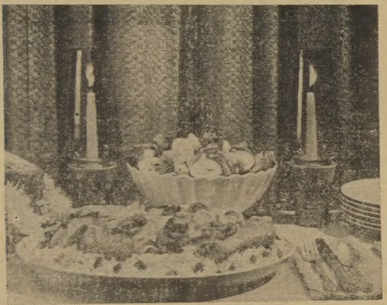
When Good Friends Get Together



Company coming? It's the time of year for friendly get togethers before the theater, after the game, and for just plain "old times" sake.

A buffet supper featuring a hearty main dish is the perfect answer for any and all of these occasions. And because chicken is so universally popular, it's an ideal choice, especially when cooked in a "souper" sauce.

Try a tempting combination of canned condensed Cheddar cheese soup and Burgundy. Then, serve this delicious entree over apple and nut studded rice. It will captivate your guests.

To go along a tossed green salad . . . crisp lettuce, escarole, and cucumber slices with a favorite dressing. A light airy chiffon cake and hot coffee complete the menu.

This serves 8 just right for the buffet.

Company Chicken and Mushrooms Deluxe

2 packages (1 pound each) frozen chicken parts, thawed
¼ teaspoon salt
Generous dash pepper
½ pound sliced mushrooms
1 cup sliced onion
¼ teaspoon thyme, crushed
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cans (11 ounces each) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
½ cup water
¼ cup Burgundy or other dry red wine
4 cups cooked rice
1 cup chopped apple
½ cup chopped walnuts

Season chicken with salt and pepper. In large skillet, brown chicken and cook mushrooms, onion, and thyme in butter until onion is tender. Stir in soups, water, and wine. Cover; cook over low heat 45 minutes, stirring now and then. Meanwhile, combine rice, apples, and walnuts. Serve chicken over rice. Makes 8 servings.

Serve New Canned Condensed Cream Of Potato Soup

More than 130 years after Sir Francis Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh who, it's said, carried the potato from this country to Ireland, it was back. Brought here by a group of Irish church people, it was the real beginning of potato growing in the United States.

Today, potato growers produce over 27 billion pounds a year. Not all of these, however, will be eaten as such. A good portion will go into processed foods like the brand new canned condensed cream of potato soup.

A creamy hearty soup . . . full of tender diced potatoes . . . it's delicately seasoned and spiced. Ready to serve in just 4 minutes, this savory new soup will be delightful for lunch or supper.

You'll like canned condensed cream of potato soup prepared according to label directions or for an extra special treat try this:

Potato Soup Smitane

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of potato soup
1 cup water
¼ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon paprika

In saucepan, combine all ingredients. Heat, stirring now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Ford Mustang II to Test Market

The Mustang II, an experimental car introduced by the Ford Division of Ford Motor Company, will accommodate two front-seat passengers plus two additional passengers in the rear seats. It is powered by a 271-horsepower V-8 engine identical to that used in the Cobra sports car. Pointed front fenders and simulated air scoops faired into the rear quarter panels are reminiscent of the design of Ford's original Mustang. The Mustang II has a detachable hardtop roof. Ford Division built the car partly to "test' the market for a car of this type that could sell for less than $3,000."

Canned Dry Soup Mix Makes A Louisiana Meal

The natives of New Orleans had a great idea when the gumbo was born. Creole cookery, world famous for its unique flavor and combinations, was the originator of the gumbo, probably the most famous meal-in-a-bowl to come out of the South.

Old Creole recipes call for as many as 25 ingredients . . . not to mention hours of preparation. Now that great New Orleans taste can come to your table in half the time. Canned chicken noodle dry soup mix starts the tureen a'bubbling. All that locked in flavor is easier than ever to get now. The latest news in those wonderful aluminum cans which store so well is a new quick-open top. Just a flip of the tab, a tug . . . and zip comes the sealing strip and top — and, now the cans may be used to measure the liquid required—5¼ cans equal 3 cups.

Succulent bits of chicken and rich noodles in the soup mix are a perfect way to start the gumbo. Add sliced okra and cooked tomatoes for a touch of authenticity and make this Gumbo Special taste just like its forebearers.

Complete the meal in the southern tradition with a salad of escarole and anchovies and a dessert of elegant Black Bottom Pie.

Gumbo Special

½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2½ cups water
½ cup cooked tomatoes
Generous dash thyme
1 can (1¾ ounces) chicken noodle dry soup mix
½ cup diced cooked okra

In saucepan, cook celery, onion, and green pepper in butter until tender. Add water, tomatoes, thyme, and soup mix. Bring to boil, stirring. Partially cover; simmer 7 minutes. Add okra; heat, stirring now and then. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Verbena FHA Plans Contest

The Verbena FHA met on November 8, 1963. The devotion was given by Lynell Broadhead. The program, "Winning an Argument With Your Parents," was given by Juanita Thomas, Charlotte Cleckler and Donna Wendt.

Girls were elected to be in the contest to select Miss FHA of Verbena. Joan Deavers recreation leader led some relaxers at the end of the program.

Girls selected for the Miss FHA Contest are: Donna Wendt, Jeanette Minor and Linda Traywick from the senior class; and Joy Burkhalter, Charlotte Cleckler and Juanita Thomas from the junior class. The Miss FHA contest will be held November 22. 1963.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Fear not little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.—(Luke 12:32).

We need never be afraid of life's tribulations and hardships if we trust in God's offer of the kingdom, for in this way we will be able to forget our troubles and relax in the peace of God.

25 Churcres Represented At Youth Rally

Macedonia Baptist Church was the host of the Chilton-Unity Youth Rally on November 9. We had a large attendance of 288 with 23 churches represented and were shown an inspiring film on Christian Witness. Three young people, Marilyn Arant, Wayne Hay and Alicia Adams, witnessed of their experience as a Christian.

Brother Shell, pastor of Mt. Creek Baptist Church, brought the message and gave the invitation. Afterwards refreshments were served in the recreation room.

On December 14, at Jemison First Baptist Church, we will present our Christmas program. We know you don't want to miss it.

How America's farmers grow a crop of cash

In less than eight years, every $75 you "plant" in U.S. Savings Bonds grows up into $100—automatically and safely.

America's farmers have grown millions of extra dollars this way. A little at a time soon adds up to the money you need for new equipment, new livestock, new land, perhaps even college for your youngsters.

Why not start planning your own little harvest right now? Remember, U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by Uncle Sam. And every Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America.

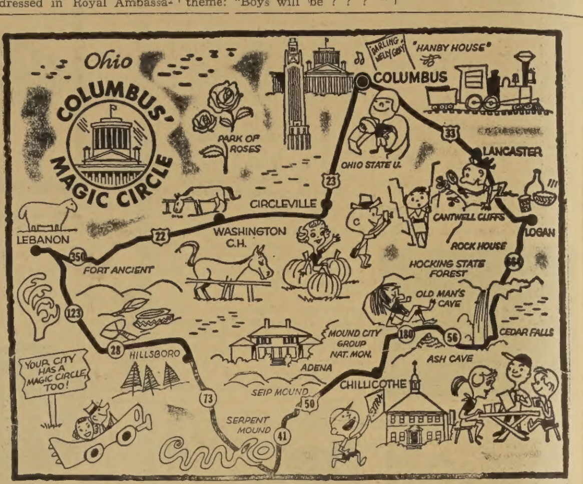
STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only.—(James 1:22).

We can read about God's truth indefinitely and not reap any of the benefits until we start to live it; we must take His teachings into our hearts so that they become the principles by which we live our daily life.



By Edward Collier

Symbolic of America is Columbus and the Buckeye State's surrounding scenic and historic heartland. The Magic Circle auto tour starts at the austere, 100-year old gray limestone State Capitol which presides over the city's center from a 10-acre park.

Civic prides are many—the graceful Leveque-Lincoln Tower atop a 46-story office building; the impressive campus of Ohio State University, nationally known for its big-time football and basketball; the fragrant Park of Roses with its 32,000 bushes; the Ohio Railroad Museum for "choo-choo buffs"; the home of Benjamin R. Hanby, now a state memorial on the Otterbein College campus where the composer wrote "Darling Nelly Gray" while a student.

South is the ceramics-making area around Lancaster and Logan; Hocking State Parks, a prized scenic wonderland of forests, waterfalls and caves; and through the Indian Mound country where archaeologists continue to excavate valuable prehistoric artifacts. Chillicothe, Ohio's first capital, has preserved many of its treasured structures. The Gazette, founded in 1800, now is housed in a modern replica of the old stone state house.

Driving north, the pastoral route includes Lebanon and its Golden Lamb Hotel, oldest operating hostelry in the state and Circleville, famed for its Pumpkin Show Festival.

A Festive Wine-Basted Turkey

Roast turkey is a handsome centerpiece at any festive meal. This bird — beautifully glazed on the outside, moist and tender on the inside — qualifies for the highest praise. A very simple wine-butter baste treatment is all that's necessary to produce those qualities most desired in roast turkey. The pink Cailfornia Rosé wine used in the baste is also an excellent choice to serve as the mealtime beverage. This recipe was developed for junior-size (six to eight-pound) turkeys, but needs only to be doubled for a larger bird.

ROAST TURKEY ROSÉ
(About 8 servings)

1 (6 to 8-pound) turkey
1 lime
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup California Rosé wine

Prepare turkey for roasting. Rub skin with cut lime and some of the butter. Place in roasting pan and cover (use aluminum foil if pan does not have cover). Roast in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Melt remaining butter, add wine and juice from lime. Remove cover from turkey and roast 1 hour longer or until tender, basting frequently with butter-wine mixture.

Oklahoma's lake country, combined with a jaunt into Arkansas, provides a colorful autumn Magic Circle weekend motor tour. Thriving, industrial Muskogee, chosen as Indian Agency headquarters in 1875, boasts Bacone College with alumni from every North American tribe, and a museum containing treasured Indian creations.

Stirring frontier days seem close at Fort Gibson, a replica of the 1824 log bastion built for protection against hostile Plains Indians. Here served General Zachary Taylor, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, J. E. B. Stuart and Nathan, son of Daniel Boone. Side trip bonuses are Greenleaf and Tenkiller State Parks, with blue island-studded lakes popular for camping and fishing.

Flourishing Fort Smith, across the river in Arkansas, has restored the courtroom where dreaded Isaac Charles Parker, the "hanging judge", sentenced 151 frontier renegades to death, and the gallows where six outlaws could be executed at a time.

The route continues through Van Buren, immortalized by Bob Burns' humorous tales, and the purple Boston Mountains to Fayetteville, home of the architecturally colorful University of Arkansas and its renowned football Razorbacks. Senior Walk contains autographs of its 20,000 graduates since 1876. The return is via the bloody Civil War Prairie Grove Battlefield, and Tahlequah, historic old capital of the Cherokee Nation.

KITCHEN SHOWER FOR MISS GRAY

Miss Linda Carroll was hastess at a kitchen shower on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of her sister Mrs. Billy Gene Wyatt honoring Miss Becky Gray whose marriage took place at the First Baptist Church on October 9.

The bride elect opened her gifts and displayed them.

Refreshments were served to Misses Sandra Searcy, Carol Young, Linda Burdette, Ann Thompson, Judy Lawrence. Martha Palmer and the honoree.

LYDIA S. S. CLASS MET

Mrs. J. Lee Smith was hostess to the Lydia Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church for their November meeting.

Mrs. Luther Little, teacher of the Class opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Smith presided when plans were made for the Thanksgiving love project. The regular class meeting was discussed.

Light refreshments were served to Mesdames J. C. Burnette, Thomas Hubert, Horsley White, Gordon Thompson, Reuben Wyatt, Spurgeon Calloway. Dick Hayes, Flem Higgins and Miss Jane Wesson.

Cooper School 4-H'ers Met

The 4-H Clubs met at Cooper School, Tuesday morning at 8:30. Our 4-H club leaders showed us a film that we all enjoyed. Our song leaders Donald Cagle and Jerry Adams led the singing. The presient Harold Cleckler, presided over the business meeting. There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Sunny Coffee Cake

Buttery-rich, delicately orange-flavored Sunny Coffee Cake brings holiday festiveness to your breakfast table any season of the year. It's prepared like muffin batter to go from mixing bowl to oven in minutes.

After baking the attractive ring-shaped cake "gild" it a bit with an easy icing. Allow the icing to drip decoratively down the sides of the cake for a professional touch. For crunchy goodness sprinkle chopped nuts over the icing.

Whenever you serve your family home-baked coffee cakes and other flour products prepared from enriched flour you're also adding essential nutrients to their meals. Enriched flour contains three B-vitamins and the mineral iron — all vital daily for good health and lasting pep and vitality.

SUNNY COFFEE CAKE

1½ cups sifted enriched flour*
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¾ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in orange rind. Combine ¾ cup milk, egg and butter or margarine. Add liquid ingredients to dry ingredients, stirring only until well blended. Pour into well-greased 5 ½-cup ring mold. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool on rack about 5 minutes. Loosen edges with spatula, invert and remove from pan. Stir confectioners' sugar and 2 tablespoons milk until smooth. Spread over top of cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Makes one ring-shaped coffee cake.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into dry measuring cup, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recommendations.

"Section 1. In addition to any taxes now authorized, or that may be hereafter authorized, by the Constitution and laws of Alabama, there is hereby levied a special school tax of fifty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in the school Tax District of the City of Huntsville in Madison County to be used solely for public school purposes; provided the levy of said tax shall first have been approved by the qualified electors of the School District as hereinafter provided.

"Section 2. The proceeds of said tax shall be used exclusively for constructing and improving school buildings and acquiring sites therefor in the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville, Alabama.

"Section 3. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote in favor of the adoption of this amendment when it is submitted, the additional tax provided for in Section 1 shall be levied and collected for a period of thirty years without any other election having been held hereon. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote against its approval, the tax shall not be levied unless the rate of the tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been again submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville and voted for by a majority of those voting at the election. Subsequent elections may be held at intervals of not less than one year and shall be called, held, conducted, paid for, and governed otherwise in the manner provided for an election on the school district tax authorized in Constitutional Amendment III."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"AMENDMENT________

"Clarke County and the incorporated muncipalities therein, jointly or severally, after an election held in accordance herewith shall have full and continuing power and authority to:

"1. Purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. Lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, or give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. Promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses therein.

"4. Become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. Lend its credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. Become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the county or municipality or may be limited as to the sources of their payment.

"7. Levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent of the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the county or in any municipality in Clarke County or upon all property in any district to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. Pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. Create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body and subject to such limitations as the governing body of Clarke County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the Judge of Probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the county or any municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of Clarke County or any municipality therein for the purpose of determining their borrowing capacity under Sections 224 and 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature may enact laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

Neither the county nor any municipality therein shall make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the locality affected thereby. The governing body of the county or any municipality may provide for holding such elections, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provisions or limitations in this Constitution or laws to the contrary notwithstanding, the City of Bayou La Batre shall have full and continuing power and authority to do any act hereinafter described or engage in any activity mentioned if the same is first approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the county who vote thereon at a referendum election held for such purpose. The city or governing body thereof may purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind and may lend its credit or grant public money and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation, to promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses in the city. The City or the governing body thereof may borrow money and pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full, and may pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased, or sold by it. The provisions of this article of amendment shall be self-executing; however, the governing body of the city shall have power to enact appropriate ordinances to implement and enforce the provisions hereof."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Proclamation No. 1

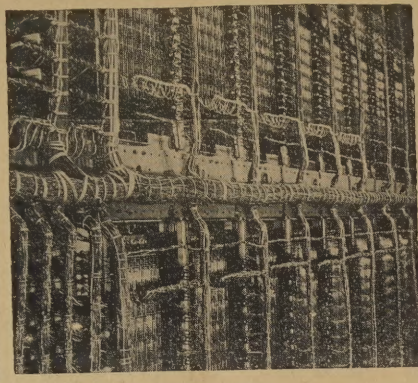
Mrs. Tucker Heads '63 "Seal" Drive

Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Clanton has been named chairman of the 1963 Christmas Seal Campaign, to be launched here November 15 by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association.

The appointment was announced today by Robert G. Kendall, Jr., President of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association. In a statement emphasizing the reasons for the choice, he said, "During the coming year, more than ever in the past, our counterattack against disease will focus not only on TB but on the entire spectrum of RD — Respiratory Diseases, the disorders of breathing. When we realize that this group of ailments is the fourth largest killer in the United States it's obvious that a tremendous job is waiting to be done in addition to our continuing campaign to wipe out TB.

"To help us meet that chal-challenge the importance of this year's Christmas Seal Campaign must be clearly emphasized to every citizen of this county and state. We feel that Mrs. Tucker is eminenty qualified to fulfill that task, and have complete confidence in a record outcome of the drive under the chairman's direction."

Mrs. Tucker said steps would be taken immediately to complete organizational plans for the drive. and invited new volunteers to join in the work. 'I am confident that the people of this county will want to give us one hundred per cent support."



Talk About Connections...

YOU'RE looking at just one section of a typical unit of telephone central office switching equipment. Yet, in this single view, showing bundles of voice-connecting wires running here and there like tendrils of some climbing tropical plant, you get a pretty good idea of the complexity of what is behind your telephone.

In all, 2,600,000,000.000,000 (2.6 quadrillion) different connections make it possible for any one of the 65 million Bell System telephones to reach any other phone, according to Southern Bell's local manager, C. M. Nicholson. "This of course includes all of the more than 4,200 telephones in Clanton," Nicholson added.

Complex switching units, like the one shown in the above picture, make the connections by picking the right path for calls swiftly and surely.

This year alone the Bell System has assembled 61,000 units like this for installation in telephone offices from coast to coast.

Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews and sons Jay and Jeff. of Birmingham, visited relatives in Clanton last week end.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is authorized to become indebted for improvements at the Alabama State Docks and the refunding of State Docks revenue bonds, and in evidence of the indebtedness so incurred to issue and sell, in addition to all other bonds of the State, interest bearing general obligation bonds of the State not exceeding ten million dollars ($10,000,000) in principal amount. The full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged to the prompt and faithful payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon. The Alabama State Docks Department (which term as used herein shall be construed to include any other agency of the State that may succeed to said Department's functions) shall pledge and use so much of the revenues derived from its seaport facilities as may be necessary to pay at their maturities the principal of and interest on said bonds, and may pledge, agree to use, and use so much of said revenues as the said Department with the approval of the Governor may determine shall be necessary or desirable to build up and maintain reserves for the payment of said principal and interest and for the maintenance, replacement and improvement of its seaport facilities. The proceeds from the sale of any such bonds shall, after payment of the reasonable and necessary expenses of their issuance, be set aside in a special fund in the State Treasury and shall be paid out to the Alabama State Docks Department upon authorization by the Governor and shall be held by the said Department in a special trust fund designated "State Docks Bond Fund" and therefrom be disbursed as follows:

"(a) not exceeding $3,000,000 may be used to pay the reasonable and necessary costs of constructing and equipping works of internal improvement for use and operation as a part of the State Docks facilities; provided that, if said Department shall have issued subsequent to July 1, 1963, any notes in anticipation of the sale of bonds for any of said purposes, then so much as may be necessary, not exceeding $1,000,000, of said $3,000,000 shall be used to retire or refund said notes; and

"(b) not exceeding $7,000,000 may be used to refund and provide for the retirement of all or such part of the outstanding revenue bonds heretofore issued by said Department as the Director thereof, with the approval of the Governor, shall deem advantageous, including payment of any redemption premiums required under the terms of said outstanding bonds to be paid in order to effect redemption thereof prior to their maturities; provided, that pending any redemption date or dates on which the outstanding bonds so refunded can be redeemed under their terms, any part of said $7,000,000 and any other funds of the said Department may be invested in securities that are direct obligations of the United States of America, and such securities may be deposited by said Department under irrevocable trust agreements, which said Department is hereby authorized to enter into with any corporate trustee, and used to pay principal, interest and redemption premiums on said outstanding bonds.

"Alabama State Docks Department is hereby vested with full authority, except as limited herein, to prescribe the terms of the bonds and to provide for the issuance and sale thereof. The bonds may be sold, executed and delivered at any time and from time to time, may be in such forms, denominations, series and numbers, may be of such tenor and maturities, may bear such date or dates, may be in registered or bearer form either as to principal or interest or both, with rights of conversion into another form, may be payable in such installments and at such place or places, may bear interest at such rate or rates, payable and evidenced in such manner, and may contain provisions for redemption at the option of the State to be exercised by the State Docks Department at such date or dates prior to their maturity and upon payment of such redemption price or prices, all as shall be provided by the said Department in the order or orders under which the bonds are issued. The principal of each series of bonds shall mature in annual installments in such amounts as shall be specified in the authorizing order or orders, the first of which installments shall mature not later than one year after the date of the bonds of such series and the last of which installments shall mature not later than twenty years after the date of the bonds of the same series. The largest installment of principal and interest maturing on each series of the bonds in any one year shall not exceed twice the preceding smallest installment of principal and interest maturing thereon in any prior year. None of the bonds shall be sold for less than face value plus accrued interest thereon to the date of delivery. The bonds shall be sold only at public sale or sales, either on sealed bids or at auction, after such advertisements as may be prescribed by the said Department to the bidder whose bid reflects the lowest net interest cost to the State computed to the respective maturities of the bonds sold; provided, that if no bids deemed acceptable by the said Department is received all bids may be rejected.

"The bonds shall be signed in the name of the State by the Governor and countersigned by the State Docks Director, and the Great Seal of the State of Alabama or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed, printed or otherwise reproduced thereon and shall be attested by the signature of the Secretary of State; provided, that facsimile signatures of any one or any two (but not all) of said officers may be reproduced on any of such bonds in lieu of being manually signed thereon. Coupons attached to the bonds and representing installments of interest thereon shall be signed with the facsimile signature of the State Treasurer, which facsimile signature shall constitute due and sufficient authentication of said coupons.

"All bonds issued under the provisions of this amendment, together with the interest income thereon, shall forever be exempt from taxation in this State.

"The authorization to incur debt and issue bonds contained in this amendment shall supersede and take the place of any authorization for Alabama State Docks Department to issue revenue bonds granted by act of the Legislature in effect on the effective date of this amendment.

"The provisions of this amendment shall be self-executing and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"Section 181. The following persons and no others who, if they are citizens of the United States over the age of twenty-one years and have the qualifications as to residence prescribed in Section 178 of this article, shall be qualified to register as electors provided they shall not be disqualified under Section 182 of this constitution; those who can read and write any article of the constitution of the United States in the English language which may be submitted to them by the board of registrars, provided, however, no persons shall be entitled to register as electors except those who are of good character and who embrace the duties and obligations of citizenship under the constitution of the United States and under the Constitution of the State of Alabama, and provided further, that in order to aid the members of the boards of registrars, who are hereby constituted and declared to be judicial officers, to judicially determine if applicants to register have the qualifications hereinabove set out, each applicant shall be furnished by the board of registrars a written application form and a sealed examination, which shall be uniform in all cases with no discrimination as between applicants. The form and contents of such application form and sealed examination shall be prescribed by a state board of examiners for voter registration to be appointed by the Legislative Council of Alabama, which application shall be so worded that the answers thereto will place before the board of registrars information necessary or proper to aid them to pass upon the qualifications of each applicant, and which examination shall be graded by the state board of examiners for voter registration which must certify to the several boards of registrars of the state whether or not each applicant, who shall be designated by number only, has passed or has not passed the examination. The examination shall be provided and shall be administered as provided for by the legislature. Provided, in no event shall the intelligence level required of the applicant for registration be less than that required to serve as a member of the armed forces of the United States as determined by written examination. The application shall be answered in writing by the applicant in the presence of the board without assistance, and there shall be incorporated in such answer an oath to support and defend the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Alabama and a statement in such oath by the applicant disavowing belief in or affiliation at any time with any group or party which advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States or the State of Alabama by unlawful means, which answers and oath shall be duly signed and sworn to by the applicant before a member of the county board of registrars. Such application and written answers of the applicant thereto shall be filed with the records of the respective boards of registrars and such examination shall be filed with the records of the state board of examiners.

"The board may receive information respecting the applicant and the truthfulness of any information furnished by him, Provided further, that if solely because of physical handicaps the applicant is unable to read or write, then he shall be exempt from the above stated requirements which he is unable to meet because of such physical handicap, and in such cases a member of the board of registrars shall read to the applicant the questionnaire and oaths herein provided for and the applicant's answers thereto shall be written down by such board member, and the applicant shall be registered as a voter if he meets all other requirements herein set out."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

THIRTEEN

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provision of the Constitution or laws of the State of Alabama to the contrary notwithstanding, the municipality of York in Sumter County shall have full and continuing power and authority, after an election held in accordance herewith, to do any one or more of the following:

"1. To purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. To lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. To promote local industrial, commercial or agricultural development and the location of new industries or business therein.

"4. To become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. To lend this credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. To become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences or indebtedness, to a principal amount not exceeding fifty percent of the assessed value of taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the municipality of York, or may be limited as to the source of their payment.

"7. To levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent on the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the municipality of York in Sumter County, or upon all property in any district the boundaries of which the governing body of such municipality shall describe and which it shall determine to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. To pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. To create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body, and subject to such limitations as the governing body of the municipality of York in Sumter County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the judge of probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of the municipality of York in Sumter County for the purpose of determining the borrowing capacity of the county under Section 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in Section 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the right and power by general, special or local act to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

"10. The municipality of York in Sumter County shall not make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality. The governing body of the municipality may provide for holding such election, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"(1) Marion County shall have full and continuing power and authority, notwithstanding the provisions of Sections 94, 215, 222 and 224 of this Constitution, to do and perform any act and to engage in any activity that municipalities in said county are authorized to do, perform and engage in under the provisions of the amendment to this Constitution that was proposed by Act No. 1 adopted at the Second Special Session of 1950 of the Legislature of Alabama (commonly referred to as Amendment LXXXIV), including specifically, without limiting the generality of the foregoing the power to become indebted and in evidence thereof to issue bonds, warrants and other securities of said county for any of the purposes for which municipalities may issue securities under said amendment, and the power to levy ad valorem taxes in said county to pay the principal of and interest on said securities; provided, that the total principal amount of said securities at any time outstanding shall not exceed fifty per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in said county as assessed for state taxation, and the taxes so levied shall not exceed two per cent per annum of said assessed valuation; and provided further, that said county shall not exercise any of said powers unless and until a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at an election held for such purpose shall have approved the exercise by said county of said powers, which election shall be called by the governing body of said county and held as nearly as may be practicable in accordance with the general laws of the state at the time in effect pertaining to the election on the issuance of county bonds. Said election may be held at any time and if at said election a majority of the electors voting thereat do not approve the exercise by said county of said powers, another election may be held hereunder at any time and from time to time thereafter. If at any such other election a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at such election shall approve the exercise by said county of said powers, said county may thereafter, from time to time and at any time and without the necessity of any further election, exercise any or all of said powers as its governing body may deem advisable.

"(2) This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the power, by general or local act, to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes hereof. The governing body of the county shall have power to adopt such resolutions and orders as may be necessary to implement and enforce this amendment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

FIVE

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Not withstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the Legislature may hereafter, by general law, provide for the promotion of the production, distribution, marketing and use of poultry and poultry products. The Legislature may provide for the promotion of poultry and poultry products and the poultry industry by research, education, advertising and other methods and the Legislature is further authorized to provide means and methods for the financing of any such promotional activity by prescribing a procedure whereby producers, owners or growers of poultry may by referendum held among such producers, owners or growers of poultry in this State levy upon themselves and collect assessments, fees, or charges upon the sale of poultry and poultry products for the financing of any such promotional program or activity in cooperation with processors, dealers, handlers and other buyers of poultry and poultry products. Provided, no assessment levied hereunder shall exceed one cent (1¢) per hen or other domesticated fowl or any other classes of poultry sold by producers thereof. The Legislature is authorized to make provisions for nonpayment and for the refund of assessments levied upon owners, producers or growers of poultry to any such person who does not desire to participate in the promotional program. The Legislature shall provide for the collection and distribution of assessments or charges authorized hereunder and to provide penalties for failure to make such collection and distribution of assessments. The Legislature shall provide for the designation of a nonprofit association or organization organized for the promotion and betterment of poultry and poultry products in Alabama to administer and carry out such promotional program which shall include conducting elections or referendums among producers, owners or growers of poultry. The Legislature shall further provide for the deposit, withdrawal, disbursement and expenditure by the designated association of any funds received subject to the supervision and control of the activities authorized herein by the Department of Agriculture and Industries and the State Board of Agriculture and Industries. Assessments, fees or other charges collected as authorized by any legislative act adopted under authority hereof shall not be considered as a tax within the meaning of this Constitution or any provision thereof. Any uniformity requirements of this Constitution shall be satisfied by the application of the program upon poultry and poultry products."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"This amendment shall apply in all counties except Mobile and Jefferson Counties. The term 'public hospital purposes' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities. The term 'public hospital facilities' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include public hospitals, public clinics, public health centers, nurses' homes and training facilities, and related public health facilities of any kind.

"If a majority of the qualified electors of any county in the state, except Mobile and Jefferson Counties, who participate in an election held therein pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the constitution heretofore adopted shall vote at such election in favor of the levy and collection of a special county tax, within the limitations provided in such amendment, for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes, the proceeds derived from the tax authorized at such election may be applied for any one or more of the purposes for which said tax may be so voted. Whenever the tax shall be voted the governing body of the county may anticipate the proceeds therefrom for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall be voted by issuing, without further election, interest bearing tax anticipation bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said county payable solely from and secured by a pledge of not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax received by the county.

"The governing body of each county in which the said tax may be voted shall have the further power to designate as the agency of the county to acquire, construct, equip, operate and maintain public hospital facilities any public corporation or commission heretofore or hereafter organized for hospital purposes in the county under any general or local law heretofore or hereafter enacted by the Legislature. When a public corporation or commission shall be so designated, the proceeds of said tax thereafter collected shall be paid over to it and shall be used by it for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted; provided, that payment of the proceeds of said tax to said public corporation or commission shall be made only to such extent as will not result in the impairment of the obligation of any contract theretofore made with respect to said tax. Said public corporation or commission may anticipate the proceeds from said tax so required to be paid to it by issuing, for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted. the bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said public corporation or commission, and may pledge for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax so paid to it.

"Each county in which the tax shall be voted, and in the event a public corporation or commission shall have been designated as the agency of such county pursuant to the provisions hereof then said public corporation or commission shall have the power to contract with any other county or similar public corporation or commission with respect to the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities outside of the county and within any zone or region of which the county may be a part, and which may have heretofore been established or may hereafter be established for public hospital purposes by the Legislature or by any agency designated by it, the obligations of such contract to be payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax; provided, that the proceeds of said tax shall not be used outside of the county for any purpose for which the proceeds could not be used in the county, and shall not be used with respect to public hospital facilities located outside of the county if the tax is voted specifically for public hospital facilities located in the county.

"No securities issued or contracts made by a county under the authority of this amendment, which are payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax, and no securities issued or contracts made by any such public corporation or commission, whether or not issued or made under the authority of this amendment, shall be construed to be bonds of the county or of a political subdivision thereof within the meaning of Section 222 of the Constitution, or construed to create or constitute an indebtedness of the county within the meaning of Section 224 of the Constitution. Said securities shall be construed to be negotiable instruments notwithstanding the fact that they may be payable solely from a limited source. All pledges of said tax and all contracts made with respect thereto pursuant to the provisions of this amendment shall take precedence in the order in which they are made and shall create a charge on the proceeds of said tax prior to the expenses of operating and maintaining any public hospital facilities.

"In each instance in which a special county tax for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes has heretofore been authorized at an election held in a county pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the Constitution heretofore adopted, all provisions of this amendment shall be applicable in said county to the same extent as if said election had been held after the adoption of this amendment.

"This amendment shall be self-executing."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

NEWS OF—

REFUGE

We were glad to have Rev. Jim Hughens, a student of Howard College to bring the message last Sunday, which was in keeping with H Day. Rev. Stanley Lockhart brought the evening message. All in all, it was a very good day which we enjoyed very much.

Our building program is going along fine. More nice contributions came in during the services last week end which was appreciated very much. We are now ready for the celotex which will be used in the overhead. Our people have been cooperative and are well pleased with the work thus far.

The pastor is attending the State Baptist Convention in Birmingham this week.

If you do not have a church home, we would be glad to have you come and worship with us. When the work is completed, as we have it planned, our church will look all together different I think that we should take pride in keeping the Lord's house in a decent condition and where people can be comfortable when they meet to worship.

We will be looking forward to having you at church next Sunday.

Soil Conservation News

By Olin G. Fields

E. E. Franklin has just completed seeding a Bahia grass waterway. ASCS assisted with lime, fertilizer and seed.

C. L. Latham, Lawley, has completed the construction of a farm pond, and it will be used for fish production and recreation.

Siney Byrd, county line south of Calera, and Ralph J. Lee, of Samaria community, have each dug a pond for livestock water. These ponds were planned in their District farm plan and ASCS assisted in the cost.

Tom Strain was assisted in running 3,000 feet of parallel terraces as called for in his conservation farm plan.

E. E. Edwards, Pool's Cross Roads community, is in the process of constructing an earth-fill pond for recreation purposeh.

Samuel Williamson, Jumbo community, is in the process of overseeding 15 acres of Bahia with Rescue grass and Reseeding Crimson Clover, and sowing 5 acres of Bahia grass, Resuue grass and Reseeding Crimson Clover.

New applications for soil and water conservation farm plans have been received from the following: Horace Childress, G. V. Powell, and L. F. Moore.

Mr. C. C. Moore of the Isabella community, and a cooperator of the Chilton County Soil and Water Conservation District, has cleared 5 acres of land and planted two acres to fescue and three acres to Bahia grass.

Tom Courtney, Cooper community, and Lloyd Mims of Refuge community have each constructed an earth filled pond for livestock water. Each received ASCA cost sharing and SCS furnished the supervision and engineering help.

S. A. Jones and B. L. Vance have completed land leveling and harrowing on approximately 5 acres each in preparation for pasture renovation.

The Chilton County Soil Conservation District Supervisors met on October 16th and revised their District Program. New additions added were Recreation and Multiple-Use of Land Resources.

C. F. Harper, Higgins Ferry road, has established three acres of Coastal Bermuda.

A. R. Taylor has prepared land and will plant Coastal Bermuda on 20 acres of land as soon as it rains. The Coastal will be utilized for hay and grazing.

Jadie Ellison is in the process of preparing land and will plant 5 acres to fescue and clover and 5 acres to Bahia grass.

Student Handbook On Civil War Available

THE U. S. Civil War Centennial Commission has announced the publication of a handbook, "The Civil War", designed primarily for elementary and high school students.

According to Dr. A. B. Moore, Executive Director of the Alabama Civil War Centennial Commission, the book would be a valuable aid to young students of the War.

Containing 64 pages, a double page map and 78 illustrations, "The Civil War" includes discussions of causes, military campaigns, navies, diplomacy, arms, leaders, soldier life and aftereffects of the conflict. Suggested reading lists follow each section.

Dr. James I. Robertson, Jr., Executive Director of the presidential - appointed commission is author of the booklet.

"The Civil War" may be obtained without charge from the U. S. Civil War Centennial Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

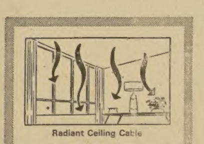
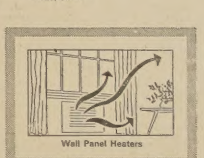
Anniston family likes the ELECTRIC heat pump's "constant temperature and low operating cost"

The Ben F. Howells have lived in their all-Electric, Medallion Home on Maxanna Drive, Anniston, for more than two and a half years.

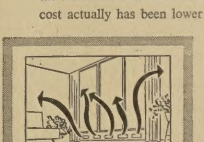


Like more and more Alabamians, they are enjoying the luxury of winter heating and summer cooling provided by the flameless, Electric heat pump..

"The best thing about the heat pump," says Mr. Howell, "is the constant temperature and low operating cost." Mr. Howell, a partner in the Morris-Howell Shoe Company, adds that the heat pump's operating cost actually has been lower than expected!

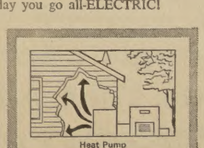


Mr. and Mrs. Howell and their two children also enjoy the convenience of many other Electric appliances, including a range, refrigerator, food freezer, dishwasher, quick recovery water heater, automatic clothes washer and dryer. Yet, their Electric bill remains the family's biggest bargain.



Why don't you begin to enjoy the comfort, cleanliness and economy of total-Electric living? You'll cherish the day you go all-ELECTRIC!

If you're planning to build or remodel, discuss your plans with one of our heating and air conditioning engineers. He'll be happy to give you complete details about the heat pump and other types of Electric heating shown here.



Choose the type of Electric heat that suits you best!

Talented 4-H'ers Earn Honors For Best Projects

Making the best better is more than a motto to Janice Grace and Bob Alverson, teenagers selected as 1963 winners in the 4-H Alabama 4-H achievement program.

Miss Grace

Alverson

Being an achievement winner signifies overall leadership and excellence in 4-H Club work for one girl and one boy in each state from among 2,222,700 in the nationwide program.

Miss Grace, 18, of Garland, was awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5, by the Ford Motor Company Fund after being named an Alabama winner. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Grace, and is a freshman at Auburn University.

Alverson, 17, past state president of the Alabama 4-H organization, was awarded a certificate by the fund. He had attended the Chicago congress in 1961 as Alabama's 4-H entomology program winner. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Alverson of Albertville.

During her eight years in 4-H Miss Grace completed projects in clothing, dairy calf, baking, safety, home management, food preparation, freezing and canning. She was named Butler County's outstanding 4-H'er.

Alverson, although still in high school, has a 2,000-hen laying flock, a herd of Angus cattle, and a plot of Arizona Cypress trees. He collected 80 ribbons during 12 years in 4-H, showed grand champion animals in both dairy and beef district shows.

He has built a college fund with profits from his livestock and poultry enterprises. He also became a skilled taxidermist while completing 4-H wildlife projects.

The national 4-H award programs are judged by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Lions hear importance of Farm - City Week

Opportunities and responsibilities in the development of Alabama through cooperation of rural and city people were outlined to members of the Lions Club and their guests Friday by one of the organizers of the national Farm-City Week observance.

Fletcher N. Farrington, director of commodity services for the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and for many years Tallapoosa County Farm Agent, told the business men and visitors attending the Farm-City Week program that "the growth of our state depends on how well we synchronize our efforts."

"We are now living in an age of science and technology,". the speaker declared. "Not long past the basic economy of the Alabama farmers considered the production of food a minor item. We depended on fiber.

"Today, in an era of the most explosive research and information service ever experienced, Alabama is realizing more and more the great potential in improving our economy through the production, processing, marketing and merchandising of food."

Pointing to the tremendous progress of the poultry, fruits and vegetables, red meat and other farm interests, the speaker added that "anyone suffering from the delusion that agriculture is a declining industry with limited future for the youth of today." should consider the fact that the country's population is growing at the rate of 7,200 each day.

"Before these increasing waves of humanity can buy new automobiles, refrigerators, television sets, or calculating machines, they must buy food to sustain themselves and fiber to cover themselves," he said.

Farrington told the farm-business group, however, that Alabama was laggin in the business of processing the products the farm produces. He said that "Alabama is the most diversified state in the nation and can become the most specialized," through the development of processing plants.

"We must sell our finance and money people on our efficiency," he asserted pleading for cooperation of all concerned in obtaining a share of the huge food business which employs more than 20 million people from farm to table.

"Agriculture has an obligation to sell and to inform," he concluded. "Urban has an obligation to process and merchandise."

Previously, the commodities director had outlined the purposes of Farm-City Week in bringing industry and agriculture closer together, and Farm Bureau's interest in improving the economic conditions of its more than 90,006 members. He said:

"Farmers basically are most independent. Opportunity to work to produce and sell at comparable prices is what they are asking. Therefore, agriculture is so dependent on industry and merchandising. If you fail—then it is government."

Jr. Citizens Re-Organize Some Offices

The Junior Citizens Club was called to order by President, Larry Hardman on November 1, 1963. The president led the club in the Club Prayer and the Purpose of the Junior Citizens Club. The Purposes are: To help the pupils be better citizens; To familiarize the pupils with parliamentary procedure; To help the pupils gain information.

The song leaders, Barbara Brown led the club in America. The president led the club in the Alabamian's Creed. The secretary, Carla Meank, called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The reports of the Committee are: The program committee reported a Halloween program planned. The Activity Committee reported no refreshments planned for the meeting. The president appointed Dorothy Cleckler, chairman of the Activity Committee because the chairman. Brenda LeCroy, has to go to band at this period. The Room committee reported they had prepared the room for the meeting. The membership committee reported one member, Randy Smith, was absent. The chairman of the membership committee, Janice Phillips presented the name of Audrey Moattes for membership in the club. Audrey Moattes was voted into the club by a unanimous vote. The President called for new business. The busines swas to elect a new treasurer and parliamentarian because the treasurer Baren Henderson and the Parliamentarian Brenda LeCroy decided to take band at this period. Ruthie Arthur was elected treasurer and Dorothy Cleckler, parliamentairan. At this time the Program Chairman, Amelia Bolton accepted the chair and presented the following program:

A poem, The Ghosts and Gobins Ball, by Laura Klinner. Mark Easterling, Charles Powell and Ruthie Arthur.

The story of Halloween by Larry Hardman.

Halloween Riddles by BeLinda Headley.

A song, They Call It America led by Barbara Brown.

At this time the president returned to the chair. The Critic, Ricky Henley. reported the program was good. The Parliamentarian, Dorothy Cleckler, said the club was better in parliamentary procedures. The President led the club in th American Creed and the pledge to the American Flag.

As there was no further business the club was adjourned.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It is interesting to note the constant see-saw on Capitol Hill on proposals to spend federal money on various "aid-to-education" programs.

* * *

C. W. Harder

The big city writers, with a dash of inspiration and a clatter of typewriter keys, usually inject into reportage of the controversies that arise over these programs a religious angle. The use of religion to explain away anything is quite handy, although not a new device.

* * *

So, the notion spread around by these erudite people is that those who believe in parochial schools will not vote any money unless parochial schools are cut in on the expenditures. The others want money for public schools, but will not vote one cent for parochial schools.

* * *

But real heart of the controversy seems to have escaped attention. That revolves around money. And that in turn revolves around how much such education costs. Nobody has yet answered that question.

* * *

From the smaller communities of the nation there comes a great deal of objections toward more federal taxes being used to go into the sphere of local education. This is largely engendered by the waste of funds that is witnessed.

* * *

For example, in the building of the new multi-million San Francisco State College, the sum of $2½ million was spent on a garage so that students could park their cars. Obviously, this was not money spent to help some poor, but brilliant students attain the education needed for the space age.

* * *

In many communities, funds and facilities taken from the taxpayers to provide junior college education are used to set up cooperative tax-free business enterprises.

* * *

At one time, on most campuses a book store of sorts was operated in order to serve as a clearing house for used textbooks, so that financially limited students could buy used texts at a reduced rate, and also have a market to which to sell texts no longer needed.

* * *

Today, in many instances, from these humble beginnings, and aided by untold tax funds, they have become full line retail establishments competing with private enterprise.

* * *

And in many parts of the country the independent businessmen have seen the waste that has gone into school operation when control has been wrested from local school boards and given to county administration. And where the control has been seized by a state "education" board, situation is even worse. After all, it was a state department that put $2½ milion dollars into student parking at San Francisco State.

* * *

So the word goes around.

* * *

And that word is somewhat along these lines, "We ain't seen nothing yet if the federal boys get their hands into the school districts." There is the feeling that federal school "aid" could even eclipse the hundred billion dollar federal foreign "aid."

Hard Work Pays Dividends For Top 4-H'ers

Two Alabama teen-agers have won expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Dec. 1-5 for being named the state's top 4-H'ers in their club projects.

Dwaine McDaniel, 18, of Reform, and Mary Shepherd, 16, of Berry, will also be eligible for $500 college scholarships their sponsors will award national winners at the congress.

McDaniel

Miss Shepherd

McDaniel, the state safety award winner, will be the guest of General Motors. Miss Shepherd will have her trip sponsored by John Deere as state recreation award winner.

McDaniel, the son of Mrs. Virgil McDaniel, won top state honors by a campaign to make residents of his hometown safety conscious.

He wrote 16 news articles on safety and took part in 22 radio programs with safety themes. He also arranged for safety exhibits on school bulletin boards and taught swimming and water safety courses.

Miss Shepherd, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Shepherd, has been a recreation leader at school, church and in her 4-H club. She has planned many teen-age picnics, parties and other activities.

She has been a recreation leader at Fayette County 4-H Camp. Altogether, she has helped 150 persons learn how to water ski.

The two teen-agers will join 1,500 other 4-H'ers for the exciting five-day meeting. They were named winners by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gaines Burnette was in Birmingham on Monday, Veterans Day with the Rainbow Division.

NEWS FROM HIGHLAND

Pastor, Rev. David Gray
Sunday School 10:00
Worhhip Service 11:00
Training Union 6:00

We were delighted in having Rev. Glenn Courtney, a student from Howard College with us for both Sunday services. He delivered two wonderful messages. Sunday morning Rev. Courtney preached on Compassion. Sunday night he preached on Love.

Our attendance was up Sunday but we still have a lot of sickness in our community. We ask your prayers for all the sick people in our community and other communities.

Rev. Courtney and Rev. David Gray and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson and family.

Mt. Pleasant News

Rev. Fred L. Lowery, Jr. pastor

Rev. Larry Mullins of Birmingham was our pastor for H-day. We were delighted with his singing and the two wonderful messages he delivered. May the Lord bless this fine young man.

Rev. Fred Lowery and Rev. Larry Mullins were the guests of the James Harris family Sunday.

This church and community extends its sympathy to the Argi, Johnson, Scott and Riggins families in the death of Mrs. Margaret Argo, who passed way on Friday. May the Lord bless and comfort these families.

Mrs. Dolly Melton is still on the critical list.

We are having good attendance. so let's make it better and bring a friend and neighbor with us each Sunday.

Miss Harrison Reports On 4-H At Maplesville

On November 7th we had our monthly 4-H meeting. We were shown a film about 4-H. Then we went to our 4-H Club room to have our meeting.

Our president, Faye Haigler, opened the meeting with Ann Owens, our vice-president, leading the pledges; and Brenda Jones, our secretary, calling the roll and reading the minutes of our last meeting.

Mrs. Martha Radford, our Club leader talked with us at this time.

New Committee Chairman - Am. Legion

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21, 1963:-National Commander Daniel F. Foley congratulates Hugh W. Overton, The American Legion's National Executive Committeeman from Alabama, on his appointment as Chairman of National Committee on Committees. Overton was chosen for the fourth time to head the National Committee on Committees. It is this group who have the duty of selecting from the more than 16,500 Posts of the Legion throughout the world, those members who are to direct the far flung activities of the largest of all veterans organization.

Overton, who has represented Alabama in the capacity of National Executive Committeeman for the past 14 years, was chosen for the important assignment by National Commander Daniel F. Foley, of Minnesota.

A twenty six year career employee of the Post Office Department, and native of Wadley, Alabama, Overton was State Commander of the Legion in 1950 when the organization enjoyed the highest membership (44,832) obtained by any World War II Commander.

4-H State Award Winners Gain Club Congress Trip

A youth who bought half interest in a farm with 4-H Club profits and three other Alabama teen-agers will compete for $500 college scholarships at the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Dec. 1-5. They have been awarded expense-paid trips for being the state's top 4-H'ers in 1963 club programs.

Harper

Page

Boyce

Samples

The four and their projects are Richard Samples, 17, of Collinsville, field crops; Sparks Harper, 18, of Oxford, automotive; Randy Boyce, 19, of Oxford, electric, and Jimmy Page, 17, of Woodville, agricultural.

Samples saved proceeds from his prize-winning cotton, corn and beef projects to make a down payment with his brother, Robert, on an 82-acre farm.

He then applied knowledge gained in 4-H to turn out high yield field crops and pay off the mortgage. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Samples, are tenant farmers.

Samples' trip is sponsored by Arcadian Products Department, Allied Chemical Corporation. He plans to go on to college.

Harper swept to top honors in the automotive project by learning how to tear down a car motor, make repairs, and put it back together in top running order.

He also learned traffic regulations and rules of highway courtesy. He wasn't always a good driver. His first time at the wheel he drove his father's tractor into his aunt's garage, he admits.

Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Harper, will be the guest of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company.

Boyce took top electrical honors by re-wiring much of his family's farm, tearing down three electrical motors and repairing them, and fixing a number of appliances. His 4-H electric manuals taught him how.

He will be a guest of the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. He is attending Jacksonville State College, and is the son of Mrs. G. B. Boyce.

Page, the son of Howard Page, took honors in the agricultural project by growing prize-winning soybeans and corn and taking Jackson County awards in beef and poultry. He has banked money earned for use when he goes on to college.

Page's trip is sponsored by International Harvester Company. The four winners, named by the Cooperative Extension Service, will vie for the scholarships awarded to national winners.

The mine week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, physical fitness, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical instruction on the ships and stations for on the job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying qualified personnel to man the ships, aircraft and shore stations of today's Navy.

Questions And Answers About Your VA

Here are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to questions from former service men and their families:

Q. My husband was recently discharged from a VA hospital because of what the hospital said was "MHB". What does this mean?

A. The letters stand for "Maximum Hospital Benefit." This means that hospital officials believe that the patient's condition has improved to the point that additional time in the hospital would bring about no further improvement.

Q. When I enter a VA hospital next month, may I continue to draw my disability pension?

A. Veterans with dependents will not have their disability pensions reduced while in a VA hospital. Veterans without dependent who draw their pension under Public Law 211 will have it adjusted to $30 per month at the end of the second full calendar month of hospitalization. At their discharge from the hospital the full pensions will be resumed. Veterans without dependents who draw their pension under the old Pension Law will have it reduced at the end of six months to 50 percent or $30 whichever is the greater amount. The full amount will be resumed upon discharge from the old Pension Lav may be made on termination of hospitalization.

Q. Can a veteran obtain a GI loan to buy a home in Mexico?

A. No. The property must be located in the United States, its territories, or possessions.

Hill Sponsored Program Fights Crippler, Polio

Senator Lister Hill (D.-Ala.), Senate author of the Vaccination Assistance Act of 1962, announced that some $51,000 of Federal funds have already been allocated to the State of Alabama by the U. S. Public Health Service to combat polio through an emergency immunization program in selected counties.

The S. O. S. -- Sabin Oral Sunday -- programs have been carried out in those counties with reported cases of polio and also in adjacent counties at the request of the State Department of Health. Some 385,00 doses of Types I, II and III vaccine have been furnished by the U. S. Public Health Service through funds appropriated to its Communicable Disease Center.

An additional $181,000 will be allocated by the U. S. Public Health Service to Alabama in 1964 to cover part of the costs of carrying out an intensive immunization program on a Statewide basis to combat polio, diphtheria. whopping cough, and tetanus. Under the provisions of Senator Hill's legislation, additional funds will be made available in 1965 and 1966. In subsequent years, it is expected that the total cots of the intensive immunization program will be borne by the State.

Teachers Attend Public Relatiins Workshop

Representing Chilton County at the District V meeting of the AEA Public Relations Committee in Birmingham, Thursday. October 24, at the First Presbyterian Church, at 4 P.M., were Mrs. Marguerite P. Thornton from the Henry Adair School and chairman of the local Public Relations Committee, Mrs. Sara C. Mullins from Chilton County High School and Mrs. Vertie Mae Langston of Jemison Elementary School.

Attending this workshop were representatives from twenty counties. cities, and colleges of District V. Including superintendents, principals, and class room teachers. The main speaker was Mr. V. C. Helms, chairman of AEA Public Relations Committee. The following points were stressed:

1. The teachers will strive to keep the public better informed about the schools, thus establishing more confidence in the schools.

2. The schools will attempt to develop an awareness of the importance of schools in the community, state, and nation.

3. An attempt will be made to consolidate the school, the home, and the community.

Members of the workshop participated in a round table discussion on ways to better inform the people about their schools. A dinner was served in the dining room of the church for which Dr. Ralph Tanner, Dean of Admissions at Birmingham Southern College, was the after dinner speaker. He restressed the value of good public relations and understanding among the schools, the homes, and the community.

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

THE clumsiest of us can be ry agile when he is scared. We ch have probably proved that re times than one in our lives. l kinds of "Booger" tales have en on the loose since a couple weeks ago when a fellow somehere in the County saw his adow. . . or at least his hound g did. Since that time, just out every section of the County, not to be outdone by a neighor, has had it's own "Booger"! Our brood at home takes these nd of things rather seriously, pecially one named Mark. He's brave lad, but when the conersation turns to "wierd sounds" nd "strange creatures", you can ee the hair around his collar ristle, and he heads for Momma's kirts or Daddy's knee. . . whichver is most convenient (and losest).

He outran the entire clan the ther evening along about dusk, hen they heard what was probbly a Hoot Owl. and then one onclusion jumped to another, nd it was "high tail it for home"! s we said (or meant to) Mark somewhat clumsy in the veryday sense of the word; but his wasn't an everyday situaion. He managed to take the ead for the back doorstep, and e maintained it all the way. The lder kids just ate his dust! Never under-estimate the power f suggestion: once you set your eet to moving, it's difficult, if not impossible, to regain your omposure until you have reached the safety of home. And being "clumsy" just gets left y the side of the road!

J. ARCHIE Ogburn is a Bush Hog. . . that is to say that he sells them for Carlisle Truck & Tractor Company. Archie has been with Carlisle for about six weeks now, and is their representative in North Chilton County.. He sells lots of things. Tractors. chain saws, sprayers and automobiles. "I don't know much about selling," says Archie; but I do know I won't try to force someone to buy something they don't need. or can't afford." He knows more about selling than he might think. . . high pressure is the surest way to the poor house we know of! We wish him lots of luck. When Chilton County was enjoying the peak of its Peach Festivals, and gaining nationwide attention from them, Archie was one of the "foundation men" of the whole thing. He's had some hard knocks, but his spirit is strong, aid his willingness to help out in time of trouble or need, makes him an outstanding asset to any community.

LEE Lawrence thought he'd pull a fast one the other day. The waitress at the Dixie though she had earned herself a nice size tip after Lee had left, and she came to find it was some small change and a couple of shiny new washers (Lee's an auto mechanic you know). Well, it turned out to be a case of "last laugh is best". Lee afterwards ordered a cup of coffee from the Dixie by way of the "take out" counter. He enjoyed the coffee down to the last drop; and in the bottom of the cup he found one of his shiny new washers! The "washer" woman got him!

APOLOGIES and all that sort of thing to Verbena, and especially to their one-man Chamber of Commerce. Rev. Paul Higdon. He minced no words in telling us that the "banditos" caught last week were near "Verbena" and not "Clanton", as we so boldly stated in our lead story. Only another newspaperman would understand our reason (which was purely mechanical) so we won't attempt to explain it. Suffice it to say, that Bro. Higdon, among others we are sure, were slighted by our miscarriage of justice, and they have not pardoned us as yet. We sincerely hope that our feeble apology will, in some way, re-are capured, as Bro. Higdon puts it, "practically on your doorstep!" Don't worry, Bro. Higdon and us are still the very best of "enemies"!

CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cordle, of 21 2nd Avenue South, Clanton, on their Golden Wedding Anniversary. They will celebrate at their home this coming Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. and they invite all their friends and relatives to come and join them in this festive occasion.

WE didn't get a chance to tell you last week. If any of you up and coming, bona fide, died-in-the-wool political candidates have need of a "stump" to make your campaign promises from, we want to be the first to make you an offer. In our possession is one of the finest "campaign stumps" you ever laid eyes on. and we will rent it very reasonably to any who feel it might help their cause. It even comes with an attachment for crooked politicians. If you'll drop by the office we'll be glad to demonstrate it! It'll go on a first come, first served basis!

Legion hears Hanes blast 'Reds'

BEFORE a near capacity crowd of Veterans' Day American Legion celebrants, former Mayor of Birmingham, attorney Art Hanes, gave a most dynamic speech for States Rights alst week-end.

Blasting communism, this former FBI agent, told how our country was in more danger and trouble than most citizens realized.

Those listening, were much in agreement with Mr. Hanes, as he was interrupted several times for applause.

As he neared the end of his talk, and told of the threats on the lives of his family, one could well believe what this man stands for — and stands against.

According to Adjutant Lally Bates, "Everyone attending is a better American, for having heard this courageous fighter speak for what he believes."

Rounding out the evening was Mike Dennis, local Boys' State Representative, who gave a most inspiring lecture on this American Legion program for young men.

Seein' Is Believin'

JAMES Smith, out at Smith Lawn Garden Supply, has come up with a first fer Chilteo County that is standing folks on their ear. He has (for sale by the way; see inside this isue) a lightweight power saw that will do just about anything that Paul Bunyan could do, only faser and better!

It weighs only 12 pounds, and you can hold it in the palm of your hand. It goes through a log like a beaver, and to us. who know nothing of power saws, it looks amazing.

Like we said, seein's believin', and we suggest you go out to Smith's in West End and take a look at this "Little Giant". It's a terrifid little machine.

New dumping area located for trash

In continuation of the program started several months back to keep the public roads clear of trash and other rubbish, the Chiltoi County Board of Revenue and Control has established another dumping area which is located on the Clanton-Enterprise Road about three miles south of Clanton, on the West side of the road just across the highway from Baker's Store.

This program continues to grow through the effort of public spirited and civic minded land owners who cooperate with the County by furnishing space which is usually in nee of being filled and is accessable for dumping various kinds of rubbish and trash into caverns or ditches and should you not have dumping facilities in your community and know of a land owner who is willing to furnish proper space, it is suggested that you contact your local Board member.

The Board wishes to express their sincere thanks for the fine cooperation they are receiving from citizens all over the County in helping to keep our highways clean and the drainage ditches clear of rubbish.

Near 10 tons of goods go to Children's Home

I am sure that our people would appreciate knowing something of the out come of the produce that was gathered at the peach shed. in Clanton on November 12th and sent to the Children's Home in Troy.

We had procurred the largest truck that we knew anything about in the county which belonged to Mr. Horace Popwell, but we had to get another large truck belonging to Mr. J. T. Cobb.

There were more than 5,000 quarts of canned fruits, about 100 bushels of corn. 25 bales of hay, several sacks of potatoes, pecans and several nice boxes of clothes together with other items too numerous to mention, which amounted to more than $3,100.00 including $165.00 in cash. To make a long story short, there was close to ten tons of goods sent to the home on both trucks which represented some $500.00 more than was sent last year.

Also 41 churches were represented at the loading zone which represents the largest number of churches to send produce in any one year.

Your represenative would like to express his sincere appreciation to all churches and committees for having done such a nice job in preparing the goods for loading. All in all, it was a grand success.

M. Lockhart,
Assn. Rep.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, adminisrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemnities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

Call Fonzie T. Willams, phone 159-J1, he is thoroughly versed in the program. T. E. Blackmon, 277-W1. or call at the office on Monday or Fridays 101 Courthouse.

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1, 1963.

Old hands, new face

OLD hands in a new business! Above, left to right, are Reed Mims, Ernest Jones, and "Little Jack" Mims who are in their third week in the the Jack Mims Food Center, located on the hill across from the Hotel Clanton; and they seem to be pleasing just about everybody.

These three alone represent many years of experience in the grocery business; but they also have some help in giving you the best possible service. Eunice Mims (Mrs. Reed), Janice Jones and Jimmy Cox also help out, though they are not pictured.

These fellows and ladies are offering you the very best in quality food items and topnotch service to boot. See their ad in this issue of the News.

Revival in Progress

THE evangelist, Dr. Angel Martinez. is certainly living up to his reputation and bringing marvelous Gospel messages in every service in the revival at the First Baptist Church of Clanton. The revival will continue through Sunday night with a great closing strvice at the 7:00 o'clock evening hour. Service will be held as usual Saturday night at 7:30 and a great service is planned for everyone at this time. Everyone who loves the preaching of the Gospel certainly ought to attend every remaining service of the revival.

Thurstay night Angel will tell the story of his conversion. This is a very remarkable story of a young boy who was invited to a small Baptist Mission in San Antonio, Texas. because a neighbor was interested in his soul's salvation. Becalse of the interest of this neighbor Angel found Christ when he was a boy of thirteen years of age. He began preaching immediately. All during his college course at Baylor University and while he attended the Southern Baptist Seminary he preached and conducted revivals continuously. For more than 30 years he has been greatly used of God. You will be cheating yourself if you do not attend the closing services of the revival meeting at the First Baptist Church of Clanton.

"Everyone," said the pastor, Dr. J. Gilbert Hctchinson, "is cordially invited."

KENNETH ROYSTER

Receives American Farmers Degree

Kenneth Royster of the Maplesville FFA Chapter received the American Farmers Degree at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City.

Kenneth is the 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Royster of Stanton. This is the highest degree given in FFA.

Kenneth is the first from Maplesville to earn this degree and one of two from Chilton County to receive it this year.

Singley made the presentation on behalf of the Ford Tractor and Implement dealers of Alabama.

Tractor Dealers Contribute to 4-h Program

The Alabama 4-H Club Foundation received a real boost when the Alabama Ford tractor or implement dealers recently presented a check for $5,670.00 to Dr Fred R. Robertson, director of the Auburn University Extension Service.

In announcing this contribution. P. F. Singley, Ford tractor dealer in Thorsby, said the money will be used by the Foundation for expanding 4-H Club work in Ala- jects is the construction of five tate training centers, strategically located throughout Alabama o as to be convenient to the 4-H oys and girls wherever they may live. These centers will be built at an estimated cost of $1,500.00.

Commenting on the drive for funds, P. F. Singley said: "The Ford tractor and implement dealers of Alabama are glad to have a small part in furthering the fully realize that our future depends on the education and training given our youth. We can hink of no better way to insure his future than through the activities planned by the 4-H Foundation. When the training centers are completed, some 50,000 different young people will be influenced each year, through supervised training received at the centers. This will tremendously affect the progress of our state and community."

Telling Congressmen "How To" Serve Citizens

November 14, 1963

Dear Editor:

Our eight congressmen at large have a wonderful opportunity to serve the people of Alabama. If they do not immediately do so "with vigan" and very effectively some of them are going to be replaced by Republicans next November. There is only one of the eight who has been doing effective fighting for our side. That is, only one of them has Represented the people of Alabama aainst our enemies (the Kennedys and the entire liberal crowd.) This congressman is George Huddleston of Birmingham. Even tho our congressmen are justifiably angry at Governor Wallace for forcing them into an at large election with the Republican nominees, (Democratic congressmen unanimously regard this as a betrayal while Republicans eagerly accept the windfall) there are matters at hand which call for Statesmanship and an end to petty bickering.

For one thing there is a bill before congress which will increase the salaries of Congresmen and Senators (and others) by 44%. The salaries are at present $22,500.00 and the $10,000.00 raise will increase them to $32,500.00. This bill also covers so many other highly paid people, scientists, technicians, professionals. cabinet members, federal appointees, that the added cost runs into millions and very definitely IS Inflationary, This prodigal waste of taxpayer money. besides reducing the chances for a TAX cut, will usher in a spreading inflation which will wreck our already inflated currency. Bondholders who in former years invested their money (in good faith) will suffer from inflation because the dollars they get back (although the same number of dollars) will have nothing like their value at the time they were loaned to our government. Insurance programs will be wrecked and people living on annuities ir pensions will find that they have been had.

Still, other things are even more important to our people than a fairly sound currency. For two hundred years we have had the right to assemble peaceably and this included religious freedom for soldiers and sailors on army and navy bases, yet now President Kennedy and the Secretary of Defense have by executive order number 10925 ruled that no group of men may congregate on any army or navy facility Unless It (the organization) is Integrated. Thih is religious persecution (persecution of non-Catholics) in that No Masonic Lodge is ever going to be integrated in the slightest. Order 10925 has already caused several military Square and Compass Clubs to be closed. It is much Later than you think-for our nation our people--our very existence. It is not too late for Democratic congressmen to take action. You congressmen can.

(1) Change the system of federal judges being appointed by the president and let them be elected by the people of a definite area for a definite term. This should include Supreme Court Justices. (2) Restore by constitutional amendment our traditional right to have the Bible read and to have prayer in public schools.. (3) Defeat the socialistic and anti-American civil force bill. (4) Preserve by legislation our traditional Anglo-Saxon right of trial by jury and the rights inherent in a Grand Jury which the Kennedy justice department (and Burke Marshall) have trampled in the dust at Dallas county (Selma). (5) Legislate nullification of executive order num- 10925 (Kennedy's anti-Masonic order). (6) Defeat the congressional 44 percent pay raise.

If you congressmen do not solve these problems before November, 1964-- YOU ARE going to be replaced. The eyes of Alabama are upon you.

Sincerely,
Frank P. Walls, C.P.A.

Two Steps Forward - One Step Back

By John C. Satterfield
Past Pres. Am. Bar Assoc
Secretary - Treasurer
Co-ordinating Committee
Fundamental American Freedoms

In the latest developments in the progress of the Civil Rights Bill, President Kennedy and his brother Bobby are posing as advocates of moderate legislation. But it is only a pose. While the bill which has been approved by the House Judiciary Committee is neither the measure originally proposed by the President nor the "loaded" proposals contained in the Judiciary Subcommittee substitute, it is still far worse than the original bill the President sent to the Hill last June.

This so-called "moderate" bill still has the body of the wolf. The only change is that Little Red Riding Hood's "grandmother's" nightcap and shawl have been edged with lace and ribbons. The stranglehold is still maintained on banks, saving and loan associations, home owners, agricultural programs, unions, business and education. Withdrawal of credit. cancellation of loans, blacklisting of banks, realtors, contractors and the amendment of nearly two hundred statutes to permit political manipulation of every federal financial program -- these are all retained in the new committee bill. Federal controll of voting, feeral dictation of education, federal manipulation of unions and their apprenticeship programs, they all remain.

The truth is that President Kennedy's original bill was extreme to begin with. It sought to apply many new powers to many people. Liberal Congressmen in Committee, once they got their hands on the President's bill, then loaded it with an even greater number of powers so that an even greater number of citizens would be caught in its net. Since both of these extreme proposals are on the same end of the scale, a compromise midway between them hardly seems moderate.

In June, you may recall, the President asked for extraordinary powers which in many instances, conflicted with the civil rights guaranteed to the American people by the Constitution. For instance, under the Constitution, the citizens of each state retain the right to fix voting qualifications. Mr. Kennedy, contrary to this provision, sought in his original bill to give his brother the power to bring Federal referees into bost state and Federal elections.

Other sections of the President's original bill brought every business in the country under direct federal supervision an control -- if the business was licensed by the state or engaged in interstate commerce. Since the 14th Amendment affects only state actions, the President -- to give this proposal the coloration of Constitutionality -- was forced to use the wobbly pretext that state licensing transforms the private actions of business into state actions.

In still another provision, the President asked for unprecedented powers over both union members and employers. He wanted to set up a Commission on Equal Employment Opportunity which would make up the rules to be followed by government contractors and subcontractors.

The hiring standards of this Commission would set aside the work agreements won by unions in collective bargaining. The employer could be forced to disregard the seniority and apprenticeship rights of his employees.. Records and practices of both union and employer would be opened to federal investigators. Hanging over everyone would be the threat of contract cancellation and loss of union shop agreements.

The President, in his original bill, also wanted to control education in local school districts. Through the manipulation of federal grants, the U. S. Commissioner of Education would be empowered to eliminate both segregation and "racial imbalance". To qualify for both old and new federal programs, pupils would be rearranged to suit the Commissioner -- not only within each school, but from district to district. Even textbooks could be censored to meet the Commissioner's standards.

These and other provisions added up to a radical extension of federal power. About ten per cent of the bill was civil rights, And the rest was nothing but sweeping control that a strengthened central government might easily apply in other areas. Such was the original bill.

But as noted, the original bill submitted by the President was considerably stiffened by the House Judiciary Committee. Control over management's hiring practices and union agreements was made virtually iron clad by clear language. Even employment agencies were included. The temporary Commission on Civil Rights was extended. Most drastic of all was the practically unlimited power given the President's brother to sue on behalf of any individual who felt that any of his Constitutional rights were violated.

The power in the Committee's bill was so dangerous and stirred such opposition -- as even the most naive knew it would- that even the Attorney General testified that it was unnecessarily extreme. He pointed out that the rest of the bill already gave him all of the new powers he wanted and that the sweeping powers of prosecution granted by the Committee bill would run the gamut from prayers in public schools to censorship of motion pictures.

In short, he advocated "modifying" the bill, urged "temperance". Such was the method pursued by the Administration to get the bill "atmosphere" (one of compromise it wanted. It followed the classic strategy of "two steps forward and one step back". It now has a "moderate" bill, more vicious than the first.

The fight isn't over yet. There will be more changes in the bill. Congressmen are eagerly scanning their mail to find out what the people -- as opposed to the Kennedys -- want. There is still much special interest pressure for an extreme bill; but legislators, today, as ever, are responsive to the people's will. If you are against such control, write and tell your Senators so.

Display At Library

Nov. 5, 1963

Dear Editor:

As all rock hounds and Indian relic enthusiasts know, to have a great interest in these hobbies results in a study of the people and things connected with them and the location in which they are most commonly found.

Currently being disflayed at the Clanton Public Library is a collection of rocks and Indian relics which should be of interest to students and adults alike.

The collection consists of arrow heads, flint fragments, an Indian skinning rock, chalcedony and one coral. The coral rock came from the Azores Islands, where the largest refueling station for planes crossing the Atlantic is located; where eruptions and earthquakes are still liable and most farmers still use the same tools and primitive methods for farming and travel that their ancestors used while flint may be the link between the first men to roam into Alabama and the first people to settle here.

A collection of arrow heads is always highly praised by those interested in the customs and history of Indians.

Chalcedony is a variety of quartz and was named for the town of Chalcedon, Bithymia, Asia Minor, where large desposits are found.

The Bible (Rev. 21:19) mentioned that the third foundation of the wall of the Holy City was made of Chalcedony.

So, we can readily see how rocks have had an important place in our past. Today there is increasing emphasis being placed on the study of events and other things relating to man's past, for history lights the path today's man must travel.

Events of the past take on different shape when they are viewed in the light of current happenings and affairs and it is those who make a thorough study of past events that will be most likely to succeed in the future.

It is very encouraging to know that we have a place like the Clanton Library where we can have access to material and channels that will lead us into further study and education on such subjects in the things concerning our world and us.

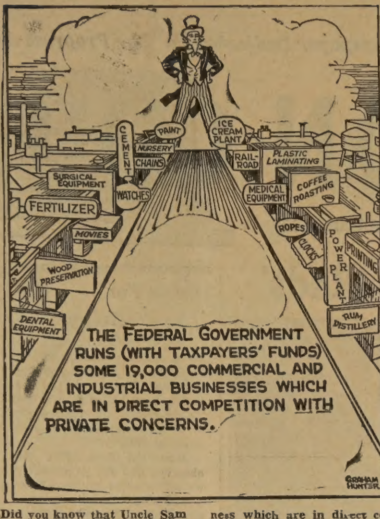
U.S. HAS NO BUSINESS IN BUSINESS



Did you know that Uncle Sam has a lot of sidelines?

Well, he has. He runs coffee roasting plants, rum distilleries printing and power plants.. He manufactures scores of different products including surgical, medical and dental equipment rope, chain, watches, clocks, paints and fertilizers.

There's more. Uncle Sam is also in the plastic laminating business and in cement, railroad and wood preservation enterprises. He even operates movie theaters and ice cream plants.

All in all, according to Senator J. Glenn Beall (R.-Md.). Uncle Sam a sthe front for the federal government, runs some 19,000 commercial and industrial business which are in direct competition with private concerns.

The unfairness of this deplorable situation is further compounded, Sen. Beall points out, by the fact that businessmen and industrialists, who operate the same kinds of establishments as the government, must pay taxes to their competitor and that these taxes are poured back into the government-operated business which are damaging to the interest of the privately operated enterprises.

This tops all the "heads I win tails you lose" propositions we ever heard about. Uncle Sam has no business in business and the Congress should make it its business to see that he retires.

"Good Folks" Get Pat On Back

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a note to one of Chilton County's citizens, from a couple of North Alabama folks, thanking him for being a "Good Samaritan"! He's really a "Good Methodist", who had the good fortune to come upon someone in need, and applied the teachings of the Golden Rule.

The fellow we refer to is Bro. Paul Higdon of Verbena, Ala., who is an exceptional person, and it seems, is a pretty good guy to have around when your car won't go. The letter follows.

1401 Locust Ave., S. E.
Huntsville. Alabama
November 12, 1963

Dear Reverend Higdon,

Surely everything must happen for the best because if we had not had car trouble last night, we would not have known what good people there were in Verbena and Clanton.

We are most grateful for the help you gave us and we will never forget it. We were treated most courteously in Clanton and will make a point of stopping by there again as we go back and forth home. Thanks again for your assistance.

Sincerely yours,
Anne Garner

We, the people of Beat 1, Lime Springs and Mt. Bethel communities wish to thank the officials, engineers, truck drivers and workers for our beautiful strip of road from the Lay Dam road to the loop by Lime Springs Methodist church

This was a road that needed paving badly as in the winter it became almost impassable at times.

We invite you all to visit and see this beautiful piece of road construction. This. we believe was money well spent.

Our sincere thanks,
The people of Lime Springs and Mt. Bethel Church communities.

YOUR HEALTH

ULCER

Anyone can get an ulcer, at any age, in any part of the world. Acute ulcers are not uncommon in the newborn. Peptic ulcer is world wide in distribution, occuring in all races and all occupations. Approximately ten per cent of the total population suffer at some time in their lives from an ulcerated condition.

Ulcers in the stomach are called gastric, and those in the dudoeum are known as duedenal ulcers. Four times more males than females are afflicted with ulcers. An ulcer is defined as a loss of tissue resulting from the digestive action of acid gastric juice. Pain is the outstanding symptom of an ulcer; and it is stated by specialists that the greatest incidence of ulcer occurs in the colder months, from October to March.

The average duration of distress is six or seven years. Although some cases show symptoms for only a few days or weeks. others may have the condition for from 40 to 50 years. The pain of ulcer, varied in quality, is described usually as a gnawing or aching sensation sometimes with a burning ,hurting, or cramp-like feeling. The prognosis in peptic ulcer is good, as for the immediate attack; but because recurrence is usual, the future outlook is poor.

Perforation is the most serious complication of peptic ulcer, accounting for three-fourths or more of the deaths from this disease. Treatment of peptic ulcer includes rest (physical and mental), drugs, and when indicated, surgery.

100 YEARS AGO

ALABAMA DEFENSES WEAKEN

One hundred years ago this week, the Confederate command began to move troops from posts over Alabama to reinforce forces in Tennessee. The Battle of Chattanooga was pending. Commanding officers at defense posts in Alabama protested as they felt their strength crumble and saw no replacements in sight. Colonel Benjamin S. Ewell, Assistant Adjutant General for the Western Department of the Confederate Army. received dispatches from offices in Talladega and Mobile requesting assurance that the state would not be left defenseless.

"I have ordered Quarles' brigade to go to General Bragg (in Tennessee)," wrote Major General Dabney H. Maury, commanding the Department of the Gulf with headquarters at Mobile. "I may send him the 17th and 29th Alabama, fine, large regiments, so soon as I can replace them by heavy artillerists. . . It will not do for me to remove the necessary garrisons of my forts and heavy batteries until they can be replaced."

Major W. H. Walthall. commanding a post at Talladega, was a little more explicit in explaining his situation. "General Maury had directed me particularly to endeavor to protect the railroad bridge over the Coosa River. . . (and) to look to the protection of the furnaces, foundries, etc., in this vicinity and along the line of railroad passing through Talladega," he said.

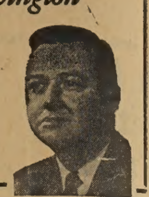
He continued ". . . For this and other duties relative to the protection of public property, etc., I had therefore relied entirely upon conscripts detailed from the camp of instruction at this place. The withdrawal of all these detailed men. . . leaves me without any force whatever." He suggested the organization of "several companies of boys between the ages of 16 and 18, and other exempts" for the defense of the state. . In the later years of the war, such companies become the only defense in many sections of the South.

Report from Washington

BY

Alabama Congressman

ARMISTEAD SELDEN



Shortly after an accord was reached on the nuclear test ban treaty, Premier Khrushchev was reported as saying the Russians were out of the moon race. Some observers were convinced that Cold War tensions were being relaxed. and there was even talk of a joint American-Soviet effort to the moon.

Events of the past week however, indicate that true to history and usual Russian tactics the Soviets have merely again changed the timetable in their campaign to bury us. A recent rash of Soviet provocations simply reaffirms the fact that the USSR is not on the verge of becoming a friendly nation. After signing the test ban treaty, some expected to see signs of friendship emanating from the Kremlin. Instead the Soviets precipitated a new East-West confrontation by holding up a U. S. troop convoy for 41 hours on a German autobahn. This show of belligerance came only three months after the ban on nuclear testing and was followed almost immediately by the recent Russian celebration in Moscow of the Bolshevik Revolution where the Kremlin flouted its latest anti-missile missiles and anti-American rhetoric. At these festivities, Khrushchev pledged to overtake the United States by 1980, and vowed that Russia most certainly was not out of the moon race.

New Tough Line—

Last week, the Russians displayed their latest shift to a tough line by arresting and then releasing a prominent Yale professor on espionage charges and by intensifying communist assaults in the United Nations.

The beginning of a seemingly short lull in East-West tension began after the Cuban missile crisis. When we called the Soviet's bluff in October of last year, Khrushchev was temporarily thrown off balance. The so-called "Spirit of Moscow" — like the spirit of Camp David — was not an honest effort by the Reds to relieve world tensions, but a tactical move by Khrushchev to allow him time to regroup his forces, reassess his strategy, and concentrate on the Soviets' growing agricultural dilemna.

A careful analysis of the Russian economic picture indicates that today there is no Red Utopia in the Soviet Union. Once exporters of millions of tons of wheat and grain annually, Russia has cut its exports sharply and has made deep reductions in its foreign aid program as well.

The reason behind these moves is not that the Soviet camp has abandoned its plans for world domination. Rather, it is an indication that Russia's agricultural situation has created a grave domestic problem. The satellite countries — especially East Germany and Cuba — are plagued also with economic troubles. The Soviet population itself is increasing more rapidly than its production, and disastrous crop failures have forced the Kremlin to look to the West to bail them out of their agricultural mess.

Kremlin "Bail Out"—

It now appears, after some initial setbacks, that the United States-Soviet wheat deal may be concluded in the near future. Having long opposed trading with Communist countries, I haven't changed my mind as far as selling wheat to Russia is concerned. In providing the Kremlin with the food it cannot produce for itself and its police-state satellites, we enable the Soviet bloc to continue to divert manpower for industry and defense which might otherwise have to be used for agricultural purposes.

While there is no law on the statute books that makes it illegal to sell wheat to Russia, the President in his decision to export our surplus wheat to the USSR ignores the stated intent of the Congress and reverses certain of our past trade policies with the Russians. The 1961 Latta Amendment, for example, put Congress on record against subsidized sales to the Soviets. Currently, indications are that Russia will buy United States wheat at subsidized prices — paying less than the domestic consumer would pay and with the American taxpayer picking up the tab for the balance.

Of even more importance, however, the sale of wheat to Castro's benefactor will make it difficult, if not impossible, for us to ask our friends and allies to discontinue trade with the Cuban Communist government.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

(This series of questions about Social Security is compiled from the questions sent to the Selma Social Security Office from Chilton County and answered by David G. Adams, Field Representative Any questions that you want to ask may be sent to Social Security. C/o Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala:)

Q. Will my daughter's social security checks stop when she's 18 even though she's still in school?

A. Yes. Only children who are disabled can draw social security after 18.

Q. My wife and I draw social security checks for ourselves. We have a 40 year old disabled son. Shouldn't we also get something for him?

A. If he was disabled before his eighteenth birthday. and is still disabled, there is a good chance you can draw a check for him.

Q. I do house work for my daughter. Can I get social security credit for this.

A. No. Work for your daughter in her home isn't covered.

Q. Can anyone get as much as $127 a month in retirement checks from social security?

A. Men born before 1897, and women born before 1900 can if they've had earnings of $4800 each year from 1959 through 1963.

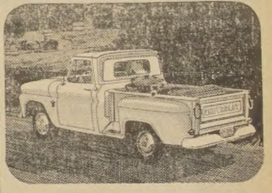
CHEVROLET

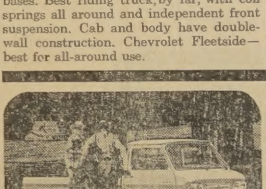
Which type Chevrolet pickup do you need?

Chevrolet now makes four different types, each with its own distinct advantages. Whichever one you buy will be a lot more truck than your money bought the last time!

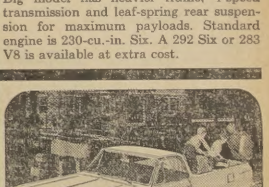
FLEETSIDE. Based on sales, the best liked pickup in the world. Outstanding feature is its large body extending clear out over the wheels. Two body sizes. Two wheelbases. Best riding truck, by far, with coil springs all around and independent front suspension. Cab and body have double-wall construction. Chevrolet Fleetside—best for all-around use.



STEPSIDE. Has flat interior body walls and convenient side steps between cab and rear fenders. Comes in same two sizes as the Fleetside plus one bigger size. Big model has heavier frame, 4-speed transmission and leaf-spring rear suspension for maximum payloads. Standard engine is 230-cu.-in. Six. A 292 Six or 283 V8 is available at extra cost.



RAMPSIDE. Nobody else makes a pickup exactly like this one with a ramp at the side. The ramp makes loading easy because of its 16-inch rise. Truck also has a conventional tailgate. Body and frame-floor assembly are very rigid because they are welded together. Has larger 95-hp air-cooled engine this year. Independent coil spring suspension all around.



EL CAMINO. If you want a pickup as good looking as any car on the road, this is the one! It can work hard, and look like a million dollars doing it—the only pickup in the world with Body by Fisher! You can order an El Camino as plain or as fancy as you wish: bucket seats, air conditioning, 4-speed transmission, power brakes are some of its extra-cost options.

Jemison Vo-Ag Bull Is Prize Winner

THE 20 month old, 1350 pound bull shown above is the prize-winning property of the Jemison FFA Chapter. R. M. McGee adviser.

The animal was most recently shown at the South Alabama Fair and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation Show at Montgomery.

Mr. McGee informs the News that they now have a trailer in which to transport their prize animal, and that he is in service in the Jemison, and surrounding communities.

The Jemison Vo-Ag Department, under the direction of Mr. McGee has made an enviable record in the county and state, and even the nation this year. They are confident that their efforts in behalf of better farming and animal breeding in their community will result in a better understanding in the community, and also will show their appreciation to men like Dr. Hicks, who is a very active, and strong supporter of this program in the State of Alabama.

NEWS OF—

REFUGE

The writer attended a funeral of a young child who fell into a creek that ran through the edge of the yard and was drowned. When the mother saw the location of the little red wagon left behind, she knew her child was in that creek. What would you have done under such frightening conditions? Well this mother simply kept herself together, waded right out into the creek and carefully and gently felt around with her bare feet until she found her sweet little child that all efforts failed to revive.

I am trying to say that we are someimes afraid to venture out for the Lord. No one would dare say that this mother had any lack of Venturesome spirit that should challenge all of us. If a child is spiritualy lost, or anyone else as to that matter, would you wade a creek to get them under the sound of the gospel? Would you carry them to church? Jesus said: "It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones". Luke 17:2.

A well grown young lady said just recently: "Since Grand Pa doesn't go to church anymore, I don't guess that it will hurt for me to stay away." Does the case of the above Grandfather fit into Luke 17:2? The main thing to remember is, that it is the direct words of Jesus Himself.

We certainly had a good day at church last Sunday. Did you venture out? The attendance was about as usual, but it is good to meet together where the Lord's people have gathered to worship God.

Our building program is still making progress and the work in the auditorium is taking shape and looking good. All center posts have been removed that have stood for years. and eight flush lights have been installed which chimes beautifully with the fifteen hundred feet if pine paneling.

Those in charge of the Christmas program are meeting with the group on Sunday afternoons for practices. So bare this in mind next Sunday afternoon.

We hope to see you at church next Sundty.

Sacred Music Festival In Magic City; 4 Nights

Alabama's third annual Festival of Sacred Music brings to Birmingham's Temple Theatre outstanding artists and musical groups during Thanksgiving week.

There will be four full nights of wonderful music and inspiration as thousands join in singing and listening to the great hymns of the ages.

The Revivaltime radio choir of Springfield, Mo., will be one of the special features on the program Wednesday, November 27. The choir, directed by the Rev. Cyril McLellan, sings each week over 450 radio stations in the United States and on 52 foreign stations.

Kurt Kaiser, who began playing the piano when he was four years old, will be the organist every night. Kaiser is now director of artists and repertoire for Word Records, Inc. of Waco, Texas.

Special features of the Friday night program will be the appearance of Frank Boggs and the singing of Christmas carols. Boggs is an outstanding hymn singer who has given a command performance for Queen Elizabeth. He is also featured on the "Sing America! Sing!" record albums singing "God Will Take Care of You."

Returning this year as master of ceremonies and soloist will be BillMann, a native of Bessemer, Alabama, and now a resident of Dallas, Texas.

The Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Arthur Winograd, will be featured in two special selections. The orchestra will also accompany the massed choir in the opening and closing numbers.

Outstanding choirs from Birmingham-Southern and Howard Colleges, the East Lake Methodist Church choir and a Birmingham Baptist mass choir will help make te four nigts of this year Festival of Sacred Music an unforgettable religious experience. All Alabamians are invited to attend the 1963 Festival of Sacred Music at the Temple Theater in Birmingham November 26-29 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 for adults, 50c for children. This annual event is sponsored by the Birmingham News and Birmingham Post-Herald. All proceeds are for the benefit of the Birmingham Sympony Orchestra.

TB Campaign Begins Here

The annual Christmas Seal Campaign in Chilton County received its traditional send off Friday, November 15, with the general mailing of Christmas Seals to residents. Proceeds of the campaign will be used by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association to combat TB and other respiratory diseases.

Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Christmas Seal Chairman, said that millions of lives have been saved since the first contribution was made for a Christmas Seal. "But the saving of lives is not enough." "We are also continuing to wage a relentless fight against the suffering, tragedy, loss of time and money that result from TB and other diseases that affect breathing. Many of these other respiratory diseases are not only gravely harmful in themselves, but increase susceptibility to TB".

Figures released by the United States Public Health Service show that Respiratory Disease ranks first among disablers of people and fourth among causes of death. We must expend our efforts to find the hidden cases of tuberculosis and other respiratory disease in this community. One of our goals is to alert every person to the fact that chronic cough and shortness of breath, most common symptoms of respiratory disease, may indicate the presence of a serious ailment and require the advice of a physician. We must also put more money into medical research to find better ways of fighting TB and other Respiratory Disease. Let's keep our County healthy.

MISS GERALD

Alice Gerald Wins Top Science Award

Alice Gerald has been selected as the top science student in Chilton County High School and will be the recipient at graduation of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award Medal. Principal of the school, Mr. S. E. Waters, says that the Award winner is eligible to compete for annual Science Scholarships sponsored by Bausch and Lomb Incorporated at the University of Rochester

In 8500 secondary schools throughout the nation, the Award is presented to the graduating student with the best record in science studies. Since its introduction in 1932, there have been 170,000 winners. Surveys indicate that about one-third of this number have been encouraged by the Award to attend college and follow scientific careers.

In addition to her outstanding science record, Alice has excelled in all her studies. She helped organize and was editor of The Student Scroll, a literary and art magazine, and has held several offices in the Junior Music Club. She plans to attend the University of Alabama and major in Library Science.

Alice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald of Clanton.

P. O. To Help In Livestock Survey

POSTMASTER R. R. Sutley announced today that Rural Mail Carriers and Star Route Contractors will begin distributing December 1. Livestock Survey cards to farmer patrons on their routes about mid-November.

Your Post Office Department assists the Department of Agriculture each year in making this and two other surveys. Facts developed by these surveys are made available to farmers as a guide for marketing current supplies and in planning future production.

Livestock cards returned by farmers to their carrier will be mailed to the Alabama Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Montgomery. Information from each card will be tabulated and combined with other reports to give indications of changes in the number of livestock on farms in Alabama.

Carriers assisting with this survey are: Route 1, J. M. Mims; Route 2, R. Z. Gray; Route 3, W. B. Crowe, Jr.,; Route 4, E. B. Allison; and Route 5. H. G. Thompson.

Rev. James Benefield, Pastor

Our Sunday School attendance was 91. Bro. Benefield preached an excellent sermon, "The Conquest of Fear." using the text Revelations 1:10, 17-18.

Training Union attendance was 75 and there were 25 daily Bible readers. Our Sunday night sermon based on 1st Thesalonians 4.13-55. At the invitation Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Vinson came forward as candidates for Baptism and membership in the church. They were accepted and received the right hand of Christian fellowship.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Charles Arnold Brown who was laid to rest here at 2:30 p.m. on Monday.

There are still many sick in the community. Please pray for them and our shut-ins.

HD Club Organized At Providence

THE ladies of the Providence Community have organized a Home Demonstration Club, with the help of Chilton County Home Agent, Mrs. Johnnie Lane.

They met the first Tuesday in November at Mrs. Bob Green's home. They plan to meet each first Tuesday of each month.

They extend an invitation to other ladies in the community to join them in this social club. Next meeting will be the first Tuesday in December at the home of Mrs. W. T. Hay. This will be the Christmas Party. Watch for further details in your Chilton County News.

Reporter for the group is Mrs. R. C. Brewster.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"No incorporated municipality in Mobile County shall have power to levy, impose, or collect a privilege license tax upon or in respect of the employees of an employer which is measured by or based on income derived from wages, salaries, commissions, or bonuses, for personal services rendered, unless the levying thereof shall have been authorized before the enactment of such ordinance by a vote of the duly qualified electors of the city or town at an election held for such purpose, in the manner prescribed by the city or town council or commission."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"Section 1. In addition to any taxes now authorized, or that may be hereafter authorized, by the Constitution and laws of Alabama, there is hereby levied a special school tax of fifty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in the school Tax District of the City of Huntsville in Madison County to be used solely for public school purposes; provided the levy of said tax shall first have been approved by the qualified electors of the School District as hereinafter provided.

"Section 2. The proceeds of said tax shall be used exclusively for constructing and improving school buildings and acquiring sites therefor in the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville, Alabama.

"Section 3. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote in favor of the adoption of this amendment when it is submitted, the additional tax provided for in Section 1 shall be levied and collected for a period of thirty years without any other election having been held hereon. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote against its approval, the tax shall not be levied unless the rate of the tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been again submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville and voted for by a majority of those voting at the election. Subsequent elections may be held at intervals of not less than one year and shall be called, held, conducted, paid for, and governed otherwise in the manner provided for an election on the school district tax authorized in Constitutional Amendment III."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"AMENDMENT______

"Clarke County and the incorporated muncipalities therein, jointly or severally, after an election held in accordance herewith shall have full and continuing power and authority to:

"1. Purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. Lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, or give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. Promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses therein.

"4. Become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. Lend its credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. Become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the county or municipality or may be limited as to the sources of their payment.

"7. Levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent of the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the county or in any municipality in Clarke County or upon all property in any district to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. Pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. Create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body and subject to such limitations as the governing body of Clarke County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the Judge of Probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the county or any municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of Clarke County or any municipality therein for the purpose of determining their borrowing capacity under Sections 224 and 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature may enact laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

Neither the county nor any municipality therein shall make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the locality affected thereby. The governing body of the county or any municipality may provide for holding such elections, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

New Market Open To Landowners: "Recreation"

The American farmer is the most successful farmer in the world. One reason is that he is always ready to capture new markets for his products. The door to another new market has now been opened to landowners interested in conducting enterprises of this nature--this perhaps might be most lucrative.

City people who don't have room to play, hike, swim, or camp are looking for outdoor fun and are willing to pay for it.

If you are a landowner or operator and want to know more about this coming business boom you should ask Olin G. Fields of the local Soil Conservation Service office, or the local office of other agencies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, for a copy of AIB 277, "Rural Recreation Enterprises fir Profit." Just off the press, this publication lists and describes the many ways you can get started in the recreation business and take advantage of the increasing demand for fun in the sun. The local SCS office at the Courthouse has copies.

The publication points out the opportunities for income from vacation farms and ranches, picnic and sports areas, fishing waters, camping, shooting preserves, and cottage and recreation sites and the like. It discusses legal angles and financing, what to charge, how to advertise, and how to deal with customers. And it tells of the assistance available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other public agencies.

"This is one of the ways we can strengthen Rural America,". "Local landowners and operators who love to deal with people can put idle land to work and turn it into an entirely new business in their community."

Martin Receives Baptist Religious Journalism Award

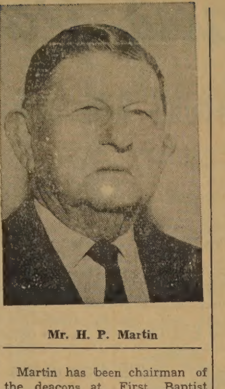
Birmingham (special)-- H. P. Martin, for more than 50 years a correspondent for several newspapers in Alabama, has been named recipient of the Alabama Baptist State Convention's Religious Journalism Award.

Martin, from Greenville, received the award at the Convention meeting here Thursday afternoon, Nov. 14.

He served as local correspondent for the Montgomery Advertiser and Alabama Journal, and wrote for the Birmingham News and Mobile Register. The award winner was also representative for the Associated Press and United Press International in the Greenville area.

His pastor, Dr. Otis C. Williams, of the First Baptist Church in Greenville, praised the veteran reporter for his contribution to the cause of Christianity through his reporting of religious events in the press.

The award coisisted of a wrist watch and an engraved plaque from the Convention. The plaque read: "In recognition of his contribution to Christianity through religiius journalism, his news writing ability, and his initiative in religious news gathering."



Mr. H. P. Martin

Martin has been chairman of the deacons at First Baptist Church in Greenville, and was a member of the Alabama Baptist State Executive Board and the Trustees of Judson College.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is authorized to become indebted for improvements at the Alabama State Docks and the refunding of State Docks revenue bonds, and in evidence of the indebtedness so incurred to issue and sell, in addition to all other bonds of the State, interest bearing general obligation bonds of the State not exceeding ten million dollars ($10,000,000) in principal amount. The full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged to the prompt and faithful payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon. The Alabama State Docks Department (which term as used herein shall be construed to include any other agency of the State that may succeed to said Department's functions) shall pledge and use so much of the revenues derived from its seaport facilities as may be necessary to pay at their maturities the principal of and interest on said bonds, and may pledge, agree to use, and use so much of said revenues as the said Department with the approval of the Governor may determine shall be necessary or desirable to build up and maintain reserves for the payment of said principal and interest and for the maintenance, replacement and improvement of its seaport facilities. The proceeds from the sale of any such bonds shall, after payment of the reasonable and necessary expenses of their issuance, be set aside in a special fund in the State Treasury and shall be paid out to the Alabama State Docks Department upon authorization by the Governor and shall be held by the said Department in a special trust fund designated "State Docks Bond Fund" and therefrom be disbursed as follows:

"(a) not exceeding $3,000,000 may be used to pay the reasonable and necessary costs of constructing and equipping works of internal improvement for use and operation as a part of the State Docks facilities; provided that, if said Department shall have issued subsequent to July 1, 1963, any notes in anticipation of the sale of bonds for any of said purposes, then so much as may be necessary, not exceeding $1,000,000, of said $3,000,000 shall be used to retire or refund said notes; and

"(b) not exceeding $7,000,000 may be used to refund and provide for the retirement of all or such part of the outstanding revenue bonds heretofore issued by said Department as the Director thereof, with the approval of the Governor, shall deem advantageous, including payment of any redemption premiums required under the terms of said outstanding bonds to be paid in order to effect redemption thereof prior to their maturities; provided, that pending any redemption date or dates on which the outstanding bonds so refunded can be redeemed under their terms, any part of said $7,000,000 and any other funds of the said Department may be invested in securities that are direct obligations of the United States of America, and such securities may be deposited by said Department under irrevocable trust agreements, which said Department is hereby authorized to enter into with any corporate trustee, and used to pay principal, interest and redemption premiums on said outstanding bonds.

"Alabama State Docks Department is hereby vested with full authority, except as limited herein, to prescribe the terms of the bonds and to provide for the issuance and sale thereof. The bonds may be sold, executed and delivered at any time and from time to time, may be in such forms, denominations, series and numbers, may be of such tenor and maturities, may bear such date or dates, may be in registered or bearer form either as to principal or interest or both, with rights of conversion into another form, may be payable in such installments and at such place or places, may bear interest at such rate or rates, payable and evidenced in such manner, and may contain provisions for redemption at the option of the State to be exercised by the State Docks Department at such date or dates prior to their maturity and upon payment of such redemption price or prices, all as shall be provided by the said Department in the order or orders under which the bonds are issued. The principal of each series of bonds shall mature in annual installments in such amounts as shall be specified in the authorizing order or orders, the first of which installments shall mature not later than one year after the date of the bonds of such series and the last of which installments shall mature not later than twenty years after the date of the bonds of the same series. The largest installment of principal and interest maturing on each series of the bonds in any one year shall not exceed twice the preceding smallest installment of principal and interest maturing thereon in any prior year. None of the bonds shall be sold for less than face value plus accrued interest thereon to the date of delivery. The bonds shall be sold only at public sale or sales, either on sealed bids or at auction, after such advertisements as may be prescribed by the said Department to the bidder whose bid reflects the lowest net interest cost to the State computed to the respective maturities of the bonds sold; provided, that if no bids deemed acceptable by the said Department is received all bids may be rejected.

"The bonds shall be signed in the name of the State by the Governor and countersigned by the State Docks Director, and the Great Seal of the State of Alabama or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed, printed or otherwise reproduced thereon and shall be attested by the signature of the Secretary of State; provided, that facsimile signatures of any one or any two (but not all) of said officers may be reproduced on any of such bonds in lieu of being manually signed thereon. Coupons attached to the bonds and representing installments of interest thereon shall be signed with the facsimile signature of the State Treasurer, which facsimile signature shall constitute due and sufficient authentication of said coupons.

"All bonds issued under the provisions of this amendment, together with the interest income thereon, shall forever be exempt from taxation in this State.

"The authorization to incur debt and issue bonds contained in this amendment shall supersede and take the place of any authorization for Alabama State Docks Department to issue revenue bonds granted by act of the Legislature in effect on the effective date of this amendment.

"The provisions of this amendment shall be self-executing and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Section 181. The following persons and no others who, if they are citizens of the United States over the age of twenty-one years and have the qualifications as to residence prescribed in Section 178 of this article, shall be qualified to register as electors provided they shall not be disqualified under Section 182 of this constitution; those who can read and write any article of the constitution of the United States in the English language which may be submitted to them by the board of registrars, provided, however, no persons shall be entitled to register as electors except those who are of good character and who embrace the duties and obligations of citizenship under the constitution of the United States and under the Constitution of the State of Alabama, and provided further, that in order to aid the members of the boards of registrars, who are hereby constituted and declared to be judicial officers, to judicially determine if applicants to register have the qualifications hereinabove set out, each applicant shall be furnished by the board of registrars a written application form and a sealed examination, which shall be uniform in all cases with no discrimination as between applicants. The form and contents of such application form and sealed examination shall be prescribed by a state board of examiners for voter registration to be appointed by the Legislative Council of Alabama, which application shall be so worded that the answers thereto will place before the board of registrars information necessary or proper to aid them to pass upon the qualifications of each applicant, and which examination shall be graded by the state board of examiners for voter registration which must certify to the several boards of registrars of the state whether or not each applicant, who shall be designated by number only, has passed or has not passed the examination. The examination shall be provided and shall be administered as provided for by the legislature. Provided, in no event shall the intelligence level required of the applicant for registration be less than that required to serve as a member of the armed forces of the United States as determined by written examination. The application shall be answered in writing by the applicant in the presence of the board without assistance, and there shall be incorporated in such answer an oath to support and defend the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Alabama and a statement in such oath by the applicant disavowing belief in or affiliation at any time with any group or party which advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States or the State of Alabama by unlawful means, which answers and oath shall be duly signed and sworn to by the applicant before a member of the county board of registrars. Such application and written answers of the applicant thereto shall be filed with the records of the respective boards of registrars and such examination shall be filed with the records of the state board of examiners.

"The board may receive information respecting the applicant and the truthfulness of any information furnished by him, Provided further, that if solely because of physical handicaps the applicant is unable to read or write, then he shall be exempt from the above stated requirements which he is unable to meet because of such physical handicap, and in such cases a member of the board of registrars shall read to the applicant the questionnaire and oaths herein provided for and the applicant's answers thereto shall be written down by such board member, and the applicant shall be registered as a voter if he meets all other requirements herein set out."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Proclamation No. 3

THIRTEEN

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provision of the Constitution or laws of the State of Alabama to the contrary notwithstanding, the municipality of York in Sumter County shall have full and continuing power and authority, after an election held in accordance herewith, to do any one or more of the following:

"1. To purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. To lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. To promote local industrial, commercial or agricultural development and the location of new industries or business therein.

"4. To become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. To lend this credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. To become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences or indebtedness, to a principal amount not exceeding fifty percent of the assessed value of taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the municipality of York, or may be limited as to the source of their payment.

"7. To levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent on the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the municipality of York in Sumter County, or upon all property in any district the boundaries of which the governing body of such municipality shall describe and which it shall determine to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. To pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. To create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body, and subject to such limitations as the governing body of the municipality of York in Sumter County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the judge of probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of the municipality of York in Sumter County for the purpose of determining the borrowing capacity of the county under Section 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in Section 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the right and power by general, special or local act to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

"10. The municipality of York in Sumter County shall not make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality. The governing body of the municipality may provide for holding such election, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"Not withstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the Legislature may hereafter, by general law, provide for the promotion of the production, distribution, marketing and use of poultry and poultry products. The Legislature may provide for the promotion of poultry and poultry products and the poultry industry by research, education, advertising and other methods and the Legislature is further authorized to provide means and methods for the financing of any such promotional activity by prescribing a procedure whereby producers, owners or growers of poultry may by referendum held among such producers, owners or growers of poultry in this State levy upon themselves and collect assessments, fees, or charges upon the sale of poultry and poultry products for the financing of any such promotional program or activity in cooperation with processors, dealers, handlers and other buyers of poultry and poultry products. Provided, no assessment levied hereunder shall exceed one cent (1¢) per hen or other domesticated fowl or any other classes of poultry sold by producers thereof. The Legislature is authorized to make provisions for nonpayment and for the refund of assessments levied upon owners, producers or growers of poultry to any such person who does not desire to participate in the promotional program. The Legislature shall provide for the collection and distribution of assessments or charges authorized hereunder and to provide penalties for failure to make such collection and distribution of assessments. The Legislature shall provide for the designation of a nonprofit association or organization organized for the promotion and betterment of poultry and poultry products in Alabama to administer and carry out such promotional program which shall include conducting elections or referendums among producers, owners or growers of poultry. The Legislature shall further provide for the deposit, withdrawal, disbursement and expenditure by the designated association of any funds received subject to the supervision and control of the activities authorized herein by the Department of Agriculture and Industries and the State Board of Agriculture and Industries. Assessments, fees or other charges collected as authorized by any legislative act adopted under authority hereof shall not be considered as a tax within the meaning of this Constitution or any provision thereof. Any uniformity requirements of this Constitution shall be satisfied by the application of the program upon poultry and poultry products."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

"(1) Marion County shall have full and continuing power and authority, notwithstanding the provisions of Sections 94, 215, 222 and 224 of this Constitution, to do and perform any act and to engage in any activity that municipalities in said county are authorized to do, perform and engage in under the provisions of the amendment to this Constitution that was proposed by Act No. 1 adopted at the Second Special Session of 1950 of the Legislature of Alabama (commonly referred to as Amendment LXXXIV), including specifically, without limiting the generality of the foregoing the power to become indebted and in evidence thereof to issue bonds, warrants and other securities of said county for any of the purposes for which municipalities may issue securities under said amendment, and the power to levy ad valorem taxes in said county to pay the principal of and interest on said securities; provided, that the total principal amount of said securities at any time outstanding shall not exceed fifty per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in said county as assessed for state taxation, and the taxes so levied shall not exceed two per cent per annum of said assessed valuation; and provided further, that said county shall not exercise any of said powers unless and until a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at an election held for such purpose shall have approved the exercise by said county of said powers, which election shall be called by the governing body of said county and held as nearly as may be practicable in accordance with the general laws of the state at the time in effect pertaining to the election on the issuance of county bonds. Said election may be held at any time and if at said election a majority of the electors voting thereat do not approve the exercise by said county of said powers, another election may be held hereunder at any time and from time to time thereafter. If at any such other election a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at such election shall approve the exercise by said county of said powers, said county may thereafter, from time to time and at any time and without the necessity of any further election, exercise any or all of said powers as its governing body may deem advisable.

"(2) This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the power, by general or local act, to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes hereof. The governing body of the county shall have power to adopt such resolutions and orders as may be necessary to implement and enforce this amendment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

A billion $ in pulpwood

PURCHASES OF PULPWOOD TOTALED MORE THAN A BILLION LAST YEAR

It was interesting to learn, from information gathered by the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association, that payrolls by these mills totaled more than a billion dollars last year.

The significance of this is greater than it might seem at first glance. For example, any big industry will disburse a sizable payroll in its areas of operation. However, few industries buy so much of their raw material from local independent business men who, in turn, buy this wood from so many individual landowners.

That, however, is just what the region's pulp and paper industry does. It did that in 1962 to the tune of $511.7 million which was distributed over 12 states through purchases of pulpwood from 90 per cent of the counties in the South.

In addition. the job of converting the raw material into pulp and paper gave the industry's 91,000 workers a total payroll of $549.4 million. This adds up to the billion dollars plus that literally came out of the woods directly into the South's economy.

This points up strongly the vital importance of the region's woodlands. It also puts further has in the trees from which come emphasis on the stake the South the myriad paper products necessary to our daily living.

Right now, according to SPCA, wise forest management, reforestation, and protection from fire, insects and disease -- foresighted activities on the part of landowners, industry and state and federal agencies -- are resulting in a favorable balance of growth over man's use and natural losses in the South's woodlands. It behooves everybody to help keep it that way.

Soil Conservation Problem Licked!

Farmers who have a conservation problem on their farms which they haven't yet been able to work out should check with the ASCS county office, Mr. Eddie Owen, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today. cost sharing assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program often is the means of closing the gap between willingness to remedy a problem and actually applying the conservation practice to the land. he declared.

The Chairman pointed out that the program is authorized by Congress in recognition of the fact that the wise use and adequate protection of the Nation's farm and ranchland is in the public interest. The key to ACP is "conservation with us," for his land must continue to produce the food and fiber needed by future as well as present generations. Programs fund are allocated each year among the States and counties on the basis of conservation needs.

Naturally, Mr. Owen said, the ACP cost sharing program must achieve the most conservation for every dollar spent. But the program also recognizes that agriculture varies greatly between regions, states, counties, and even farms. So, each year, the program is examined carefully by farm officials and leaders, and suggestions are made for improving it.

It isn't practical to include every good conservation practices in the program, However. a sincere effort is made to see that available ACP help is directed so that the individual farmer will have assistance with the conservation problems on his farm for which cost sharing is most needed.

Farmers are encouraged to stop by the ASCS county office to discuss their conservation problems and the posibility of obtaining ACP cooperation in carrying out a needed measure -- sooner or to a greater extent than it would otherwise be done. Information soon will be available on 1964 ACP practices which are available to farmers in Chilton County, including practice specifications and cost share rates.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"This amendment shall apply in all counties except Mobile and Jefferson Counties. The term 'public hospital purposes' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities. The term 'public hospital facilities' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include public hospitals, public clinics, public health centers, nurses' homes and training facilities, and related public health facilities of any kind.

"If a majority of the qualified electors of any county in the state, except Mobile and Jefferson Counties, who participate in an election held therein pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the constitution heretofore adopted shall vote at such election in favor of the levy and collection of a special county tax, within the limitations provided in such amendment, for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes, the proceeds derived from the tax authorized at such election may be applied for any one or more of the purposes for which said tax may be so voted. Whenever the tax shall be voted the governing body of the county may anticipate the proceeds therefrom for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall be voted by issuing, without further election, interest bearing tax anticipation bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said county payable solely from and secured by a pledge of not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax received by the county.

"The governing body of each county in which the said tax may be voted shall have the further power to designate as the agency of the county to acquire, construct, equip, operate and maintain public hospital facilities any public corporation or commission heretofore or hereafter organized for hospital purposes in the county under any general or local law heretofore or hereafter enacted by the Legislature. When a public corporation or commission shall be so designated, the proceeds of said tax thereafter collected shall be paid over to it and shall be used by it for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted; provided, that payment of the proceeds of said tax to said public corporation or commission shall be made only to such extent as will not result in the impairment of the obligation of any contract theretofore made with respect to said tax. Said public corporation or commission may anticipate the proceeds from said tax so required to be paid to it by issuing, for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted. the bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said public corporation or commission, and may pledge for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax so paid to it.

"Each county in which the tax shall be voted, and in the event a public corporation or commission shall have been designated as the agency of such county pursuant to the provisions hereof then said public corporation or commission shall have the power to contract with any other county or similar public corporation or commission with respect to the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities outside of the county and within any zone or region of which the county may be a part, and which may have heretofore been established or may hereafter be established for public hospital purposes by the Legislature or by any agency designated by it, the obligations of such contract to be payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax; provided, that the proceeds of said tax shall not be used outside of the county for any purpose for which the proceeds could not be used in the county, and shall not be used with respect to public hospital facilities located outside of the county if the tax is voted specifically for public hospital facilities located in the county.

"No securities issued or contracts made by a county under the authority of this amendment, which are payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax, and no securities issued or contracts made by any such public corporation or commission, whether or not issued or made under the authority of this amendment, shall be construed to be bonds of the county or of a political subdivision thereof within the meaning of Section 222 of the Constitution, or construed to create or constitute an indebtedness of the county within the meaning of Section 224 of the Constitution. Said securities shall be construed to be negotiable instruments notwithstanding the fact that they may be payable solely from a limited source. All pledges of said tax and all contracts made with respect thereto pursuant to the provisions of this amendment shall take precedence in the order in which they are made and shall create a charge on the proceeds of said tax prior to the expenses of operating and maintaining any public hospital facilities.

"In each instance in which a special county tax for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes has heretofore been authorized at an election held in a county pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the Constitution heretofore adopted, all provisions of this amendment shall be applicable in said county to the same extent as if said election had been held after the adoption of this amendment.

"This amendment shall be self-executing."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

Brantley, Jr. and his two partners have cleared the site, stumped the area and is now in the process of burning the brush and building the dam to cover approximately 80 acres in water. This lake will be used for fish production and recreation. The lake is located between the Mars Hill and Center Hill roads, Northwest of Jemison.

W. W. Alvey, Mineral Springs community, and a cooperator of the Chilton County Soil Conservation District has seeded 10 acres of Kentucky 31 Fescue.

R. T. Carter is in the process of preparing land to make a fall planting of Bahia Grass.

Welby Cooper has reshaped and reseeded his waterways.

Waterline has been run for a farm pond on Brasher Northcutt's farm. He will clear the site and burn brush. Construction will start next spring.

Two small ponds are under construction on the James Wilson-A. R. Taylor farm in Sardis community.

E. C. Williams is in the process of completing his terraces and waterways in the Sardis community.

A Little dit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

IF you see an unfamiliar uniform in the County during the next few days, never fear. . . the four deputies in the Sheriff's office are sporting brand new uniforms, and they look mighty fine. Sheriff Hugh Champion said Tuesday: "I do appreciate the fact that our deputies have uniforms to wear." "I also want to thank the Board of Revenue and Control, as well as the general public, in this matter, and pledge them my continued efforts and support of this County in its growth and develipment."

Next week's News will carry a picture of the deputies in their new uniforms.

SOME communities are not represented by correspondents in the News this week for many reasons. Thankfully, one of them is NOT because we had a mechanical failure. The past weekend has been a nightmare of tragedy for all of us, and things have just gone pretty much to pot. as for getting anything accomplished. The mails being hampered by the tragic events, have also hampered us in getting you the paper on time this week. This was completely unavoidable and we know our readers will understand. Thank you.

HAPPY Thanksgiving, every body!

WORD comes to us that Acie Mims, well known resident of Chilton County, will be with the local Firestone dealership as of next Monday. James Langston of Clanton Home & Auto Supply made this announcement to the News this week. Acie is not only well-known but well liked throughout the County and will be quite an asset to the business.

A welding school for adult farmers will be held beginning Thursday, December 5th at the Verbena High School Vo-Ag Department. This announcement comes from James Dennis, Advisor and they invite any adult farmers in the area to attend this school. "Only a limited number can be accomodated, so you are asked to get your name in as early as possible," said Mr. Dennis. Anyone interested may contact Mr. Dennis or Mr. H. G. Daniel, Principal.

Harold Bolton In Texas With USAF

Airman Harold W. Bolton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillery J. Bolton of Route 1, Jemison, Ala., is being reassigned to Amarillo AFB, Texas for technical training as a United States Air Force supply specialist.

Airman Bolton, who enlisted in the Air Force a short time ago, has completed his initial basic military training here.

He is a 1963 graduate of Jemison High School.

CANCER FACTS:

More school children die from cancer each year than from any other disease. About half of them die from leukemia, which is cancer of the blood-forming tissues. The American Cancer Society is spending more money for research on leukemia than is any other voluntary health organization. Help to continue this research by supporting the Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade.

386 Get Draft Call; December

DIRECTOR Ralph W. Adams said that 386 Alabama youths will be called to the Montgomery Induction Station during December to meet the state's induction quota.

Adams said that the 386 man call is Alabama's share of the national December for 13,000 men. This is a drop from the November nationwide call for 17,000 inductees. All the inductees will be for the Army.

Alabama's quota will include volunteers, delinquents, and unmarried registrants in Class 1-A, or 1-A-O, of 22 years or older. The number of men eyamined and eligible determines the County quotas.

The following numbers will be inducted from this area:

Autauga, 2; Bibb. 0; Chilton, 6; Coosa, 1; Dallas, 2; Elmore, 4; Perry, 2; and Shelby, 6.

Funeral Held For Eugene Rollan

ROLLAN, Eugene, age 37, of Rt. 2, Clanton, Ala., died at his home on Nov. 19, 1963.

A native of Chilton County, his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Reese Richard Rollan. Other survivors are sons Ralph of Clanton; Forrest and Bobby of Anniston; Larry and Ray of Siluria;; 2 daughters, Peggy of Anniston and Patsy of Siluria; one brothey, Roy of Siluria and 3 sisters Mrs. Lorene Dewberry of Childersburg, Mrs. Foster J. Civitans To Hold Inter Club Meet

Dr. Thomas Giltner, Chaplain of Civitan International will be the guest speaker at the November 29th Inter-club meeting to be held at Calera. Dr. Giltner was recently selected president of the Birmingham Ministers Association.

The Calera Civitan Club will host the meeting. Lt. Gov. A. B. Carder of the Wilsonville Club will serve as master of ceremonies. Area clubs that will attend are; Calera, Central Alabaster, Clanton, Columbiana and Wilsonville.

The following Alabama Central District officers will attend: District Governor Thomas Burns of the Woodstock Club, Publicity Director Fred Hubbard of the Eoline Club, Past Gov. Leon Hearn of Birmingham, Gov. Elect Crawford Barrow and Education Chairman Ed Jackson of Homewood and Inter-club Chairman Carr Waldrop of Trussville.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Effie Cooper fell and broke her leg Sunday morning as she got inside the Church at Mulberry. She is in the Chilton County Hospital.

People Shaken by President's Death

Baptists Pledge Support To Our New President

November 25, 1963

The Executive Committee of the Chilton-Unity Baptist Association voted in last Sunday's meeting to send President Lyndon B. Johnson a night letter, a copy of which follows:

President of United States
Washington, D. C.

Executive Committee of Chilton-Unity Association, Alabama Baptist Convention, representing 54 churches, 11.295 members, recognizing your grave responsibilities during these days of national and international crisis, pledge our prayful support as you exercise duties of your office in upholding United States Constitution and leading our nation with Christian ideals.

To the People

THE assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy is one of the great tragedies of our time.

This crime and the manner in which it was committed is totally un-American, and the fact tat this could happen to the leader of the greatest country on earth is beyond belief — doubly so, because it happened in the United States of America.

Not only has this nation lost a President, but the world has lost a leader; a mother and father have lost a son; small children have lost a father; a wife has lost a husband; and brothers and sisters have lost a beloved member of their family.

At this sad moment in the history of our Country, it becomes our patriotic duty to unite behind the leadership of our new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, as he assumes te responsibility of solving the world's great problems.

-s- George D. Smith, Chairman
-s- E. R. Yeargan, Secretary
Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee.

(MONDAY, churches in Chilton County were open; business houses were closed; in honor of our late President, John F. Kennedy.

Some businesses closed all day; some a half day; and practically all were closed from 11 A. M. until noon, for the funeral in Washington.)

FRIDAY, November 22, 1963 was a normal, average day until we returned to work from lunch between 12 noon and 1:00 p.m. The remainder of that day was an emptiness, undescribable, ye very real.

The President of the United States, John F. Kennedy, had been assassinated in Dallas, Texas by a maniac.

The feeling of that day is still with us to some degree. It is a void; as though we had lost a part of ourselves. It is a black time for the United States of America; the most civilized nation in the world; the strongest nation in the world; and, we think. at this particular time, the saddest nation in the world.

Everyone we have talked with about it seems to share the same feeling. They can't believe it has happened; and it leaves them shaken, and washed out; as though it had happened to someone very close to them.

On Monday of this week, just after noon, the President was given his final resting place in Arlington National Cemetery, and an eternal flame lighted near the site.

People around Chilton County have expressed themselves about the terrible week-end that will go down in history as one of our darkets. "I haven't been sleeping well at night since last Friday," said one citizen Monday evening. "It's as though you might wake up any moment and find it is all just a bad dream."

"We didn't like his politics down here", said another; "but I don't think any of us wanted this to happen."

"It doesn't matter who he was, or whether or not you agreed with him; he was still OUR President," says still another.

And that sums it up; he was OUR President. and it seems that the people of Chilton County are deeply saddened and disturbed by the earth-shaking events of the past few days.

Parade cairman Richard Muncher says this is to be one of the largest parades Clanton has ever had. The parade will be led off by the City Police Chief, Wallace Foshee, on horseback. carrying the American flag and the National Guard Color Guard. A car carrying the Parade Chairman and the Jaycee Officers will be followed by the Chilton County High School Band with the majorettes dressed in festive outfits.

The floats will be judged by out of town judges and the winning float will be presented the W. C. Golden trophy to keep until next years parade. The floats entered are: Hemerocallis Garden Club; Fleur de Lis Garden Club; Clanton Garden Club, Study Club of Clanton, Kiwanis Club. Home Demonstration Clubs, Hospital Auxiliary. Civil Defense, Wards Flower Shop, Beta Sigma Phi, Sherwin Williams Paint Co., and the Jaycees float with Santa on it. This Year we are hoping to have several school floats, each carrying a school queen and sponsored by the Band Boosters Club. There will be decorated cars carrying officers of the different clubs and several units of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and Brownies marching. We are hoping to have the Shriners Band and Clows of Montgomery.

The Business and Professional Womens Club will decorate the huge Christmas tree at the City Hall. The Civitans have charge of the street lighting and both will be turned on at the end of the parade to welcome in the Yuletide Season.

Douglas Glass is chairman of the business district decorations and announces that the windows will be judged the night of the parade, by out of town judges.

The home decorations will be judged at a later date. to be announced in next weeks paper. If anyone would like to enter a float, please contace Jaycee President, Bobby Futral or Richard Muncher.

County Paves Church; School Facilities

Judge J. C. White reports that the Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control is paving roads to all our churches and schools just as fast as possible along with our Farm to Market Road Program.

Judge White further states that he and the Board believes that road money spent in paving roads, driveways and parking areas to our churches and schools is one of the best and most appreciated ways of spending our road money.

The above picture is the Lime's Springs Church and Cementery located on the Mt. Bethel and Lime's Springs Church Road finished only last week. This road is only 1.7 miles in length, but it serves Mt. Bethel Church, Lime's Springs Church, the Mt. Zion Church, and several surrounding communities.

The County has done further paving and ground improvements at each of the following churches during the past year (1963): at the Verbena Methodist Church, a driveway and parking area, a driveway at the Verbena Colored Church and work on the grounds around the Verbena Baptist Pastorium, a driveway and parking area was paved at the new Clanton Church of Christ on the Lay Dam Road, a parking area was paved at the Pleasant Valley Baptist Church near Enterprise School and work was done on the parking area at the Bethsalem Baptist Church, gravel and driveway work was done at the Kingdom Hall and the First Baptist Church of Lomar. A parkinb area has just been paved at the Pinedale Church on the Pinedale Road. A parking area has been paved in front of the Jemison Church of God located on the Collin's Fruit Stand Road, North of Highway 31. The Big Springs Colored Church, located in the extension road, presently under construction, from the Chestnut Creek Church Road and Verbena Road wil have paving work done there as the road is completed. Grading has just been completed at the New Salem Baptist Church for a new church.

ABOVE is an example of the work being done on churches in the County by the Board of Revenue and Control. This is just one of the many already completed this year.

The Verbena High School access roads south were paved and also a circle drive wa spaved in front of the main builing. A playground area has been graded at the Isabella High School and another access road graded at the east side of the Chilton County High School Campus. Other work is scheduled to be done at other schools in the very near future, including a football field at the Jemison High School.

Plans are either complete or in the making to place manv more of our fine churches on good paved roads or do driveway and parking area work with in the next six to twelve month. They are as follows. The Oak Grove and Center Hill Churches, the Thompson's Chapel Church, the Mt. Pisgah Methodist Church the New Harmony Primitive Baptist Church, the Jackson's Chapel Church, the Bell Lane Church, the Victor's Chapel Church north of the Cotton Mill, the Maples Springs Church, the Bethel Primitive Baptist Church, the new Mt. Carmel Church north of Isabella, the Pate's Chapel Church west of Thorsby, the Pleasant Hill Colored Church south of Macedonia Baptist Church, also work is being planned to do paving work at the new Pleasant Grove Church and the old Pleasant Grove Church on the Billingsley Highway.

Judge White states in conclusion that he would like to thank each Member of the Board of Revenue and Control, the County Engineer, all county employees and all the fine people in all the named churches, schools, and communities for their fine spirit of harmony and cooperation in helping make it possible for him to make this report to all the fine people of Chilton County.

Late Bulletin

WORD reached the News late Tuesday that Joe VanDerveer who was in the practice of law in Chattanooga, Tennessee, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon of an apparent heart attack.

He has no family that we know of in Chilton County, but his father lived here for many years and his brother, John, now of Selma, was for many years, an employee of the News. Joe's many friends in Clanton will be saddened at this news. He was a very successful businessman, who took time to notice the people with whom he came in contact.

Vacant Stores--

THERE are those folks who don't think much of "Trading At Home"; and there are those who haven't given a second thought to the importance of "Trading At Home"!

It's really a simplified term, which can be easily brought into it's real perspective, if you can manage to get "You" yourself into it. Without. . . the individual consumer . . . "Trading At Home" is just an empty phrase, without a whole lot of meaning.

We hear entirely too much "I can get it two dollars cheaper at the discount store" these days; and too many Chilton Countians are going to Birmingham and Montgomery to do their shopping.

The following editorial, from a small newspaper up north, The West Oak Lane Beacon, points up what we have been shouting about for years now:

"Is the American consumer buying himself into a dead end corner that may deny him needed and sometimes vital services. We recently had an experience that opened our eyes to this possibility.

We are not very apt in the multitude of do it yourself jobs that are becoming increasingly essential for successful suburban life. By good fortune we became acquainted with a local hardware store, where two salesmen always seemed to have unlimited time to discuss our trouble, find the right gadget for us explain its use and application. Somewhere in this store they always had just what we needed. And it neved seemed to make a difference in the time, help, and patience extended, even if the total sale were 25 cents. Our conscience was relieved when we found that our annual purchases, sometimes in big units, came to quite a respectable figure.

Recently, in need of help for a minor repair, we sought our friends and advisers in this hardware store. To our dismay it was dead and empty. Search and inquiry soon showed that there were now no hardware stores in this prosperous community of 15,000 people. Ten years ago there had been three.

Instead, we have nearby a Sears, Roebuck store. with a large and glittering hardware department, all in open display; a big Korvette with a bustling hardware department, and a big new discount store apparently determined to outshine the other two. Unhappily, none of the sales people in these stores had time for our problem, nor did they seem to want to understand it, although a little later a neighbor with amused tolerance fixed the trouble in a few minutes and assured us it was routine. Since then we have discovered that the product we want is not to be found in these stores unless it is something everyone else wants and something that can be picked up and taken to the cash register without fuss and bother. Gone for ever, apparently, are those warm and friendly stores that always seemed to have those odd items you might want occasionally, and the staff people willing to take the time to explain them to you.

Perhaps if it had not been for this experience, we would not have noticed the boasting of another neighbor who had discovered that he could save as much as $4 a month by taking his prescriptions away from the local pharmacy we each go to and giving them to a nearby chain discount operation. The many little things that this local druggist has done for us, in a perfectly businesslike way, have earned some claim for gratitude. For instance, when he is very busy, he seems to know who needs help and service fast and who can wait a little. We have a feeling that we are not numbers, dates, and obscure medical words to him, but human beings, many of us troubled. We feel security in that he or an assistant are always to be found in the store from 9 a.m. until midnight and that a bell ring or a phone call will always find one of them.

Our neighbors who have taken their normal drug business to the discounter, in emergency or when in need of special help, can. of course, still run back to the neighborhood druggist. The trouble is, can they be sure the druggist will be there?"

A New Beginning--

ONLY a few hours after the tragic death of our President, a bearded youth stood on the street in San Francisco and piously pointed at the South. In effect he said: "They did it!"

Nothing gets under our skin, right next to us, like this sort of rot. For all we know this young man has never seen the South, or anything except the sidewalks of San Francisco. It is a certainty that this type of "free thinker" is damaging our way of life in America. He is misguided from the word "go"; and the fact that he wears a beard does not prove him a man; it only proves that he looks like one.

We cannot, in good conscience, jump up on the martyred hero bandwagon and say we supported John F. Kennedy in his political beliefs and ambitions.

We have, editorially, been very critical of some of his methods and intentions. Much to the dismay of some of our own staunch supporters, we have sought to temper our opinions with the belief that John F. Kennedy honestly believed in what he was doing. We still hold that conviction.

We disagreed with Mr. Kennedy to the extent that we would not have supported him next year. However, we do maintain that the man was sincere in his belief that what he was doing was right; and that his loyalty to his country, as he understood it. was unquestionable.

The memory of a martyred statesman is invulnerable to opinion . He is a hero, he will always be a hero, because he died heroically fighting for what he believed to be right. We cannot wish that it be otherwise. In fact, we too, feel that we are fighting for our country. He is therefore a hero to us also. And the glory that comes to one who has given his life for his country, today belongs to John F. Kennedy.

Our sorrow is great; but we cannot help but hold our head a little more erect in the knowledge that a fellow American has paid the supreme price for the freedom that is ours.

"Thirty" is the end; and we hope a new beginning for the people of America.

Our New President--

UNDER the most trying circumstances imaginable, short of global war, Lyndon B. Johnson has become President of The United States of America. May God be with him in this, his time of greatest need.

He has upon his shoulders the awesome task of running the affairs of State of the greatest nation the world has ever known. Our thoughts and prayers are with him.

We believe that he is a wise man, in the ways of his people. We believe that he will exert every conceivable effort to carry this nation forward in the name of God and freedom for all mankind.

We wish him well: this man with much of our fate in his hands: and we hope that he believes as much as we that "The task ahead of us is never as great as the Power behind us."

A Wise Man's Words--

A WISE friend told us the other day that the "secret" of a happy and rewarding life, could be found in these three things:

1. To find patience. And then to practice as well as preach it.

2. To earn friendship. And then deserve and understand it.

3. To develop compassion. And then to spend it freely upon others.

A simple formula of living; which not many of us find; and even fewer seek to use it daily.

★ Come Ye Thankful People ★

WE hear music coming from the church steeple across the way; and the trees and woodlands are singing the song of Thanksgiving.

It is a time of harvest; it is a time of giving Thanks to God for blessings — though unearned — still appreciated.

The warm fires of Winter have begun to glow faintly; and the moon has the face of Old Man Winter — cold and fierce.

Hearts warm up around the Thanksgiving hearth. Many are renewing the Thanks of only yesterday; while others, for the first time in a long year, come to the realization that they DO have something to be Thankful for; and only then feel the urge to properly set aside a time for Thanks giving.

We are a people of many moods. We are blessed with abundance, yet many of us complain of need. We have God with us, yet many of us fail to recognize Him until someone else reminds us of the fact.

And we were born and bred in humility, yet many of us refuse to accept it as a blessing. and we practice the evils of arrogance and conceit.

On other days we may forget the cares of ourselves and the world; but on Thanksgiving Day, we acknowledge them in the presence of God, and we humbly beg his divine guidance in solving our problems and righting the wrongs of mankind and the world.

We put off our petty differences, our grievances against one another and our tendency toward material things.

We feast upon the plenty that has been offered us by the Lord — and we take stock of ourselves.

This is a time of rejoicing. good times, cheerful recognition of each other, and most of all, humble meditation on the things which effect our lives, and the lives of those around us.

We hope your Thanksgiving is filled with the goodness of life and the acceptance of what you have; the renewed Spirit of sharing, and the knowledge that God is with us. . . if we only take time from our selfish ways. . . and listen!

100 YEARS AGO

ALABAMA HEROES AT CHATTANOOGA

One hundred years ago this feek, the Battle of Chattanooga including fierce engagements at Orchard Knobb, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, was ended--a severe loss to the SSoSuth that opene up the way for Sherman's march to the sea in 1864.

Many Alabama soldiers fought bravely at the action around Chattanooga, including such well known Southern heroes at John Tyler Morgan, Zack C. Deas, Archibald Gracie and William H. Fowler.

One heroic Alabamian, Brigadier General Edmund W. Pettus, commanded a brigade consisting of the 20th, 23rd, 30th, 31st, and 46th Alabama Infantry Regiments. In his report on Chattanooga, the Limestone County native called attention to the courage of his men, who "bravely met and repulsed" the enemy. He singled out another Alabama soldier, Captain John McKee Gould, inspector-general of the brigade for particular mention.

Gould had served with Pettus since the beginning of the war when, as a Greene County farmer, he had enlisted in a company mustered in Montgomery under the command of Colonel Isham W. Garrott. Promoted to captain within a year, Gould fought with Garrott at Knoxville and was cited for fearless performance during the battle at Port Gibson, Miss. He served in the trenches and suffered the hardships and suffering of the army during the Federal siege of Vicksburg, where Garrott lost his life in June, 1863.

Assuming command of the company after exchange of the prisoners from Vicksburg, Pettus appointed Gould to his staff where he served during the battles of Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge nad all engagements of the Georgia campaign including Resaca, Kenesaw Mountain and the battles around Atlanta.

According ot Major General C. L. Stevenson, commanding the division in which the brigade served at Chattanooga, "It was Pettus' brigade which first checked an enemy flushed with victory on Lookout Mountain, and held him at bay until ordered to retire."

Hiring Handicapped Is Good Business

Franklin H. James, assistant director of the State Department of Industrial Relations, and secretary of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped today said that emphasis will be placed on organizing the community in the hire the handicapped drive in the coming year.

James made the announcement after returning from Washington, D. C., where he participated in a workshop for secretaries and chairmen of Governors' Committees for Employment of the Handicapped.

"We formulated an action program which will enable the hire the handicapped movement in Alabama to continue making progress. The Washington meeting also provided an opportunity to exchange ideas and viewpoints on such topics as job development in this era of automation, and public relations in promoting employment of the mentally handicapped and building and maintaining community support," James commented on the purpose of the workshop.

He went on to say that employment of the handicapped has a strong supporter in Gov. George Wallace, who has called on the people of Alabama for an increasing awareness of the desirability of hiring the handicapped "who have demonstrated that they are capable workers when placed in jobs suitable to their training, abilities and experience and therefore constitute a valuable segment of this State's manpower."

The committee secretary said that plans are now being made to begin an extensive campaign throughout Alabama for hiring mentally handicapped workers and placing them in jobs which suit their capabilities.

Rev. Neil Glausier, Pastor

Homemakers S. S. Class Met Thursday Night

The Homemakers Sunday School Class met in the home of Mrs. Garland Smith for its regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Wilson Parker, president of the class, called the meeting to order. Mrs. E. C. Lecroy led in prayer. Mrs. James Langston acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Clarence Smith. The business transacted was that of electing 3 group leaders to help remind each member in the class to be at Sunday School each Sunday, and to get new members. The leaders elected were Mrs. Neil Glausier, Mrs. James Calfee, Mrs. Garland Smith. The place, time, etc. of the class's annual Christmas party was discussed, but no definite plans were made. Mrs. Walter Lecroy had charge of the program which was taken from the book "Hymns that Endure." The story of the hymn "Abide With Me", was given by Mrs. Lecroy. Dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Glausier. Refreshments were served by the hostess to sixteen members. The January meeting will be with Mrs. J. C. White.

B. T. U. Social

The Young Adult Training Union class and their families met in the basement of the church on Tuesday night of last week for a supper and a social Barbecued pork was the main dish. After everyone had finished eating they gathere in a circle to play some games, with Mrs. Jessie McCraw in charge of them. Everyone went home saying they had a very enjoyable time.

NEWS OF—
REFUGE

By Rev. M. Lockhart

We come with thankful hearts to almighty God for manifold blessings that are ours to love and appreciate. The pastors subject for the eleven o'clock service last Sunday morning was: "Learning How To Be Thankful." He stated that a person had to learn how to be thankful just as a child had to learn to walk, read or play.

The service here over the week end were indeed deeply spiritual Of Cours, that should always be the case, but it is not. The devil wants to get his slimy tactics right into the middle of the picture, but he can only do what we allow im to do. That has always been the case, and it will always be.

The Christmas Program Committee is swinging right into action with what we believe to be the best program in many years. We are delighted in the manner in which our people are cooperating.

As to our building program; te celotex will be brought in and put up immediately. It is desire to have the interior completely finished before Christmas.

Our pastor, Brother oLckhart, will be here for the morning service next Sunday, but will be away in an ordination service on Sunday night. He will assist his son in law, Rev. J. L. Adams in the ordination of a young minister at the Enon Baptist Church in Shelby Association. The Rev. Stanley Lockhart will bring the evening message here. You are invited to come out and hear him.

The condition of Mr. A. N. Mims remains about the same, but maybe it would suffice us to say that he has good days and bad days.

Donald Mims, son of Mr. A. N. Mims brought in an eight point deer last week from the Coosa Reservation. Some of the other fellows made some good shots, but not good enough.

Don't let the devil rob you of the experience of going out to the Lord's house for worsip.

Cotton Vote Choices Defined

Just what a "yes" or a "no" vote will mean in the Dec 10, referendum on cotton marketing quotas was explained today bf Eddie Owen, Chairman, Chilton County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. All farmers who engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1963 are eligible to vote in the referendum.

The Chairman said that the basic program choices are:

1. If at least two thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve of quotas, the quotas will be in effect for the 1964 upland cotton crop, marketing penalties will apply to any 'excess' cotton produced on a farm. and price support at a level within the range of 65 to 90 percent of parity will be available to farmers who comply with their farm acreage allotments.

2. On the other hand, if more than one third of the growers who vote oppose the quotas, then there will be no quotas and no penalties applicable to the 1964 upland cotton crop, and price support to farmers who comply with their firm acreage allotments will be available at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law.

Allotments are not affected by the outcome of the balloting. They will remain in effect -- whether or not quotas are approved -- as a means of determining eligibility for the available price support.

Mr. Owen pointed out that, while the Secretary of Agriculture is directed by law to proclaim quotas for the next crop when the total cotton supply exceeds normal, it is the growers themselves who decide whether or not quotas shall be used. Previous votes on the subject have been outstandingly favorable. Marketing quotas for the 1963 up land cotton crop were approved by 93.7 percent of the growers voting. .

Allotments for individual farms will be made available to growers within the next few days, so that farmers may have the information prior to the Dec. 10 referendum.

Hilyer-Gray Vows Said

Mrs. Joseph V. Theis of St. became the bride of Raymond Eugene Hilyer on November 9th in the chapel of the First Baptist church at 5 o'clock. Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, pastor of the church officiated. .

Wedding music was presented by Miss Sandra Searcy, pianist. She also accompahied Miss Linda Carrill, soprano, who sang The Lord's Prayer.

For this occasion the chapel was adorned with fan shaped arrangements of specimen white mums and gladioli, flanked by tiered candelabra holding tall burning white tapers.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zebbie Gray was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she wore a gown fashioned of white damask brocade treated with deft simplicity. The skirt front was gently curved with unpressed pleats, releasing at the side and back fullness which extended into a chapel train. The bodice featured long fitted sleeves and an invented sweetheart neckline. Her finger tip veil of imported illusion was caught to her toque tiera, and she carried a cascade of white mums and orses, centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Joseph V. Theirs of St Louis, Mo., wore a street length sheath of parakeet brocade defined with a matching satin side drape. Her colonial nosegay was designed of aqua colored pompom mums.

The bridegroom, son if Mr. and Mrs. J. Fonza Hilver of Jemison, chose his brother, Robert Hilyer of Birmingham, as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gray was attired in a tailored Navy wool suit. Mrs. Hilyer wore a suit of green brocade. Their corsages were of white rosebuds:

After the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church dining room which was decorated with white floral arrangements accented with burning white tapers in tiered candelabra.

The bride's table, spread with a green cloth was overlaid with white lace, and marked with the tiered white wedding cake. The cake was beautifully embossed with white roses and wedding bells, and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. Wayne McKinnon, Miss Ann Thompson, Miss Carol Young and Mrs. William Weatherly of Birmingham. Miss Judy Lawrence presided at the guest book.

For a wedding . trip to the Smokies, the new Mrs. Hilyer was wearing a suit of Champagne pink light weight wool with matching accessories and the orchid from her bridal boquet.

The couple are at home in Birmingham.

KEMP - HEBERT VOWS SAID

The marriage of Miss Yvonné Marie Hebert to James Thomas Kemp was an event of early fall in Thibodaux, La. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Wester officiated at the ceremony on Saturday, September 21, 1963 at 11:00 a.m. at St. Charles Catholic Church. Miss Margaret Toups at the organ presented the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she chose a suit of blue gray wool featuring elbow length sleeves and slim skirt. A blouse of printed silk completed her costume. She wore a gray beaver fur hat and matching gray accessories. Her bouquet was an old fashioned nosegay of yellow and gold mums centered with a yellow orchid.

Miss Betty Ann Hebert was her sister's only attendant. She wore a cranberry wool suit with printed silk blouse. matching hat and accessories. Her flower were bronze mums.

Mr. Frank Dawson of Monroe, La., was the best man and Mr. Murphy Herbert, brother of the bride, was usher.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Kemp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scuddy J. Hebert. Her grandparents are Mr and Mrs. Philip Hebert and Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Use' also of Thibodaux, La.

Mr. Kemp is the son of Mrs. J. R. Kemp of Sylacauga, Alabama and the late Mr. Kemp. His grandparents are the late Mrs. Callie R. Munroe and J. T. Munroe, Sr., and Mr and Mrs.. Thomas W.. Kemp of Clanton. Alabama.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"No incorporated municipality in Mobile County shall have power to levy, impose, or collect a privilege license tax upon or in respect of the employees of an employer which is measured by or based on income derived from wages, salaries, commissions, or bonuses, for personal services rendered, unless the levying thereof shall have been authorized before the enactment of such ordinance by a vote of the duly qualified electors of the city or town at an election held for such purpose, in the manner prescribed by the city or town council or commission."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"Section 1. In addition to any taxes now authorized, or that may be hereafter authorized, by the Constitution and laws of Alabama, there is hereby levied a special school tax of fifty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in the school Tax District of the City of Huntsville in Madison County to be used solely for public school purposes; provided the levy of said tax shall first have been approved by the qualified electors of the School District as hereinafter provided.

"Section 2. The proceeds of said tax shall be used exclusively for constructing and improving school buildings and acquiring sites therefor in the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville, Alabama.

"Section 3. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote in favor of the adoption of this amendment when it is submitted, the additional tax provided for in Section 1 shall be levied and collected for a period of thirty years without any other election having been held hereon. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote against its approval, the tax shall not be levied unless the rate of the tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been again submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville and voted for by a majority of those voting at the election. Subsequent elections may be held at intervals of not less than one year and shall be called, held, conducted, paid for, and governed otherwise in the manner provided for an election on the school district tax authorized in Constitutional Amendment III."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

"AMENDMENT______

"Clarke County and the incorporated muncipalities therein, jointly or severally, after an election held in accordance herewith shall have full and continuing power and authority to:

"1. Purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. Lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, or give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. Promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses therein.

"4. Become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. Lend its credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. Become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the county or municipality or may be limited as to the sources of their payment.

"7. Levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent of the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the county or in any municipality in Clarke County or upon all property in any district to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. Pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. Create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body and subject to such limitations as the governing body of Clarke County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the Judge of Probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the county or any municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of Clarke County or any municipality therein for the purpose of determining their borrowing capacity under Sections 224 and 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature may enact laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

Neither the county nor any municipality therein shall make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the locality affected thereby. The governing body of the county or any municipality may provide for holding such elections, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Second Special Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The Legislature shall have power to levy and provide for the collection of taxes for state purposes on net income of corporations, from whatever source derived, for the calendar year 1963, or for any fiscal year beginning in the calendar year 1963, and each year thereafter, at a rate not exceeding five percent. However, all federal income taxes paid or accrued within the taxable year by corporations shall always be deductible in computing net income taxable under the income tax laws of this state, provided that in the case of foreign corporations the amount of federal income tax deductible shall be in proportion to income derived from sources within Alabama, to be determined in accordance with such laws as the legislature may enact."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, adminisrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemnities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

Call Fonzie T. Willams, phone 159-J1, he is thoroughly versed in the program. T. E. Blackmon, 277-W1, or call at the office on Monday or Fridays 101 Courthouse.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is authorized to become indebted for improvements at the Alabama State Docks and the refunding of State Docks revenue bonds, and in evidence of the indebtedness so incurred to issue and sell, in addition to all other bonds of the State, interest bearing general obligation bonds of the State not exceeding ten million dollars ($10,000,000) in principal amount. The full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged to the prompt and faithful payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon. The Alabama State Docks Department (which term as used herein shall be construed to include any other agency of the State that may succeed to said Department's functions) shall pledge and use so much of the revenues derived from its seaport facilities as may be necessary to pay at their maturities the principal of and interest on said bonds, and may pledge, agree to use, and use so much of said revenues as the said Department with the approval of the Governor may determine shall be necessary or desirable to build up and maintain reserves for the payment of said principal and interest and for the maintenance, replacement and improvement of its seaport facilities. The proceeds from the sale of any such bonds shall, after payment of the reasonable and necessary expenses of their issuance, be set aside in a special fund in the State Treasury and shall be paid out to the Alabama State Docks Department upon authorization by the Governor and shall be held by the said Department in a special trust fund designated "State Docks Bond Fund" and therefrom be disbursed as follows:

"(a) not exceeding $3,000,000 may be used to pay the reasonable and necessary costs of constructing and equipping works of internal improvement for use and operation as a part of the State Docks facilities; provided that, if said Department shall have issued subsequent to July 1, 1963, any notes in anticipation of the sale of bonds for any of said purposes, then so much as may be necessary, not exceeding $1,000,000, of said $3,000,000 shall be used to retire or refund said notes; and

"(b) not exceeding $7,000,000 may be used to refund and provide for the retirement of all or such part of the outstanding revenue bonds heretofore issued by said Department as the Director thereof, with the approval of the Governor, shall deem advantageous, including payment of any redemption premiums required under the terms of said outstanding bonds to be paid in order to effect redemption thereof prior to their maturities; provided, that pending any redemption date or dates on which the outstanding bonds so refunded can be redeemed under their terms, any part of said $7,000,000 and any other funds of the said Department may be invested in securities that are direct obligations of the United States of America, and such securities may be deposited by said Department under irrevocable trust agreements, which said Department is hereby authorized to enter into with any corporate trustee, and used to pay principal, interest and redemption premiums on said outstanding bonds.

"Alabama State Docks Department is hereby vested with full authority, except as limited herein, to prescribe the terms of the bonds and to provide for the issuance and sale thereof. The bonds may be sold, executed and delivered at any time and from time to time, may be in such forms, denominations, series and numbers, may be of such tenor and maturities, may bear such date or dates, may be in registered or bearer form either as to principal or interest or both, with rights of conversion into another form, may be payable in such installments and at such place or places, may bear interest at such rate or rates, payable and evidenced in such manner, and may contain provisions for redemption at the option of the State to be exercised by the State Docks Department at such date or dates prior to their maturity and upon payment of such redemption price or prices, all as shall be provided by the said Department in the order or orders under which the bonds are issued. The principal of each series of bonds shall mature in annual installments in such amounts as shall be specified in the authorizing order or orders, the first of which installments shall mature not later than one year after the date of the bonds of such series and the last of which installments shall mature not later than twenty years after the date of the bonds of the same series. The largest installment of principal and interest maturing on each series of the bonds in any one year shall not exceed twice the preceding smallest installment of principal and interest maturing thereon in any prior year. None of the bonds shall be sold for less than face value plus accrued interest thereon to the date of delivery. The bonds shall be sold only at public sale or sales, either on sealed bids or at auction, after such advertisements as may be prescribed by the said Department to the bidder whose bid reflects the lowest net interest cost to the State computed to the respective maturities of the bonds sold; provided, that if no bids deemed acceptable by the said Department is received all bids may be rejected.

"The bonds shall be signed in the name of the State by the Governor and countersigned by the State Docks Director, and the Great Seal of the State of Alabama or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed, printed or otherwise reproduced thereon and shall be attested by the signature of the Secretary of State; provided, that facsimile signatures of any one or any two (but not all) of said officers may be reproduced on any of such bonds in lieu of being manually signed thereon. Coupons attached to the bonds and representing installments of interest thereon shall be signed with the facsimile signature of the State Treasurer, which facsimile signature shall constitute due and sufficient authentication of said coupons.

"All bonds issued under the provisions of this amendment, together with the interest income thereon, shall forever be exempt from taxation in this State.

"The authorization to incur debt and issue bonds contained in this amendment shall supersede and take the place of any authorization for Alabama State Docks Department to issue revenue bonds granted by act of the Legislature in effect on the effective date of this amendment.

"The provisions of this amendment shall be self-executing and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1, 1963.

"Section 181. The following persons and no others who, if they are citizens of the United States over the age of twenty-one years and have the qualifications as to residence prescribed in Section 178 of this article, shall be qualified to register as electors provided they shall not be disqualified under Section 182 of this constitution; those who can read and write any article of the constitution of the United States in the English language which may be submitted to them by the board of registrars, provided, however, no persons shall be entitled to register as electors except those who are of good character and who embrace the duties and obligations of citizenship under the constitution of the United States and under the Constitution of the State of Alabama, and provided further, that in order to aid the members of the boards of registrars, who are hereby constituted and declared to be judicial officers, to judicially determine if applicants to register have the qualifications hereinabove set out, each applicant shall be furnished by the board of registrars a written application form and a sealed examination, which shall be uniform in all cases with no discrimination as between applicants. The form and contents of such application form and sealed examination shall be prescribed by a state board of examiners for voter registration to be appointed by the Legislative Council of Alabama, which application shall be so worded that the answers thereto will place before the board of registrars information necessary or proper to aid them to pass upon the qualifications of each applicant, and which examination shall be graded by the state board of examiners for voter registration which must certify to the several boards of registrars of the state whether or not each applicant, who shall be designated by number only, has passed or has not passed the examination. The examination shall be provided and shall be administered as provided for by the legislature. Provided, in no event shall the intelligence level required of the applicant for registration be less than that required to serve as a member of the armed forces of the United States as determined by written examination. The application shall be answered in writing by the applicant in the presence of the board without assistance, and there shall be incorporated in such answer an oath to support and defend the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Alabama and a statement in such oath by the applicant disavowing belief in or affiliation at any time with any group or party which advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States or the State of Alabama by unlawful means, which answers and oath shall be duly signed and sworn to by the applicant before a member of the county board of registrars. Such application and written answers of the applicant thereto shall be filed with the records of the respective boards of registrars and such examination shall be filed with the records of the state board of examiners.

"The board may receive information respecting the applicant and the truthfulness of any information furnished by him, Provided further, that if solely because of physical handicaps the applicant is unable to read or write, then he shall be exempt from the above stated requirements which he is unable to meet because of such physical handicap, and in such cases a member of the board of registrars shall read to the applicant the questionnaire and oaths herein provided for and the applicant's answers thereto shall be written down by such board member, and the applicant shall be registered as a voter if he meets all other requirements herein set out."

THIRTEEN

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provision of the Constitution or laws of the State of Alabama to the contrary notwithstanding, the municipality of York in Sumter County shall have full and continuing power and authority, after an election held in accordance herewith, to do any one or more of the following:

"1. To purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. To lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. To promote local industrial, commercial or agricultural development and the location of new industries or business therein.

"4. To become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. To lend this credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. To become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences or indebtedness, to a principal amount not exceeding fifty percent of the assessed value of taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the municipality of York, or may be limited as to the source of their payment.

"7. To levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent on the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the municipality of York in Sumter County, or upon all property in any district the boundaries of which the governing body of such municipality shall describe and which it shall determine to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of said tax.

"8. To pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. To create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body, and subject to such limitations as the governing body of the municipality of York in Sumter County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the judge of probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of the municipality of York in Sumter County for the purpose of determining the borrowing capacity of the county under Section 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in Section 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the right and power by general, special or local act to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

"10. The municipality of York in Sumter County shall not make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality. The governing body of the municipality may provide for holding such election, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

"Not withstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the Legislature may hereafter, by general law, provide for the promotion of the production, distribution, marketing and use of poultry and poultry products. The Legislature may provide for the promotion of poultry and poultry products and the poultry industry by research, education, advertising and other methods and the Legislature is further authorized to provide means and methods for the financing of any such promotional activity by prescribing a procedure whereby producers, owners or growers of poultry may by referendum held among such producers, owners or growers of poultry in this State levy upon themselves and collect assessments, fees, or charges upon the sale of poultry and poultry products for the financing of any such promotional program or activity in cooperation with processors, dealers, handlers and other buyers of poultry and poultry products. Provided, no assessment levied hereunder shall exceed one cent (1¢) per hen or other domesticated fowl or any other classes of poultry sold by producers thereof. The Legislature is authorized to make provisions for nonpayment and for the refund of assessments levied upon owners, producers or growers of poultry to any such person who does not desire to participate in the promotional program. The Legislature shall provide for the collection and distribution of assessments or charges authorized hereunder and to provide penalties for failure to make such collection and distribution of assessments. The Legislature shall provide for the designation of a nonprofit association or organization organized for the promotion and betterment of poultry and poultry products in Alabama to administer and carry out such promotional program which shall include conducting elections or referendums among producers, owners or growers of poultry. The Legislature shall further provide for the deposit, withdrawal, disbursement and expenditure by the designated association of any funds received subject to the supervision and control of the activities authorized herein by the Department of Agriculture and Industries and the State Board of Agriculture and Industries. Assessments, fees or other charges collected as authorized by any legislative act adopted under authority hereof shall not be considered as a tax within the meaning of this Constitution or any provision thereof. Any uniformity requirements of this Constitution shall be satisfied by the application of the program upon poultry and poultry products."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"(1) Marion County shall have full and continuing power and authority, notwithstanding the provisions of Sections 94, 215, 222 and 224 of this Constitution, to do and perform any act and to engage in any activity that municipalities in said county are authorized to do, perform and engage in under the provisions of the amendment to this Constitution that was proposed by Act No. 1 adopted at the Second Special Session of 1950 of the Legislature of Alabama (commonly referred to as Amendment LXXXIV), including specifically, without limiting the generality of the foregoing the power to become indebted and in evidence thereof to issue bonds, warrants and other securities of said county for any of the purposes for which municipalities may issue securities under said amendment, and the power to levy ad valorem taxes in said county to pay the principal of and interest on said securities; provided, that the total principal amount of said securities at any time outstanding shall not exceed fifty per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in said county as assessed for state taxation, and the taxes so levied shall not exceed two per cent per annum of said assessed valuation; and provided further, that said county shall not exercise any of said powers unless and until a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at an election held for such purpose shall have approved the exercise by said county of said powers, which election shall be called by the governing body of said county and held as nearly as may be practicable in accordance with the general laws of the state at the time in effect pertaining to the election on the issuance of county bonds. Said election may be held at any time and if at said election a majority of the electors voting thereat do not approve the exercise by said county of said powers, another election may be held hereunder at any time and from time to time thereafter. If at any such other election a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at such election shall approve the exercise by said county of said powers, said county may thereafter, from time to time and at any time and without the necessity of any further election, exercise any or all of said powers as its governing body may deem advisable.

"(2) This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the power, by general or local act, to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes hereof. The governing body of the county shall have power to adopt such resolutions and orders as may be necessary to implement and enforce this amendment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

TB Campaign Begins Here

The annual Christmas Seal Campaign in Chilton County received its traditional send off Friday, November 15, with the general mailing of Christmas Seals to residents. Proceeds of the campaign will be used by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association to combat TB and other respiratory diseases.

Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Christmas Seal Chairman, said that millions of lives have been saved since the first contribution was made for a Christmas Seal. "But the saving of lives is not enough." "We are also continuing to wage a relentless fight against the suffering, tragedy. loss of time and money that result from TB and other diseases that affect breathing. Many of these other respiratory diseases are not only gravely harmful in themselves, but increase susceptibility to TB".

Figures released by the United States Public Health Service show that Respiratory Disease ranks first among disablers of people and fourth among causes of death. We must expend our efforts to find the hidden cases of tuberculosis and other respiratory disease in this community. One of our goals is to alert every person to the fact that chronic cough and shortness of breath, most common symptoms of respiratory disease, may indicate the presence of a serious ailment and require the advice of a physician. We must also put more money into medical research to find better ways of fighting TB and other Respiratory Disease. Let's keep our County healthy.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"This amendment shall apply in all counties except Mobile and Jefferson Counties. The term 'public hospital purposes' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities. The term 'public hospital facilities' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include public hospitals, public clinics, public health centers, nurses' homes and training facilities, and related public health facilities of any kind.

"If a majority of the qualified electors of any county in the state, except Mobile and Jefferson Counties, who participate in an election held therein pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the constitution heretofore adopted shall vote at such election in favor of the levy and collection of a special county tax, within the limitations provided in such amendment, for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes, the proceeds derived from the tax authorized at such election may be applied for any one or more of the purposes for which said tax may be so voted. Whenever the tax shall be voted the governing body of the county may anticipate the proceeds therefrom for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall be voted by issuing, without further election, interest bearing tax anticipation bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said county payable solely from and secured by a pledge of not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax received by the county.

"The governing body of each county in which the said tax may be voted shall have the further power to designate as the agency of the county to acquire, construct, equip, operate and maintain public hospital facilities any public corporation or commission heretofore or hereafter organized for hospital purposes in the county under any general or local law heretofore or hereafter enacted by the Legislature. When a public corporation or commission shall be so designated, the proceeds of said tax thereafter collected shall be paid over to it and shall be used by it for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted; provided, that payment of the proceeds of said tax to said public corporation or commission shall be made only to such extent as will not result in the impairment of the obligation of any contract theretofore made with respect to said tax. Said public corporation or commission may anticipate the proceeds from said tax so required to be paid to it by issuing, for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted. the bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said public corporation or commission, and may pledge for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax so paid to it.

"Each county in which the tax shall be voted, and in the event a public corporation or commission shall have been designated as the agency of such county pursuant to the provisions hereof then said public corporation or commission shall have the power to contract with any other county or similar public corporation or commission with respect to the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities outside of the county and within any zone or region of which the county may be a part, and which may have heretofore been established or may hereafter be established for public hospital purposes by the Legislature or by any agency designated by it, the obligations of such contract to be payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax; provided, that the proceeds of said tax shall not be used outside of the county for any purpose for which the proceeds could not be used in the county, and shall not be used with respect to public hospital facilities located outside of the county if the tax is voted specifically for public hospital facilities located in the county.

"No securities issued or contracts made by a county under the authority of this amendment, which are payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax, and no securities issued or contracts made by any such public corporation or commission, whether or not issued or made under the authority of this amendment, shall be construed to be bonds of the county or of a political subdivision thereof within the meaning of Section 222 of the Constitution, or construed to create or constitute an indebtedness of the county within the meaning of Section 224 of the Constitution. Said securities shall be construed to be negotiable instruments notwithstanding the fact that they may be payable solely from a limited source. All pledges of said tax and all contracts made with respect thereto pursuant to the provisions of this amendment shall take precedence in the order in which they are made and shall create a charge on the proceeds of said tax prior to the expenses of operating and maintaining any public hospital facilities.

"In each instance in which a special county tax for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes has heretofore been authorized at an election held in a county pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the Constitution heretofore adopted, all provisions of this amendment shall be applicable in said county to the same extent as if said election had been held after the adoption of this amendment.

"This amendment shall be self-executing."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Proclamation No. 4

Legion Sponsors 27th Annual High School Oratorical Contest

The American Legion's State Commander Alton S. Wright of Dadeville, Alabama, announces the 27th Annual High School Oratorical contest.

Joining with State Commander Alton Wright in announcing this contest. Dr. Austin R. Meadows, State Superintendent of Education, made the following statement.

"The American Legion Oratorical contest is one of the highlights if high school student participation in study and speaking on the great American dream which has brought us all the way from Colony life as a subject if Great Britian to the greatest free nation on earth. The Oratorical contest is on the constitution of the United States which has declared by the great English statesman Gladstone as the greatest document ever penned by the hand of man. The Constitution of this great Republic is constantly being amended and interpreted and every American citizen has a deep obligation to understand this great document to the best of his and her abilities. One of the best ways to understand this great form of American representative democracy is to join in ortorical contests with other people in the effort to be the best in the interpretation of his great Constitution.

The American Legion is rendering an outstanding service to American education in sponsoring this highly important oratorical contest. It is a privilege and an honor to urge every senior high school principal to join in this important contest. The American Legion has pledged its full cooperation in carrying out the new state law which requires beginning with the opening of school in 1964, the teaching of the advantages of the American system of representative democracy over communism. The American Legion Oratorical contest is an important introduction to the work that is to follow throughout the high schools in Alabama."

State Commander Wright in announcing the 27th Annual High School Oratorical contest states that high school students in Alabama will compete for more than $1,000.00 in scholarship awards in the State of Alabama, and the state winner will then compete in the National contest where more than $8,000.00 scholarship awards will be granted.

Last year Miss Jerri Russell, West 5nd High School, Birmingham, the 1963 State winner of Oratorical contest, received as awards more than $600.00 in scholarship money.

The Oratorical contest starts at the school level with competition being completed by February 17 and continues on the county level which is completed by February 21. The District contests are completed by February 28 and the area contest completed by March 6. Following the area contest the State champion contest will be broadcast over the Alabama Educational Television network and the State champion will represent Alabama in the National contest.

JEMISON NEWS

By Mrs. George Naish

Baptist Choir Entertained

The beauty of the woodland were used to decorate the dining room of the Baptist church. on Wednesday night, November 20, when the church choir was entertained.

A massive arrangement of red leaves, yellow and red mums was used on the piano. On the recessed window between the dining room and kitchen were magnolia sprays, ornamented squash and yellow mums. In the corner near the refreshment table was a long necked pumpkins. red leaves and ornamented pepper plant.

A horn of plenty. with fruits. nuts and vegetables spilling ou ornamented the refreshment table, spread with a pink linen, covered with lace. Autumn leaves formed a row down the center of the table.

Mrs. H. C. Reeves and Mrs. M. E. Guy, hostesses, served chips, kurls, pound cake, one coke ornamented with red cherries, the other lemon supreme. Chocolate colored mihts, coffee and cold drinks were served with the coke. Favors were gold covered mints.

Mt. Pleasant News

Rev. Fred L. Lowery Jr. Pastor

Rev. Fredy Lowery was the guest of the Marlin Patterson family Sunday.

This past Sunday afternoon our church held prayer services for our country, the sick and aged, for the family of the late President Kennedy and President Johnson. There was a good attendande.

A poem found in an Agriculture magazine is as follows:

A Garden for the New Year

In my good garden I would first plant five rows of peas: Preparedness, promptness, Perservance, politeness and prayer.

Next to them I plant three row of Squash: Squash gossip. squash criticism, squash indifference.

Then I put in five rows of Lettuce: Let us be faithful; let us be unselfish; let us be loyal; let us love one another; let us be truthful.

No garden is complete without Turnips and mine would have: Turn up for church; turn up with a smile; turn up with a new idea; turn up with real determination.

At the night services we watched a film on Communism. Every one enjoyed this lesson as we all need to know and understand Communism in order to fight it.

Bro. Wayne McCullar will be our speaker Sunday at the noon hour.

Another film on Communism will be shown this Wednesday night and another next Sunday night.

Don't forget M night, December 2, at Chilton County High at 7:30 p.m.

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

MR. R. L. Kinney informs us that he and the Missus spent Thanksgiving in Greensboro, N.C. with son Cecil D. (Bobbf) Kinney and his wife and two daughters. Bobby is an old school chum of ours whom we haven't seen for many moons. He's in the insurance business we understand; and they made a real reunion of the Thanksgiving holidays this year. Mrs. F. A. Mercy and two sons joined the Kinneys at the time. She is their daughter, the former Rosa Lee Kinney. Glad they enjoyed the Holidays together.

UNDERSTAND Mr. "Bull" Hays is planning new quarters for his business. It will be located next door to the new Sumrall Trim Shop and across the street from Bobby's new American Station. Now if that isn't a bunch of free advertising all in one wad! You'd think we were Old Saint Nick himself.

BY the way, that property we mentioned above is the old R. J. Billingsley property. on Highway 31, North.

GOT a chance to talk with Mr M. J. Bates Tuesday. He's doing very well after a close call a month or so ago. .He's out pounding the same beat. and says he is O.K. except he has to take it a bit easier than before. For our money, Mr. Bates is about as fine a guy as there is around here or anywhere. and we were mighty glad to see him up and about again. Our judge of character must not be too bad. . . you know what they say about "keeping a good man down". . . it just can't be done!

THE best way to "finish" a good book, is to loan it to a friend! ,

OUR friend Peggy Murrah informed us a bit late last week that the Class of '48, CCHS, would hold their second reunion last Saturday night. The event was held at the Holiday Inn. We would like to publish a list of those who attended. It would make interesting reading to those members of the Class, possibly away from home, who were unable to attend.

SHADES of John Quincy Adams. We did it again! One line of type, strategically placed in the wrong one, last week, completely disintegrated a lovely story concerning the lovely bride -daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Gray. To make amends. we are publishing the picture with correct information this week. It isn't as though it didn't happen; but it's the nearest we can come. Our apologies to the Gray's, and best wishes to the new couple.

WALES Roy Kendrick, Jr., of Thorsby, informs us that the Chilton Choral Society, is making great strides toward being organized and on it's glorious way. This is something which we take great interest in. for it will add greatly to the cultural life of our County. We look forward to its development. They seem to think they will be well underway by January 1st, and will be able to present something in the way of a Spring or Easter program. ,

CLIFFORD Jones, an avid fan of a certain university that left something to be desired in a football game last week. is wondering where the casket came from. That's right. we said casket! When he returned from the fatal game last Saturday, there was a casket in his front door and we believe the inscription was "Tigerized" or "War Eagle" or something like that. Needless to say, Clifford is looking for the appropriate "body" which he will place in said "box" – if he catches 'em!

ONCE again, our good friend Mr. Pope Payne, Sr. and his wife have made their annual migration to Ft. Lauderdale. Fla We're sending him the News down there. and he will be back the first of April. He said "I hope y'all don't freeze up up here this winter!" Us too. do, Mr. Pope! Good luck, and happy fishin'.

More men than women died of cancer last year. according to the American Cancer Society. This has een true since 1949. The rate in 1963 will be about 54 men ta 46 women. Support the 1963 Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

Deputies Sport New Uniforms--

IT is with great pleasure that the News is the first to publicly announce (and show) the new uniforms, purchased by the Board of Revenue & Control, for Chilton's Deputy Sheriffs.

Need A Name; And You May Help!

CHILTON, Autauga and Bibb counties are now blessed with a Regional Library service, and we need a name for it.

According to Mrs. Hugh Champion, member of the Board of Directors, some of the other Regional systems in the State are: Wheeler Basin, Horseshoe Bend, Cross Trails, and Kenneth Roberts Regional Library services.

You are invited to give your suggestion on naming the new one. Judges on the naming are: Mrs. Omar Reynolds, chairman. Jon Will Pitts, Burton Mullins. and Mrs. Sara Palmer. You are requested to get your suggestion in not later than December 11th. Send it to Mrs. Hugh Champion, Clanton, Alabama. You may have the honor of naming the new Regional Library, which promises to mean so much to Chilton County.

How about "Aut-Bib-Chi". Naw, you can do better than that. Remember, not later than December 11th.

CCHS PTA

THE Chilton County High School PTA will meet on December 10 at 3:15 p.m. in the library. There will be a musical program and a Christmas tea. We urge all parents to attend this meeting and get in the Christmas spirit.

Thanks From Rescue Squad

We, the members of the local Rescue Squad would like to thank the people who helped us in the road block last Sunday. We collected $420.00 for the Mental Retarded School and Mental Health Program in Chilton County.

We also sold refreshments last Friday night at the singing and proceeds went to the Mentally Retarded School. The Rescue Squad is always willing to do their share for the needy of this and other Counties.

State C Of C Board Endorses Amendment No. 1

ACCORDING to information received by the News early this week the Board of Directors of the State Chamner of Commerce has gone on record endorsing the passage of Amendment No. 1, to be voted upon next Tuesday.

This word comes through the Association of County Commissioners of Alabama, according to our information.

For a full account of just what Amendment No. 1 is all about, see inside this issue of the News.

Friday Is 'Santa Day'

Clanton Ready For Be-whiskered Friend

THE Clanton Jaycee's will welcome in the Christmas Season with their annual parade, Friday, December 6, 1963, at 4:00 o'clock. This year's parade is to be one of the largest the Jaycees have ever had.

The Parade route will start at the Willingham Hotel, to Jackson Street, cross Highway 31 to the Dixie Super Store, up 6th St. to 4th Ave. and back down 7th Street to Upchurch corner, and turn on 2nd Ave. to the City Hall.

The Civitan Club has the Christmas Lights all ready and the Business and Professional Women's Club will decorate the large Christmas tree at the City Hall and both will be turned on at the end of the Parade.

The floats will be judged by out of town judges with the winning float being presented the Dr. W. C. Golden trophy by Mrs. Golden. The floats entered are: The Hemerocallis Garden Club Clanton Garden Club, Fleur de Lis Garden Club, Clanton Study Club, Kiwanis Club, Home Demonstration Club's, Hospital Auxiliary, Civil Defense, Ward's Flower Shop, Beta Sigma Phi, Bobby Lane Train, Jaycees. Cars entered are: Woman's Study Club, Music Club, American Legion and Auxiliary, Pilot Club, Jaycee Officers, Peach Queen, Stokes Chevrolet, Martin Funeral Home, Spigener Funeral Home. Marching units are: Band, National Guard Color Guard. American Legion Color Guard, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies and the Civil Defense.

Richard Muncher is the Jaycee Parade Chairman again this year, Douglas Glass is chairman of the Business Decorations, Joe Ellison is float chairman. The Business Decorations will be judged the night of the parade, also by out of town judges. The Home Decorations will be judged Friday night, December 13, 1963.

Santa and his reindeer will be on the last float throwing candy to all the little boys and girls that come out to see the parade Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

Waiting to Greet You!

ALL set to wish you a "Merry Christmas" at their Grand Opening Saturday, are the employees of your Western Auto Associate Store here in Clanton. You have never seen such an array, and display of toys and holiday merchandise, as is on the counters and in the shelves at Western Auto.

Chilton Behind Quota In 1963 Bond Drive

Thad Holt, State Chairman, announced today that Alabama Series E and H Savings Bonds sales totalled $3,720,324 in October - bringing the sales to date to $38,152,901 or 84.2% of the state's 1963 goal.

Nationally bond sales were the best for any October in eight years - since 1955. The Treasury reported October E and H sales combined totalled $395 million. This was 11.3% above those of a year ago.

Eight counties - Chambers, Colbert, Coosa, Crenshaw, Dale, Lauderdale, Lee and Madison - have exceeded their 1963 goals.

Chilton Countf sales in October amounted to $18,449 or 67.5% of the fear's goal, reported by C. O. Jones, County Chairman.

New Look At Shelton's

PICTURED immediately to your left is Ross Robinson, new head of the paint and body department at Shelton Motors. Robinson is skilled in this type of work and their new quarters (also pictured) are second to none in modern facilities. They invite you to come by and inspect their brand new building, and to meet Mr. Robinson.

Voting Machines--

SEVERAL months ago, the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County deliberated at length and seriously, the possibilities of acquiring voting machines for this County.

Reasons were many; but the most outstanding in most everybody's mind was "to clean up elections in this County." This newspaper is very much interested in this theory becoming a reality. In the past, we have had too much talk (and in fact, verbal proof) of misconduct in the handling of elections, and the actions of individual voters on election day.

In fact, the most recent election (1962) in this County carried with it widespread rumor and accusation of stealing votes, and bribing voters, not to mention the actual "buying" of votes at the polls.

This is a distressing situation which cannot be condoned, and should not be overlooked or pushed to the sidelines. If a voter cannot vote his honest convictions without fear of being approached by a "fast buck" candidate, or friend of one; and if a man cannot run for public office--spending his own money on an honest campaign--without fear of dishonest voters "selling" their birthrights; then it is time we did something about it.

We cannot expect honest elections; nor can we hope for honest men to continue in office, if we allow the thug element. the crook, the "all-for-me" boys to run-and ruin--our elections.

From the experience of talking with others who have already tackled this problem, the best way to lick it seems to be with voting machines. It would be much more ideal if we could say, we converted the crooks, and now we have honest elections; but we have to settle for the practical solution of beating them at their own game. In other words: making it as near impossible as it is humanly possible to make it, to foul an election, or to buy a vote!

Regardless of how naieve you may be, or how honest you may think everyone is, the fact remains that Chilton County will make much greater, faster, political and economical progress, after we have purchased voting machines.

And the sooner the better!

The Christmas Spirit--

WELL, we now have one of the two big holidays of the year securely under our belt (and we mean literally) and we set our sights and expectations on the thrill of the visit of the old man with the beard, Santa Claus!

Christmas is just around the corner, with all it's gift-giving, making merry, and exhorbitant spending on the part of the "better halves" of breadwinners all over the country. It all turns out pretty well in the end, however, so we won't kick tradition (or our wife) in the head just yet.

But, let us not forget that the Christmas Season signifies much more than Santa Claus and good times. For the Christian, it is the renewing of the proclamation that the Saviour of us all came into this world to save us from sin, and make us better people to have as neighbors, in general.

We round out a year, good or bad, in the realization that there is, after all, something to live and work for, regardless of what has happened to us during the past 12 months.

Christ is born in Bethlehem; and kings and peasants alike pay homage to Him, because He is given to us as the Saviour of the world, and this is the time of the recognition of his wonderful birth.

Get the Christmas Spirit--the REAL Christmas Spirit, and let it shine from your face, and let it glow in your heart, and rejoice in the knowledge that you, even you, have a chance to live!

Redistricting Problem--

WE are in favor of the Re-districting of the State for a number of reasons; the most important of which is that it seems to us to be the most business-like manner to maintain our representation in Washington.

Some of the "wise heads" in the Democratic Party seem to think that if Re-districting does not come to pass--and soon--that we are apt to lose some of our Democratic Representatives, and possibly a Senator to the Republicans. This is indeed a possibility, though we do not believe it to be among the most important considerations with regards to Re-districting, or not Re-districting.

Experience has shown us, or should have, that the present setup of Congressman-at-large is not as effective as the District System that we have had in the past, nor is it as efficient for the best interests of the people in Alabama. Our Congressmen, right or wrong, are spending more time worrying about their future than they are about ours--and that isn't what we send them to Washington to do. Their campaigning is tremendously more expensive under the present setup, and there seems to us to be much more possibility of graft and corruption sneaking into the picture.

Another point to ponder is the fact that it is the responsibility of the State Government to develop a standard procedure for electing Congressmen, one that is sound, and one that is in the best interests of the people. Is this the prevailing situation today in this State? We think it is not, because the people themselves seem to be dissatisfied with it.

The "fair representation" idea also enters upon the scene. Is our State now, or has it been in recent years, "drawn and quartered" in the proper perspective with regards to total population? Are all of our citizens getting fair representation in their National Government?

We do not intend to throw a reflection upon any individual now in a capacity of representation in the nation's Capitol. Rather, we are attempting to call attention to possible shortcomings in our present setup.

Have we sidestepped a responsibility in not Re-districting before now?

Are we taking a chance of losing some of our representation in Washington if we do not take positive steps--and soon?

Are we protecting our Congressmen--their seniority in Congress--and thus our own best interests by letting things ride as is?

Can we do anything to insure fair treatment, and protection of our rights and freedoms. in the halls of Congress?

Yes! We can take our own State Legislature, with a call from Governor George Wallace; and, using the best natural resources which we possess--the minds of good men--we can Re-district this State in a manner that will show the rest of the nation that we intend to handle our own affairs of State; and that we intend to handle them promptly, effectively, and with the idea of free and proper representation of the individual as a foremost consideration at all times.

This we can do! And we should do it soon!

"The only thing necessary for the triumph of Evil -- is that good men do nothing!"

- Rep. Armistead Selden Remembers -

Late President Was Remarkable Man

EDITOR'S NOTE—After the President's death on Friday, the mails were pretty much confused for a few days, and we received Representative Selden's column late, for publication last week. We think it has a message to convey, however, and that is why we are publishing it this week. You will find his regular column on this page this week and henceforth.

When I returned to my office Saturday afternoon after my wife and I had visited the East Room of the White House to pay our respects to the late President John F. Kennedy, I recalled a few of the personal memories I had of this remarkably brilliant and dedicated public servant.

There are many in the Congress and some in the Alabama Congressional delegation who knew President Kennedy much better than I. Yet my position as a member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and as chairman of the subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs gave me a number of opportunities during President Kennedy's tenure in office to discuss with him matters of international importance.

Costa Rican Trip

In March of this year. I was one of four members of the Congress who accompanied President Kennedy on his trip to San Jose, Costa Rica, where he met with the Presidents of six Central American nations. The reception he received in Costa Rica was extremely enthusiastic, and his gracious and friendly manner captivated the Costa Ricans. We attended numerous functions with President Kennedy and, whenever he spoke, he never failed to introduce each of the four of us in a very complimentary manner to his audiences.

On the return trip to the United States, President Kennedy went first into his private compartment on the Presidential plane, but a few minutes later came out and sat down at a small table directly across from where I was sitting. He remained there for at least two hours, and I had the privilege of discussing with him many subjects of both domestic and world wide interest. While he and I disagreed on several of the matters we discussed. he was extremely easy to talk with and seemed anxious to hear the views of others. His detailed knowledge of almost any subject and his ability to remember both faces and names were truly amazing.

"Thanks for the Cigar"

During the first summer of President Kennedy's term, I had occasion to go to the White House a day or two after the birth of my youngest child. Someone mentioned the fact that I had a new edition to the family. President Kennedy turned to me, offered his congratulations, and asked if I was passing out cigars. Fortunately, I had several in my pocket and gave one to him. Only a few days later, I received a typewritten letter of congratulations from the President. Written in longhand at the bottom of the letter were the words, "Thanks for he cigar." Needless to say, this note has been framed and hangs in my 2½ year old son's bedroom.

Last Visit

The last time I saw and talked with President Kennedy was on October 23rd on the occasion of a luncheon given in his honor at the Bolivian Embassy by Bolivan President Paz. Several days prior to the luncheon I had made a speech on the floor of the House in which I had discussed my views on the military coups that had taken place in the Dominican Republic and Honduras. These views were contrary to sentiments that had been expressed in the Senate by Senators Morse, Gruening, and others. I slipped a copy of my speech into my pocket before I went to the luncheon in hopes President Kennedy might be interested in it. I found an opportunity to talk with him briefly just prior to the luncheon, he expressed an interest in what I said in connection with the Dominican Republic and Honduras, and I gave him the speech. He put it in his inside coat pocket and assured me he would read it.

I never saw him again.

Liked Him

Many of President Kennedy's legislative programs were controversial, and I never hesitated to oppose those I believed to be contrary to best interest of our state and nation. Yet, most members of Congress who knew the late President -- both Democrats and Republicans -- liked him. I was among that group.

Congressman Huddleston Flays Communist Activities In Civil Rights Movement

Congressman George Huddleston, Jr., today, lashed out at the publicized campaign of Communist organizations and their members who are actively working to exploit the so-called "Civil Rights movement."

Continuing his strong stand that Communist agitators are playing a key role in creating strife and discord among our people through the Civil Rights movement, Representative Huddleston called to the attention of the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, a recent article in THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS concerning results of the Communist Party's National Executive Comitee meeting.

In letters to Senator James O. Eastlend, Chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, and Representative Edwin E. Willis, Chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, Mr. Huddleston wrote, "This report clearly defines the role which has been played by the Communist organizations in the area of the civil rights movement and the operations planned for the future."

Continuing he said, "As you will note, my home town of Birmingham is singled out by the Party's National Executive Committee and their tactics are to achieve an isolation of that City brought sit-downs involving the transportation media and an attempt to bring about a paralysis of telephone switchboards through continuous around the clock calls."

The Alabama Congressman expressed that, "Communist support and participation in this so-called 'Civil Right Movement' and resulting disorder in Birmingham and other areas throughout the Nation is the objective of this campaign."

Huddleston emphasized that, "This is the point I have been trying to impress on numerous officials of our Government over the past several months."

In calling for immediate attention to this report and for a thorough investigation of this Communist campaign, Congressman Huddleston noted the article further states that ,"Benjamin Davis. Commrnist Party National Secretary, concedes that the Communists have had influence in the so-called 'Civil Rights movement'."

Report from Washington

BY

Alabama Congressman

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

President Lyndon Johnson appeared before the Congress and the American people last week to plea for national unity in the wake of the sudden tragedy which had befallen the nation.

In a strong speech to a joint session of Congress on Wednesday, only five days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Johnson asked the help of his former colleagues. He re-emphasized this plea for support and assistance in a special Thanksgiving Day message to the American people on Thursday.

Pointing out that the change of power from the slain President to his Administration was a sorrowful but a smooth one, President Johnson told the Congress that in these critical times we should do away with uncertainty and show decisiveness of action both domestically and internationally.

Declaring our nation's firm resolve, President Johnson reaffirmed President Kennedy's foreign policy and pledged to keep our commitments "from South Viet Nam to West Berlin."

Asks Tax, Rights Bills

One of the principle points in President's Johnson's address to the joint session of Congress was his request for the "earliest possible passage" of the late President's civil rights and tax reduction bills. President Johnson did not set a deadline in his speech, but he stressed the need for speedy action.

All signs now point to no final action by the Congress on either the tax reduction or the civil rights bills this year. The Senate Finance Committee has not completed hearings on the $11-billin tax cut measure. Senate debate and the necessity of a conference committee to reconcile the House-Senate versions if the bill will be time consuming. Also, current indications are that the civil rights measure will not reach the floor of the House this year for a vote.

Views Not Changed

The portion of President Johnson's address urging passage of civil rights legislation will not bring about the unity he has called for and we all desire. The view of those of us who oppose this legislation has not changed with the change of Administration. Therefore, events and the new Administration's timetable will dictate the strategy of those in opposition to the far-reaching recommendations contained in the pending civil rights package.

The whole nation is aware of the mammoth burdens thrust so suddenly upon President Johnson. All are anxious to assist him in any reasonable manner. At the same time, the merits or demerits of legislation pending before Congress did not change with the tragic events of November 22nd. Congress, therefore, should not be driven by the passion or emotion of the moment into passing legislation which might later prove unwise or even detrimental.

TB Campaign Begins Here

The annual Christmas Seal Campaign in Chilton County received its traditional send off Friday, November 15, with the general mailing of Christmas Seals to residents. Proceeds of the campaign will be used by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association to combat TB and other respiratory diseases.

Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Christmas Seal Chairman, said that millions of lives have been saved since the first contribution was made for a Christmas Seal. "But the saving of lives is not enough." "We are also continuing to wage a relentless fight against the suffering, tragedy. loss of time and money that result from TB and other diseases that affect breathing. Many of these other respiratory diseases are not only gravely harmful in themselves, but increase susceptibility to TB".

Figures released by the United States Public Health Service show that Respiratory Disease ranks first among disablers of people and fourth among causes of death. We must expend our efforts to find the hidden cases of tuberculosis and other respiratory disease in this community. One of our goals is to alert every person to the fact that chronic cough and shortness of breath, most common symptoms of respiratory disease, may indicate the presence of a serious ailment and require the advice of a physician. We must also put more money into medical research to find better ways of fighting TB and other Respiratory Disease. Let's keep our County healthy.

CANCER FACTS:

Of every six persons who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die, according to the American Cancer Society. Numbers 1 and 2 will be saved. Number 3 will die but might have been saved had proper treatment been received earlier. Numbers 3, 5 and 6 will die of cancers which can not yet be controlled; only the results of research can save these patients. Support the American Cancer Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade.

Petition To Redistrict

We, the undersigned citizens of the State of Alabama, do hereby petition the Governor of the State of Alabama to call a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of Congressional Redistricting.

NAME	ADDRESS

You, as an Alabama taxpayer are without DIRECT representation in Congress now. Alabama is the only state in the union which has failed to redraw congressional district lines. YOU CAN MAKE YOUR VOICE HEARD. you can show your concern over the loss of your direct representation in Congress by clipping out this petition, signing it, and getting your friends to sign it. It is a time-honored form of expressing your feeling as a citizen. It asks the governor to call a special session of the Legislature so that congressional district lines can be redrawn and DIRECT REPRESENTATION RETURNED TO YOU. With the Governor's influence, this session need not be lengthy nor expensive. He is the only person who can call a special session and he needs to know your sentiments.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, adminisrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemuities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

Call Fonzie T. Willams, phone 159-J1, he is thoroughly versed in the program. T. E. Blackmon, 277-W1, or call at the office on Monday or Fridays 101 Courthouse.

NEWS OF—

REFUGE

By M. Lockhart

We come again with thanksgiving for another Lord's day of good services. Our attendance was good considering the fact that the auditorium was just a little open because of not having all the cellotex put up. But we are looking forward to having that part of the work finished before another Lord's day.

Rev. Stanley Lockhart brought the message Sunday night in the absence of the pastor. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gigsby from Oneonta. Mr. Gigsby is a talented musician and added much interest to the services. We invite them back again.

We are moving along fine with the practice of our Christmas play. We urge every one on the program to make a special effort to be present every time if possible. We are meeting each Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock and Wedntsday evenings following mid-week services for practice.

There will be a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Alma (Adams) Gay on Saturday evening. December 14th at 7:00 o'clock, at the home of the pastor in Clanton. Friends and relatives are invited.

It seems that shooting deer has come to be about as common as shooting squirrels and rabbits. Junior and Lamar Minor shared the exciting experience together and bagged a deer weighing 108 lbs. and Ralph Easterling says he needed no help in bringing down one that weighed 118 lbs. The Minor brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Minor and Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lelland Easterling. Richard Headley also brought in a 10 lb. turkey. These fellows all say that there is little increase in the heart beat under such experiences. but no heart attacks have been reported.

May we have the privilege of meeting you at Chhrch next Sunday?

Over 15,000 Get Second Dose Of Polio Vaccine

If You Missed; You May Take It This Saturday

The second feeding of Polio Sugar in Chilton County on Sunday, December 1, 1963, could be classed as a success. 15,442 persons received the type 3 vaccine.

Type 1 was fed on October 20, 1963 and at that time 16,907 persons received that feeding.

The third and last feeding of a different type, Type 2, will be fed January 12, 1964. ;

The people should realize these three types are of a different vaccine and should be received as if it was for three different diseases. This is why you MUST have all three feedings to establish immunity. One or two types received is a great help and effective against that type.

Due to the number of persons out of town, etc., on December 1 the Chilton County Medical Society has made arrangements for vaccine to be available Saturday. December 7, 1963 from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. The faithful Nursing Service 'from the Chilton County Hospital anh Nursing Home will further make their free time available to feed the sugar.

Through the courtesy of the Peoples Savngs Bank the Feeding on Saturday, December 7, 1963 will be in the building on the corner west of the bank, previously occupied by the Fabric Mart.

All persons not having received Type 3 on December 1, 1963 are urged to come December 7, 1963. This will be the only make up or last chance for Type 3 in Chilton County.

The donations only will little more than pay for the vaccine, sugar and few other supplies required. As to date the two feedings have cost $4,277.79. The profits if any is to be split evenly between the Medical Society who plans to send a student to Nursing School. the other part is for the Lions Club who will show their appreciation ti te local Civil Defense and assist the local Girl Scouts with the aid of other Civic Clubs in building a Scout Hut. Alabama Sight and other worthy projects for the Community.

This service should be taken advantage of by all as it is possible only through the reduced price of the drug, the free time donated by the local Doctors, nurses and all the other people too numerous to mention.

See you Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. December 7, 1963 on the corner at Peoples Savings Bank.

Flu Cuts Hog Profits

Not only has the time come when the frost is on the punkin but also when many shotes come down with the flu, states County Agent John Sellers.

Warm days and cool nights with sharp changes in the temperature --- and especially when pigs sleep under exposed conditions -- ranging from overcrowding to outside in sleety rain, increase the chances of flu in the herd.

Our Extension Veterinarian says that the disease is caused by a virus. Some of the symptoms are odd sounding coughts, thumpy or jerky breathing and loss of appetite.

Shotes over 75 pounds seem to catch it most easily. The disease is very contagious. Death losses may be light but a couple of weeks feeding will be lost.

Prevention is cheaper than cure. See that shotes have dry. draft free, clean and dust free sleeping quarters. Then if they show signs of flu, a shot or two of antibiotics will often speed recovery.

A HUMAN VOICE FIRST SPANNED THE ATLANTIC by radio telephone in 1915. The first satellite-transmitted telephone call crossed the Atlantic in 1962. Less than half a century separates these two "firsts" yet they represent greater progress in communications than in all the rest of human history. And we're still going strong. Every year brings new communications miracles to home and office!

Send your good wishes over the miles by mean[illegible] telepho[illegible]e. The sound of voices we love is the very nicest kind of g[illegible]t to give or to receive.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL would be interested in the things going on at Abilities, Inc., a manufacturing company near New York City. Every one of over 400 employees is handicapped in some way. The company originally started ten years ago with four employees with just one good leg and five arms among them! A big part of the work they do is for Western Electric, supplier of Bell System communications equipment. Mr. Bell's interest in helping the handicapped grew out of his work with deaf people. And out of this grew his interest in the whole field of communications.

MYSTERY. A woman in New Orleans couldn't understand why her friends complained that she often picked up her phone when it rang and then didn't answer. So she kept an eye on the phone. Seems that a cat whose naps were being disturbed had learned to knock the receiver off the hook with his paw, then take up his nap where he'd left off. The problem was solved when the bell chime was installed. Now the cat purrs when the chime chimes. Both lady and cat are enjoying the new sound of their telephone.

So if you have a sleepy feline at your house, call your Clanton Business Office; and we'll be happy to install you a bell chime.

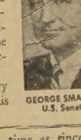
Your friends at Southern Bell hope you and your family have the Merriest Christmas and the Happiest New Year ever!

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Business Plans Hinge On Tax Cut Passage

By U.S. Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.)
Member of Senate Finance Committee

It is imperative to the nation's economy that the Congress pass the $11 billion tax reduction measure this year.



GEORGE SMATHERS
U.S. Senator

Early passage is important as businessmen must take the tax bill into consideration in their planning. Although many are anticipating passage, the longer they are kept in the dark as to whether and when the bill will become law, the more likely they are to postpone expanding programs. And these are the programs that will give the economy the required lift to increase job opportunities, increase business investments, increase the income of our people and our corporate structure.

Every taxpayer, every businessman, every public-spirited citizen has a vital stake in this program.

Recently, the National Association of Business Economists, meeting in Cleveland, heard the results of a survey conducted by their members. These business experts foresaw a good year ahead—providing we have a tax cut.

"Half the gains in the economy over the next 12 months," they said, "depend upon a reduction in Federal taxes."

Without such a reduction in Federal taxes, the consensus was that "the economy will be either in, or close to, a recession by the end of 1964."

It is well to note what the past recessions have done to business. As GNP nosedived by some $12 billion in the 1957 and 1960 recessions, two million people were added to those already out of work. Overall industrial production sagged nine percent; and after-tax corporate profits fell off the pace by some $5 billion.

This is what business leaders and the nation's best informed economists, and this Administration, are warning us we face again next year—unless the tax reduction is achieved this year.

As the members of the Finance Committee were reminded by testimony, November 1963 marks the 42nd month since our last recession. Statistically, therefore, we will soon be living on borrowed time as since the end of World War II our economy has slid down the caverns and marched up the peaks of boom and bust every 42 months.

We have come to the fork in the road. Either we must place more reliance upon the private sector of the economy to help us solve our fiscal and monetary problems which are chronically plaguing us, or, if we don't, those of another economic philosophy than the Administration's will be calling for the Federal government to step in and spend more public money in order to solve these problems.

A restrictive and burdensome level of taxation as we now have can be as destructive of man's freedom as can tyranny itself.

147 years ago, Chief Justice John Marshall said:

"The power to tax involved the power to destroy." Certainly we in America are learning the verity of that statement, as we watch a strangling tax burden destroy initiative, eliminate competition and develop a reliance on government.

Only through revising our outmoded tax structure and relaxing its grip upon incentives and growth, can we move decisively toward both internal and external strengthening of our economy.

Guest Speaker At Bell Lane

The Bell Lane Baptist Church located on Lay Dam Highway, will have as their minister to preach at both services Sunday. December 8, the Superintendent of Missions of the Chilton-Unity Association, M. Cotton Quota Polling Places Set For Chilton County Farmers

Polling places where Chilton County farmers may cast ballots in the Referendum on marketing quotas for the 1964 upland cotton crop were announced today by Eddie Owen. Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The referendum will be held on Tuesday, December 10, and will be held at the regular voting place for communities listed below except that Beat 4 and Beat 11 voters will vote at the ASCS Office in Clanton.

The polling places are located as follows: Communiy I - Beats 1 and 12, Union Grove; Beat 13, Providence. Community II - Beat 2, Jemison City Hall; Beat 9, Thorsby City Hall; Beats 4 and 11. ASCS Office, Clanton. Community III - Beat '15, Pooles Cross Road and Pletcher, Landers Store; Beat 8, Stanton School house. Community IV - Beat v. Isabella Ag. Department; Beat 7, Maplesville School; Beat 14. 2, Mars Hill Church. Community V - Beat 5, Verbena, Joe Gibson Building; Beat 6, Enterprise School; Beats 10 and 16, Cooper Community House.

Chairman Owen explained that every effort has been made to inform farmers fully about the allotment - marketing quota program. so that the outcome of the referendum may represent the considered opinion of all the voters.

Farmers eligible to cast ballits are all those who engaged in the production of the upland cotton crop in 1963. Approval by at least two thirds of the growers voting is necessary if the quotas are to go into effect for the 1964 crop.

Issues to be decided in the Dec. 10 Referendum are (1) Quotas or no quotas, and (2) the level of price support to be available for the 1964 upland cotton crop.

If the vote is favorable, quotas will be in effect for the crop — with penalties on any excess cotton produced on a farm, and price support to growers complying with their farm allotments will be available at a level of from 65 to 90 percent of parity.

If the vote is not favorable, there will be no quotas or penalties applicable to the 1964 upland cotton crop. and price support to cooperators will be a 50 percent of parity as directe by law.

Grower who have any questions about their eligibity t vote or about any particular par of the cotton program are urge to get in touch with the AS County Committee.

Mrs. Culp Spoke To Delta Kappa Gamma

For the November meeting of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma in the home of Mrs. Luther Little, Mrs. D. P. Culp spoke on the subject, "The Teacher's Role in the Changing American Culture."

Mrs. Culp, a former Chilton County teacher and wife of the president of Alabama College, noted the rapid changes that are occuring in the nation and in the world that will demand a stronger role on the part of American teachers. Mrs. Culp encouraged women teachers in the pursuit of excellence. the keeping up to day in their fields, their participation in the arts, and their maintaining a high standard in general.

Program leaders for the afternoon were Miss Loyce Baker, Mrs. Raymond Calloway, Miss Sybil Langston, and Mrs. Dan Mims.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Little entertained with a tea. Mrs. A. M. Thorton, president of Alpha Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma served from the beautifully decorated tea table. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Watson Yeager, and Mrs. Ragner Ekblad.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"No incorporated municipality in Mobile County shall have power to levy, impose, or collect a privilege license tax upon or in respect of the employees of an employer which is measured by or based on income derived from wages, salaries, commissions, or bonuses, for personal services rendered, unless the levying thereof shall have been authorized before the enactment of such ordinance by a vote of the duly qualified electors of the city or town at an election held for such purpose, in the manner prescribed by the city or town council or commission."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"Section 1. In addition to any taxes now authorized, or that may be hereafter authorized, by the Constitution and laws of Alabama, there is hereby levied a special school tax of fifty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property in the school Tax District of the City of Huntsville in Madison County to be used solely for public school purposes; provided the levy of said tax shall first have been approved by the qualified electors of the School District as hereinafter provided.

"Section 2. The proceeds of said tax shall be used exclusively for constructing and improving school buildings and acquiring sites therefor in the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville, Alabama.

"Section 3. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote in favor of the adoption of this amendment when it is submitted, the additional tax provided for in Section 1 shall be levied and collected for a period of thirty years without any other election having been held hereon. In the event this amendment is approved and a majority of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville who vote thereon vote against its approval, the tax shall not be levied unless the rate of the tax, the time it is to continue and the purpose thereof shall have been again submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the School Tax District of the City of Huntsville and voted for by a majority of those voting at the election. Subsequent elections may be held at intervals of not less than one year and shall be called, held, conducted, paid for, and governed otherwise in the manner provided for an election on the school district tax authorized in Constitutional Amendment III."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

"AMENDMENT______

"Clarke County and the incorporated muncipalities therein, jointly or severally, after an election held in accordance herewith shall have full and continuing power and authority to:

"1. Purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. Lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, or give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. Promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses therein.

"4. Become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. Lend its credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. Become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the county or municipality or may be limited as to the sources of their payment.

"7. Levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent of the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the county or in any municipality in Clarke County or upon all property in any district to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use or expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. Pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. Create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body and subject to such limitations as the governing body of Clarke County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the Judge of Probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the county or any municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of Clarke County or any municipality therein for the purpose of determining their borrowing capacity under Sections 224 and 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature may enact laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

Neither the county nor any municipality therein shall make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the locality affected thereby. The governing body of the county or any municipality may provide for holding such elections, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provisions or limitations in this Constitution or laws to the contrary notwithstanding, the City of Bayou La Batre shall have full and continuing power and authority to do any act hereinafter described or engage in any activity mentioned if the same is first approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the county who vote thereon at a referendum election held for such purpose. The city or governing body thereof may purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind and may lend its credit or grant public money and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation, to promote local industrial, commercial, or agricultural development and the location of new industries or businesses in the city. The City or the governing body thereof may borrow money and pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full, and may pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased, or sold by it. The provisions of this article of amendment shall be self-executing; however, the governing body of the city shall have power to enact appropriate ordinances to implement and enforce the provisions hereof."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Proclamation No. 1

Regional Library Board Met Wednesday, Nov. 20th

The first regular meeting of the Regional Library Board for Autauga, Bibb ,and Chilton Counties was held at the headquarters in Clanton at 11:00 o'clock, November 20, 1963. The newly appointed Library Board Members are: Mrs. Jack Wadsworth, Prattville; Mrs. J. J. Plaster, Route 1, Autaugaville; Mrs. Bill Senry, Marbury; Mrs. Warren Keen, Rt. 1, Billingsley; Mrs. W. A. Newby, Prattville; Mrs. George Stacy, Jr., Brent; Mrs. John Seagle, West Blocton: Mr. George White, Centreville; Mrs. Calvin McKinney, Centreville; Mr. Morris Moatts, Clanton; Mrs. Hugh Champion, Clanton; Mrs.. Leo Langston, Jemison; Mrs. E. T. Clapp, Maplesville.

Officers and committee members will be chosen in the near future. The library program in this area is the culmination of a bookmobile demonstration which began 18 months ago in the three counties.

During this time the state has financed the program. The Alabama Public Library Service has a policy of operating such a program for that period of time where there is sufficient interest in the part of the local population.

At the end of the demonstration period the boards of revenue decided to continue the program. Each Board signed a contract with the Public Library Service and set aside funds in the annual budget to finance it.

Each county appropriated 25 cents per capita for the first year. Autauga County is contributing for 1963-64 fiscal year $4,685; Bibb, $3,588; and Chilton, $5,424.

During the 18 months of demonstration in the three counties the Public Library Service has furnished books, a bookmobile, and a staff. During this time approximately 18,000 volumes have been put at the disposal of the three counties.

These books have been taken to the rural people of the three counties on a definite schedule, has aided the public libraries in each county and has enriched the program of the school libraries.

There have been two bookmobile teams in the thre counties. Mr. and Mrs. Reddie Smith operate one route and Mrs. Beatrice McGough and Bill Parker, another. Each covers a certain territory in the three counties each two weeks, making a total of about 170 stops in the region in a two week period.

In serving the three counties during the past 18 months the Public Library Service estimates the two bookmobiles have traveled more than the distance around the world.

Miss Diane Morris is library clerk for the Region.

Serving as librarians in the three principal town libraries are: Mrs. Dorothy Rigford, Prattville; Mrs. E. B. Reeves, Clanton: and Mrs. Elaine Stewart, Brent..

Instrumental in creatinb interest in the development of bookmobile service were library development committee chairman in each county. In Autauga, there was Mrs. Jack Wadsworth; in Chilton, Morris Moatts; and in Bibb, Mrs. Bernice Stacy.

"The library is one of the many blessings Chilton Countians and those of the surrounding area can count as we approach the Thanksgiving season this year."

Mrs. L. V. Thornton

Help Fight T. B.

Once again the citizens of Chilton County have pledged their faith in the voluntary fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases by supporting the 1963 Christmas Seal Campaign.

We are earnestly hoping that the people of this county, who have supported our work so lovally in the past wil lfind time in the next few days to answer their Christmas Seal appeals. With so much to be done in the struggle to wipe out TB and to control other respiratory diseases, we feel confident that every family will want to renew its annual Christmas Seal contribution which helps make this work possible. Let's keep our County Healthy.

Volunteer workers serving with the county chairman are: Mrs. C. C. Gay, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs Louise Apperson, Mrs. Lloyd Howard, Mrs. Hugh Champion, members of the Chilton County Health Dept.. Mrs. Benson Sims and Mrs. Lowery, also the Clanton Pilot Club.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is authorized to become indebted for improvements at the Alabama State Docks and the refunding of State Docks revenue bonds, and in evidence of the indebtedness so incurred to issue and sell, in addition to all other bonds of the State, interest bearing general obligation bonds of the State not exceeding ten million dollars ($10,000,000) in principal amount. The full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby pledged to the prompt and faithful payment of the principal of the bonds and the interest thereon. The Alabama State Docks Department (which term as used herein shall be construed to include any other agency of the State that may succeed to said Department's functions) shall pledge and use so much of the revenues derived from its seaport facilities as may be necessary to pay at their maturities the principal of and interest on said bonds, and may pledge, agree to use, and use so much of said revenues as the said Department with the approval of the Governor may determine shall be necessary or desirable to build up and maintain reserves for the payment of said principal and interest and for the maintenance, replacement and improvement of its seaport facilities. The proceeds from the sale of any such bonds shall, after payment of the reasonable and necessary expenses of their issuance, be set aside in a special fund in the State Treasury and shall be paid out to the Alabama State Docks Department upon authorization by the Governor and shall be held by the said Department in a special trust fund designated "State Docks Bond Fund" and therefrom be disbursed as follows:

"(a) not exceeding $3,000,000 may be used to pay the reasonable and necessary costs of constructing and equipping works of internal improvement for use and operation as a part of the State Docks facilities; provided that, if said Department shall have issued subsequent to July 1, 1963, any notes in anticipation of the sale of bonds for any of said purposes, then so much as may be necessary, not exceeding $1,000,000, of said $3,000,000 shall be used to retire or refund said notes; and

"(b) not exceeding $7,000,000 may be used to refund and provide for the retirement of all or such part of the outstanding revenue bonds heretofore issued by said Department as the Director thereof, with the approval of the Governor, shall deem advantageous, including payment of any redemption premiums required under the terms of said outstanding bonds to be paid in order to effect redemption thereof prior to their maturities; provided, that pending any redemption date or dates on which the outstanding bonds so refunded can be redeemed under their terms, any part of said $7,000,000 and any other funds of the said Department may be invested in securities that are direct obligations of the United States of America, and such securities may be deposited by said Department under irrevocable trust agreements, which said Department is hereby authorized to enter into with any corporate trustee, and used to pay principal, interest and redemption premiums on said outstanding bonds.

"Alabama State Docks Department is hereby vested with full authority, except as limited herein, to prescribe the terms of the bonds and to provide for the issuance and sale thereof. The bonds may be sold, executed and delivered at any time and from time to time, may be in such forms, denominations, series and numbers, may be of such tenor and maturities, may bear such date or dates, may be in registered or bearer form either as to principal or interest or both, with rights of conversion into another form, may be payable in such installments and at such place or places, may bear interest at such rate or rates, payable and evidenced in such manner, and may contain provisions for redemption at the option of the State to be exercised by the State Docks Department at such date or dates prior to their maturity and upon payment of such redemption price or prices, all as shall be provided by the said Department in the order or orders under which the bonds are issued. The principal of each series of bonds shall mature in annual installments in such amounts as shall be specified in the authorizing order or orders, the first of which installments shall mature not later than one year after the date of the bonds of such series and the last of which installments shall mature not later than twenty years after the date of the bonds of the same series. The largest installment of principal and interest maturing on each series of the bonds in any one year shall not exceed twice the preceding smallest installment of principal and interest maturing thereon in any prior year. None of the bonds shall be sold for less than face value plus accrued interest thereon to the date of delivery. The bonds shall be sold only at public ale or sales, either on sealed bids or at auction, after such advertisements as may be prescribed by the said Department to the bidder whose bid reflects the lowest net interest cost to the State computed to the respective maturities of the bonds sold; provided, that if no bids deemed acceptable by the said Department is received all bids may be rejected.

"The bonds shall be signed in the name of the State by the Governor and countersigned by the State Docks Director, and the Great Seal of the State of Alabama or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed, printed or otherwise reproduced thereon and shall be attested by the signature of the Secretary of State; provided, that facsimile signatures of any one or any two (but not all) of said officers may be reproduced on any of such bonds in lieu of being manually signed thereon. Coupons attached to the bonds and representing installments of interest thereon shall be signed with the facsimile signature of the State Treasurer, which facsimile signature shall constitute due and sufficient authentication of said coupons.

"All bonds issued under the provisions of this amendment, together with the interest income thereon, shall forever be exempt from taxation in this State.

"The authorization to incur debt and issue bonds contained in this amendment shall supersede and take the place of any authorization for Alabama State Docks Department to issue revenue bonds granted by act of the Legislature in effect on the effective date of this amendment.

"The provisions of this amendment shall be self-executing and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Section 181. The following persons and no others who, if they are citizens of the United States over the age of twenty-one years and have the qualifications as to residence prescribed in Section 178 of this article, shall be qualified to register as electors provided they shall not be disqualified under Section 182 of this constitution; those who can read and write any article of the constitution of the United States in the English language which may be submitted to them by the board of registrars, provided, however, no persons shall be entitled to register as electors except those who are of good character and who embrace the duties and obligations of citizenship under the constitution of the United States and under the Constitution of the State of Alabama, and provided further, that in order to aid the members of the boards of registrars, who are hereby constituted and declared to be judicial officers, to judicially determine if applicants to register have the qualifications hereinabove set out, each applicant shall be furnished by the board of registrars a written application form and a sealed examination, which shall be uniform in all cases with no discrimination as between applicants. The form and contents of such application form and sealed examination shall be prescribed by a state board of examiners for voter registration to be appointed by the Legislative Council of Alabama, which application shall be so worded that the answers thereto will place before the board of registrars information necessary or proper to aid them to pass upon the qualifications of each applicant, and which examination shall be graded by the state board of examiners for voter registration which must certify to the several boards of registrars of the state whether or not each applicant, who shall be designated by number only, has passed or has not passed the examination. The examination shall be provided and shall be administered as provided for by the legislature. Provided, in no event shall the intelligence level required of the applicant for registration be less than that required to serve as a member of the armed forces of the United States as determined by written examination. The application shall be answered in writing by the applicant in the presence of the board without assistance, and there shall be incorporated in such answer an oath to support and defend the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Alabama and a statement in such oath by the applicant disavowing belief in or affiliation at any time with any group or party which advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States or the State of Alabama by unlawful means, which answers and oath shall be duly signed and sworn to by the applicant before a member of the county board of registrars. Such application and written answers of the applicant thereto shall be filed with the records of the respective boards of registrars and such examination shall be filed with the records of the state board of examiners.

"The board may receive information respecting the applicant and the truthfulness of any information furnished by him, Provided further, that if solely because of physical handicaps the applicant is unable to read or write, then he shall be exempt from the above stated requirements which he is unable to meet because of such physical handicap, and in such cases a member of the board of registrars shall read to the applicant the questionnaire and oaths herein provided for and the applicant's answers thereto shall be written down by such board member, and the applicant shall be registered as a voter if he meets all other requirements herein set out."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

THIRTEEN

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session, 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama, once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Any provision of the Constitution or laws of the State of Alabama to the contrary notwithstanding, the municipality of York in Sumter County shall have full and continuing power and authority, after an election held in accordance herewith, to do any one or more of the following:

"1. To purchase, construct, lease, or otherwise acquire real property, plants, buildings, factories, works, facilities, machinery and equipment of any kind.

"2. To lease, sell for cash or on credit, exchange, give and convey any such property described in subdivision 1 above, to any person, firm, association or corporation.

"3. To promote local industrial, commercial or agricultural development and the location of new industries or business therein.

"4. To become a stockholder in any corporation, association or company.

"5. To lend this credit or to grant public moneys and things of value in aid of, or to, any individual, firm, association, or corporation whatsoever.

"6. To become indebted and to issue and sell interest bearing bonds, warrants (which may be payable from funds to be realized in future years), notes or other obligations or evidences or indebtedness, to a principal amount not exceeding fifty percent of the assessed value of taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in order to secure funds for the purchase, construction, lease or acquisition of any of the property described in subdivision 1 above or to be used in furtherance of any of the other powers or authorities granted in this amendment. Such obligations or evidences of indebtedness may (in addition to any pledge or pledges authorized by subdivision 8 of this amendment) be issued upon the full faith and credit of the municipality of York, or may be limited as to the source of their payment.

"7. To levy and collect annually, in addition to all other taxes now authorized or permitted, a special tax or taxes of not exceeding two percent on the value of all taxable property therein as determined for state taxation, in the same manner as other county or municipal taxes are levied and collected. Such tax may be upon all property in the municipality of York in Sumter County, or upon all property in any district the boundaries of which the governing body of such municipality shall describe and which it shall de termine to be specially improved and benefited by any proposed use expenditure of the proceeds of such tax.

"8. To pledge to the payment of any bonds, warrants, notes, or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness the annual proceeds from any such special tax or taxes and to obligate itself irrevocably to continue to levy and collect such taxes annually until such obligations or evidences of indebtedness are paid in full and to pledge thereto any rental or sales proceeds of property leased or sold by it.

"9. To create a public authority or corporation having such powers, managed and governed by such board or governing body, and subject to such limitations as the governing body of the municipality of York in Sumter County may impose, by approving and filing a certificate to that effect in the office of the judge of probate or the Secretary of State, or their respective successors in function, and to delegate to such public authority or corporation and its board or governing body all powers and authority conferred in this amendment upon the municipality.

"The recital in any bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness that they were issued pursuant to this amendment or that they were issued to provide funds to be used in furtherance of any power or authority herein authorized or that any special tax herein authorized has been pledged to the payment thereof shall be conclusive; no purchaser or holder thereof need inquire further; and the levy and collection of such tax shall continue until the principal of and interest on such obligations or evidences of indebtedness shall have been paid in full. The bonds, warrants, notes or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness issued hereunder shall not be considered an indebtedness of the municipality of York in Sumter County for the purpose of determining the borrowing capacity of the county under Section 225 of the Constitution; and the taxes herein authorized shall be in addition to those provided for or permitted in Section 216 of the Constitution and all amendments thereto.

"This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the right and power by general, special or local act to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes and objectives hereinabove set forth.

"10. The municipality of York in Sumter County shall not make any engagement or commitment or undertake any project under the provisions hereof unless and until the proposition has been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality. The governing body of the municipality may provide for holding such election, but in no case shall an election be held until notice of the election and of the proposition to be voted on has been published for at least three successive weeks."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

"In addition to all other purposes for which the county board of education or any city board of education in Coffee County is authorized by law to issue and sell warrants payable out of the proceeds from any special school tax or special tax for educational purposes generally, duly levied pursuant to this Constitution or amendments thereto, the county board of education of Coffee County or the city board of education of any city in such county is authorized to issue and sell warrants payable out of the proceeds of such special taxes for the purpose of refinancing any deficit created by proration of school funds prior to June 1, 1963. Before any warrants are issued hereunder the existence of such deficit and the amount thereof shall be determined by the state department of examiners of public accounts and certified to the board of education desiring to issue the warrants. All warrants issued hereunder shall be issued, sold, redeemed and otherwise handled in the same manner and upon the same terms and conditions as warrants issued pursuant to Article 4, Chapter 10, Title 52, Code of 1940."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 7th day of October 1963.

Local Hospital Auxiliary Holds Quarterly Meeting Nov. 14th

The Chilton County Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary was called to order by the President Mrs. Dick Hayes on Thursday, November 14, 1963, in the dining room of the Nursing Home. The meeting was opened with prayer led by Mrs. J. R. Mullins.

Mr. Burton Mullins, Civil Defense Director and Red Cross Chairman, was presented to the group. Mr. Mullins discussed the work of the Civil Defense and gave a report on the Emergency Hospital that the Civil Defense has provided for Chilton County. He also reported on the services of the Red Cross, stressing the Blood Bank program and the assistance to servicemen. Mr. Mullins, as co-chairman of the Chilton County Mental Health Fund Drive, distributed pamphlets on Mental Health and Mental Illness in Chilton County and urged the Auxiliary to actively participate in the endeavor to raise money for this cause. He led a discussion concerning the Gates of Opportunity School and the work it is doing here in the county. Mr. Mullins requested that members bring old newspapers and magazines to help with fund raising for the Opportunity School.

The Auxiliary President, Mrs. Hayes, called for minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Sibley McGowan read the minutes in the absence of a secretary. The treasurer's report was given by the Treasurer, Mrs. A. L. Farley, and various committee reports were given by committee chairmen.

Mrs. John DeRamus reported that rocking chairs had been purchased for the Nursing Home.

Mr. W. E. Elmore thanked the Auxiliary for the window boxes that were presented to the Nursing Home.

The President asked for a report of the Nominating Committee and Mrs. Willie Bean gave the report The Nominating Committee highly commended the present officers and suggested their re-election. Mrs. Hugh Jones parliamentarian, conducted the election and the Nominating Committee's report was unanimously accepted by the Auxiliary The officers are: Mrs. Dick Hayes. president; Mrs. John DeRamus, vice president, Mrs. A. L. Farley, treasurer; Mrs. Curtis Baker was elected to the office of secretary, as this office was vacated by Mrs Casimir Prusak who has moved from Chilton County.

Mrs. Hayes requested an assistant to work with her in all matters of the Auxiliary in order to become more familiar with Auxiliary procedure. Mrs. O. L. Bennett will fill this position.

The President appointed the following committees: Membership. Mrs. Frank Scott and Mrs. H. A. Norton; Finance Committee, Mrs Cleo Cox and Mrs. Hugh Champion; Program Committee, February: Mrs. Omar Reynolds; May. Mrs. W. E. Elmore; August. Mrs. O F. Wood; November, Mrs. J. R. Mullins.

Mrs. Phil Simms and Mrs. O. L. Bennett will serve on a committee to arrange decorations in the Nursing Home for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

February 13. 1264, was announced by Mrs. Hayes to be the date of the next meeting. Members present were urged to contact those absent and the meeting was adjourned.

"Not withstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the Legislature may hereafter, by general law, provide for the promotion of the production, distribution, marketing and use of poultry and poultry products. The Legislature may provide for the promotion of poultry and poultry products and the poultry industry by research, education, advertising and other methods and the Legislature is further authorized to provide means and methods for the financing of any such promotional activity by prescribing a procedure whereby producers, owners or growers of poultry may by referendum held among such producers, owners or growers of poultry in this State levy upon themselves and collect assessments, fees, or charges upon the sale of poultry and poultry products for the financing of any such promotional program or activity in cooperation with processors, dealers, handlers and other buyers of poultry and poultry products. Provided, no assessment levied hereunder shall exceed one cent (1¢) per hen or other domesticated fowl or any other classes of poultry sold by producers thereof. The Legislature is authorized to make provisions for nonpayment and for the refund of assessments levied upon owners, producers or growers of poultry to any such person who does not desire to participate in the promotional program. The Legislature shall provide for the collection and distribution of assessments or charges authorized hereunder and to provide penalties for failure to make such collection and distribution of assessments. The Legislature shall provide for the designation of a nonprofit association or organization organized for the promotion and betterment of poultry and poultry products in Alabama to administer and carry out such promotional program which shall include conducting elections or referendums among producers, owners or growers of poultry. The Legislature shall further provide for the deposit, withdrawal, disbursement and expenditure by the designated association of any funds received subject to the supervision and control of the activities authorized herein by the Department of Agriculture and Industries and the State Board of Agriculture and Industries. Assessments, fees or other charges collected as authorized by any legislative act adopted under authority hereof shall not be considered as a tax within the meaning of this Constitution or any provision thereof. Any uniformity requirements of this Constitution shall be satisfied by the application of the program upon poultry and poultry products."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"(1) Marion County shall have full and continuing power and authority, notwithstanding the provisions of Sections 94, 215, 222 and 224 of this Constitution, to do and perform any act and to engage in any activity that municipalities in said county are authorized to do, perform and engage in under the provisions of the amendment to this Constitution that was proposed by Act No. 1 adopted at the Second Special Session of 1950 of the Legislature of Alabama (commonly referred to as Amendment LXXXIV), including specifically, without limiting the generality of the foregoing the power to become indebted and in evidence thereof to issue bonds, warrants and other securities of said county for any of the purposes for which municipalities may issue securities under said amendment, and the power to levy ad valorem taxes in said county to pay the principal of and interest on said securities; provided, that the total principal amount of said securities at any time outstanding shall not exceed fifty per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in said county as assessed for state taxation, and the taxes so levied shall not exceed two per cent per annum of said assessed valuation; and provided further, that said county shall not exercise any of said powers unless and until a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at an election held for such purpose shall have approved the exercise by said county of said powers, which election shall be called by the governing body of said county and held as nearly as may be practicable in accordance with the general laws of the state at the time in effect pertaining to the election on the issuance of county bonds. Said election may be held at any time and if at said election a majority of the electors voting thereat do not approve the exercise by said county of said powers, another election may be held hereunder at any time and from time to time thereafter. If at any such other election a majority of the qualified electors of said county voting at such election shall approve the exercise by said county of said powers, said county may thereafter, from time to time and at any time and without the necessity of any further election, exercise any or all of said powers as its governing body may deem advisable.

"(2) This amendment shall be self-executing; but the Legislature shall have the power, by general or local act, to adopt laws supplemental to this amendment or in furtherance of the purposes hereof. The governing body of the county shall have power to adopt such resolutions and orders as may be necessary to implement and enforce this amendment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session 1963 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the said election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from final adjournment of the 1963 Regular Session of the Legislature will be and occur on Tuesday, December 10, 1963; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the act submitting the amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"This amendment shall apply in all counties except Mobile and Jefferson Counties. The term 'public hospital purposes' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities. The term 'public hospital facilities' as used in this amendment shall be construed to include public hospitals, public clinics, public health centers, nurses' homes and training facilities, and related public health facilities of any kind.

"If a majority of the qualified electors of any county in the state, except Mobile and Jefferson Counties, who participate in an election held therein pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the constitution heretofore adopted shall vote at such election in favor of the levy and collection of a special county tax, within the limitations provided in such amendment, for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes, the proceeds derived from the tax authorized at such election may be applied for any one or more of the purposes for which said tax may be so voted. Whenever the tax shall be voted the governing body of the county may anticipate the proceeds therefrom for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall be voted by issuing, without further election, interest bearing tax anticipation bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said county payable solely from and secured by a pledge of not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax received by the county.

"The governing body of each county in which the said tax may be voted shall have the further power to designate as the agency of the county to acquire, construct, equip, operate and maintain public hospital facilities any public corporation or commission heretofore or hereafter organized for hospital purposes in the county under any general or local law heretofore or hereafter enacted by the Legislature. When a public corporation or commission shall be so designated, the proceeds of said tax thereafter collected shall be paid over to it and shall be used by it for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted; provided, that payment of the proceeds of said tax to said public corporation or commission shall be made only to such extent as will not result in the impairment of the obligation of any contract theretofore made with respect to said tax. Said public corporation or commission may anticipate the proceeds from said tax so required to be paid to it by issuing, for any one or more of the purposes for which the tax shall have been voted. the bonds, warrants, or certificates of indebtedness of said public corporation or commission, and may pledge for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon not exceeding 75% of the annual proceeds from said tax so paid to it.

"Each county in which the tax shall be voted, and in the event a public corporation or commission shall have been designated as the agency of such county pursuant to the provisions hereof then said public corporation or commission shall have the power to contract with any other county or similar public corporation or commission with respect to the acquisition by purchase, lease, or otherwise, and the construction, equipment, operation, and maintenance of public hospital facilities outside of the county and within any zone or region of which the county may be a part, and which may have heretofore been established or may hereafter be established for public hospital purposes by the Legislature or by any agency designated by it, the obligations of such contract to be payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax; provided, that the proceeds of said tax shall not be used outside of the county for any purpose for which the proceeds could not be used in the county, and shall not be used with respect to public hospital facilities located outside of the county if the tax is voted specifically for public hospital facilities located in the county.

"No securities issued or contracts made by a county under the authority of this amendment, which are payable solely out of the proceeds of said tax, and no securities issued or contracts made by any such public corporation or commission, whether or not issued or made under the authority of this amendment, shall be construed to be bonds of the county or of a political subdivision thereof within the meaning of Section 222 of the Constitution, or construed to create or constitute an indebtedness of the county within the meaning of Section 224 of the Constitution. Said securities shall be construed to be negotiable instruments notwithstanding the fact that they may be payable solely from a limited source. All pledges of said tax and all contracts made with respect thereto pursuant to the provisions of this amendment shall take precedence in the order in which they are made and shall create a charge on the proceeds of said tax prior to the expenses of operating and maintaining any public hospital facilities.

"In each instance in which a special county tax for any one or more of the purposes included within the meaning of the term public hospital purposes has heretofore been authorized at an election held in a county pursuant to the provisions of any amendment to the Constitution heretofore adopted, all provisions of this amendment shall be applicable in said county to the same extent as if said election had been held after the adoption of this amendment.

"This amendment shall be self-executing."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 10th day of December 1963 upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 10th day of December 1963 in each county in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county.

COOL - - - COOL - - -

THE feature movie at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre starting Wednesday, December 18th will be "In The Cool Of The Day." Abope is a scene from the movie.

Now Is Good Time To Eradicate Cattle Lice

Now is a good time to begin inspecting cattle for lice, particularly older and unthrifty cows and young calves. Producers should not wait until heavy infestation occurs before control measures are taken. On lactatiny dairy cattle, only Rotenone and Ciodrin can be used and is recommended. On beef anifals these two insecticides plus either Korlan, Lindane, Methoxychlor, Toxaphene, Malathion, Delnav and C-Ral may also be used. See Page 13 of the revised Circular 582, 'Insect Control on Livestock" for rates on each of these materials..

A practical method of eradicating lice on a herd basis has been demonstrated in an experimental herd at the Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Maryland. This eradication method, proved over a five year period, should be of value to livestock producers. Mixtures that effectively control but do not eradicate cattle lice have been in use for many years. The success of the method, they say, depends on timing insecticide treatments to break the life cycle of the lice, plus quarantining and treating all new cattle. To eradicate long nosed and short nosed cattle lice and cattle biting lice, all cattle in the herd were given two thorough sprayings, 14 days apart. The insecticide they used was Malathion; however, any of the other recommended materials will do the same thing. All cattle that were brought into the herd were kept in quarantine while they received this two-spray treatment. Although all the above insecticides are safe for use against lice on livestock and will kill all lice past the egg stage, they are not completely effective against lice eggs, especially under pasture conditions. Therefore some lice will hatch from eggs after the first treatment. The second spraying if properly timed, kills these newly hatched lice before they can mature and produce eggs This is why the animals should be sprayed again in 14 days.

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1, 1963.

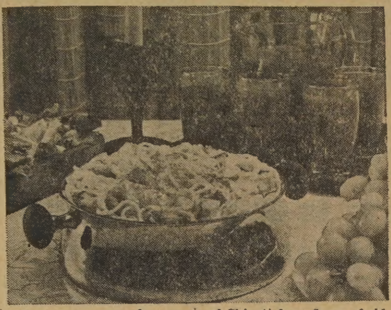
Social Season Sparkles With Canned Chicken Gravy As Aide



Hostesses every place are preparing themselves for the social season. With November comes the gay whirl of entertaining and being entertained. The approaching holiday initiates a festive mood.

Wise homemaker's know how easily they can meet the demands of such a schedule. Canned convenience foods — particularly canned gravies — are definite hostess-savers. If plans call for the theater or a concert with friends, why not issue the invitation to "before" or "after" supper? Canned chicken gravy gives this casserole, Seafood Speciale, its wonderful basic flavor . . . and a dish such as this is one which can be prepared ahead of time, refrigerated, and popped into the oven for 30 minutes before serving.

Shrimp and crab are combined with spaghetti, Italian green beans, Parmesan cheese, and Chianti for a flavor of old Italy. Casear salad is a crispy and inviting companion. Whet appetites with glasses of tangy V-8 juice, and conclude the meal with a big fruit tray.

Seafood Speciale

2 tablespoons onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) chicken gravy
¼ cup milk
½ cup diced cooked shrimp
½ cup flaked cooked crab
½ cup cooked Italian green beans
⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon Chianti or other dry red wine
⅛ teaspoon leaf thyme
2 cups cooked spaghetti
Paprika

In saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Stir in gravy, milk, shrimp, crab, green beans, ¼ cup cheese, Chianti, and thyme. In 1-quart casserole, alternate layers of spaghetti and seafood, ending with seafood. Top with cheese and paprika. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

FOR SALE—7 room house on 133x200 ft. lot. New roof and painted exterior. Located one block from Cobb's Hardware in Jemison. Formerly old Glenn residents. 2 room block house in rear. Bargain at $5,000. Contact Harry McGahy, Jemison, Ala. , 49-3tc

ALABAMA LEADER HAILS MENTAL HEALTH ADVANCE

By U.S. Sen. Lister Hill (D., Ala.)

Chairman, Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee

On October 31, 1963, President Kennedy signed a bill that bestows the great gift of hope upon the 1,500,000 Americans who now receive treatment in institutions for the mentally ill and mentally retarded and for the additional millions who cannot obtain such treatment now because of shortages of psychiatric facilities. The passage of the Mental Retardation Facilities and Community Mental Health Centers Construction Act and the signing of it into law mark the beginning of a truly historic break with the outdated philosophy of mental health care which isolated these forgotten people in huge custodial institutions.

LISTER HILL
U.S. Senator

In 1955 the Congress passed legislation authorizing a long-range study of the problem of mental health care by the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health composed of 36 organizations, including the American Medical Association, the American Legion and the American Psychiatric Association. The Commission report "Action for Mental Health," released in 1961 after six years of comprehensive study, represented the first dramatic attack on the custodial philosophy which had held almost unbroken sway since the establishment of the first public mental hospital in 1773. The Joint Commission report recognized the economic and humanitarian bankruptcy of custodial institutions for the mentally ill and mentally retarded and called for a new approach based upon treating these people in the heart of the community.

President Kennedy endorsed the revolutionary new approach to mental illness and mental retardation in a stirring message to Congress on February 5, 1963.

"We need a new type of health facility, one which will return mental health care to the mainstream of American medicine and at the same time upgrade mental health services. . . . Located in the patient's own environment and community, the center would make possible a better understanding of his needs, a more cordial atmosphere for his recovery and a continuum of treatment."

Under the aegis of planning grant monies voted to the States last year by the Congress and recommended for a second year by the President in his fiscal 1964 budget, the States are currently engaged in comprehensive studies leading to long-range plans spelling out the kinds of centers they regard as particularly suited to their individual needs.

When these plans have been submitted, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is authorized to provide matching grants—on a variable formula basis ranging from 45 percent to 75 percent depending upon economic status—over a four-year period for the construction of community centers for the mentally ill and the mentally retarded and over a five-year period for the construction of universally-associated facilities for the retarded. In the case of comprehensive mental health centers, temporary federal assistance on a matching basis for the staffing costs of these centers is authorized over an eight-year span, with no individual center receiving more than four and a half years of staffing support. Additional sections of the legislation provide federal matching monies for the construction of research centers which would develop new knowledge in the field of mental retardation, and a three-year program for training teachers of the mentally retarded and other handicapped children.

The Right "Formula" For Trip To Moon

Babies born at Chilton County Hospital now get their first taste of this rocket age world by way of a new instant feeding procedure adopted by the hospital.

"This new procedure provides the safest possible way to feed infants in the hospital, and it's cutting hospital costs, too," Mr. W. E. Elmore, administrator said.

What's more, the infant's first meal will be served at room temperature.

This unique feeding procedure, developed after five years of research by Ross Laboratories, a leading maker of prepared infant formulas, works this way:

The formula is sterlized in disposable bottles at the manufacturer's laboratories and ship to the Hospital in a special plastic wrapping.

At feeding time the nurse opens each bottle of formula needed and caps it with a presterilized disposable nipple in a plastic cover. That's it -- no more sterilizing, mixing, adding, bottling, bottlewarming. The baby's bottle is ready in two simple steps.

According to Miss Moates, Director of Nursing Service, there's no room for human error in preparation sush as accidently using salt instead of sugar in the infants's farmula. It's made under rigid standards of quality control before it leaves the manufacturer's plant and delivered ready to feed.

The new procedure, hospital officials said, will probably reduce the cost of formula feeding more than half. With the elimination of time consuming procedures like bottle washing, formula mixing and so forth, the personnel who worked in the formula room are free to perform other important duties in the hospital.

"We're always looking for ways to improve the efficiency of our hospital," Mr. Elmore said, "and this new procedure appears to be doing just that."

More than 500 other hospitals in the U. S. have adopted the procedure, too. At Pittsburg Hospital, administrator Sister Mary Ida pointed out that the new procedure has reduced construction cost of the hospital's already planned new formula room from $15,000 to $5,000.

No one's asked the babies how they feel about the new, instant procedure, although they are doing fine on the formula. By the time they're worried about such things, they'll probably be taking trips to the moon -- The procedure will work there, too.

NEW CHEVELLE!
BY CHEVROLET

The kind of go—6 or V8—you'd expect from one of Chevy's great highway performers. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

The kind of fresh styling—inside and out—that makes it the year's smartest surprise. Come down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!

And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

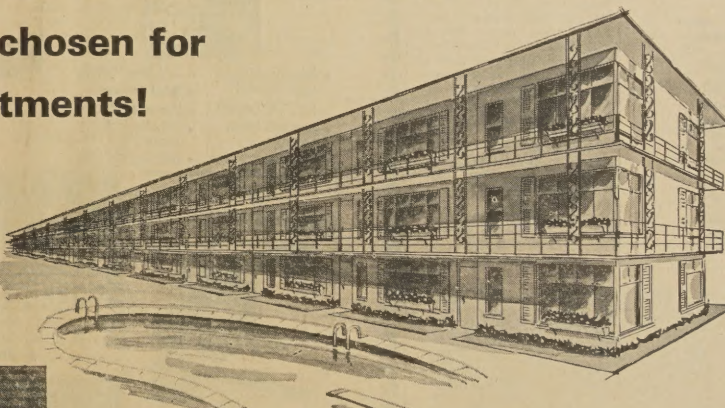
ELECTRIC heat pumps are chosen for more than 1,000 new apartments!



Economical and efficient, the heat pump assures matchless comfort... the year-round

Flameless, all-Electric heat pumps have been specified for more than 1,000 new apartment units this year in the area we serve. Approximately 500 of these modern apartments have been completed, and the remainder soon will be ready for occupancy.

For apartment or home, the fully automatic heat pump is the truly modern . . . truly complete air conditioning system, providing luxurious living . . . at moderate cost.

In winter, this compact "weather machine" warms the indoor air ever so gently, ever so evenly with no hot blasts and no cold spots.

In summer, it cools and dehumidifies, keeping you crisp and comfortable even in the hottest weather.

Because it's flameless, the heat pump doesn't require vents, flues or chimneys . . . nor does it need costly, unsightly water cooling towers. And, it never causes smoke, soot or fuel grime to soil lovely furnishings.

So, before you build, buy or modernize a home . . . or an apartment . . . discuss your plans with one of our heating and air conditioning engineers . . . and move up to the joy of total-Electric living!

Providence No. 1

Sunday School 10:00
Morning Worship 11:00
Training Union 6:00
Evening Worship 7:00
Wednesday Service 6:30

The attendance at Providence was good both Sunday morning and Sunday night. I'm sure each one present enjoyed the messages by Bro. Phillip Shell. We were glad to have Bro. Shell and his family visiting with us Sunday and welcome them back anytime they can come. z

The W.M.U. plan to observe the Week of Prayer, Dec. 9-13. We plan to meet for one hour each day during that week. Each lady is urged to come, that we can join together in asking God for the needs of our foreign missionaries, our church and our own community.

Each one remember next Wednesday night will be our regular Prayer meeting. Thursday night is the night for visitation. We would especially like for Union officers to come and visit for your class that we might be able to get the absentees in your class back in Sunday School and Training Union.

601 From 41 Churches Attend "M" Night Services

'M' night service. mobolization of the members and friends of the churches affiliated with the Chilton-Unity Baptist Association, at the Chilton County High School last Monday, was a very inspiring service. The raid decended. the cold wind blew, some were sick, others were engaged in personal affairs or attended other meetings, but all in all 41 churches were represented with 601 members and friends at the M night service.

29 pastors, 21 Training Union Directors, 13 Associational Officers were present. The banners were awarded to West End with 86 high attendance, and to Verbena with 60 per cent of enrollment present. Nine churches had 20 or more present. Macedonia 46, Samaria 39. Mulberry 35. Northside 35, Clanton First 29, Hillcrest 26 and Mt. Pleasant 22, Verbena 22, Bethsalem 20. A great message was delivered by the visiting speaker, Dr. Richard S. Brannon, pastor of the Huffman Baptist Church.

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

We had the distinct pleasure of speaking to the Chilton County Vocational Association last Wednesday, on the invitation of Mrs. Clara Allison. We thoroughly enjoyed the event, even though it did fall on our busiest day of the week. The welcome we received was more than cordial, and the discussion on newspapering (which is slightly more than interesting to us) was beneficial to all concerned .. .we hope. Anyway folks, we appreciate the invitation.

APPEARING this week (12th and 13th) in the dance concert at Palmer Auditorium, Alabama College, Montevallo, is Chilton's own Miss Burnette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Burnette of Route One Jemison. Linda is a freshman in the school of Art at AC.

FRIDAY night of last week we were privileged to attend the "Employer-Employee" banquet at Holiday Inn, sponsored by the Chilton County High School Diversified Occupations Club. We were the guest of the Club, and in particular of Perry Fulmer, our co-worker here at the News, who is doing a fine job of "learning the trade" through the D. O. program. Mr. F. H. "Bull" Spicer is to be commended for the fine work he is doing with these students. Participation and interest in this program seems to be at an all-time high.

WE didn't know it, until Mr. Manley, the guest speaker last Friday evening, enlightened us to the fact; that our Mr. Watson Yeager was one of the first two D.O. instructors in the State of Alabama. That was a mile of two ago, and in 1937 he came to Clanton as D.O. instructor here until he retired last year.

OUR friend Paul Higdon always keeps the big news to himself. You know him, he's Verbena's one advocate. Anyway, last week he went on a trip to Bermuda, and didn't even bother to tell us he was going. We always wanted to spend Thanksgiving in Bermuda! Bet you didn't know there was a Bermuda in Conecuh County, down around Evergreen! We didn't either, 'til now.

THERE'S a fellow in the State Legislature named Joe Goodwin. Well we met "Pete" Goodwin on the street the other day, and for some unknown reason, we kept calling "Pete" Joe! We don't know the why of it Pete, but we're sorry. Anyway, we're glad to see "Pete" up and at 'em since his bout with the sickness back during the late summer. He looks well and has great plans for his Clearbrook Recreation Center in Billingsley. We'll be telling you more about this later.

YOU know the "Casket" we mentioned last week? Well, Ott Miller says he was one of the "Paul Bear-ers"! Oh brother!

FROM "Rags" to riches; that's the story of the stray pup down at Ruby's Beauty Shop, who in the course of canine events, has seen fit to "litter" up the place with a couple of offsprings. Everybody around there, including Mrs. Zora Guy Smith and the Post Office force, has been tending the orphan family. After about nine weeks, so they sat at Ruby's, of taking care of the little fellows; Hillman Mims, one of Uncle Sam's ZIP Coders, caught one and has taken it home. The only two left are "Rags" and "Riches". Hillman said the one he got is a "Pauper"! (Or will be if Nature has her way about it.)

AFTER getting not less than 35 or 40 "crank" telephone calls in less than a week, our patience was worn out, and we had to tell the party off. We did, but good! We didn't know it until about three days later, but Mrs. Richard Easterling now thinks we're some kind of a nut! You guessed it . . . after all the opportunities to get the guilty party "told", we were talking to the wrong one. We sincerely and publicly apologize to you Mrs. Easterling, and the answer to your question is "4:00 p.m." And by the way . . . we just hired "Pee Wee" as our "whipping boy", so take it out on him, will ya'?

VETERAN WIVES OF WORLD WAR 1 TO MEET

An invitation is extended to the Veteran wives and widows of World War I. to the regular monthly meeting at the Courthouse in Clanton next Tuesday night, December 17th.

Pot luck supper to be served at 6:30 and an exchange of gifts by both Barracks and Auxiliary at this time. Business meeting will follow at 7:45 p.m.

Come and enjoy the fellowship one with another.

AMENDMENT VOTING

WATCH next wek's News for a complete run-down on just how Chilton County voted on the 13 Constitutional Amendments last Tuesday. Voting was light, as it was over the State, but we will give you a Beat by Beat account of just how it went here at home.

ALSO — Next week's News will be full of Christmas Greetings from you local merchants. Since Christmas falls on Wednesday this year, the News is coming out with it's Annual Christmas Edition on the 19th.

If you would like to get your message in this Special Issue of your community newspaper, telephone 32 and a representative will call on you, and help you with ideas for your Greeting Ad.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service.

Santa Claus Came to Town. . .

LAST Friday afternoon, as thousands lined the streets of Clanton, Santa Claus made his 1963 debut, in all his regal splendor. The parade which ushered him into Chilton County for the Yuletide Season was one of the largest and the nicest which Clanton has ever seen. Above is Santa on his float as he waved to the eager youngsters, getting their first glimpse of Santa — 1963 variety.

Youth Rally At Jemison Saturday

Don't forget the Associational Youth Rally will meet next Saturday, December 14th, at the First Baptist Church in Jemison. The service begins at 7:30 p.m. Our program this month is a Carol Sing. Bring your singing voice with you and come help us sing. Also there will be special music by the Verbena FHA Quartet, the Mountain Creek trio, Charlotte Magasson of Alabama College, Roy Kendricks, Richard Bolin, Sherrill Crew, and other soloists, trios and instrumental numbers. Bro. Fred Lowery will close our service with a devotional.

It's been our custom at this Rally to bring together non-perishable good such as candy, fduit canned goods, etc. and later to distribut these good among the needy families of our county.

We remind you to bring as much as you can, so we can help others to have a Merry Christmas.

MAPLESVILLE BETA CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

The Maplesville Beta Club will present a play entitled, Huckelberry Finn, Saturday, December 14, 1963 at 7:30 p.m. in the Maplesville High School Auditorium. The prices are 35c and 50c.

The cast is as follows: Richard Harrison, Ronald Bearden, Mary Lee Lawley, Linda Smith. Jo Owen, Gloria Harrison, Walter Graham, Jackie Ousley, Warren Shuford, Pat Brown, Judy O'Neal, and Mary Watson. This play is directed by Mr. M. D. Lind.

The Grady Davises

Honored for 5 Years Perfect Attendance

Last week four from one family were honored by receiving special attendance awards for five years of perfect Sunday School attendance. They are, left to right Mr. Grady Davis, Donnie Davis, Mrs. Annie Pearl Davis and Ricky Davis. This family is to be especially commended for the fact that in October they had a new addition to their home with the arrival of little Mark Andrew. Even with his arrival, and Mrs. Davis going to the rospital, they were able to work it all out so that none of them missed being present for Sunday School. This brings the number to fifteen at the Temple who have had perfect attendance for five years. The difficulty of receiving this award is apparent from the fact that not one Sunday's absence is allowed for any reason, including sickness. The Temple is very thankful for these and others who are striving for a similar goal.

Last Sunday's attendance was 189. The services of the day were blessed by God's presence. Our lives were all deeply touched by the death of both Rev. Jesse Mitchell and Mr. Walter Mims. We extend our prayers for both of these families.

We extend a cordial invitation to all to attend the services at the Temple this Sunday.

Christmas Chest Call To Be Made Tonight

COLLECTION OF ITEMS FOR CHRISTMAS CHEST

A roundup of food, toys, and money for the Chilton County Christmas Chest will be held tonight (Thursday) in the Clanton Residential area, beginning at 6:00 p.m. All residents of the Clanton area are asked to turn on their porch lights to indicate that they have a contribution for the Christmas' Chest. Non-perishabble food is needed, and broken toys will be accepted if all the parts are included. Money is also needed so that the Chest can continue to operate in emergency cases throughout the year.

The Civil Defense Rescue Squad will canvass the Clanton area tonight and will be accompanied by sixty school children who will be their special assistants. After the collections have been made, the food and toys will be taken to the Clanton Armory. L. D. Easterlings Veteran's Class will then begin work on repairing the toys that will be distributed to need children at Christmas.

Please be generous tonight when you are asked for money, food or toys for the Chilton County Christmas Chest. Your thoughtfullness will enable the Chest to bring Christmas joy to over 100 Chilton County families.

The Clanton Business section will be visited this week and next by member of the Life Underwriter's Association. These men will also be soliciting money, food and toys for the Christmas Chest. The chest is a County organization and all money stays here at home. Let your heart rule your pocket book this Christmas season.

Conway to serve as March of Dimes Head

Mr. Gordon Conway will serve as the 1964 March of Dimes Campaign Director for Chilton County, Dr. Frank A. Rose and Thomas F. Parker, Alabama State Co-Chairmen announced today.

"The March of Dimes is doing more than any other private organization has ever done to fight three of the nation's greatest cripplers - - polio. birth defects and arthritis.

"That's the reason I accepted the chairmanship of the 196 March of Dimes campaign in Chilton County and that's the reason I believe it deserves the support of all our citizens," said Mr. Conway today.

"Anyone who doesn't believe these health problems are important should look at the figures," declared Mr. Conway.

More than 250,000 of our babies are born each year with significant birth defects, many causing permanent disability. Some from of arthritis or disabling rheumatic disease afflicts more than 11 million Americans, many thousands of them being children who suffer from particularly severe conditions. And the State of Alabama has been number one in the Nation for polio incidents this year.

With public contributions the March of Dimes has established some 70 treatment centers throughout the country to give expert medical care for children with birth defects, for people of all ages stricken by arthritis and for those afflicted by polio. Fifteen of these centers also conduct research.

The same kind of research program that developed the Salk and Sabin vaccines is now supporting many of the world's leading scientists to the extent of 4 million dollars as they search for possible means of prevention of birth defects and arthritis.

"The American people have come to expect success from the March of Dimes," said Mr. Conway. "Their continued support this January will make possible even greater victories over disease and disability."

RESCUE SQUAD TALKS TURKEY

THE Rescue Squad is talking "Turkey" all over the County these days. They are selling tickets, at 25c each, for a bunch of the birds, to be given away Saturday, December 21st, on the Courthouse corner.

Anyone wanting to purchase a ticket for the big event can do so from any member of the Rescue Squad.

We are informed this week that this will be a real shindig, and the last 15 minutes of the event will be broadcast over local radio station WKLF.

See inside this issue for list of those who have contributed turkeys for this event.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Nora Vines, Clanton and Mr. Marvin R. Vines, Sr., of Geneva, Alabama, announce the egagemet of their daughter, Mary Linda to Lannis Chester Jones, son of M.rand Mrs. R. Chester Jones also of Clanton.

Cox played his high school ball for Chilton County High School while Killingsworth tipped the baskets for Jemison High.

Education, Information, Closely Related--

ON more than one occasion we have come face to face with the proposition that our educators in public schools are very adamant in their refusal to become connected in any way with a purely local business establishment, because of the connection with a profit-making organization or concern.

For example; teachers could not work with this newspaper on an essay contest, because their code of ethics, or some rule book would not allow them to participate with a business establishment (such as a newspaper) with profit as its motive.

They can't sell subscriptions to the community newspaper for the same reason. They cannot be connected with the business, purely because it would team them with a profit-making organization.

Well, we have remained quiet as long as we can.

It does not mean making or breaking us, whether they cooperate with us in such capacities or not; it's the principle of the thing..

We have noted a visible and obvious connection with schools on various occasions, when they "team up" with profit-making groups It may be a singing at the school, it may be selling candy for a school group or it may be selling advertising space for the school yearbook.

The singers are singing to make a profit; the candy-maker is busy in his kitchen to make a profit; and the men who represent, and the people who print that yearbook, are definitely single-mindin their efforts in behalf of "profit".

It galls us particularly because they will cooperate with an entirely "transient" crowd, for profits' sake; but they refuse to give the home folks -- the local concern -- even a tumble when they make them an offer of one kind or another.

"Trading at home", in our opinion, extends beyond the individual when we get into such cases as these.

We don't expect charity, in any form, from our educators; and neither do we intend to take advantage of them, or their numbers of students. We would like a bit of cooperation from them on the home front, and we think all other local business establishments would also appreciate it, since they are called on incessantly to support first one thing and another, in the name of education.

When the senior classes (or any other group for that matter) undertake to sell magazines for the treasury, there is usually a representative from the magazine distributor on hand to dole out candy, and assorted enticements, so that group will really get out and drive--for the sake of the treasury of course. You can bet your last shirt that he is not nearly as concerned with the Class treasury as he is with his commission from their efforts.

Is that blunt? O.K., it's blunt!

We use the newspaper here as an example, because we know newspapering but we are sure there are other local businesses who share our opinion.

This newspaper's support of education in this County is unquestionable. This year alone, we have devoted columns of space and untold hours of time and work for the advancement of education in this County and we h neither asked, nor received anything in the way of "profit" for it.

We don't say this boastfully. We use it to show that there are no grounds for the schools to completely refuse to cooperate with the newspaper in efforts for "profit", as long as there is also profit in it for those who do the selling, or who otherwise participate.

If the schools will allow the students to work for the outside interest which comes into the community to make it's sale, split the profits (mighty lop-sided we might add) and be on its profitable way; how then, can it refuse to do likewise for the local concern?

How many of these outside concerns support this County and community in any way, other than the small percentage it might pay the group which does the work for them?

Now ask yourself: How much does the local concern -- such as this newspaper -- contribute to the advancement of education, to the individual student, and to the entire educational system, say over a period of a year?

Of course, the schools could do without this newspaper. But would they like to do without it? And would they like to do without the support of th scores of other business establishments- purely local -- which support them i some capacity every year?

It is extremely difficult to devot so much time and effort toward improving our schools and our educational systems in this County; as well as contributing dollars to various causes in the system; when they are seemingly indifferent as to whether we even exist or no

We can understand how they coul go too far in the "profit-making" ideas but we do not understand, and we neve will, their lack of cooperation. or desire to cooperate with the communit newspaper.

The efforts which we put forth fo our community, whether they be of political, religious, or educational natur are 100 percent non-profit, and sincerely undertaken to improve, not to benefi from materially. It is, however, an economic fact, that the newspaper canno do this without some means of revenue If a precedent would be establishe through your support of this newspape and you think that precedent would b harmful to your community, then b all means, stay clear of any such disaster

Jingle Bells--

CONGRATULATIONS once again to the Jaycees and the Jaycettes on the ushering in of the Christmas Season with the parade last Friday afternoon.

In our opinion it was the best organized presentation, for a parade, that we have ever seen here in Clanton. The floats were lovely, and the participation seemed truly sincere and effective.

All in all, it was a wonderful event, welcomed by all who saw it, young or old.

Our only complaint with the entire affair is that Santa Claus, who after all, is the star of such an event, was not given the place of honor which he is accustomed to. He was not glorified nearly to the degree he should have been, and it took some of the sparkle from the event . . . especially in the eyes of the youngsters.

As a whole, the 1963 Christmas Parade was a whopping success, and very lovely to behold.

Something For The Girls--

We have always admired and approved of the Strong Boy Scout program in this County. It is probably the most effective single effort in behalf of young boys that anyone has ever undertaken.

It did our hearts good to see, in last Friday's Christmas Parade. the strong showing of Brownie (Girl) Scouts marching along and singing "We Wish You A Merry Christmas". For a long time the young members of the "fairer sex" have been deprived of such an organization in this area, and we think it is a vitally needed program. Thanks to Mrs W. E. Elmore, and some others like her we're sure, for the organizing of the Girl Scouts in this area. We feel certain that it will reap great dividends for the community as well as for those young ladies who participate.

1963 Christmas Seal Campaign--

IT'S not the size of the Christmas gift, it's the meaning that counts. And the biggest meaning of all lies in that little Christmas Seal. Each Christmas Seal stands for the continuing fight against Tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases. Make sure each piece of holiday mail and each gift package bears a Christmas Seal - the gift of life and health.

Decorate every Christmas letter and gift with Christmas Seals. Let it be your way of sending out a message of hope in the fight against Tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases. Join with all Alabama to help win this fight - - seal your letters with hope. Use Christmas Seals on all your Holiday mail.

Spirit Of Patriotism--

Just as going to church strengthens an individuals religious faith, so does music move us to greater achievement, and stronger patriotism.

In our opinion one of the greatest contributors to the spirit of patriotism was one John Philip Sousa. His march music such as "Semper Fidelis", "The Washington Post March", and "Hail To The Chief" have thrilled and moved millions of people, and given them a stronger feeling about their patriotism to their Country.

At one time, the most moving and stirring portion of any football game, regardless of teams matched or location played. was the march music of the brass bands. Nowadays, about the only time you can hear such moving music is when the Army plays the Navy, and that's because the military, at least, even if of necessity only. hasn't forgotten the march music.

If you go to a ball game or see one on TV, the music the bands play is disgusting. They play "popular tunes", and to us, that's about like Elvis Pressley singing grand opera. It just isn't the place (and they are not equipped to play such music.)

A professional orchestra does admirably well with "popular music." A brass band, or a drum and bugle corps was designed for march music of the Sousa variety. These marches never grow old to us, and we are definitely in favor of a revival of them. We believe they would do a great deal toward bringing the public back to the realization that patriotism is necessary, and the expression of same can be found, very effectively, in marching bands.

"My Bucket's Got A Hole In It", and "Sleepy Time Gal" just somehow don't stir our patriotic nature too much. We like 'em alright: we just don't feel like getting up and saluting the flag when they are played. The bands are missing a wonderful opportunity to revive spirit in our people.

Praises Stand Of Mayhall

Dear Editor—

I do not know Roy Mayhall, but have come to the conclusion that he must be a very courageous, honorable and honest man. It would take all of these qualifications for a man to make the statement in public, that he has been given the credit of making, knowing well what the consequences might be.

It is a shame and a disgrace to our state, the way many are criticising him for speaking the truth. When Governors and other officials in high positions. openly defy our national laws and court orders and go unpunished, it encourages nuts, nit-wits and screwballs to take things in their own hands. It also encourages juvenile delinquency. How can a juvenile be expected to show any more respect for the laws than elders show, Editors and ministers, who have so blatently been misrepresenting the facts, must also bear their share of the blame.

Call For Apology From Mayhall

A RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Judge Roy Mayhall, Chairman of the Alabama Democratic Executive Committee, recently charged in a speech in Cullman, Alabama, that Alabamians must share the blame for President John Fitzgerald Kennedy's death, and

WHEREAS, he further charged the people of Alabama with contempt for the courts and his remarks tend to disparage the activities of George C. Wallace, Governor of Alabama, and intimated that those supporting him were a hate group of Alabama Democrats. and

WHEREAS, the Hon. George C. Wallace has at all times conducted his fight against Federal encroachment upon States' Rights on a high plane, and urged the people of this state, time and time again, to conduct themselves in an orderly and lawful manner and repeatedly reiterated that we must win our fight for States' Rights in the Courts, and

WHEREAS, Gov. Wallace has created a good image for the State of Alabama in speeches in other states, and has the full confidence and loyalty of the majority of the people of this state who have shown their respect for law and order in Birmingham, Mobile, Tuskegee and other trouble sports, and

WHEREAS, Chairman Mayhall, in making such intemperate statements, has damaged the image of the State of Alabama, its people, and has attempted to disparage the Governor of Alabama - who is the titular head of the Democratic Party of Alabama, and

WHEREAS, Chairman Mayhall has thereby done a great disservice to the Democratic Party of Alabama, the Hon. George C. Wallace, its Governor, and to the people of Alabama, themselves, and

WHEREAS, Chairman Mayhall, on the record, has placed himself in an untenable position by reason of unfounded charges now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED that we, the members of the State Democratic Executive Committee from the Third Congressional District, do hereby call upon Chairman Mayhall to retract his statements and publicly apologize to the people of the state, to the Governor of the state, and to the members of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Done this the 5th day of December, 1963, at Eufaula, Alabama.

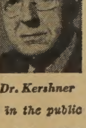
IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.



Dr. Kershner

THE next step in the movement to remove any reference to God from our schools has now been taken. New York State Commissioner of Education, Dr. James E. Allen, Jr. ruled recently that the singing or recitation of the fourth stanza of "America" had "deliberately set out to evade the Constitutional prohibition against any daily religious exercises in the public school."

Where can we find nobler words;

Our fathers' God to Thee,
Author of liberty,
To thee we sing.
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light.
Protect us by Thy might Great God, our King!

But now for millions of children, "America" will have no fourth stanza. In addition Dr. Allen has ruled the words: "In God is our trust" in the fourth stanza of "The Star Spangled Banner" invalidate its use in opening exercises in the schools. The tide is rising; the dam has been broken. What next? Probably new coins minted without "In God We Trust", a pledge of allegiance without "under God", oaths without the Bible and the removal of chaplains from Congress and the Armed Forces.

Of course there is no "Constitutional prohibition against any daily religious exercises in the public school." The Constitution specifically prohibits Congress from passing any law "prohibiting the free exercise" of religion. Apparently Dr. Allen thinks he can do what Congress cannot constitutionally do. The ruling of the Supreme Court did not change the Constitution.

For nearly a century and a half the children of America have sung this beautiful hymn with delight and reverence. Now because eight people have protested, the rights and wishes of more than 180 million are to be set aside. We protest and we insist that majorities, especially when as overwhelming as in this case, have some rights.

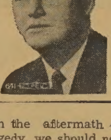
Report from Washington



BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

In the aftermath of national tragedy, we should not allow the President's death to be used as a political propaganda weapon by one group against another.

Speaking in the House of Representatives last week, I pointed out that there is a vital need for the American people to gain perspective on the facts surrounding what President Johnson has called "the foulest deed of our time."

The national interest can only be served by the most thorough investigation into the facts surrounding the assassination. Pendin the complete results of this investigation, it would seem to be the duty of every American--especially our political leaders and public figures--to direct their energies toward helping the nation acquire perspective and insight into the tragic events of Nov. 22.

In this regard, I regret that much has been said in recent days that both blurs the salient facts known about the President's death and does disservice to the overriding cause of national unity at this critical time. This is no time for any Americans to seize upon the incident of national tragedy in order to further the political philosphy of one group against another.

I told my colleagues in the House last Thursday that I, for one, deeply resent the frantic and unreasoned effort on the part of some spokesmen to issue a mass indictment against a city, a state, and a region for what occurred in Dallas. Texas, that fatal Friday afternoon.

To lay the responsibility for our President's tragic death upon any city, state, region or group of Americans is to sow the seeds of national distrust and division. It is also demagogic nonsense.

Oswald A Communist

There is reason to believe that President Kennedy was assassinated by a demented personality acting on his own. At the same time, we cannot overlook the fact that the mind of Lee Harvey Oswald by his own admission had been poisoned at an early age by the propaganda of the most malevolent enemy of our American system--the forces of international communism.

Our government has said that it has no indication that the Soviet government or any other foreign government was involved in the assassination of the President. Though this may be true, there is no overlooking the fact that before he died, the assassin Oswald told the world that he had first developed his hatred for this country and our system after reading an inflammatory Communist tract at the age of 15.

If it can be said that an "atmosphere of hate" surrounded th mind of Oswald, let us remember that this poison did no emanate from Dallas, New York or any other American community but from the alien capita city of the Communist world.

Communist Tradition

It is not surprising to find th Communist propaganda apparat us looking for a purporte 'ultra-right" scapegoat to cove up Oswald's political past. which led from the Soviet Union t the place of assassination. Th history of communism is one o criminality and violence, an Oswald, whether or not acting a a Communist agent on November 22nd, was certainly acting in the bloody political tradition of hi Communist mentors. But Americans, especially leaders in politics and communications, should not be misled--nor should they mislead others--in fixing the moral responsibility for the death of our President.

For if there is a lesson to be derived from this painful momen in our history, it is that we cannot permit ourselves to fall victim to the illusion that the way of the Communists is the way o peace, unity or tolerance. The assassination of President Kennedy was a act of viilence and intolerance--it was an act in the Communist tradition.

IT'S YOUR WELFARE

Q. Can I get an old age pension if my son claims me as an income tax deduction? He gives me $20 a month and I get $33 Social Security?

A. The law says to claim a parent as an income tax deduction, you must meet at least half his or her needs. The Department of Pensions and Security considers that your son meets half your needs if he claims you. However, if the $33 and any other income you have is not enough for the rest of your needs, and you meet other requirements, you may qualify for a small pension.

Q: Can a mother get a bigger welfare check evåry time she has another baby?

A. The maximum payment of aid to dependent children ranges from $32 for one child to $124 for a family, regardless of the number of children. However, the average payment is between $11 and $12 per recipient in Alabama. If a family's needs are increased by a new baby, there may be some increase in the payment provided it already was below the maximum.

Q. Can the Department of Pensions and Security help me with my 14 year old son? He won't go to school regularly and he stays out too late at night?

A. Yes. the Department will be glad to discuss this matter with you and your son, and see what help is needed.

Q. How long does a couple have to wait if they apply to adopt a baby?

A. No set time. After their home is approved, the wait depends on how soon there is a child whose needs will be served best by their home. Sometimes there are delays before approval, because of necessary clearances such as doctor's statements, etc.

100 Years Ago

One hundred years ago this week, Robert Ould, Confederate Commissioner of Exchange, sent an official letter to the agent of the Federal Government stating that since there had been so much controversy over the transmission of food and clothing to Federal prisoners at Richmond, no more supplies from the Federal government would be distributed to the prsioners after depletion of the provisions on hand. A Confederate clerk at Richmond, commenting upon the order in his diary, favored the move. He stated, "It seems that our men in their hands are not even allowed the visits of their friends."

The conditions of both Federal and Confederate prisons were the subject of bitter controversy, since neither side had adequate facilities when war struck nor was able to provide them when captures mounted during the struggle.

Typical of the deplorable conditions of both Federal and Confederate stockades was the prison in Cahaba, Alabama, -- an old abandoned cotton warehouse originally intended to contain 500 men but confining 2,151 by October of 1864.

In March, 1864, Confederate Surgeon R. M. Whitfield, who was in charge of the prison, stated in his monthly report to the Medical Director, Dr. P. B. Scott at Demopolis: "When you know the sanitary condition of the prison you cannot be surprised at the large number of cases (of sickness) reported. A brick wall covered by a leaky roof, with sixteen hundred feet of open space in its center, four open windows, and the earth for the floor, constitutes the prison."

Dr. Whitfield also stated that through the winter of 1863 and 1864 the prisoners would average about two blanket to each five men and that "the supply of water for drinking, cooking, and bathing, as well as for washing, is conveyed from an artesian well along an open street gutter for two hundred yards, thence under the street into the prison."

Food supplies for Federal soldiers in Southern prisons became harder to obtain during the latter years of the war. Confederate soldiers and private citizens were suffering untold hardships as the war moved south, ravaging the fields and bringing starvation to many areas. Still prisoners in such places as Cahaba and Andersonville got much the same food as their keepers. Disease, financial collapse, food shortages, and the breakdown of transportation, none of which the South could control, rather than cruelty account for the high death rate in Southern prisons-almost matched in many cases by the death rate of Southerners in Northern enclosures.

EMPLOYEE OF JOURNAL SUCCUMBC AT WORK

Walter Warner Mims, 40, Clanton, a composing room employee at the Selma Times-Journal, suffered a fatal heart attack at noon Saturday. Rushed to a Selma hospital, he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mims, for 25 years a newspaper employee, first with The Union-Banner in Clanton and for 12 years a member of the Times-Journal composing room staff except for a one-year period with the Montgomery Advertiser, suffered the heart attack while at work.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p.m., Monday at Temple Assembly of God in Clanton, conducted by Martin Funeral Home. Burial was at Temple Assembly of God. Rev. Harold White officiated.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Alice Mims; two sons, Frankie and Don Mims; his mother, Mrs. J. O. Robinson; his grandmother, Mrs. Minnie P. Thornton, all of Clanton, and one sister, Mrs. Roland Ellison, of Selma.

Of every six persons who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die, according to the American Cancer Society. Numbers 1 and 2 wil lbe saved. Number 3 will die but might have been saved had proper treatment been received earlier. Numbers 3, 5 and 6 will die of cancers which can not yet be controlled; only the results of research can save these patients. Support the American Cancer Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade.

Postmaster Signals Start of Yule Season Mail Rush

The advent of December marked the start of one of the biggest races in town -- the annual race against time at the Clanton post office as its Christmas mail rush went into high gear, Postmaster R. R. Sutley noted today.

New reports from Postmaster General John A. Grinouski in Washington to Mr. Sutley indicate an anticipated nationwide record mail volume for this Christmas season of nearly 12 billion pieces during December.

Locally, Postmaster Sutley expects another record volume of mail exceeding last December's.

"Shopping and mailing early benefits everyone," the postmaster observed. "Customers who buy early get the pick of all the Christmas stocks; the local economy is aided by the business activity thus created, and everyone - including the postal service - is happy about the additional time that early mailing allows.

"Early mailing also gives us time to get gifts and cards in the hands of addressees in good condiiton with less chance of damage or delay due to human error."

"Our employees need public help to run this race against time - and patrons of the Clanton post office can assist us by shopping and mailing right now and by using ZIP Code in both return and destination addresses."

Merchants Can Help—

Keep Stores Free Of Fire Hazards

Proprietors of the nation's retail stores were urged today to observe special precautions to keep their stores firesafe during the busy Christmas shopping season.

By following simple precautions the possibility of fire in stores crowded with shoppers can be kept at a minimum, the National Board of Fire Underwriters said.

Fire Safety Tips

The National Board made these suggestions:

Enforce no smoking rules. Smoking by both the public and employees should be prohibited on the selling floors, and restricted to especially designed areas.

As counters and shelves are stocked with fresh merchandise empty paper cartons and boxes should be removed from selling floors immediately. and disposed of the same day.

Store decorations should be made of non-flammable or fire-resistant materials, and care should be taken to keep thme away from electric light bulbs.

All aisles on selling floors and regular and emergency exits should be kept clear of stock, hand trucks and other obstructions to permit quick evacuation if a fire alarm sounds.

Have A Fire Plan

The store should have a plan of what to do if fire strikes. Before Christmas shopping crowds appear, time should be taken out for an employees' fire drill. Clerks should be instructed on how to guide shoppers to the nearest exit in case of emergency.

Employees should be told that in case of fire the first thing to do is sound the store's fire alarm in order to evacuate the building, then quickly call the fire department. If there is a fire alarm box outside, at least one employee should be given the duty of sounding the alarm from that box, then remaining by the box to direct the fire department to the store when it arrives.

AP Act Approved for Another Year; Jones

Extension of the Accelerated Public Works Act for another year was approved today by the House Public Works Committee, of which Congressman Bob Jones (D-Ala.) is a high ranking member..

The Act was approved by the Congress last year and was signed into law by President Kennedy on Sept. 14, 1962. Its purpose is to get at the roots of chronic and persistent unemployment in rural and city areas and to enable communities to carry out needed public works to attract industry, provide jobs and to safeguard public health, safety and the community welfare in general. The original appropriation has either been used or pledged.

"Alabama has received more benefits from the Accelerated Public Works Act than many of the other 49 states." Congressman Jones said. "Alabama has had 188 projects approved, which is the 13th highest for the country. Our state has received $25.3 million in federal funds to carry out its needed projects and this sum is the 8th highest amount for all the states. These projects now are providing 39,898 man months of employment for our Alabama people and this is the 7th highest employment figure under the

What Income?

Don't wait until the next Federal income tax filing period to try remembering what income besides salaries and wages you received this year.

District Director, George D Patterson, of the Birmingham office of the Internal Revenue Service advised that there are several types of income which should be reported for Federal income tax purposes.

Examples of taxable income are bonuses, tips, commissions, dividends. interest on bank deposits, interest on U. S. savings bonds, rents, rayolties. and income from part time work not covered by withholding.

Examples of income that is not taxable include Social Security benefits, Railroad Retirement Act benefits, Interest on State and Municipal Bonds, Dividends on Veteran's Government Insurance. Workmen's Compensation Payments, as well as gifts and inheritances.

bonds, rents, royalties. and in-

Unreported taxable income discovered after you file your return is subject to interest and possible penalties. If you are uncertain about the tax liability of any money received or earned, call your local Internal Revenue office. They've had one hundred years' experience answering taxpayers' questions.

Isabella FHA Met November 29, 1963

On November 29, 1963, the meeting of the Isabella Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America was opened by the opening ceremony led by President Betty Bavar. The FHA Prayer Song was sung and the devotional was given by Lanelle Wright. The whole group stood and repeated The Lord's Prayer. The secretary, Carol Smith. read the minutes and gave a financial report. Elaine Wilson and Judy Nell Glenn reported on the projects the club had adopted. Judy announced that we would be sending help to Beverly Kent at the Talladega School for the Deaf and Blind.

The sponsor, Mrs. Wilkins, reminded the group to finish the candy sale, and to purchase the cookbooks which had been ordered.

The president appointed several committees. They are as follows: Committee in charge of helping the needy in our school with chairman Elaine Wilson; serving, Sue Mims and Barbara Bone. The committee for helping Beverly Kent at Talladega — chairman, Judy Nell Glenn, Ann Durbin and Carolyn Minor.

The committee responsible for the decorations at the FHA - FFA Christmas Party — Teena Lockhart, Janice Jones, Trisha Eiland and the FHA Officers.

The committee responsible for the refreshments at the Christmas Party — Janice Jones, Evelyn Smitherman, Linda Traywick. The committee responsible for the games at the Party are the Cheerleaders: Martha Lockhart, Judy Bean, Carolyn Franklin, Betty Bavar. Glenda Headley, Wynell Kendrick and Gail Headley.

Seniors at Isabella Linda Wilson and Gene Puckett were chosen as boy and girl of the month for November. December's two chosen are Wynelle Kendrick and Eugene Wilkins.

A "Parliamentary Procedure" meeting was scheduled with Lonella Mims giving the report.

A former member of the FHA, Linda Lenoir was recognized and the meeting was adjourned until January. There will be no meeting this month.

YOUR HEALTH

THE HANDSHAKE

The man had a crushing handshake grip. It brought others almost to their knees. He was trying to be impressive. The handshake is said to have originated through mistrust, with men grabbing each other's hands to show that neither was holding a dirk or dagger. Today, the handshake expresses a courteous gesture. Generally speaking, the handshake is an indication of personality.

A firm and hearty handclasp accompanied by a smile is known and practiced as a signal of good will. It could be that a man of good will who offers a moist, cold handshake perhaps suffers from nervousness and timidity. The perfunctory or so-so handshake indicates, intentionally or unintentionally, an aloofness or lack of interest.

The hands themselves reveal much.

Hands can be beautiful, from the baby's hands which Swinburne called the sweetest flowers in all the world to the gnarled wrinkled hands of old age.

Whether they be the delicately expressive hands of a ballet dancer or the scarred hands of the manual laborer the hands have character.

To the physician the hands are aids in recognition and diagnosis of disease. Some diseases are revealed by the hands for excessive sweating may be seen in tension; cold dry hands point to hypothyroidism and tremor occurs with weakness due to nervousness or circulatory disorders. Addison's disease, liver disease, and hardening of the arteries are suggested by symptoms showing in the hands.

Postage Today Same As In 1847!

P. O. URGES USE OF "FIVES" INSTEAD OF "FOURS"!

"People sending Christmas cards today at the 5c first class rate pay the same to mail Christmas greetings as Americans did well over a century ago," Postmaster R. R. Sutley noted today.

"Research shows that in 1847 the Post Office Department issued its first stamps, including a nickel stamp for the basic prepaid letter rate," Postmaster Sutley said.

"And, of course, in those days a nickel could buy a meal where it usually can't even buy a cup of coffee today," Mr. Sutley pointed out.

"Since 1932," the postal executive observed, "while living costs for the American family have skyrocketed considerably more than 100 per cent - the cost of mailing a first class letter has only increased by two cents or two thirds."

The Postmaster's comments were made in connection with a recommendation to Clanton residents to use the first class 5c Christmas stamp on their Christmas cards. The stamp portrays the National Christmas Tree on the "Eastern Ellipse" in the Nation's Capital. . The stamp is available at the local post office

The 5c rate permits forwarding or return of the letter where necessary, allows the use of a handwritten message on the card adding a personal touch --and also provides speedier handling and faster delivery, particularly for cards going out of town.

"In recent years, people have been buying better and more expensive greeting cards - and it seems a shame when only 4c third class postage is paid and the addressee has moved that we normally can not even forward the card," Mr. Sutley commented. "It is poor economy to try to save a few pennies and lost several dollars worth of cards in the bargain..'.'

The cost of air parcel post is surprisingly modest. Sending parcels weighing more than one pound by air is frequently cheaper than using first class postage.

President Johnson Calls For Less Spending

Congressman Bob Jones (D-Ala.) today lauded President Johnson's drive to effect immediate economies in Federal spending.

In a statement, Jones said it is becoming apparent in Washington that the President is engaged in a deadly serious campaign to restrain government expenditure.

"President Johnson told us in his address to Congress last week", Jones said, "that the Federal Government would be ad ministered with the utmost thrift and frugality' and that he would insist upon 'a dollar's value for a dollar spent.' "

"He has been moving swiftly and surely toward this goal in the last few days. He is proving to be a man of action. The call is for economy and the President has been passing the message personally to Congress and government departments and agencies. No government budget is escaping the President's attention."

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. You get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams to harness all that power. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

Robert Leroy Peterson Celebrates

The afternoon of Nov. 29th, Robert Leroy Peterson celebrated his 8th birthday with a Railroad party at his home. Each guest was given a red or blue railroader's kercief to wear and games and contests were all about trains.

A railroad circled the train topped birthday cake on the refreshment table.

Following refreshments, the guests watched as Robert opened his gifts. Attending the party: Robert Culp, Michael Cobb, Lynn Ellison, Michael Price, Anthony Vines, Neal Clements, Wayne Porter, Rex Hall, Billy Shields, Mark and Brent Hilyer, Julia and Elizabeth Peterson, sisters of Robert.

Another Jemison Land Mark Comes Down

The past summer witnessed the razing of another old Jemison land mark, when the 10 room dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson was torn down and replaced with a neat, trim 7 room brick structure.

The old building originally consisted of four rooms and a large front porch, built from virgin hear timber abou 1890. Built by a Mr. Allen, later it was owned by Mr. Bandy, who made additional improvements.

TB Campaign Begins Here

The annual Christmas Seal Campaign in Chilton County received its traditional send off Friday, November 15, with the general mailing of Christmas Seals to residents. Proceeds of the campaign will be used by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association to combat TB and other respiratory diseases.

Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Christmas Seal Chairman, said that millions of lives have been saved since the first contribution was made for a Christmas Seal. "But the saving of lives is not enough." "We are also continuing to wage a relentless fight against the suffering, tragedy, loss of time and money that result from TB and other diseases that affect breathing. Many of these other respiratory diseases are not only gravely harmful in themselves, but increase susceptibility to TB".

Figures released by the United States Public Health Service show that Respiratory Disease ranks first among disablers of people and fourth among causes of death. We must expend our efforts to find the hidden cases of tuberculosis and other respiratory disease in this community. One of our goals is to alert every person to the fact that chronic cough and shortness of breath, most common symptoms of respiratory disease, may indicate the presence of a serious ailment and require the advice of a physician. We must also put more money into medical research to find better ways of fighting TB and other Respiratory Disease. Let's keep our County healthy.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, administrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemnities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

CANCER FACTS:

More men than women died of cancer last year, according to the American Cancer Society. This has een true since 1949. The rate in 1963 will be about 54 men ta 46 women. Support the 1963 Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

W. M. U. Meeting

Wednesday night, Dec. 4th organizations of the Baptist church, met at the church: Brotherhood, RA's, Int. GA's and WMU Circles.

Songs, Sweet Hour of Prayer and Near The Cross were sung. Rev. Brasher read James 5:16-18. Mrs. B. C. Lenoir WMU President led in prayer.:

Mrs. Sam Woodley was program chairman for the evening. The topic, Partner for Progress in Japan.

Giving the devotional thoughts were Mrs. Louis Brasher, reading scripture, Psalm 105:1-3. Psalm 96:1-4. with Mrs. Eula Cost giving examples of Thanksgiving with gifts.

Mrs. Woodley as Interviewer, Mrs. Leo Shaw as Japanese Leader and Mrs. V. O. Lenoir as Missionary told about the conditions in Japan and the work by Missionaries there. Mrs. Seymour Reynolds led the program, Prayer for Missionary, having birthdays on December 4th. Tentative plans were made for the Mission Study book review, Mandelbaum Gate.

Youth Assembly

The theme for December in the Youth Assembly program is Go - Tell. The subject for Dec. 8 was Thou Shall Be Witnesses. The aim is to show young people they can witness.

Quiet music, In the Hour of Trial.

Call to worship, Proverbs 11:30 was read by Mr. Erskine Woodley, department superintendent.

Jerry Stephens led in Prayer.

The group joined together in singing, Some Soul for Thee.

Mrs. Brasher announced plans for the Christmas program. Dec. 22, Young People to form a choir.

Gerald Atchinson and Jane Porter read scripture regarding the morning topic. Song. Here Am I, Send Me.

Paul Culp closed the service. The attendance was around 30.

Mrs. Ida Bean has returned from a visit to Birmingham with her son James Lloyd and family and to Gadsden with her daughter, Mrs. Guy Green and Mr Green.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Riggins of Birmingham were in Jemison Saturday visiting old friends. They will be remembered as Cora and Wilma Webb.

The night Circle of WMU met at the Baptist Church, Tuesday night, Dec. 3rd. Mrs. J. O. Cobb was in charge of the program, based on the book, Mr. Theron Rankin, Apostle of Advance.

Mrs. William Vines read the scripture for the calendar of Prayer, read the names of Missionaries with birthdays on that date, Mrs. Leo Shaw led in prayer.

Mrs. Cobb gave the introduction with Mrs. Vines, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Eula Cost giving other parts.

Mrs. C. C. Culp led the closing prayer. after a short business session.

Mrs. Verna Bean, Judy and Billy Bean of the Merchant Marine in New York were Friday night supper guests of Mrs. Bean's sister, Mrs. Eula Cost.

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1, 1963.

Maplesville 4-H Club Met

At our last meeting we all brought cup cakes. We were tested on them by our club leader, Mrs. Martha Radford. Some of them were good and some were not. At the end of the meeting Mrs. Radford gave each of us a booklet.

NEWS OF—

REFUGE

By M. LOCKHART

Even though it was a cold day, and our work unfinished on the interior. our attendance was one of the best in several weeks. However, it was a very beautiful day and would have been somewhat difficult, I imagine, for one deeply consecreated, to have stayed away from church. But, that brings us back to the idea as someone has recently stated, that "weather conditions have but little to do with a persons church attendance who really loves the Lord."

Our Chrismtas program is taking on more momentom day by day as the praqtice continues We have just two more weeks now, and the program will be given on Sunday night just before Christmas.

The miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Alma Gay, as you recall, will be given at the home of the home of the pastor. Rev. and Mrs. M. Lockhart, in Clanton, this Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock all the family connections will certainly feel free to have a part as well as any others. Mr. Gay is serving in the armed forces, and will return from over seas next August. Mrs. Gay is working for Chesterfield Loan Co., in Birmingham, but resides in Calera.

The condition of Mr. A. N. Mims of this community was in somewhat a weakened bracket over the week end. However, at this writing, he is some better.. The American Legion is furnishing Mr. Mims with a nice rolling chair, but he has not been able to use it very much. However, it will prove a treat when Mr. Mims gains a little more strength.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Headley visited her parents. Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Edgeworth recently in Jasper. You will recall that the Edgeworth's recently moved from Clanton, back to their native Walker County.

Play At Thorsby Elementary School

A big Christmas program awaits the enjoyment of everyone at Thorsby Elementary School at 12:45 p.m. December 19th. The Thorsby Primary Band will lead the entertainers to the stage. The scene will be, Our Own City Hall. With many of our own little people dressed to represent grown ups, such as Mayor and Mrs. Bice, Charles Cleckler, P. F. Singley and E. R. Yeargan..

Many of our town folks will be present to act, sing, recite poems, play in the band and act out drills. And Big Santa Claus will be there with Santa Jr., and the sweetest sight will be a large group of our little girls who will do their "Lullaby" song for their dolls that they will hold as their tiny babies. Throughout all the play the real spirit of Christmas will be realized anew.

After this scene the third and fourth grades will present a pageant "Star of Wonder" portraying the birth of Christ. Characters in this star plav are: Kirk Davenport, Bruce Mims, Teresa Sharman, Donnie Bean, Michael Benson, Ricky Mims. Edward Cleckler, Ernie Kendrick Royce Collins Ralph Hayes, Johnny Thomas Joy Robinson, Gail Pelham, Dian Price and the choir of the third and fourth grade acocmpanied by Russell Williams on the piano.

A play, The Christmas Card, will be presented by the fifth and sixth grades. This depicts a miserable, selfish, well to do gentleman who accidently discovers the True Christmas Spirit by sharing some of his wealth with orphaned children. The main character, Mr. Martin, will be played by W. E. Cleckler. Other characters in the play will be the eight Shannon children and represented by Susan Bentley, Judy Kincaid, Gary Baker, Jr., Ann Price, Joyce Price, Jackie Foshee, Ray Price, and Michael Carlton. Mr. Tupper will be played by James Cleckler with Jenkins the Butler by Michael Collins, and a number of other children from these grades will mingle among the main characters assisting in the entertainment.

You won't want to miss any part of this afternoon of high entertainment at the Thorsby Elementary School, December 19th.

Rather than to be skimming around for an excuse just come on out to church next Sunday. Do you know that some people go to more effort sometimes, to stay away from church than it would require to attend?

G.A.'s Met

The sixth meeting of the GA's was held at the Baptist Church December 4, 1963. The meeting was callde to order by Judy Kincaid, president. After the meeting was called to order, we drawed names for Christmas. After that the secretary called the roll. The program chairman read to us about jewels of other lands. Then the meeting was adjourned until the next meeting.

A Little Bit O' Tuck . . .

By BOB TUCKER

SORRY our friend "Skeeter" Stokes has been "under the weather" for several days now. From our observations, the weather is taking it's toll in sickness around the County. Hope you can be up and about by the time Santa comes down the chimney, Skeeter.

THURSDAY, Friday and Saturday – this week-end – will be a big one up the way at Bobby's American Service Station. They are really putting on the dog, and holding "Open House" for all to see their new station. Bobby Easterling, Clyde Mims, Jerry Robinson, Richard Mims, Donald Driver, Ray Easterling, and of course old Herb Salter will be on hand to serve you Cokes, show you around. . . and fill up your gas tank. Come and see 'em! Free prizes too. . . see inside this issue of the News.

LEVINE'S here in Clanton has done some extensive remodeling of the interior of their store; and you will have to see it to believe it! "Doc" says, "We aren't finished by a long way yet, but we want everyone to come by and express their opinion of what we have already done, and maybe give us some ideas on what we need to do." They strive to please, and they want you to see what has taken place in their store.

THIS week's top news story: "Ex-deer hunter demoted to dog catcher". To get the straight of it, ask Hilman Mims at the Post Office. ZIP. . . there goes one!

TOM Cox and the boys with the Rescue Squad are really planning big on the big Turkey Giveaway at the Courthouse on next Saturday, December 21st. Some 10 "toms" have been selected for the event, and you should be there to claim your bird. Tickets are still on sale at 25c each from any member of the Rescue Squad. Things will get underway at 2:45 P.M. on the corner at the Courthouse in Clanton. It's for a fine bunch of fellows folks, so come on out and join the fun.

LET us take this opportunity to wish all our friends and associates a Very Merry Christmas from all of us at Tuckerville. That's including wife, Nell, Ben, Terri, Mark and Tim. . . and a coupla hound dawgs for good measure. We sincerely hope that this Christmas is bright for you; and that the coming year will be filled with happiness, good fortune, and lots and lots of very good health. Cheers!

Bloodmobile To Be Here Friday, 27th

This is one of the few times we will have this pleasure so near Christmas.

It was thought at first this would be an undesireable time, a number of people would be out of town, but again there will be a number of visitors here to help out on the quoto of 250 Units. .

Mr. Burt Mullins, Chairman, Chilton County Red Cross Chapter and Mrs. W. E. Elmore Blood Program Chairman are planning for one of the largest donations received here.

This is one of the greatest times of the year to give and Citizens of Chilton County have used as much fresh blood this year as any time in the past. Last month one patient received through the Chilton County Hospital after using 32 pints of blood. Through your consideration this was the saving of a life and approximately $1400 to this one patient. He and others thank you more than is to be told, this could be you next.

These stories are why blood must be donated each week. Every month some place in Alabama. December 27, from 12:00 noon through 6:00 p.m. is our time here in Clanton at the First Methodist Church.

Blood in the bottle not in the body is available blood to save life

In 1959, over twice as many fresh fruits and vegetables were shipped from California to New York City than from New York State into New York City.

Use ZIP Code up front – but back it up with Christmas Seals, lots of 'em!

Rash of Minor Fires Keeps Volunteer Firemen Hopping

AT least four fires have been reported since last Sunday, and Clanton's volunteer firemen have been kept pretty busy. Most of them are busy as beavers around this time of the year anyway, and the fires have really put them on the go this week.

Sunday, a smudge pot in the Coca-Cola warehouse on 3rd Avenue South had someone thinking the place was on fire and they turned in the alarm. Better to be safe than sorry.

Monday night, about 7:00 o'clock the house of Douglas Duren, just off the Enterprise Road, south of Clanton, caught fire. Most of the damage was to an inside wall. The volunteers got there in time; damage was slight.

Tuesday, just after noon, a home under construction belonging to Dan Alred, and located on Temple Road caught fire and one room of the new structure was badly burned. Materials were also ruined that were stored awaiting use on the house. Workmen were in the area, but cause of the fire was undisclosed.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Mabel Kramer, believed to be from Illinois was traveling South on Interstate 65 when she noticed smoke. She pulled off on the cloverleaf to the Higgins Ferry Road, and when she stopped, the car burst into flames.

The fire department was unable to save the car, which was a near total loss, but Mrs. Kramer was unhurt. Most of her belongings went up in the flames.

"Watch those Christmas trees and decorations, folks," says fire chief Nivens. "We want you around the first of the year!"

The Very First Christmas Tree

TO August Imgard, a home-sick immigrant tailor, goes the credit for introducing the Christmas tree to America.

Omgard came to this country in 1847 to visit his brother in Wooster, Ohio. With the prospects of a dismal Christmas for the first time away from his nativev land, August decided to bring to his newly adopted home all the Christmas Spirit and festivities he had loved so much is Wetzlar, Hessia.

To his young nephew and niece he would show how Christmas was celebrated in the old Country.

First, he needed a Christmas tree! This is the way he described how he found it:

"I walked up Apple Creek . . . where I found water so high I could not get across. So I walked along until I found a tree fallen from bank to bank and crossed on that. I cut a tree and carried it to the fallen log. But to get across this time I had to tie the tree to my neck and crawl on hands and feet. People looked at me with considerable curiosity when I walked thru town with my tree."

Adopt with scissors, Imgard cut his own paper ornaments and a local tinsmith fashioned a shiny star for the top.

And thus—the first Christmas tree in America.

Come to Church

The Christmas Pageant is a reverent re-telling o the Story of the Christ Child. Scenes of Mary and Joseph at the Inn, the Heavenly Host appearing to the Shepherds, the Shepherds at the Manger, the Wise Men before Herod, and the Wise Men presenting Gifts to the Child are all shown as the Pageant unfolds. The scenes are enriched with some of the world's most glorious music including "Adore and Be Still" by Gounod. "Christ Was Born To Save," "Sweet Holy Child", 'Coventry Carol", and "Sanctus" by Gounod.

The music for the Christmas Pageant will be under the direction of Mrs. Gordon L. Robertson and the Pageant Producer is Miss Helen Parrish.

The offering taken at the Pageant will be designated for the Methodist Children's Home in Selma. This agency is maintained by the Methodist Churches of the Alabama Conference and the White Christmas offering is a yearly gift of love to the children.

When Gas Explodes--

Man Becomes 'Human Torch'

MARLON Patterson, 40 year old Clanton carpenter was turned into a "human torch" Monday morning of this week when gasoline which he was puoring onto a fire exploded and set him ablaze.

It was about 9:00 o'clock in the morning, according to Joe A. Brown who had employed Patterson to help build a building near his home on the Enterprise Road, just south of Clanton. It was extremely cold, and Patterson was attempting to build up the fire when the gas can he was using exploded.

Eyewitnesses said the can was blown some 45 or 50 feet into the air, and the bottom of the can blew a hole in the frozen ground. Those nearest to Patterson stripped the clothes from his body in efforts to put out the fire. A woman was slightly burned also while trying to extinguish the fire which engulfed Patterson.

He was rushed to County Hospital by Martin's Ambulance, and reports late Wednesday afternoon were that he was very severely burned over his entire body, but was resting well, and had a good chance of recovery.

Special Bulletin!

AN unofficial report late Wednesday afternoon disclosed that a man identified as James Vinzant was shot through the chest with a shotgun about 3:00 P.M. Wednesday. The report said he died at the local hospital, in the emergency room at 4:30 P.M.

According to the report, Vinzant lived near Union Grove Church on the Mineral Springs Road. Sheriff Hugh Champion and Chief Deputy T. J. Lockhart are investigating the incident.

Miss Frucci Queen At Judson

Miss Angelyn Frucci, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Frucci of Verbena, was crowned Hockey Queen at Judson at a Wishing Well Pageant in Marion recently.

Miss Frucci, a senior, captained the winning team in hockey competition. She is president of Jewett Dormitory at Judson, a member of the President's Council, and past editor of The Mentor, student government handbook.

In addition, Miss Frucci has recently been elected a Judson Representative, one of the highest honors that can be given at the women's college.

People need not die of TB - help find the disease in time by using Christmas Seals.

How Chilton Voted On 13 Amendments

ON Tuesday, December 10, less than one thousand voters in Chilton County turned out to cast their ballots pro or con for the 13 Constitutional Amendments which were up for victory or defeat.

The vote was pitifully light, but those who did express their opinion on the ballot, voted "Aye" on Numbers 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 11. They turned thumbs down on Numbers 3, 4, 10, 12 and 13.

Here is the way the total voting in the County went:

Amendment	For	Against
No. 1	527	247
No. 2	353	319
No. 3	179	498
No. 4	163	464
No. 5	577	291
No. 6	320	262
No. 7	300	265
No. 8	279	259
No. 9	313	242
No. 10	258	278
No. 11	280	265
No. 12	258	273
No. 13	261	271

Courthouse Closed For Christmas

THE Chilton County Courthouse will be closed all day December 25th and 26th for Christmas.

If it's an emergency, however, you may telephone the County Jail, 403; or you may contact Judge J. C. White at 558.M4.

The Courthouse offices will resume regular hours on Friday, December 27th.

Clanton-Wilsonville Road Under Construction

Another one of Chilton County's dreams has at last become a reality. The Clanton-Wilsonville Road has at least been placed under construction. The contract was let on November 15, 1963, to Clyde O. Mitchell, Road Builder and Contractor. The bid price was $862.763.18.

This road presently is being constructed as a County and State Project. The County did the original survey and rider-way procurement at a cost of some $45,000.00, whereas the State is paying the $862,763.18, the present contract price.

This road will mean much to Chilton County and Shelby County. It will be a cut-off road saving people going to Wilsonville, Childersburg, Sylacauga, Pell City and all points Northeast, South and Southwest many many miles. This road will connect roads U. S. 31 East, Highway 73 and Highway 11, South to the Interstate 65, Highway 31 West and Hgihway 22, South.

This road will mean much to Chilton County in many ways. This section of the county certainly needs building up. I'm sure many people will want to build homes and settle up along this road in that section of the County.

Our river area will be further developed as this road will make it more convenient for people to visit the river and enjoy the abundant recreational potentials of Lay Lake and Lake Mitchell.

I'm sure each of you will want to thank our Governor, George Wallace Representatives Grady Heflin, Senator Jimmy McDow and your Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control for their asisstance in helping provide this much needed road for Chilton County.

Yours truly,
J. C. White

Check For Retarded School

JUDGE J. C. White, Chairman of the 1963 Mental Health and "Chilton's Opportunity School" for mentally retarded children's fund drive, presents a check for $397.24 to Mr. Grady Popwell, chairman of the Opportunity School Board of Directors and Mrs. Woody Blalock, Teacher in the school and also a check for $397.24 to Mr. Burton Mullins, Co-Chairman of the Fund Drive. The first check will be used by the Opportunity School and the second check will be used by the State Mental Health Association for continued research and ways and means of improving our Mentally Ill Program in our state schools and hospitals.

Judge White wishes to express his heart felt appreciation to all the people of Chilton County for their assistance in the program.

Connie Jones Named Co-Ed Correspondent

Miss Connie Jones, 306 Jackson St., Clanton has been named Co-ed Correspondent for the 1963-64 school year, according to an announcement by Margaret Hauser, editor of Co-ed Magazine. Miss Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Jones is in the 11th grade at Chilton County High School. Her appointment was made by Mrs. Edna G. Williams, home economics teacher at the school.

Selected for her qualities of leadership and her enthusiasm for home economics Miss Jones will serve as junior advisor to the editors of Co-ed, national magazine for teenage girls, and will keep them informed of activities at Chilton County High School. There are more than 3,000 Co-ed Correspondents throughout the United States and Canada.

Connie will be entitled to wear the Co-ed Pin.

Santa's Menu At Hospital Is Promising

IF you are not sick, youre lucky indeed. But, if you happen to be one of the patients at the County Hospital on Christmas Day, this is what the menu will be:

Chilled fruit juice Choice of soup
Roast Turkey with Chestnut Cornbread Dressing
Cream giblet gravy Peas and String Beans
Ambrosia and Mince Pie
Salted Assorted Nuts and Mints
Choice of beverage

Now that's mouth-watering goodness, fit to make anybody well. . . or sick. . . whichever the case may be!

EDITORIALS

Allow Us A Personal Thought--

IF you believe, as we do, that this is one of the best Christmas issues of the News in several years, you will be interested to know that a lot of people are due the credit for the success of it.

First of all, we would like to express our appreciation to our Dad, Ben Tucker, for his encouragement, advice, and assistance during the past six months. He has been inactive physically, but he has helped us tremendously with minute details and matters which we lacked experience in, and he deserves his share of the credit.

And of course, the women in our life, deserve bouquets not only for their assistance, but for their patience and endurance. The lady whom we call "Mom" has been of great help to us in so many ways; and we have never believed other than the fact that a man is not worth much more than the woman behind him. The Little Woman at our house, our wife Nell, has given us support and encouragement for any trials and tribulations which may have shown themselves, and she always has an ear for the complaints nd problems which only she can hear, and appreciate.

The Crew here at the News is, in our opinion, second to none, when it comes to working together. What they may lack in experience, they make up for in eagerness and willingness to do whatever is necessary to be done for the good of the paper. And so, special thanks also to Floyd Mims, Kenneth Mims, Winston Brooks and Perry Fulmer for their devotion to duty, and their professional attitude toward their job of getting out the week's News.

And what newspaper could function well for the community without the support of it's correspondents and the people who, each week, contribute in some measure to the total job of covering the news of the community?

And finally, our advertisers! Those businessmen in the community who know the value of advertising; who appreciate having a community newspaper; and who use the pages of the News to reach you, the buying public. . . the folks who Trade At Home.

A great big "Thank You" to all these folks from the management of the News. We humbly recognize the fact that we could not produce any kind of newspaper. . . good, bad or otherwise -- without your continuing help and efforts in our behalf.

For a time of the year when it is good to recognize the presence of true friends; we feel that our "cup overfloweth. . . " and we pledge the continued efforts of the News in behalf of this community and the people who look to us for their hometown newspaper each Thursday morning..

Thank you, and Merry Christmas to each one of you-

Bob Tucker, editor.

And that's this year's letter to Santa Claus!

CHRISTMAS. . . Old, yet always new . . . truly for children . . and we are all children!

THE glow of Christmas is most prominent in the eyes and on the faces of the very young. It is not so much their innocence, we think, but their wonderful ability to appreciate the good things -- which, after all, is innocence we suppose. If you are blue and think you don't want Christmas, just watch a child, or listen to a child, or love a child and experience the deep and lasting satisfaction of truly knowing Christmas. And may yours be Merry!

AND the "stranger" asked: "What is Christmas to strangers?" The answer came: "Christmas, my friend; is anywhere and anytime, there are no strangers -- only friends!"

JUST as there is strength in numbers, there is also "weakness"! If you don't believe it, just ask any mother who runs after a "number" of young'uns all day, and half the night!

WE'VE never seen the youngsters on the streets of Clanton enjoying Santa Claus any more than this year. He is one fellow who will really enjoy this most Blessed of Seasons because he is giving happiness -- of himself -- to so many. Bless the old gentleman!

Rumors Are Flying--

THERE always seems to be plenty of folks around who are ready, willing and able to put wings to gossip and spread it like the Black Plague.

And when you get right down to the cause, and the contagious qualities of gossip, it isn't much less of a danger than the Plague. Lately we have heard rumors ranging from political graft, to personal stealing, back to "lousy" law enforcement, and mismanagement of public institutions around Chilton County, and we have yet to see, or to be shown, any proof of any of the accusations we have heard.

We are as human as the next person, and when a dastardly deed rears its head, we are as prone as anyong to look down upon the offender, and publicly denounce him as a terrible scar on society. We' also try to abstain from such conduct, for we know, and have been taught that it is wrong.

But why do people insist upon badgering and dragging others through the the mud of gossip and scandal, purely because they "heard" it somewhere?

If we paid near as much attention to the truth in the Gospels as we do with matters which we hear as the "gospel truth". we would live better, longer, and happier with our fellowman.

This is the season for brotherly love and human kindness. Let's use it to an advantage to start a new year without once speaking an unkind word, or repeating a falsehood about our neighbor.

If we, each of us, were to literally do this, what kind of a world would we have by the end of 1964? We'll never know will we?

Our Christmas Blessings

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

HERE IS A MAN who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an Itenerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office.

HE never owned a home. He never set foot inside a big city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He had no credentials but Himself.

HE had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him.

He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves.

HIS executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying — and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

NINETEEN wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all armies that ever marched and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned: put together have not affected the life of any upon this earth as powerfully as that One Solitary Life.

100 Years Ago

BRIGADIER-GENERAL
JAMES HOLT CLANTON

One hundred years ago this week, Major General Dabney H. Maury, commanding the army in the Department of the Gulf with headquarters at Mobile, wrote to General Beauregard in Charleston expressing concern for the Confederate defenses around Mobile.

One of the men under Maury's command at that time, Brigadier General James H. Clanton, was soon to become a controversal figure, incurring the wrath of his superior officers, Braxton Bragg, Leonidas Polk and Joseph E. Johnston, but defended by Governor Thomas E. Watts of Alabama, General George Goldthwaite under whom he had served, and Judge R. W. Walker, a brother of the first Confederate Secretary of War.

A hero at the Battle of Shiloh, Clanton came into disfavor because of a mutiny in his brigade occurring in late 1863. Although he quickly arrested the muntineers, consisting of deserters, exempts and Union sympathizers, his command was broken up and scattered over the South and Clanton was placed in command of a cavalry group in North Alabama.

Although exonerated by a military court of Maury's Army Corps, Clanton did not receive full pardon until, acting as aid to General Polk during the Atlanta campaign, he received the thanks of the generals of the Army of Tennessee for his services in getting artillery and stores safely across the Etowah on the retreat from Cassville, Ga.

After the way, Clanton resumed his law practice and became a leader of the Democratic party in Alabama until killed in 1871 by a shot fired by the son of Hon. T. A. R. Nelson, an ex-Union officer, with whom he was in litigation. His remains lay in state in Montgomery, stimulating demonstrations of grief and respect from every part of the state.

Young Pioneers Met December 6

The Young Pioneers held another meeting on December 6, 1963, in Mrs. Giles sixth grade class room, The meeting was called to order by President Ken Johnston. The secretary, Donna Jones, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll.

The motion was brought forward and seconded that we save our dues and buy two baseball bats. One for the girls and one for the boys.

The program was turned over to the program chairman, Wayne Parker. Devotional was read by Vicki Thigpen. We chose names for the Christmas party.

Those on program were: Kenneth Mims, Bill Speaks, Don Williams, Danny Dumas, Lloyd Houston, Mike Lowery,

Then our meeting was adjourned until next Friday.

Health & Safety Club Met December 21

The Health and Safety Club of Mrs. Sexton's sixth grade class met at 1:35, Thursday, December 21, 1963. The Parliamentarian, Charles Walker was appointed.

The minutes were read and corrected and the roll call was read with two absentees. The reports from the various committees were given. The program consisted of the Bible reading by Raybon; Prayer led by Ray Mims. Pledge led by Donna Easterling and the carols Silent Night and Away in a Manger were led by Kenneth Seals. A poem was said by Judy, Chuck, Ann, Joe and Cynthia. The letters of Christmas was given by different people.

The meeting was adjourned at 2:00.

Clanton FHA Met December 12

The Clanton Future Homemakers of America held a regular meeting December 12, 1963, in the high school auditorium. President Linda Wyatt presided.

The secretary read the minutes to the last meeting and they were approved as read. She also called the roll.

Mrs. Williams, our sponsor, told the members that the secretary and treasurer had sent a check for $10 to CARE and $15 to the Deaf and Blind School at Talladega, Alabama. She also reminded us to bring something for the comunity chest.

We had a runoff for Miss FHA between Sue Dennis, Linda Wyatt, and Carolyn Cooper. We also selected a FHA hero. The candidates were Jimmy Edwards, Jimmy Deshee, Roger Long, Ricky Messer, and Ricky Robinson.

The executive board counted the votes and Sue Dennis is Miss FHA and Ricky Messer is the FHA Hero.

The meeting was adjourned.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Fiscal frugality was the theme last week in Washington as both Executive and Congressional economy drives gained momentum.

President Johnson began implementing his promise to the Congress to get a dollar's value from every dollar spent with warnings to federal agencies to cut spending and appeals for tighter budgets. The Administration announced last week that 33 military installations considered unnecessary -- seven overseas -- will be closed, saving the U. S. taxpayer an estimated $106 million annually.

New York State was the hardest hit by the closures with seven; Alabama will have two small installations closed by next December. The Defense Department shutdown of military installations which Defense Secretary McNamara deemed unnecessary to the national security is part of an overall drive for government savings which has been launched since Mr. Johnson assumed the Presidency.

Economy Mood

Efforts by the legislative branch to reduce expenditures have been underway on Capitol Hill since the first session of the 88th Congress convened in January. Although the Senate has restored some of the funds eliminated by the House of Representatives, there is every indication that the amount finally appropriated for fiscal 1964 will be considerably less than the sum originally requested.

To date only five of the 12 major appropriations bills for fiscal 1964 have been sent to the White House. But from these five apropriations bills, there has been a total cut of approximately $2.5 billion below the original budget request. Defense appropriations were cut from $49 to $47 billion; Interior from $1 billion to $988 million; Labor-HEW from $5.7 billion to $5.4 billion; Treasury, Post Office and Executive Offices from $6.1 billion to $6 billion, and, most recently, public Works from $4.5 billion to $4.4 billion.

Congressional action last week cutting the foreign aid authorization bill far below the original Executive request indicates that further and more drastic reductions will be made in apropriations for fiscal 1964 before all money bills are enacted.

Recognition Given

This past week end the U.S. extended diplomatic recognition to the governments of the Dominican Republic and Honduras. This action by our government came none too soon. Nevertheless, it represents a welcome recognition not only of two Caribbean regimes but of the primary hemispheric need-- unified inter-American action to meet the rising ond increasingly violent Communist threat to Latin America.

This past Oct. 8th, I urged our government to extend its recognition and assistance to the new governments of the two countries. And, now that diplomatic recognition finally has been extended, I urged in a speech in the House last Saturday that our Executive branch take whatever steps may be necessary to enable these two countries to bear their responsibilities in maintaining the hemisphere's defenses against its enemies.

Recent events in Venezuela, Boliva and elsewhere are proof that the Castro-Communist movement is stepping up its campaign of subversion and violence. There is urgent need for concerted and purposeful hemispheric action to meet this threat. The action of last week end is a step in that direction, but many additional steps must be taken if the security of the Americas is to be safeguarded.

Selden Says Take Another Look

Alabama Congressman Armistead Selden has warned Americans that attempting to blame a city, state region or group for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy is "to sow the seeds of national disunity."

The Greensboro Congressman said in a speech to the House that no seize upon a national tragedy to further the political philosophy of one group against another is "demagogic nonsense."

Rep. Selden pointed out to the House that the mind of accused assassing Lee Harvey Oswald, by his own admission, had been poisoned at an early age by the propaganda of the most malevolent enemy of our American system -- the forces of international communism.

"If therefore it can be said that an 'atmosphere of hate' surrounded the mind of Oswald," Selden said, "let us remember that this poison did not amanate from Dallas, New York, or any other American community but from the alien capital city of the Communist world."

Congressman Selden said it was not surprising to find Communist propaganda apparatus looking for a purported "ultra-right" scapegoat to cover up Oswald's past. "But Americans -- especially American leaders in politics and communications." he added, "should not be misled--nor should they mislead others--in fixing the moral responsibility for the death of our President."

Tall men should pass up bold vertical stripes and distinct herringbones in favor of more subtle patterns and glen plaids which give the illusion of width.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, adminisrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemnities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton-producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

Fruity Cranberry Bread

Gay looking Cranberry Bread is a boon to the homemaker during the holidays. Keep several loaves on hand, for they'll prove to be the answer to many an emergency. Drop-in guests? Cranberry bread and a beverage will make a delightful afternoon or late-night snack. A gift you forgot to buy? Wrap a loaf in pretty Christmas paper. Wishing Godspeed to a departing guest? Tuck a loaf in his bag. Want a quick dessert? Top with whipped cream mixed with whole berry cranberry sauce.

Cranberry Bread

- 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking soda
- 1¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup shortening
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup mashed ripe banana (2 to 3)
- 1 cup cubes Ocean Spray Jellied Cranberry Sauce
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, soda, cream of tartar, and salt. Beat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with bananas, ¼ at a time, stirring only until flour is moistened. Very carefully fold in cranberry sauce cubes and chopped nuts. Turn into a well-greased loaf pen (9x5x3) and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 1 hour, or until bread is done. Makes I loaf.

A free leaflet of other party recipes, "Fun Time with Cranberries," is yours for the asking. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Woman's Editor of this paper.

Magic Fruit Cream Mold

There's magic in sweetened condensed milk, for it thickens merely with the addition of lemon juice. This makes the product ideal to use in preparing a wide variety of delicious creamy desserts. The newest one, developed by the Borden Kitchen, is "Banana and Strawberry Magic Cream Mold," an exceptional company dessert.

Banana and Strawberry Magic Cream Mold
(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- ½ cup boiling water
- 1⅓ cups (15-ounce can) Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream, whipped
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen sliced strawberries, defrosted*
- 3 medium size ripe bananas, peeled and cut into cross-wise slices*

In a small bowl, add gelatine to cold water. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. In a large bowl, blend sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir in dissolved gelatine. Fold in whipped cream. Drain the defrosted strawberries, reserving juice to make a sauce. Add berries and sliced bananas to condensed milk mixture. Pour into lightly oiled 1½ quart mold. Chill in refrigerator about 2 hours, or until firm. Unmold onto platter. Prepare a favorite homemade strawberry or other fruit sauce to go with the cream mold.
*Reserve a few sliced strawberries and bananas for garnish.

Fix Food In Advance For Christmas Guests

One of the cardinal rules everyone should remember at Christmas time is that he or she should be prepared to be unprepared..

It's an old story, but at Christmas it becomes a very familiar one. Simply stated, the problem is this: How do I take care of surprise guests?

"The first thing to remember is not to panic," says Farris Prickett, Auburn University foods and nutrition specialist. "And the next thing to remember is to bring on the food."

Miss Frickett, a member of the Extension Service, suggests preparing for those surprise drop-ins this way:

Plan ahead, before the holidays, on when and how you'll entertain company.

If you're planning to have a party invite your friends at a time when your Christmas decorations are the prettiest.

Anticipate how many friends you'll have for surprise calls.

Decide on what kind of food you'll serve.

Estimate how much food you'll need to serve invited guests, surprise callers and the family.

Include food that will be quick and easy to prepare and serve.

Serve food that stores and freezes easily so that you can prepare it before the holidays begin.

To serve pop-callers, have a tray ready with dishes needed for serving from four to six people..

Keep a beverage ready or the ingredients handy so you can prepare something to drink in a hurry.

Keep baked goodies on hand to use as impromptu Christmas gifts. One nice some cookies and include the cookies and the pan they were baked in. It makes a fine two in one present.

Appliance Variety Wide For Christmas Shopping

Have you decided on an electrical portable appliance for one of your Christmas gifts?

If so, you have a large array to choose from, including appliances for comfort, hobbies and household conveniences. .

In fact, Equipment and Housing Specialist Jeanne Priester, says the list includes 166 different electrical appliances which are useful in the home.

Miss Priester, a member of Auburn University Extension Service, suggests the following appliances to delight your family and friends:

The electric carving knife, introduced on the Alabama market in April 1963, is designed to make at-home carving and slicing easier, quicker and more professional.

The new good looking frypans can be used in anywhere an available outlet is located. Assuring good results every time, the wide temperature range allows for pan broiling, frying, grilling and baking.

And, of course, the electric can opener is the answer to zippy can-opening. It can be mounted either on the wall or placed on the counter top.

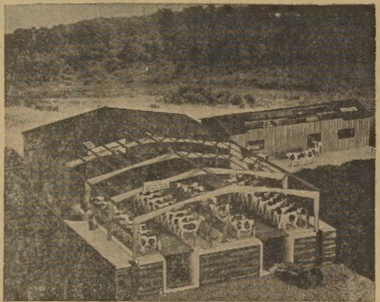
Keep the streams clear and clean!



A new multi-purpose barn developed by U. S. Steel Corp.'s agricultural engineers features special corrosion resistant slotted steel floors and pits underneath which run the full length of the barn for easy removal of manure. Steel in the slotted floors is USS Cor-Ten, known for its superior corrosion resistance in manure spreaders and 'hog pen floor applications.

The use of clear-span trusses also eliminates interior obstructions, so that the all-steel structure can be easily adapted for beef or dairy cattle, hogs, chickens or grain drying.

Holiday Apple Flan

Half Pie, Half Cake! Delicious!

It emerges puffing apple fragrance, the crowded apple slices juicy and firm and buttery, with a hint of brandy flavor . . . the batter itself hugging the slices.

- 1¼ cups milk
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup sifted flour
- 2½ cups canned apple slices
- ¼ teaspoon brandy flavoring
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- Mincemeat Sauce*

Combine milk, ⅓ cup sugar, eggs, vanilla, ⅛ teaspoon salt and flour; beat until very smooth and creamy. Spread about ½ cup batter in a greased shallow 2 quart baking dish, or a 9" greased deep pie plate. Place in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 6 or 7 minutes, or until the thin layer of batter begins to set. Remove pan from oven and spread apple slices over batter layer; sprinkle the apples with the remaining ⅓ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Sprinkle with brandy flavoring and dot with butter or margarine. Pour the remaining batter over apples and return pan to oven. Bake about 50 minutes, or until browned and slightly puffed. Serve with Mincemeat Sauce. If desired, garnish with citron and almonds. Makes 6 servings.

*MINCEMEAT SAUCE

In a saucepan combine 1 cup prepared mincemeat, ¾ cup apple juice and ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Cook and stir over moderate heat 5 minutes. Blend together 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon cornstarch; stir into mincemeat mixture. Simmer a minute or two, until sauce clears and thickens slightly. Serve hot. Makes 2 cups.

Farm Harvesting Ends With Destroyed Stalks

Farm work doesn't end when the crop has been harvested.

In fact, the job isn't completed until stalks and other residue are cut and returned to the soil, declares Dr. Walter Sowell, a soils expert.

"Early stalk destruction is a good conservation practice that reduces plant diseases and insects, helps control erosion and improves soil tilth for the following spring's crop," he says.

Dr. Sowell, an Auburn University Extension Service specialist, says fall-cut stalks will partially decay in time to aid in land preparation in the spring. This would eliminate a lack of good soil texture for seedbeds.

Watch For Correct Shape Christmas Tree

Many vacant lots, parking lots and areas around gas stations are beginning to look like small forests as Christmas trees are brought in for tree shoppers.

The trees of various shapes and sizes are just waiting for your tinsel and lights. But how do you select the right tree?

Naturally, you want a pretty one that will do justice to all the decorations you're planning to adorn it with.

"So first look for shape," says Auburn University Forester Ike Martin. "This, of course, is the prime consideration. Shake the tree out a little and see how it tapers. Then check its density. See if the branches have any noticeable gaps or holes, weak or broken branches or undesirable crooks in the trunk.

"And be sure to see if the tree is fresh and if the needles are pliable and firmly attached. If the tree you pick out meets all these requirements, chances are it will be an extra special one when it's decorated."

SENATE REPORT FAULTS AGED AID PROGRAM

by Senator Pat McNamara, Chairman,
Senate Subcommittee on Health of the Elderly
Senate Special Committee on Aging

The threat of serious illness casts a constant shadow of fear over the lives of millions of our older people. And, the lack of adequate, timely care — when illness strikes—often turns the threat into unnecessary pain and suffering.

The fear and unnecessary suffering results from this simple fact: Their incomes are low and the likelihood of being ill is much greater than when they were younger.

Thus, they know and fear—when they are well—that they may not have the money to pay the cost of proper treatment. And, when they get sick, they often refuse to accept charity until the pain overcomes their pride.

Three years ago when Congress approved the medical assistance for the aged program as part of the so-called Kerr-Mills law, it was hoped that many of the most needy older people would get medical care. The Federal Government and the individual States would put up the money to provide the care.

Unfortunately, a three-month study just completed by the Senate Subcommittee on Health of the Elderly shows the program is not working well.

The opening sentence of the report sums up the findings this way:

> "After three years of operation, the Kerr-Mills medical assistance for the aged (MAA) program has proved to be at best an ineffective and piecemeal approach to the health problems of the Nation's 18 million older citizens."

The printed report of the study findings points out these failings of the MAA program:

—It is still not a national program after three years and there is no reason to expect it will become one in the foreseeable future. This is best shown by the fact that 22 States still do not have the program in operation and the older people in these States get no help from MAA.

—In most of the 28 States where MAA is in operation, the limitations for being eligible to get the care are severe and, as a result, a very few people actually get help. In July 1963, for example, only 140,000 received any kind of medical care under MAA. The number represented less than 1% of all our older citizens.

Senator Pat McNamara

—The duration, levels and types of benefits vary widely from State to State. Only four of the 28 States have comprehensive care programs. In the other States, the programs are nominal and inadequate.

—The administrative costs of the MAA programs are high in most States. In one State, for example, administrative costs total 59% of the amount paid out in medical care, while in four other states they exceed 25%.

—Most of the money put up by the Federal Government to provide the care has gone to a few large industrial States—States best able to finance their share of the costs of the care. Five States, California, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan and Pennsylvania, for example, received 88% of all the Federal funds distributed for the first two years of MAA. Yet, these five States had only 32% of the country's older people.

—The requirement of most States for cumbersome investigations to establish eligibility for the care and the requirement in most States that resources of an older person must be nearly depleted before he can get help, have further reduced participation in the programs.

Thus, the study leaves little doubt that some better Federal program to provide medical care to our older people must be established.

The answer in my judgment, is a health insurance program, administered and financed through the time-tested Social Security system.

Your Congressman wants to know how you stand on the bill to provide hospital insurance for older Americans through Social Security. Write to him. Also, for further information, write the National Council of Senior Citizens, 1627 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Attention Property Owners

For the past several years this county has been operating under the provisions of an Alabama Revenue Law whereby it is not necessary to re-assess each and every year unless some changes have been made in the value of the property assessed. There are certain conditions whereby it is necessary to re-assess each year.

The following are a few of the more common conditions requiring an annual assessment, namely; (1) Sold some real estate, (2) bought some real estate, (3) Improvements made on real estate, (4) Improvements removed from real estate, or (5) you are assessing some item of personal property such as a tractor, business establishment, machinery, sawmill or shares of stock, if incorporated.

The period of time prescribed by law for making an assessment is from October 1st Thru December 31st. If it is necessary for you to make an assessment this year may I ask that you please come in before January 1, 1964 and attend to the matter as we are required to close our books on that date and get them ready for the Board of Equalization.

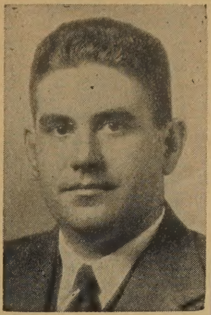
Higgins Appointed To The State Committee Of 100



JOHN M. HIGGINS

Governor George C. Wallace today announced the formation of a statewide Committee of 100 known as the Governor's Industrial Advisory Committee. The committee has been organized to work closely with the Alabama State Planning and Industrial Development Board and other state and local agencies in promoting establishment of new industry and expansion of existing industry.

APPOINTED to represent Chilton County on the Governor's new statewide committee of 100 is John M. Higgins, of Clanton.

All 67 counties are represented in the group. In addition the Governor has appointed 33 members at large.

Leonard Beard, former mayor of Sheffield, Alabama is Director of the Department, which serves the Board, and Lt. Gen. W. E. Todd. USAF (Ret.), former commanding general of the Air University, Montgomery, is Deputy Director of the Department.

Industrial development planning is one of the most important activities of the present administration and Governor Wallace considers this newly organized group as a major step in promoting the over all state program.

More than 15,000 new jobs for Alabama people will result from a record breaking investment of better than $285,000,000 in new, expanded and planned improvements announced in the first eleven months of 1963 by Governor George C. Wallace and the industries concerned.

Providence HD Club Shows Decorations

The Club met at Mrs. W. T. Gay's on December 5, with sixteen ladies present.

Christmas Decoration, was shown by Mrs. Lane.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. H. L.. Glass.

Presents were exchanged and refreshments was served.

We ask all who will to join us. Your are welcome.

Pine Cone Legend

ONCE UPON a time according to a Haarz Mountain legend — a poor miner's wife was gathering pine cones in the forest. It was just before Christmas, her husband was ill, and there was no money in the house for food. So, she gathered the cones and sold them to the villagers for kindling — obtaining enough for the days necessities.

One morning while she was looking for such cones, a little imp jumped out of a huge fir tree.

"Here, here are the biggest driest cones of all! Take these. he shrieked jumping up and down excitedly.

Suddenly, there was such a shower of cones that the poor woman was frightened. She tried to run away, but could not move until the little imp had filled her basket. And having started home, the basket grew heavier and heavier—she wished the imp hadn't disappeared he might have helped her.

When she finally reached her hut she called the children to help carry the basket inside. Emptying the basket, they found that every cone was solid silver.

Commemorating these legendary silver cones gilded pine cones are sold in modern stores, to decorate our home — to burn and crackle gaily in our Christmas fires.

New Mince Meat Taste Treats

These new mince meat desserts are Borden Kitchen favorites:

Loaf Fruitcake
(Makes 2 loaf cakes)

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2⅔ cups (one 28-oz. jar) ready-to-use mince meat
1⅓ cups (15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
1 (1-lb. jar) glaced fruits and peels
1 cup coarsely chopped walnut meats

Butter two 9x5x2¾-inch loaf pans. Line with wax paper; butter again. Sift flour and baking soda together. Mix eggs, mince meat, sweetened condensed milk, fruits and nuts together. Fold in sifted dry ingredients. Pour equal amounts of batter into the two loaf pans. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) for 1½ hours, or until done. Turn out of pan and remove wax paper. Turn right side up. Cool on cake rack. If desired, decorate with glaced fruits and walnut halves.

Miniature Fruitcakes

To Make 6 Dozen Miniature Fruitcakes: Make batter with same ingredients listed above. Place small size paper baking cups in 2 x 1-inch muffin pans. Fill each cup ⅔ full. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) 1 hour, or until done. Remove from oven. Cool slightly. Turn out of muffin pans. Keep in paper cups. Cool on cake rack before decorating.

Mince Meat Chiffon Cake
(Makes one 10-inch tube cake)

1 (9-oz.) package condensed mince meat
¼ cup water
1 (1-lb. 2. 8-oz.) package lemon or orange chiffon cake mix

In saucepan, break mince meat into small pieces. Add water. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring to break lumps. Boil briskly for 1 minute. (Makes 1 cup.) Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Fold in mince meat, combining well. Pour into ungreased 10 x 4-inch tube pan. Bake as directed on package, in moderate oven (350°F.) 45 to 55 minutes. Remove from oven. Invert on cake rack until cold. To remove cake, loosen with small spatula. Turn pan over and hit edge sharply on table. Frost cake with favorite frosting.

Employee - Employer Banquet

THE students of the Clanton D. O. Club gave a banquet in honor of their employers, December 6, at the Holiday Inn.

The presiding officer, Gayla Robinson, called the meeting to order and Mr. S. E. Waters gave the welcome. Mr. Morris Moatts gave the reply.

Each student then recognized their guest and the food was served.

Before the dessert was served Mr. George E. Manly gave the address. His speech was on the foundation of the D. O. organization.

Tiny Pecan Pies are a Four-Flavor Hit

A great way to make an impressive dessert is with this recipe for miniature pecan pies. You can stick to the basic pecan mixture, but more fun is to add a bit of this or that for a variety of pies, such as Pineapple Pecan Pies, Fruit Pecan Pies and Chocolate Pecan Pies, then let guests choose one of each or the one that appeals most.

Miniature Pecan Pies

Pastry for 2 crust pie
2 eggs, slightly beaten
⅔ cup dark corn syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup sugar
⅔ cup finely chopped pecans

Mix pastry; roll to ⅛ inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut into 3½ inch circles and use to line 24 individual tart shells or muffin pans (2 inches x 1 inch). Flute edges as desired.

Mix eggs, corn syrup, salt, vanilla and sugar together. Stir in pecans. Spoon about 1 tablespoonful into each unbaked shell. Bake in 400 degree F. (hot) oven 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on rack. Makes 24.

Pineapple Pecan Pies: Follow recipe for Pecan Pies, lining 32 shells with pastry, placing a scant teaspoon drained crushed pineapple in each and then covering pineapple with 2 teaspoons pecan filling. Makes 32.

Fruit Pecan Pies: Follow recipe for Pecan Pies, lining 32 shells with pastry, placing a scant teaspoon chopped candied fruit in each and then covering fruit with 2 teaspoons pecan filling. Makes 32.

Chocolate Pecan Pies: Follow recipe for Pecan Pies, lining 32 shells with pastry and adding ⅓ cup fortified chocolate flavored syrup to pecan filling. Makes 32.

Fresh Apples Ornament Snack Tray

The historic partners of apples and cheese make a decorative holiday appearance when they're teamed in unusual ways for modern snacking. At this time of year fresh apples are at their tangiest, sweetest, crunchiest, complementing perfectly the smooth, flavorful cheeses. Best of all eating apples are the Red and Golden Delicious from the world's Apple Bowl, Washington State. These large-sized, sweet-flavored apples are perfect for fresh eating, for holiday salads, for low-calorie snacking.

Unusual is the two-tier tray service above, combining Washington Golden Delicious crescents with wedges of Edam cheese, spicy cream cheese and nut balls, slivers of smoked cheese or meat, and slices of American cheese. Your holiday guests will enjoy choosing fresh Washington applesnack combinations to please their individual tastes.

Apple'n Cheese Christmas Ball

2 large Washington Golden Delicious apples
1 small Edam cheese

Cut one Washington Golden Delicious apple into eights; put crescent-shaped apple wedges in lemoned-water bath. Cut Edam cheese into crescents to match apple wedges. Re-build ball on tray alternating cheese and apple wedges, using toothpicks to hold together. Arrange any remaining cheese crescents on platter around second, uncut Washington Golden Delicious apple.

Curried Cheese Balls

1 8-oz. package cream cheese
2 tbsp. cream
½ tsp curry powder
½ tsp. grated orange rind
½ cup chopped nutmeats
2 Washington Delicious apples

Soften cream cheese; blend in cream, curry, and orange rind. Let chill slightly, then form into balls. Roll in chopped nuts; chill until ready to serve. Then combine on platter with Washington apples.

More school children die from cancer each year than from any other disease. About half of them die from leukemia, which is cancer of the blood-forming tissues. The American Cancer Society is spending more money for research on leukemia than is any other voluntary health organization. Help to continue this research by supporting the Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

JOB TRAINEES FIND NEW WORK

By U.S. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D., Minn.)

The Manpower Development and Training Act is proving its worth in combating one of the basic causes of long-range unemployment, and in encouraging sound manpower planning based on research.

Eugene J. McCarthy
U.S. Senator

In 1959, the Senate Special Committee on Unemployment Problems, of which I was chairman, recommended "institution of a nationwide vocational training program through federal grants in aid to the states, including specialized courses for youths who have dropped out of school and for older workers who require retraining." Passage of the Training Act in 1962 was a beginning toward meeting the needs identified in our committee study.

By October 30 more than 2,107 training projects for over 83,700 unemployed and underemployed persons had been approved since August 1962. As of October 15, 52,000 trainees had begun or completed training. Approximately 31,000 are presently being scheduled for courses.

Of the 15,000 workers who had completed courses by September, 70 percent have been placed in jobs almost wholly or predominantly related to their training.

In addition, experimental and demonstration projects have been approved to service 31,000 individuals. These projects are aimed at developing new methods of reaching the hard-core unemployed. They are directly concerned with the jobless in big-city slums, the older worker, the emotionally handicapped, the educationally deficient, the drop-out, minority groups and other disadvantaged workers in the labor force.

Data compiled so far shows that MDTA programs are focused on meeting the needs of primary wage earners. Over 75 percent of the men and 40 percent of the women enrolled in courses under the Act are heads of families or households. Of those who have completed training, 75 percent of the men have been placed in jobs as compared to about 60 percent of the women.

Almost half the trainees have been drawn from the ranks of the long-term unemployed; that is, individuals unemployed for 15 weeks or more. This is twice the proportion of long-term unemployed found among the Nation's jobless totals.

Much of the training is being provided to individuals with limited educational attainment. Approximately 40 percent of the trainees have not completed high school. One out of every ten trainees had a grade school education or less.

Length of the training course varies depending on the skill being taught. Average length of courses is 22 weeks; however, many such as practical nurse, auto mechanic, and electronic technician take 52 weeks, while others such as nurses aide, auto service attendant and electronic assembler may require only about 6 weeks.

We have found that reaching the hard-core, long-termed unemployed is the most challenging aspect of the training program. So many of the people we are aiming at just do not possess the basic education which would permit them to absorb conventional training. Congress has before it now amendments which would provide greater assistance to those unemployed who have low educational backgrounds. I hope these amendments are speedily approved.

Chilton Community Chorus Invites You To Join

The Chilton Community Chorus, composed of members from all over our county, is a volunteer group dedicated to presenting good music for the enjoyment of the singers and the public.

Mr. Bruce Tolbert of Alabama College is going to conduct the choral group and will be present at the first meeting of the entire chorus on Monday, January 6th. At this meeting all the details will be disclosed while everyone is present. The meeting will be at 7:00 p.m. in the band room of the Henry Adair School.

If you are interested, fill out the adjacent form and bring with you.

Rapid progress is being made in the organization of the Chilton Community Chorus, the first group of it's kind to be organized here in our area. It was announced this week that Mr. Bruce Tolbert of Alabama College has been obtained to conduct the chorus. Mr. Tolbert is not unfamiliar to people in Central Alabama as he has conducted the annual presentation of the MESSIAH by the Montevallo Community Choir for eight years. Neither is he a stranger in music in other parts of the country.

He has taught voice and been Choral Conductor at leading schools of music. Among them: Bowling Green State University (Ohio); University of Mississippi; Butler University, where he was head of the voice department and Opera Director..

Since 1956 Mr. Tolbert has been at Alabama College where he is presently teacher of voice, choral conductor, and opera director.

He has been church music director with the following denominations: Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Christian and Congregational. Mr. Tolbert has been soloist with the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in New York City and Temple Emanu-El in Birmingham.

Holding his BA and MFA degrees he has had special coaching in these fields: voice study with Marie Rubini Reichlin and Rose Bampton and opera coaching with Filfred Pellotier.

Mr. Tolbert has done many concerts all over the United States as well as other works too numerous to mention.

Needless to say that this entire front page could be filled with his outstanding accomplishments in the field of music. However, that should not be necessary as you readily recognize this.

The fact that we have such an outstanding man to conduct the Chilton Community Chorus should be all the more reason why YOU should sing in the group. There is no better way to express your confidence and support to Mr. Tolbert than by your membership.

Look further in this paper for a membership blank if you're interested.

Bids Let On Two Road Projects For Chilton County Dec. 20th

The Alabama Highway Department has issued a call for bids on December 20 for 35 road and bridge construction projects estimated at more than $21.5 million and extending into 29 counties.

Two Chilton County projects are included in the December letting. Bids will be received for constructing bridges at Mulberry Creek southeast of Maplesville and for second stage paving and shoulder paving on Interstate Route 65 from Pine Level north to the SShelby County line. Six miles of the interstate project are in Autauga County and 27 miles are in Chilton County.

Prior contract lettings from March through November during this first year of the Wallace administration brought in low bids totaling $78,218,818 for highway construction through out Alabama.

"So Others May Eat"

The Christmas shopping season is at its peak, with a wealth of gifts for our selection. As we go about the happy task of remembering those dear to use, CARE asks us also to remember those who have nothing -- the millions of people across the world who do not even have enough to eat.

Through its Food Crusade now underway, CARE appeals to Americans to send 6,000,000 packages, at $1 per package, to the needy and desolate on four continents. Foods are mainly U. S. donations of form abundance Combined with "partnership" programs whereby local governments pay distribution costs, the packages will complete a year long CARE plan to help feed more than 35,000.000 persons in 33 countries of Africa, Asia, Europe. Latin America. Long after the holidays have passed, the gifts will be used in ways to nourish the hungry, give them health and energy to help themsleves to a better life.

Every package is a personal expression of brotherhood, presented with the name and address of the donors who send their dollars to: CARE Food Crusade, 312 Forsyth Bldg., Atlanta. Ga., 30303. No matter what language men speak, America's prayers for Peace on Earth are quickly understood when we give food so others may eat -- through our kindness, for the present; by their own efforts, in the years ahead.

STATE OF ALA.—

$250,000 Yearly To Be Spent Advertising

Governor George C. Wallace will reveal details of the most extensive advertising campaign in the history of Alabama at the annual meeting of the Alabama Travel Council in Montgomery Thursday.

The Governor will discuss the media to be used in the campaign and the states and cities which will be covered. He will show samples of the types of advertising and materials that will be used and he will announce the central advertising theme on which Alabama's tourist promotion program will be keyed.

The campaign is part of the overall tourist promotion program which has been formulated by the State Bureau of Publicity and Information. Ed Ewing, Director of the Bureau will outline the various phases of the program at the meeting.

"We are placing great emphasis on our tourist promotion efforts. We supported legislation that will provide $250,000 a year for that purpose and the mass advertising campaign is one portion of the overall program we have set up," Governor Wallace said.

He said that the state is now competing for the tourist dollars along with other states that have greatly increased their income through expanded tourist trade.

"The travel industry is vital to this state. One third of all state tax in Alabama is paid by the travel service industry. Every dollar spent by a tourist generates 31 cents income for someone in Alabama. The expansion of our tourist trade is one of the quickest and best ways to greatly improve Alabama's economy. Tourists spend more than 20 billion dollars a year in America and we are working to get a bigger share of that sum,' the Governor said.

Attending the luncheon meeting will be chamber of commerce executives, tourist attraction owners and operators, members of the press, and representatives of the oil companies, restaurants, hotels, and motels.

CCHS Has 92 Members In FFA

Vocational agriculture students at Chilton County high school number 92 at the end of the first half of the 1963-64 school year. J. R. Thompson vocational agriculture teacher at the school, said the number of students taking the course this year is slightly more than last year.

Enrollment in the FFA chapter at the school is ninety five. The vocational agriculture student is eligible for membership in the youth organization until the third anniversary of his graduation from school or until he becomes 21 years old, whichever occurs last, Thompson said.

Alabama does not have a specific required course of study for vocational agriculture students because of the widely varying needs in different areas. The state does have a guide of suggested study subjects which apply to every community. This includes study of the plant and animal sciences, farm management, farm mechanics and farm family living.

Going on throughout the State this year for the first time, a research study is being made to determine all the types of jobs that vo-ag graduates might be best suited to hold. Also, this research will indicate the kinds of courses which will prepare vo-ag students for these jobs. This important study is being done by the State vocational agriculture service, and Auburn University's department of agricultural education.

In addition on the local level the vocational agriculture instructor studies the needs of the community and organizes his instruction around this base. Every vo-ag department also gives instruction in the school shop where students learn woodworking, welding, electrical wiring and plumbing, Thompson said.

CANCER FACTS:

Of every six persons who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die, according to the American Cancer Society. Numbers 1 and 2 wil lbe saved. Number 3 will die but might have been saved had proper treatment been received earlier. Numbers 3, 5 and 6 will die of cancers which can not yet be controlled; only the results of research can save these patients. Support the American Cancer Society's 1963 Cancer Crusade.

Five Seniors Awarded Plaques At Annual Football Banquet Recently

The Annual Football Banquet was held in the Chilton County High School Lunchroom on December 9, at seven o'clock. The room was gaily decorated with the school colors and appropriate symbols.

Mr. William C. Maddox, President of the Clanton Quarterback Club which sponsors the banquet, was Master of Ceremonies for the evening. The invocation was given by Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson. The principal of the school, Mr. S. E. Waters, graciously thanked the Quarterback Club for its great help in striving for better athletics in Clanton, not only in giving the banquet, but in giving its support throughout the year.

It was with pride that Coach Don Finlayson awarded plaques to the five Senior players: Bobby Powers, Donny Barker, Francis Kane, Ray Mahan, and Roy Connell. Then he gave "C" letters of recognition to 33 players who had played football this fall.

Highlight of the evening came when Mr. Eddie Edwards and Mr. Raymond Popwell gave special trophics ot the three outstanding players. The trophy for; the Outstanding Backfield Player went to Bobby Powers. The Outstanding Lineman Award was given to Ray Mahan. Roy Connell was voted the Best Sportsman. These awards are especially treasured because they are chosen by secret ballot by the players themselves.

All those who received this special recognition accepted them with praise for their fellow players and their coaches.

Coach Kilgrow, Guest Speaker—

The guest speaker for the evening was introduced by Mr. Rufus Cassity, Coach of the Clanton Welterweight Team. Then Coach Joe Kilgrow, coach of Intramural Athletics of the University of Alabama, brought an inspiring speech telling that it takes a dedicated, sincere person to be successful in scholarship, athletics, and every phase of life that is worthwhile.

The 125 guests who were present at the banquet all agreed that it was a most enjoyable evening and a fine tribute by the Quarterback Club to the Athletic Department of the Chilton County High School.

Postmaster Signals Start of Yule Season Mail Rush

The advent of December marked the start of one of the biggest races in town -- the annual race against time at the Clanton post office as its Christmas mail rush went into high gear, Postmaster R. R. Sutley noted today.

New reports from Postmaster General John A. Grinouski in Washington to Mr. Sutley indicate an anticipated nationwide record mail volume for this Christmas season of nearly 12 billion pieces during December.

Locally, Postmaster Sutley expects another record volume of mail exceeding last December's.

"Shopping and mailing early benefits everyone," the postmaster observed. "Customers who buy early get the pick of all the Christmas stocks; the local economy is aided by the business activity thus created, and everyone - including the postal service - is happy about the additional time that early mailing allows.

"Early mailing also gives us time to get gifts and cards in the hands of addressees in good condiiton with less chance of damage or delay due to human error."

"Our employees need public help to run this race against time - and patrons of the Clanton post office can assist us by shopping and mailing right now and by using ZIP Code in both return and destination addresses."

Merchants Can Help—

Keep Stores Free Of Fire Hazards

Proprietors of the nation's retail stores were urged today to observe special precautions to keep their stores firesafe during the busy Christmas shopping season.

By following simple precautions the possibility of fire in stores crowded with shoppers can be kept at a minimum, the National Board of Fire Underwriters said.

Fire Safety Tips

The National Board made these suggestions:

Enforce no smoking rules. Smoking by both the public and employees should be prohibited on the selling floors, and restricted to especially designed areas.

As counters and shelves are stocked with fresh merchandise empty paper cartons and boxes should be removed from selling floors immediately. and disposed of the same day.

Store decorations should be made of non-flammable or fire-resistant materials, and care should be taken to keep thme away from electric light bulbs.

All aisles on selling floors and regular and emergency exits should be kept clear of stock, hand trucks and other obstructions to permit quick evacuation if a fire alarm sounds.

Have A Fire Plan

The store should have a plan of what to do if fire strikes. Before Christmas shopping crowds appear, time should be taken out for an employees' fire drill. Clerks should be instructed or how to guide shoppers to the nearest exit in case of emergency.

Employees should be told that in case of fire the first thing to do is sound the store's fire alarm in order to evacuate the building, then quickly call the fire department. If there is a fire alarm box outside, at least one employee should be given the duty of sounding the alarm from that box, then remaining by the box to direct the fire department to the store when it arrives.

FFA - FHA
Christmas Party

Thursday night, December 12 was the date of the FFA - FHA Christmas party at the Jemison School Gym.

A large Christmas tree was in the center of the large area.

During the games session the tree was decorated by those having birthdays in December.

As each member or guest arrived, they bore gaily wrapped toys and a number was placed on them. Later members were possed, the toy received was opened and the toy played with. The toys were then placed in a box for the County Christmas Chest.

The group engaged in active games, the quartets of each group sang special numbers, then all joined in singing Christmas carols..

The refreshment table was decorated down the center with red, white and green streamers.

Cookies, chips and cold drinks were enjoyed or record music was furnished.

KAREN KELLY

Chosen TAP Chairman

Karen Kelly of Birmingham has been appointed State Chairman for the Teen-Age Program (TAP) of the National Foundation-March of Dimes in Alabama, Dr. Frank A. Rose, State March of Dimes Chairman, announced today.

Miss Kelly, a graduate from Ensley High School in Birmingham, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ernest Kelly. Karen is now a freshman at Auburn University.

"The National Foundation-March of Dimes program, now expanded to aid victims of crippling birth defects and arthritis as well as polio, has attracted a vigorous group of young volunteers such as Karen," Dr. Rose said.. "Their dedication to the fight agains health problems which afflict so many children and young adults is a credit to their age group and an inspiration to adults."

TAP groups throughout Alabama and the Nation will help to stimulate interest in careers in the health professions and to inform teen-agers about the Health Careers Awards offered by many chapters of The National Foundation-March of Dimes. They also plan to take part in a massive program of public education concerning birth defects and arthritis. TAP members will also help adult volunteers with preparations for the 1964 March of Dimes.

Soil Conservation News

By Olin G. Fields

J. O. Gray, Clanton, has started construction of 7,400 feet of new parallel terraces and wants approximately 2,000 more feet layed out. These terraces were spaced 88 ft., 66 ft. and 44 ft. This spacing was used to fit an even number of peach rows between terraces. Mr. Gray wants peach rows 22 ft. apart.

E. C. Williams, Sardis Community, and a cooperator of the Chilton County Soil Conservation District, has constructed 9,643 feet of parallel terraces. This practice was carried out under the ASCS program.

Mr. Williams also established four grass waterways to take care of terrace water. Three of these waterways were planted to Bahia grass and one planted to Coastal Bermuda grass.

Tom Strain, Collins Chapel, is in the process of constructing 2,800 feet of parallel terraces. Mr. Strain also has constructed a 500 foot surface field ditch.

J. M. Wood, Thorsby community, is in the process of constructing a dug pond 250' x 70' and an average depth of 7.8'. Mr. Wood plans on using this pond for livestock water and also to irrigate his lawn and garden.

Crop residue use, cutting stalks and leaving on top of land as a cover has been done on a number of farms. Some of the farmers are as follows: C. R. Childress, Toy Mullins, Mrs. Grace Littlejohn, Welby Cooper, B. F. and Coy Rasberry, F. T. Williams and Jim Armstrong.

Soil and Water District farm plans have been prepared on the following: J. C. White, Isabella Community; Samuel Williamson, Jumbo Community C. L. Gilbert, Wessington Community and Sardis Community and Clay Latham, Lawley Community.

Care For Your Christmas Plants

On the basis of enjoyment and sentiment, many recipients of Christmas plants such Poinsettia and Cyclamen desire to keep the plants as long as possible. By selecting the location where the plant is to be used in the home and following a few precautions, these plants can remain beautiful for several weeks.

The Poinsettia is one of the most striking and colorful of the Christmas plants. However, it will not remain as such unless a few precautions are followed.

In selecting a place in a room, remember that bright light (not direct sun) is desirable. Also of possible, the room temperature should be as uniform as possible with temperature of 65 to 70 degrees.

Cooler night time temperatures are desirable. A location with a moist atmosphere rather than very dry air is preferred. Soil moisture should be maintained, thereby avoiding an excessively dry or excessively wet soil. Also, Poinsettias should not be subjected to drafts or sudden temperature changes.

The Cyclamen is a most attractive Christmas plant with its many unusual shaped flowers. It too is slightly temperamental as to the envircment in which it will continue to bloom. Cyclamen often will bloom for two to three months provided it receives proper care. The two essential requirements are that the plants be placed in a cool room and watered regularly. If a cool room is not available, the plant may be kept in a cooler location such as an un-used bedroom or basement.

This plant may be moved into the warmer parts of the house for two to three days at a time. Then a recovery period of a week to ten days will permit the plant to overcome the exposure to the warm temperatures.

Good luck with your Christmas plants and may your Holiday Season be most joyous.

Morris is very interested in the mental health program of our county and we know that his work will be appreciated. His talk was very interesting and enjoyed by the following Club members: Lee Searcy, Helen Atkinson, Eleanor Haywood, Jewel Calloway, Carrie Mae Wood, Doris Burkhalter Jimmie Waugh, Margie Day and Ann Glass. We were glad to have as our visitors Little Jackie Glass, Mrs. Leon Snider and Mrs. B. E. Reeves. After the meeting the members and visitors enjoyed coffee and pie at a local cafe with Helen Atkinson and Doris Burkhalter as hostesses.

NEWS OF—
REFUGE
By M. LOCKHART

Dr. Billy Graham in quoting Dean Inge, said: "Christianity has not failed-it has not been tried."

Benjamin Franklin said: "The man who is good for excuses is good for nothing else." Mr. A. F. Lokey cites two Sunday fishermen who heard bells ringing in the distance. One said, contritely, 'You know Sam, we really ought to be in church.' Sam re-baited his hook and answered: "Well, I couldn't go any way. My wife is sick." Were you in church Sunday? If not, why?

Our services last Sunday were well attended considering the cold weather and other surrounding circumstances. We are looking forward to having the auditorium where it will be easier heated by next Sunday. So, you can bring the whole family and expect to be more comfortable.

We will get out early next Sunday morning in order to give a little more time in the afternoon arranging for the Christmas Program for the evening services. Everybody engaged in the program please be present.

We will meet immediately after noon this Saturday for the purpose of putting up decorations for the Yuletide services Sunday night. The services will begin as usual at 6:00 o'clock.

The Junior group of the Training Union carried their program to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mims Sunday night and presented Mr. Mims with a sunshine basket. Mrs. M. Lockhart led the group, and thev enjoyed themselves even though the weather was cold.

We urge you to be with us for both services next Sunday. We will have our Christmas tree and the exchange of gifts following a well planned program. If you do not plan to be in services elsewhere come on out and be with us.

May we take this means of wishing for you and yours a Merry Christmas. Above everything else, let's keep Christ in Christmas.

1953 CLASS REUNION, 27th

The Class of 1953 will hold its tenth year reunion, December 27 in the private dining room of the Holiday Inn. Places may be reserved by sending names and $2.50 per person for meal to Mrs. Earl Smith. Route 5, Clanton, Ala.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and all alumni are asked to attend if possible. Reservations must be completed on or before December 20th.

The beautiful Garden of Gethsemane, where Christ prayed during the last few hours of his life, is lovingly tended by monks. It was here that Jesus realized the sacrifice he must make to redeem mankind from sin. (Jordan)

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1, 1963.

RESCUE SQUAD TALKS TURKEY

THE Rescue Squad is talking "Turkey" all over the County these days. They are selling tickets, at 25c each, for a bunch of the birds, to be given away Saturday, December 21st, on the Courthouse corner.

Anyone wanting to purchase a ticket for the big event can do so from any member of the Rescue Squad.

We are informed this week that this will be a real shindig, and the last 15 minutes of the event will be broadcast over local radio station WKLF.

See inside this issue for list of those who have contributed turkeys for this event.

Telephone Talk

Charles M. Nicholson
Your Telephone Manager

DANGER, PROCEED WITH CAUTION! No, we're not talking about the streets and highways. Carelessness can make your home a danger spot! Frayed electric cords and worn plugs are a major cause of fire. And those handy aerosol cans that contain everything from hair spray to laundry soap may explode if punctured, and should never be thrown into an incinerator! If there are children in your home, cleaning fluids and insecticides should be kept under lock and key. One final thought . . . if you do have an accident or emergency and need outside help, the quickest way to get it is a telephone call. And the quickest way to make an emergency call is to keep a list of important numbers near your phone for handy reference. Doctors', firemen, police . . . they're all ready to serve you at a moment's notice. So keep those numbers handy!

* * *

THIS BUSY SEASON OF THE YEAR is a good time to think seriously about the advantages of extension telephones. Party arrangements, gift buying, appointments . . . can be handled more quickly when you just reach for the nearest phone. Doing things the telephone way leaves you more time for fun, more time to spend with family and friends. The ladies who bake all those wonderful Christmas cookies and pies and cakes will especially appreciate the convenience of a kitchen phone.

* * *

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE will some day be used by all the nations of the earth. A New England university professor predicts that its use will be hastened by Telestar which has already made possible new and exciting exchange of ideas between countries.

* * *

"MACHINE-TALK" is coming more and more to be the language of the business world. The Data-Phone Service makes it possible to transmit every kind of information from pictures to handwriting over the same communications facilities that carry regular telephone conversations. This special set converts data into tone language which can be sent via the nation-wide telephone network.

The Sunday dinner guest of the Punk Johnson's was Rev. Fred L. Lowery, Jr.

Our attendance was off due to the weather, sickness and car trouble.

We will have a program Sunday night and exchange our gifts. Betty Jo Thompson is in charge of the Christmas play and it looks very promising. Come join us. We will be glad to have you.

We are having wonderful services. When you don't come to church you miss so many blessings.

We are happy about the Youth Rally Efficiency Award.

Merry Christmas Y'all and a Happy New Year. Be sure to keep Christ in Christmas.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Two small stockings hanging there, Just below the open stair, and beside them, fair to see, Is a wonderous Christmas Tree.

In the Nursery overhead, Fast asleep in dainty bed, Two wee youngsters; and the while Angels watch, and smile and smile.

Two small stockings old and torn, In a room of gladness shorn, no bright, sparkling Christmas tree, Only gnawing poverty.

Two wee youngsters in their bed, Sadly shiver side by side, and as, restlessly they sleep, Angels watch, and weep and weep.

Sunday we will take up an offering for the Children's Home at Troy. Let's give until it feels good.

Everyone interested in decorating the tree will meet at the church on Saturday night and afterwards for cake and coffee at the J. Reed Thompson home.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS DIRECTOR RESIGNS

Director Jack Giles of the Department of Industrial Relations has resigned to become a partner in a legal firm now being formed in Huntsville.

Giles said that he and Carl Morring, Jr., both of Huntsville, had made an agreement to enter law practice in that city.

Giles said that he would remain in the State Government "until such time as it is convenient for the Governor for me to leave my position as Director of Industrial Relations."

"I would like to say that the greatest pleasure of my life has been my service with the Wallace administration. It is always refreshing to me to see a person in high position deal with complete honesty and truth in all matters as Governor Wallace has done. He is one of the few people in public life that I have ever seen who believed a pledge to the people was binding," Giles said.

"I will certainly strive to be of service to him and his administration in any way that I can as I go once again into private law practice," he added.

Bloodmobile To Be Here Friday, 27th

This is one of the few times we will have this pleasure so near Christmas.

It was thought at first this would be an undesirable time, a number of people would be out of town, but again there will be a number of visitors here to help out on the quota of 250 units.

Mr. Burton Mullins, Chairman Chilton County Red Cross Chapter and Mrs. W. E. Elmore Blood Program Chairman are planning for one of the largest donations received here.

This is one of the greatest times of the year to give. Citizens of Chilton County have used as much fresh blood this year as any time in the past. Last month one patient received through the Chilton County Hospital after using 32 pints of blood. Through your consideration this was the saving of a life and approximately $1400 to this one patient. He and others thank you more than is to be told, this could be you next.

These stories are why blood must be donated each week. Every month some place in Alabama. December 27, from 12:00 noon through 6:00 p.m. is our time here in Clanton at the First Methodist Church.

Blood in the bottle - not in the body - is available blood to save life.

Miss Dennis Is Miss Future Homemaker

Sue Dennis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dennis of Clanton has been chosen to represent the Future Homemakers of Chilton County High School as Miss FHA.

Sue is a graduate senior this year. She holds the office as secretary for the FHA Chapter. She is a member of the student council. She was a candidate for Miss CCHS and Chit Chatter.

Social Security Agent Changes Clanton Dates

Mr. George W. Barker, District Manager of the Selma Social Security Office, announces that effective January 1, 1964 the time and place of their regularly scheduled trip to Clanton and Chilton County will be changed. His representative, Mr David G. Adams, will be visiting Clanton each Tuesday and may be contacted on the Second Floor of the City Hall at any time between 10:00 A.M. and 3:00 P.M.

Barker wishes to remind everyone that Mr. Adams' will be available to discuss any questions they may have on Social Security and assist them in claiming benefits.

Fires Run Rampant; City Urges Caution

A fire early Thursday morning, about 1:30 o'clock severely damaged the old Monroe Foshee homeplace near Mt. Pleasant School northwest of Clanton.

Reports from the fire department are that the fire was held to one room, and the house itself was saved. The house was occupied at the time, but the News was unable to secure the name of the family before press time.

This is about the 10th fire in as many days. You are urged to exert caution if you must burn anything in or near your home or anyone else's.

THE City Volunteer Fire Department was literally running in circles Thursday, when at least five brush fires were reported in as many different directions.

Cause of the fires was undertermined, but the Fire Department is issuing a strong appeal to people to be very careful buring trash such as Christmas wrappings, grass patches, or anything else which could cause a major catastrophe.

The Department lister fires in the Cotton Mill Village near the fertilizer plant; one near Ottis Gray's on the Willie Hamilton Road southwest of Highway 22; a brush fire on the old Thorsby Highway near Don Sumrall's home, which is northwest of Highway 22; and one on or near Lilla Avenue in the Gore Addition, which is northeast of Clanton.

So far, the fires have not damaged any dwelling or buildings, but they are keeping the Volunteers so busy that if we did have a real emergency fire, they would be hampered greatly in their effectiveness.

You are asked to be extremely careful with any kind of fire, fireworks or firearms in or near the City. There is some apprehension that the brushfires will get into a house, if greater care is not taken.

460 Alabamians To Get January Induction Call

Director Ralph W. Adams said that 460 Alabama youths will be called to the Montgomery Induction Station in January to meet the state's induction quota.

Adams said that the nationwide January call is for 16,000 men, compared to a call for 13,000 selectees in December, and 17,000 in November. As usual, Adams said, all the inductees will be earmarked for Army service.

Alabama's quota will include volunteers, delinquents, and unmarried registrants in Class I-A, or I-A-O, of 21 years or older. The number of men examined and eligible determines the county quotas. County by county Alabama's January call includes:

Autauga 3; Bibb 10; Chilton 10; Coosa 3; Dallas 8; Elmore 5; Perry 5; Shelby 8.

Sale Of Savings Bonds Goes Up

November sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds purchased by Alabamians amounted ot $3,476,078. Total sales for the 11 month period of 1963 were $41,626,979 or 91.9% of the state's 1963 goal of 45.3 million.

Chilton County Savings Bonds Chairman C. O. Jones announced that November E and H sales brought the county to $210,549.00 or 73.9% of their 1963 goal.

Chairman C. O. Jones reminds that there is still time to include U. S. Savings Stamps and Bonds on Christmas shopping lists. No gift better expresses your desire to give a gift of freedom - the legacy we all cherish.

Freedom Of Election . . . Soviet Style

To Congressmen and Senator:

For the second time Congress has passed a suspension of the "Equal Time On Air Law" for all candidates excepting Democrats and Republicans for office of President and Vice President of the U. S.

This act of Congress is illegal and unconstitutional. It shuts out a new Conservative party, which is badly needed. The public may not learn the truth without Freedom of Speech and Freedom of The Press in an election.

The Administration fears an Independent New Party who could freely tell the people about the squandering of foreign aid, the United Nations, the capital stock of the Federal Reserve System, tax free foundations, etc., etc., etc.

They fear a new Conservative party with freedom of speech as they fear Free Unpledged Electors.

Americans are plenty angry at this Act of suspension of Equal Time on Air, and we demand that some action be taken.

Respectfully yours,
E. L. Barthelemy

A Reminder On Excise Taxes

Manufacturers, retailers, and others, who are liable for more than $100 excise taxes for November must place such taxes in a depositary. They must use a Form 537 for this purpose and make this deposit no later than December 31, 1963.

Deposits may be made in local authorized banks or at a Federal Reserve Bank.

Information regarding requirements for tax repositaries may be obtained by calling your local Internal Revenue office.

Scouts Honor Goode

Highlights of 1963

THE year just past — 1963 — was a full one for most of us. It was filled with the good, and bad, of life; and it gave us 365 brand new starts.

It gave us opportunity to attain, and it killed some of our dreams and plans along the way.

To some, it has been a bountiful year, filled with the goodness of life. To others, it may have brought tragedy and heartahe. In any case, the old year is about to expire and on the horizon the New One beckons with promise, possibilities and 366 new days in which you may build and improve your life and the lives of those around you.

Some of the biggest events of 1963, as recorded in the files of the News, both good and not so good — were:

On January 15th George C. Wallace was inaugurated Governor of the State of Alabama.

Chamber Makes History—

On the Friday preceding that eventful day, the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce, in what was to be a new era for that body in this County, elected new officers with James H. Stokes as President. E. S. Monroe was elected to the vice-president's post.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, on January 18th, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary. On January 27th the new building for the Church of Christ was dedicated on Lay Dam Road in Clanton.

A good year for church building, the First Methodist Church in Clanton went into it's $100,000 educational building for the first time on January 27th.

The ribbon was cut on January 15th opening up the Clanton Housing Project, providing a number of low cost living quarters for many Clanton residents, both white and colored.

The Chamber of Commerce got its "225" Drive underway in February, and after many weeks of hard work and careful planning, boasted a membership of over 225 members.

New Industry Comes—

Also, during the year 1963, Clanton saw its first new industry in many years which is now Camptown Togs, Inc., and the credit for this accomplishment goes largely to the Chamber of Commerce with "Skeeter" Stokes at its helm.

Clanton played host to the District Band Festival on February 2nd; and Burton Mullins, Jr. was appointed a Diplomatic Courier for the United States Government.

A hard freeze in February was thought responsible for wiping out several varieties of Chilton Countys' famous peaches, but the total crop later turned out to be a money-maker for the growers.

At first count, it was believed that some had lost up to 90 percent of their crop. Later estimates were much lighter, although damage to some varieties was 100 percent.

R. C. Williams, 28 years with the Shell Oil Company, was honored for his years of service, and retired from that business with Dave Moore and "Pappy" Hayes taking over the Shell distributorship in the County.

Ellen Wright was among the finalists in the Junior Miss Alabama Contest.

Re-Identification Takes Spotlight—

The Re-identification of voters took the spotlight in 1963, and the News, along with county officials continuously urged voters to re-identify themselves so they would be eligible voters in 1964.

On February 25th, the West End IGA Super Market was gutted by fire, and with a 75 percent loss, was several weeks getting into operation again. The owner at that time, Grady Taylor, passed away later on in the year.

The Chamber of Commerce Drive for 225 members, by early March, was shaping up into the most successful undertaking of the entire year, and in the history of that organization. Clanton's Clay Carroll was making his mark in Big League baseball. His Lily Hill Special was knocking them over in Denver with the Braves.

Tragedy Strikes—

The Gore-Easterling Chair Factory in Clanton was destroyed by a spectacular fire on April 8th; and little three-year-old Carolyn Harrison, of Maplesville, was accidentally run over by the family car and killed.

A lot was said about the development of the Coosa River in Chilton County, and a little was done. Many readers wrote in to the News concerning this vital growth development for Chilton.

Also, in April, D. P. Culp, a native of this County, was named head of Alabama College at Montevallo. Construction was begun on the Clanton Country Club. It is now completed.

In May, the County Hospital announced plans for a 20-bed addition to that facility. It too, is now a reality.

And on May 9th, the big headlines in the News read: "Clanton Gets Industry", and we were on our way to our first sizeable industry in many years.

Another chair factory was destroyed by fire in early May. It was a total loss. The business was operated by Mr. James Puckett and Mr. Otis Jones.

On May 14th, two lives were snuffed out in a grinding auto crash just north of Jemison. They were Annie Pearl Reynolds and Oscar J. Blow. Also in early May, construction of one of two recreational parks on Chilton's Coosa got underway. It is now completed, located in the northern part of the County on Lay Lake. Another on Lake Mitchell, south of Clanton is underway at this time.

Joe Hayes Honored—

Mike Dennis went to Boys State; and Carol Owen was May Queen of Maplesville High. Joe Hayes, active in Scouting and many other endeavors in Clanton, died at a very tender age. The new Scout Hut south of Clanton is named in his honor. He was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayes of Clanton.

The Chamber of Commerce made a strong drive for funds to intall the new garment factory here. They were successful in collecting nearly $25,000 for this project.

23 lovely young "peaches" entered the Jaycee sponsored Peach Queen Contest and Miss Ann Thompson was chosen as the 1963 Queen.

The Board of Revenue and Control sought to purchase voting machines for Chilton County, but later delayed the purchase, due to unforeseen financial obstructions.

And on July 4th, headlines said: "Only Half of Qualified Voters Re-Identified". Two-year old Johnny Seales was electrocuted near Clanton. It was a freak accident and termed unavoidable.

City Plans Improvements—

In mid-July, broad improvement plans for Clanton's streets and utilities were announced by Mayor J. Hollis Jackson. Now, many of these plans have been realized, and others are well underway.

The Clanton Jaycees sponsored a very successful County Fair in August; and the local Shrine Club gave the public a genuine, old-fashioned Rodeo which was well-attended.

Train Derailed—

A train was derailed in late August north of Clanton near Lomax. Though property damage was high, none of the passengers were injured seriously. Miss Carol Young was chosen Maid of Cotton of 1963.

The County teachers got a salary increase; and Donald Martin, once again, held a successful drive for funds for Cerebal Palsy, with the assistance of the Rescue Squad and other groups.

Thorsby Bank—

The Bank of Thorsby moved into new and elaborate quarters; and the history-making Victory Over Polio (VOP) Drive was begun in Chilton to help wipe out the dread disease through the use of the Sabin Oral Vaccine. The final "dose" in the knockout attempt will be given on January 12, 1964.

The News ran a special edition observing the 14th Anniversary of the "Showplace of Central Alabama" the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. It was a tremendous success.

There are other stories. . . you can check your files of the News for details. Happy New Year everyone!

Alabama's Senior Bowl In Top 20 Attractions Over The Nation

Mobile's annual Senior Bowl football game, scheduled January 4, is listed as one of the top 20 travel attractions of the month on a calendar circulated by the National Association of Travel Organizations.

The state Bureau of Publicity and Information, a member of NATO, recommended to the organization that the game be listed on the top 20 calendar.

The listing of the top 20 travel attractions is circulated throughout the United States each month to hotels, motels, restaurants, travel agencies, motor clubs, etc.

"We are delighted that this outstanding event has been selected as one of the major events of interest to tourists in the United States," said Governor George C. Wallace.

"We welcome the many visitors who will come to Alabama for the game. We know they will enjoy it, as will the millions who will see it on nationwide television," he said.

The Senior Bowl [illegible] nationally famous. It features outstanding college football players in their first game as "professionals".

Politics Begin To Boil--

UNOFFICIALLY there are quite a few names being tossed into the political arena in Chilton County, and the "pot" is beginning to simmer a bit.

The only man in the County who has publicly announced that he will be a candidate for public office next year is Horsley White, who is presently serving this County as Circuit Clerk, and who intends to make the race for that office again.

Names being heard about town to come out also is in the race for Circuit Clerk are Lally Bates, James Payton and E. A. "Red" Fulmer.

In the race for Probate Judge, nobody has publicly announced as yet, but it is the foregone conclusion of the political pros about that incumbent J. C. White will seek another term. Also mentioned as possible candidates in the Democratic Primaries for Probate Judge are: W. A. "Bing" Lecroy, Charlie Patterson, Lewis W. "Pig" Headley, and J. Hollis Jackson has been frequently mentioned, it is our understanding that he will not run for Probate Judge. An off-the-cuff mention of Grady Heflin, presently serving as Representativev to the State Legislature, has also been going the rounds.

In the field for the Board of Revenue and Control there seem to be quite a few names flying around. Acie Mims, incumbent in District 4 is planning to run again. Also mentioned who intend tossing their hat into this ring are: Reedie Hilyer and M. A. Inman with a possibility of Hughey Carroll and a Mr. Cleckler.

In the 3rd District race, which office is now held by Sherman Motley; we understand that the incumbent will seek re-election and his opposition will be Buddy Lawley and a Mr. Dennis whose first name we failed to get.

There have been some others mentioned; and in the days immediately following you will probably be hearing many more, some serious, some not serious.

The races for District Judge are still very quiet; but we expect to be hearing from them in the not-too-distant future.

The Fellows At The P. O.--

A special salute to close out the year, to the Postal Service men here at the Clanton Post Office, and those throughout Chilton County. Their's is a terrific task just before, during and after the Christmas holidays, and few ever think to thank them for the possible hundreds of favors which they might bestow, unbeknown to most of us.

They have a nice way of overlooking some of the minor rules and regulations which we are supposed to abide by, but sometimes get a little wrong.

Anyway, just to let the fellows know we appreciate their efforts, we hope they had a Merry Christmas, and that their New Year is filled with a lot of ZIP!

Make It Clear--

WE note, with some feeling of sarcasm, that there are those in the County who are making attempts to make it appear that the Democratic Party is uncertain as to whether it will hold primary elections or not next year.

This may be a trophy problem with the Republicans, but let it be noted clearly here that the loyal Democrats with whom we have talked in the past several weeks, are very strong in their opinion concerning primary elections, and are loud in their disapproval of "handpicking" candidates for public office.

It should, therefore, be understood, that the people themselves want primary elections to determine who will represent their party in the General Election next year.

We do not know what course the Republicans will take along the lines of a primary election. It probably depends a great deal on whether or not they can supply the demand for such an event.

From our observation of loyal Democrats, there had better be a Democratic Primary in Chilton County next year. Any politician who feels differently about this; and who makes the mistake of endorsing anything else, is a goner in the eyes of the Democratic voters of this County.

"The end justifies the means" theory that seems to be sticking its neck out from time to time, will not set well with the Democratic electors of this County. They believe that the goal should be set; but that the means used to attain said goal are more important in the long run than the goal itself.

And this newspaper agrees that a shinning goal is desirable; but that something less than the goal, attained nobly is better than the goal itself attained through loss of integrity.

How Do You Judge?

THERE is not a race of people on this earth that is not blessed with wisdom, and cursed with stupidity.

It is always stomach-turning for us to note where a group of people, professing to be stalwarts of freedom and peace on earth, publish tripe and trivia against a race of people, because some members of that race of people have done wrong, or are base and uncivilized.

When a child is bad, you do not condemn or reprimand his brothers and sisters. When an individual does wrong, you cannot condemn an entire race of people for this individual's actions. That is uncivilized; it is un-Christian; it is the basis of all hatred and malice; and it is evidence of very narrow minds, and illiterate discrimination.

Why don't we just blame the entire world for all our personal problems, for we are all products of this world? Because it is negative, that's why. And man cannot live a full and useful life based upon negative thought and negative actions.

Consider the source before you condemn the act. If you feel qualified to judge, even in the name of humanity, be sure you judge the deed and the doer, and do not judge his brother, simply because they speak the same language or have the same complexion.

THAT VOICE WE'VE BEEN TALKING ABOUT

OUR GOVERNOR

(Reprinted from the Geneva County Reaper and The Baldwin Times)

When the first reports of Governor George Wallace's dining in the capitol cafeteria came out of Montgomery, we thought we had a good governor.

When he sold one of the state's yachts and stopped the serving of steaks and drinkin' liquor on the other, we knew we had a good governor.

It might be that the Governor is a real honest-to-goodness lover of cornbread and black-eyed peas and just has no appreciation for fine food and drink. But be that as it may, the Reaper is impressed with his business-like management of the state's business. Whatever the reason, it is indeed refreshing to have a governor who is willing to economize at the expense of his own personal enjoyment.

Other economies came to our attention from time to time, such as competitive bidding on state purchases, and reduced operating expenses for the governor's mansion.

The Governor's interest in expanding educational opportunities thruout Alabama, is most commendable. Detractors who say that the program of building junior colleges and trade schools is politically motivated may be right. It is difficult for a politician to engage in a project of that magnitude non-politically. Nevertheless, junior colleges and trade schools are badly needed in the state and because of Wallace's interest, the state is going to have them.

A review of Reaper files of 1958 reveals that when Wallace was a speaker in Geneva he said the same things then that he's saying now. His opinion on constitutional law as it applies to the rights of individual states to manage their own affairs as his major theme then as it is today.

The Governor's integrity has suffered no obvious compromises because of success and the pressures therefrom. While there are those who maintain a difference of opinion with Wallace, it must be conceded that, at least, the Governor's half of the difference is honest.

His flamboyant maneuverings in the mixing mess impressed us at the time as being somewhat less than desirable on the part of the head of a great state.

However, it begins to appear from the Reaper's editorial desk that Wallace may be a lone, sane voice shouting in the wilderness of national stupidity. It is possible that he has the strength and the know-how to make himself heard, and to alter the national course of self-destruction.

It is possible that George C. Wallace will go down in history as one of Alabama's greatest governor's.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Amen. That's what we've been telling them all along.

A PETITION

December 10, 1963

Dear Governor Wallace:

We respectfully request that you not call a special session of the Alabama Legislature. Our justification is the U. S. Constitution; Article I, Section 2, which directs representatives to be elected at large and mentions absolutely nothing requiring any districting.

3 of our reasons are as follows:

1. It will be impossible to elect a conservative majority of national congressmen from Alabama under any plan of redistricting. 2. The needless expenditure of a special session's exorbitant cost. 3. Other detrimental legislation could be easily rammed through this special session.

This petition is sponsored by Women for Constitutional Government, P. O. Box 3276, Montgomery, Alabama.

A History Of Firearms; Their Use And Success

More types of breechloading weapons were developed between 1855 and 1865 than during any prior decade in the history of ammunition. Most of these guns, requiring their own peculiar cartridge or bullet, were used in combat for the first time during the Civil War.

Today, these guns and cartridges have become collector's items, their value enhanced considerably by the Civil War Centennial celebration, according to the National Rifle Association, a non-profit membership organization recognized as the governing body for shooting in the U.S.

Patented in 1856, the Morse .58 caliber cartridge marked the beginning-of-the-end for muzzle loadin weapons, popular during the Revolutionary War and for many years afterward. Among the first metallic cartridges, it contained a primer, or detonator, similar to those found in today's center-fire ammunition.

The Morse .58—meaning the bullet was slightly larger than one-half inch in diameter—introduced a new era of experimentation with the breech-loading "fixed" cartridge, which consisted of a metal case, projectile, powder charge and primer.

It's inventor, George Morse, joined the Confederate cause at the start of the Civil War and established manufacturing headquarters at Greenville, South Carolina. Both his weapons and his cartridges were produced in experimental quantities only and are collector's treasures today, the NRA said.

The .54 caliber Burnside, patented in 1856 by the Union general who gained fame by capturing Roanoke Island, New Bern, Beaufort and Fort Macon before his defeat at Fredericksburg, was used extensively during the Civil War in a carbine which Burnside invented. It was fired by percussion cap and resembled in shape a filled ice cream cone with the point of the cone broken off.

Another odd-shaped Civil War cartridge was the .56 caliber Billinghurst-Requa battery gun used in the wheel-mounted volley gun of the same name.

One of the first quick-fire, multishot weapons, its 25 barrels were loaded and fired simultaneously. A train of priming powder, reaching the full length of the breech block, was set-off by a percussion cap. The flame entered a tiny hole in the base of each cartridge and ignited the powder.

The first successful machine gun was invented in 1862 by Dr. Richard Gatling of Chicago. It consisted of six revolving barrels, each with its own loading and ejecting mechanism. Nearly 200 shots a minute were fired with "fixed" cartridges of different sizes up to one-inch in diameter.

The Army looked with disfavor on the weapon. In 1862, General Benjamin Butler purchased 12 Gatling guns from his own pocket and personally directed their use during the siege of Petersburg, Virginia. The machine gun was not used extensively until the 1870's.

Popular among Civil War cartridges was the .52 caliber Sharps. Made of linen, with a nitrated paper base designed for quick ignition, it was shot from a breech-loading carbine fired by percussion cap and noted for remarkable range, accuracy and hitting power.

More than 16 million Sharps Cartridges were used by Northern troops, especially cavalrymen, during the Civil War.

Rarely found today is the .50 caliber Smith with rubber case. Strictly an experimental Civil War cartridge, it was fired in a breechloading percussion carbine and was interchangeable with a companion cartridge made of paper-covered brass foil. During the war, the government bought 30,062 Smith carbines and nearly 14 million brass foil cartridges.

Best known among early brass percussion cartridges was the Maynard, patented in 1856 by Dr. Edward Maynard, a dentist. His was the first reloadable brass cartridge to see military service. More than two million .50 caliber Maynard cartridges were used during the Civil War.

Jefferson Davis secured 400 of Maynard's rifles and they were used first by the Confederates at Ball's Bluff, near Leesburg, Virginia.

The rim-fire Spencer cartridge had its priming charge situated around the rim rather than within a centrally-located primer. Seven thousand Spencer repeating rifles were delivered to the War Department during the first six months of 1863.

More than 58 million Spencer cartridges were used during the Civil War battles, most notably, at Gettysburg.

While both muzzle and breech-loading weapons were employed during its campaigns, the Civil War represented the last major use of the former type.

In its place came the smaller-calibered arm which ignited its breech-loading cartridge by percussion cap or primer. Such a weapon incorporated the ideas of scores of inventors and opened a new age of small arms and ammunition design which was to continue through World War II.

100 Years Ago

ADMIRAL RAPHAEL SEMMES AND THE ALABAMA

One hundred years ago this week, the Confederate privateer Alabama, under the command of Captain Raphael Semmes, captured and destroyed two Federal ships lying at anchor near Singapore.

A resident of Alabama since 1842, Semmes was educated at the U. S. Naval Academy but resigned his commission when Alabama seceded and proceeded at once to the Confederate capital. Asisgned by President Davis to buy stores of war from the north, he succeeded in getting large amounts of munitions shipped south before hostilities broke out.

First assigned to the command of the Sumter, Semmes sank many U.S. merchant ships before becoming blockaded at Gibraltar. He assumed the command of the Alabama shortly after its launching in 1862 and in it began a two year cruise which made him the naval hero of the Confederacy and incurred an estimated more than $6 million worth of damage to United States shipping.

Ranging from the Atlantic to the Indian Ocean, the Alabama destroyed 69 enemy vessels before she was finally sunk by the U. S. S. Kearsarge in the English channel in 1864.

Semmes, saved with many of his crew by an Englishman in his yacht returned to Richmond by way of Mexico, arriving in January of 1865 to take command of the James River fleet, consisting of three ironclads and 5 wooden steamers. When Richmond was evacuated, he blew up his fleet, organized his men into a brigade and proceeded to join the Confederate forces shortly before the war ended.

After the war he was made probate judge in Mobile and later became a college professor and a newspaper editor. His death occurred on August 30, 1877, while practicing law in Mobile.

Deep in the heart of every Texan is San Antonio, where heroes of the Alamo became martyrs in Texas' War of Independence. Here in 1836 a little band of 187 citizen-soldiers, among them Jim Bowie and Davy Crockett, fought for 13 days until the last man was killed by the besieging forces of 5,000 well-armed Mexican troops under General Santa Anna.

Through the heart of the city runs a twisting ribbon of water; staircases lead down to the green oasis banks, 20 feet below street level. Other highlights here are La Villita, a restoration of the 1722 Spanish village; the Mexican Quarter where "Chili Queens" sell spicy food from street stalls; Buckhorn Saloon, where a cowpuncher once could ride right up to the bar on his horse to wash the dust from his throat; Breckenridge Park's zoo; 243-year old Mission San Jose with its exquisite "Rose Window."

The Magic Circle route leads north to the "Hill Country" of dude and working ranches. Bandera has managed to keep its western appearance and atmosphere—rodeos and calf ropings are a part of everyday life; vast herds of sheep and goats around Kerrville account for the area's wool and mohair industries and are a delight to the shutterbug. On the night before Easter fires flare from hilltops rimming Fredericksburg, a German settlement, in a century-old custom based on folklore which has the Easter Rabbit on the hills tending cauldrons in which the eggs are cooked and dyed.

From Llano the road curves east across Buchanan Dam, a man-created mecca for boating, swimming and fishing; then south to Austin, whose Texas-size capitol dome is higher than that of the nation's capitol. Other famed landmark is the 22-story tower of the University of Texas—but in fall the focus is on Memorial Stadium where the Longhorns have become a top gridiron power of the nation. Final stop is at New Braunfels, famed for its springs and rushing rivers.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Following a hectic, all night session last Friday, the Congress on Saturday could not agree on an embattled foreign aid appropriations bill and adjourned until Monday.

In a list ditch effort to get a foreign aid bill without restrictions on the Executive in the field of foreign policy, President Johnson brought the full prestige of his office to bear on the Congress during the pre-dawn struggle Saturday. But the House balked under Administration pressure, and at 5 a.m. refused by a five vote margin to give in on its ban of Export-Import Bank guarantees of credit for sales to Communist countries. I was among those voting against the Administration on this particular issue because I do not believe the U. S. should provide credits through the Export-Import Bank to finance the sale of wheat to Russia.

After first issuing a frantic call to those members who had already left Washington for their homes to return, the Democratic leadership late Saturday afternoon decided to adjourn until Monday. Since the Senate has recessed until Tuesday, Deember 24th, the earliest possible sine die adjournment of the first session of the 88th Congress will be Christmas Eve.

Sharp Cuts

Although a $3.6 billion foreign authorization bill had passed earlier in the session, the House slashed the funds appropriated to $2.8 billion. The House also taked on the amendment barring U. S. credit guarantees on sales to Russia and bloc nations.

The Senate on December 19th passed it appropriation bill providing $3.2 billion for the program and deleted the restriction on sales to the Communists.

It was this credit curb which, during the last hours of the first session of the 88th Congress, provided the major obstacle to adjournment, after Senate-House conferees had agreed to the compromise figure of $3 billion–approximately $600 million less than the amount authorized by the Congress.

Adjournment Anticipated

Should Congress adjourn this week as is anticipated, this will be my final weekly column during 1963. Through the courtesy and cooperation of The Chilton County News, however, I shall look forward to reporting to you again when Congress reconvenes in January. In the meantime, I extend to you and your family my very best wishes for the holiday season and for the coming year.

IT'S YOUR WELFARE

Q. How many families get children for adoption every year?

A. The number varies - but usually between 200 and 300 children are placed each year by the Department of Pensions and Security with a view to adoption. Other placements are made by licensed agencies and some couples adopt children of relatives or children placed by their parents.

Q. Why are old age payments higher than those for other categories?

A. Because a large amount of the money provided the Department is earmarked for the old age program and cannot be spent for other needy groups.

Q. Can I get an old age pension if I live with my son and daughter in-law? I have no income.

A. The fact that you live with your son will not keep you from getting a pension if you meet the requirements. It depends on whether he provides for your needs by agency standards. Many persons who live with their children receive pensions.

COMING SOON THE controversial and moving presentation "Days Of Wine And Roses" starring Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick will begin a run at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre on Sunday, January 5th. Above is a scene from the movie.

Guidelines For Taxpayers

District Director, George D. Patterson, announced today that Internal Revenue will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in Alabama for estimating sales tax deductions for 1963.

The guidelines which will be provided for taxpayers in each of the 38 states with general sales tax laws are set out in tables showing residents average sales tax payments. Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their Federal income tax returns, Form 1040, may use the tables.

Sales tax tables will be available in the District Director's office on or about December 1. 1963.

CANCER FACTS:

Cancer of the colon and rectum strikes 70,000 Americans each year. According to the American Cancer Society, nearly 20,000 die of the disease annually—although three out of four patients could be saved by early diagnosis. Support the American Cancer Society's 1963 Crusade.

Demos Plan Annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner Jan. 24th

Mrs. Evelyn Hicks Shannon, Executive Director of the Alabama Democratic Campaign Steering Committee, announced the annual fund-raising dinner to be held at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham on January 24, 1964, at 7:00 P.M., the guest speaker to be U. S. Senator George Smathers of Florida. Senator Smathers is well-known to Alabama where he has many personal friends.

Smathers is a former Assistant U. S. District Attorney and is a Veteran of World War II. He was elected to Congress in 1946 and has served continuously. Senator Smathers is well qualified to speak on what the Democratic Party means to Alabama, to the South and to the Nation.

Also on the program will be Governor George Wallace, who will bring greetings for the State. Mayor Albert Boutwell will welcome the guests on behalf of the City of Birmingham.

All of Alabama's Congressional Delegation will be in attendance as well as members of the State Legislature and other state and county officeholders.

In addition, also present at the speakers table will be members of the State Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, Lt. Gov. Jim Allen; Attorney General Richmond Flowers; Judge Roy Mahall, Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Eugene (Bull) Connor, Democratic National Committeeman, will be present also.

Tickets are $15.00 each and may be purchased through State Democratic Headquarters in the Molton Hotel in Birmingham or through the Finance Chairmen in the various Districts. A capacity crowd is expected.

U.S. Water Supplies Called Adequate for Future Needs

New York — (HK) — One of the nation's top authorities on water management has "pooh-poohed" reports that the United States faces an acute water shortage in 40 years and that supplies will be inadequate for essential needs.

Richard D. Hoak, Senior Fellow at Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh and who has represented the steel industry on the National Technical Task Committee on Industrial Wastes since 1950, and studies show that in the future there will be water for all — both in quantity and quality.

Writing in Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, Hoak said two of the major questions informed people ask with considerable uneasiness are:

In a spreading economy powered by an exploding population will there be enough water in the U. S. to go around? And . . .

Is our water being needlessly or dangerously contaminated?

"At the outset," Hoak said, "we should reiterate something that is not generally understood and, because it isn't becomes a real troublemaker in our work with community and national groups.

"This is it: water can be used for many purposes without being consumed. In fact, most of the water we channel for our needs is used; little of it is consumed, except in agricultural irrigation."

Hoak said the earth's total volume of water has been quite constant for thousands of years and there is no reason to believe that it will not remain so. The annual precipitation on continental U.S. averages 30 inches, of which about 71 percent quickly returns to the atmosphere through evaporation.

The remainder, he added, runs off to streams or percolates through the earth into ground-water reservoirs, a runoff amounting to an average daily volume of fresh water of about 1,250 billion gallons. This, despite the variance of rainfall in different sections of the country, is sufficient to meet future requirements for personal needs and industry.

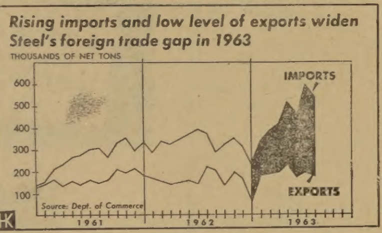
As for pollution, Hoak noted, the mere presence of extraneous material in water does not in itself constitute pollution. But where or when there is impairment of beneficial use, there must obviously be pollution control. He added:

"As one of the largest industrial users of water, the steel industry is fully aware of this. Twenty-six of the largest integrated steel mills each withdraw an average of 252 million gallons of water daily, mostly from rivers and lakes. This would be enough water to supply a city with a population of about 1,680,000.

"A recent survey has shown that only 7.9 percent of total volume withdrawn is consumed, principally by evaporation. The consumptive use of water by industry as a whole averages about 6 percent.

"One is justified in asking about the future supply. Even though much of our water is not used up, will there be enough to go around?

"The answer is yes, for two reasons: One, we have ample and dependable resources. Two, we are becoming more skilled at managing water, and as economic pressures bear down upon us we will do an increasingly better job of reusing more of it."



Rising imports and low level of exports widen Steel's foreign trade gap in 1963

FOREIGN-MADE steel mill products were entering the United States at the record rate of 10 tons per minute in 1963. Arrivals in the first eight months of 1963 totaled 3.5 million tons. This chart, prepared by American Iron and Steel Institute, shows the gains in monthly imports during 1963 while exports have shown moderate variation.

Each year since 1958, the United States has imported more steel mill products than it has exported — a reversal of the status existing for more than half a century prior to that date. The shift in the United States steel trade balance has had an adverse effect on the United States balance of payments and employment in steel and related industries. It is estimated that the domestic steel industry would have provided $360 million in wages and salaries for an additional 50,000 workers in 1962, if it could have maintained its 1953-57 average participation in world export trade and had experienced no further erosion of its markets by imports.

Mt. Pleasant News

Rev. Fred L. Lowery, Jr., Pastor

Happy to see Zed Price and Roger Ivey home again. They have been in Airborne training (Paratrooper that is) and have returned to their homes. Welcome home boys and congratulations on receiving your wings.

The young married people of our church held their Christmas party at the home of the James Melton's and there were 15 presnt and all report a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan F. Smith attended the Christmas dinner with the Kiwanis Club members.

25 members helped decorate the Christmas tree and church, then all went to the home of the J. Reid Thompson's where we sang Christmas Carols, and Emily and Katie Don and Betty Jo entertained with songs and refreshments of fruit cake chocolate cake, hot chocolate and coffee and potato chips. The table was decorated with Christmas candles as was the living room. We had a wonderful time, and thank you the Thompson's for your hospitality.

This church sends its heartfelt sympathy to the Melton family in the death of their mother, Mrs. (Gip) Dolly Melton. She was 90 years old. Had 30 grandchildren, 83 great grand children and 13 great great grandchildren. She was a very wonderful and sweet person and to know her was to love her. May the Lord bless and comfort her children.

We are happy to report that Mr. Marlin Patterson is improving at the Chilton County Hospital. Let us be much in prayer for him and all others that are ill.

This writer would like to say thanks to all the members and the ladies in the community who so responded to the call for dishes and help during the Melton death.

Our pastor, Rev. Fred Lowery, Jr. has gone to South Carolina to be with his family for 2 week during the holidays. Rev. Wayne McCullar will take his place this Sunday.

Don't forget Loyalty Day, January 5, 1964. We will call the roll and urge all members to be present. We want to break all records, attendance and collections, Bibles. So please come and answer to the roll call.

Happy New Year!

Annual Shrine Rodeo To Be Presented January 10th & 11th

That the circus lives on as a cherished medium of entertainment of America will be proved Friday and Saturday, January 10th and 11th, when the second Annual Alcazar Temple Circus produced by William Kay will be presented in the State Coliseum at Montgomery, Alabama. The schedule calls for four performances, to be given at 3:45 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Friday and at 2 and 5 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. on Saturday.

Circus stars from almost every continent will present the most dazzling and entertaining circus line up ever seen in the Montgomery area audiences.

Among them will be Spains gifted artists in the aerial ladder fantasy; the Sikorsha Duo, amazing hand to hand acrobatics on the high trapeze; Milita and Wicons, outstanding performers on thirty five foot perch poles; The Freddies, sensational teeter board balancing antics.

Clowning as it should be presented -- pure comedy, will be seen by the Shrine Circus Clowns, topped off by an absolute comedy sensation featuring Slivers Johnson and the Black Dot Taxi that baffling and cantankerous mystery, the gas buggy.

Other features will include superb acts of Irene and Tongo, a gorilla parody, and Tony Fossett, England's Comedy King of the Bounding Rope.

Music will be under the direction of the William Kay Circus Bandmaster, nationally known Al Vernon, his famous trumpet, and outstanding Band.

In the entire Alcazar Shrine Temple Circus produced by William Kay every act is a feature, and the stars are not required to double. In the State Coliseum every seat is a good seat and entertainment is assured for both young and old.

Alcazar Shrine Potentate, Horace O. Davis, said: "We are indeed happy for the privilege of again bringing the Alcazar Shrine - William Kay Circus to Montgomery and the surrounding area. These international circus stars will present a jam packed 2½ hour show with 22 acts of the very finest entertainment the circus world has to offer."

Clanton Shrine Club Officer Truman Thrash said: "As a part of the Alcazar Shrine Temple, the Clanton Shrine Club is cooperating fully in the selling of tickets and advertisements, and we are encouraging all adults, merchants, etc. to take children to this very fine Shrine Circus." Truman further added: "All Shriners have tickets and we will be glad to fill your needs."

General admission tickets are on sale by all Nobles of Alcazar Temple and All Alcazar Club Nobles, at a cost of $1.50 per Adult and 75c per school age child. Reserved tickets can also be purchased for a small additional amount at the box office in the State Coliseum in Montgomery, one hour before each performance.

General Chairman for the Circus is Alcazar Assistant Rabban, Dr. W. E. "Bill" Goodwin, who announced the following Nobles as Chairman of Committees: Ushers - Charles York and Norris Payne; Finance Malcom E. Sharpe; Program, Buel L. McAdams; Ticket takers, George McCain, Jr.; Ticket Sellers, Richard E. Thompson; Underprivileged Children, Robert F. Starr; Transportation, Charles Alexander and T. O. Smith; Cast Custodian, J. Bryant Chambliss; Publicity, Charles T. Higgins; Childrens Day, Gus Dozier, T. O. Walker, Tim Carleton, Willis Glazner; Block Tickets, R. L. "Bob" Lampley; Advertising Sales, Claude Henley; Parade, Marvin Stanley; Posters, Isaac Hasson and Ezra Haynie.

Friday night, January 10th we will have "Shrine Night" at the Circus. We appreciate the support of all our friends in the surrounding areas of Montgomery.

NEWS OF—
REFUGE
By M. LOCKHART

Last Sunday was a great day here. The attendance was very good for both services. The main auditorium was packed for, what we believe, to be the best Christmas program ever presented at Refuge. The people responded and were moved with tears as the wonderful Pageant, "The Starlite Night." was presented. It was all very impressive and all carried their respective parts in a fine way. One of the most important and impressive parts of the Pageant was the conclusion by Nancy Mims, who pantomized the "Old Rugged Cross."

Mrs. Hazel Cleckler, Mrs. Flora Mims and Mrs. Wilma Minor were responsible for the program, and all of our wishes to express our sincere appreciation to them for their concerted efforts along with others who helped out so graciously, and, of course, to all who had a part on the program.

The rostrum was beautifully decorated that matched the carnish which was recently finished by the builders. The house was warm and comfortable which is much easily heated since the interior has been completely renovated. However, the trim-work is yet to be done, but that will be completed soon.

The services were brought to a happy conclusion with the exchange of gifts which was placed under a beautiful and even shaped Christmas Tree, that was decorated to the enth degree.

It would be out of the question to mention all the nice gifts that were given and received, but the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. M. Lockhart wish to express their sincere appreciation to the men and ladies of the church for the many useful gifts, including a nice over coat and dress coat respectively. They say that there is no greater people anywhere than the people of Refuge even though they have worked together for more than forty years.

The 5th Sunday has been called "Blind Sunday." That's not so. Come and be with us next Sunday.

SCIENCE CLUB MET

Under the direction of the Vice President, Donna Meank, the Science Club of Room 12 Henry Adair School was called to order.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approval was called for. The treasurer Debbie Nelson gave her report.

The program chairman Mel Wade presented the following program: Pledge of Allegiance, led by Christine Connell. Devotion, Judy Edwards, Science Words, Mike Rosenfield, Donnie Blackmon, Kenny Patterson, Kate Mims.

Discussion on Clouds: Debbie Nelson, Debbie Glass, Kenny Patterson, Frances Davis and Pam Headley.

The club discussed questions on soil system.

Soil Conservation News

Do you want more quail on your farm? If so, you can have more by providing more quail food. Lespedeza bicolor is one of the better crops ot plant in this county for quail food.

Bicolor is a perennial legume that grows 5 to 10 feet high. It is called "bicolor" because its flowers are mostly two colored -- white and purple.

Bicolor produces an abundance of hard coated seed. The seed ripen in the fall and readily eaten by quail. Some of the seed drop to the ground soon after they ripen Others remain on the plant and are shed gradually during the winter.

Bicolor can be established either by planting seed or by transplanting one year old seedlings. Many people prefer the one year old seedlings because (1) seedlings usually produce quail food quicker than plots planted to seed and (2) seedlings survive better during dry, hot years than do the first year plants from seed. Here's how to plant and manage bicolor seedlings for best results.

Plots should be about ¼ acre in size and at least 15 feet wide. For ease of hunting they should be no wider than 20 feet. If more than 20 feet wide, shooting and bird dog work will be difficult.

Plant bicolor near woods or other natural quail cover. Bicolor should be planted where it will not interfere with other farm activities. Good locations are field edges ,openings in woodland, utility line rights of way, along ditch banks, along fence rows, idle fields, etc.

Plant seedlings in a well prepared seedbed if possible. Apply lime and fertilizer according to a soil test. Best planting dates are December 1 to March 1.

Plant 6 to 8 rows. Rows should be about 30 inches apart and 300 to 300 feet long. Space seedlings about 18 inches apart in the rows. Cover the roots deep enough for the soil, after it settles, to be about 2 to 4 inches above the root crowns.

Seedlings can be planted by use of a turn plow, a dibble (metal planting bar -- the kind commonly used in planting pine seedlings), or by a mechanical tree planter.

As mentioned above, bicolor is a perennial. For that reason, it can be maintained for long periods of time when planted on suitable sites and cared for properly. Here's how to maintain it:

Cultivate two or three times during the first growing season. Protect from grazing by livestock and heavy deer populations. To remove dead stems and thicken the stand, cut bicolor stems off near the ground level every three to five years. Such pruning should be done in February while the plants are still dormant. Apply a complete fertilizer each time the bicolor plot is pruned.

We are mentioning bicolor seedlings at this time because now is the time to prepare your land for planting and place your order for seedlings.

If interested contact the Soil Conservation Office.

Pageant of Peace

WASHINGTON D.C., December 22 — Christmas and Goodwill to Men are blended in the spirit of the holiday season at the Pageant of Peace which opened here today on the Ellipse in front of the White House.

The Pageant, which will run through January 1 and last year attracted over 800,000 visitors, is symbolized by the 71-foot National Community Christmas Tree.

Fifty-three 14-foot trees—representing each state plus the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico — flank a Pathway of Peace leading to the national tree. Some 27 more of the smaller trees are on either side of and behind the national tree, thus, with the Pathway, forming a huge lighted cross.

The 80 trees glisten warmly with a total of 16,000 blue and green Christmas lights and 250 blue-white floodlights. Five 400-watt mercury floods bring out the gay highlights of the more than 7,500 red, yellow and white decorative lights on the national tree.

The special lighting effects for the entire Pageant of Peace, including the huge national tree, were designed by General Electric and required more than 23,500 lights, also supplied by G.E.

The Pageant of Peace is sponsored by civic and governmental agencies in Washington. The National Community Christmas Tree was supplied by the State of West Virginia.

Ornamental Insects Give Plants Bad Time

Three of the most common insects attacking ornamental plants are Mealy Bugs, White Flies and Scale insects.

Mealy bugs are white, soft bodied insects. They are covered with a fine white waxy material. They attack house plants such as coleus, begonias, ferns and many other evergreens. When temperature drops and house plants are brought inside, mealy bugs are usually brought with them. They can be controlled with white oil emulsion parathion or demeton. Malathion at the rate of two tablespoons of 57 Emulsifiable Concentrate per 1 gallon of water should be used in the home on these plants or other small home plantings.

Scale Insects - There are 2 general types of scale insects: soft-shelled and hard shelled. Hard scales are usually small while soft scales are large and more conspicuous. They attack the leaves, stems and twigs of both deciduous and evergreens. Spray deciduous plants in dormant seasons with 2% oil solution. Spray evergreens with 1½ to 2% oil solution (in dormant season) such as Volck, Malathion, demeton and parathion are very effective against the crawler stages of these insects and can be applied any time. Adhere to precautions given by manufacturers in the use of parathion and demetion.

White Flies - There are very small four winged, white, fly like insects that appear in large numbers in the summer and fall on hedge plants, gardenias and other broad leafed evergreens. Immature forms are flat, oblong, greenish white and scale like in appearance, (in the dormant season) and are found on the underside of the leaves. To control, spray underside of leaves as recommended for white flies. Do not apply any oil solution to any plant when there is danger of the temperature going below 32 degrees Fahrenheit. For additional information on control of insects on ornamental shrubs contact County Agent John D. Sellers at his office in the courthouse.

Fifth Grade 4-H'ers Elect Two Officers

Under the direction of the president, Jan Williams, the fifth grade 4 H Club was called to order.

The devotional was given by Debbie Cargile and Marvin Johnson. The secretary, Karen Roberts called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Two officers were elected: Song leaders, Joan Williams and Mary Ann. Reporter, Debbie Cargile.

After the business the club discussed their projects. The meeting was adjourned until the regular meeting in January.

County Agent Says: "Lime For Cotton"

With another cotton crop harvested, producers should start now to planning for next year's crop. A primary factor to consider, says John D. Sellers, County Agent, is the acidity level or pH of the soil on which cotton will be planted next spring. There is only one way to determine this, and that is by taking a soil sample and having it analyzed. Now is a good time to take samples and apply lime where needed.

According to the Alabama Soil Test Summary, around 40 percent of the samples taken for cotton between July 1, 1962, and June 30, 1963, needed lime. Too much of our cotton is being produced on soil too acid for optimum growth. Research results from the Auburn Experiment Station show an increase of around 470 pounds of seed cotton per acre when pH was raised from 5.5 to 6.5 through the addition of lime. Where pH was increased from 5.0 to 6.5, the yield increase was over 1,700 pounds of seed cotton.

Materials needed for soil testing may be obtained at the County Agent's office, first floor of the County Courthouse.

Plan Now For 1964 Crop Insurance

Federal Crop Insurance Cooporation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are again accepting applications for crop insurance on peaches and cotton for the crop year 1964.

This is very important to the farmers of this area, as many already know, this is a non-profit organizaion of farmers of this County, adminisrative expenses are paid, and indemnities are guaranteed by the Federal Government. All premiums are credited to the county and to the individual farmer to pay indemnities which is guaranteed by the Federal Government.

This is strictly a production-cost insurance guaranteeing the out of pocket money the farmer invest in his cotton and peaches.

T. E. Blackmon states that the time is limited for farmers to participate for the year 1964. The deadline for receiving applications for peach insurance is December 31. A large majority of the peach growers as well as several hundred cotton producers are already participating in the program. we hope to have every insurable acre protected.

We all agree that farming is a hazardious business. Money lost to crop failures are never recovered, this is our opportunity to shore up against the storms that are ahead, do your part to keep our farm economy on an even keel.

4-H CLUB MEETING

The 4-H meeting of the Henry M. Adair 8th grade met on December 16, 1963.

Mary Holley, the club president started the meeting by calling it to order. The song leaders, Frances Knowles and Madelyn Williams [illegible] lead the girls in Jingle Bells. The devotional was given by Frances Knowles. After the devotional, [illegible] Payton led the club in saying the pledges to the American and 4 H flags. Vicki DeVaughn the club secretary, read the minutes of the November meeting and were approved as read.

Mary Holley gave Mrs. Lane the chair for the program. Mrs. Lane judged the girls cooking and baking and gave the girls record sheets to help with their projects.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

No prudent businessman is a big giver to charity if he owes his bank more than he can possibly repay in a reasonable length of time.

* * *

That perhaps explains better than anything else the strong opposition to the lavish foreign give away programs that have so far cost the American taxpayer over $100 billion.

C. W. Harder

* * *

For the fact is that the United States today could not cash in even across the board. With nation's gold supply down to about $15½ billion dollars, foreign nations and individuals hold about $20 billion dollars for which they can demand gold.

* * *

Under the law, some $12 billion of this gold reserve must be kept on hand to back up the currency. However, this is not the true fact, either, because also under the law, the Federal Reserve Board, by declaring an emergency without going to Congress, can put the entire gold reserve up to cover foreign obligations. But even this action would not cover the balance that can be demanded.

* * *

Foreign aid has been the chief dissipator of American dollars abroad, and enough of these dollars have been cashed in for gold to bring the U.S. stock down to a peril point.

* * *

It is quite a paradox that India, a heavy recipient of the U. S. foreign give away programs, is embarrassed by big stocks of gold held within that nation. In fact, in order to discourage the practice of paying as much as 50% premium for gold, the Indian government has by edict made it illegal for Indian jewelers to use gold purer than 14 karat.

* * *

Experts estimate that the more affluent Indians hold about $7 billion in gold, or almost half as much as is presently held by the United States treasury.

* * *

Actually, this gold situation has put the United States squarely behind the eight ball in all negotiations abroad.

* * *

For example, in negotiating for tariff treaties, the U.S. is at a disadvantage. The whole world knows the U.S. needs to sell more abroad to recapture those dollars without giving up more gold. But unless the U.S. agrees to lower tariffs on many import items, Europe can erect tariff barriers so high that it is impossible for the U.S. to trade anything overseas to recapture these loose dollars.

* * *

Of course, it is quite unlikely that these foreign dollar holders would ever press their demands for payment to the point where the U.S. would be bankrupt, because free world currencies would suffer. But it is not beyond the realm of possibility that the U.S. government may be forced to borrow heavily overseas to avoid losing all gold reserves, on interest rates and terms set down by the foreigners. And this would perhaps be the greatest irony of all time when the American people would have to pay heavy foreign interest on dollars that were given away in the first place.

EASTERLING — MINOR VOWS SAID

Miss Judy Minor became the bride of Jimmy Easterling at a 4 o'clock service in the chapel of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday p.m. December 18. Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson officiated in the presence of the family and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Minor. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Easterling.

There were two floor standzas of white gladioli with wedding greenery at the altar where the couple said their vows. Mrs. Bobby Easterling was matron of honor. She was dressed in pink and her corsage was pink carnations. Bobby Easterling served his brother as best man. Serving as ushers were Billy Joe Driver and Herman Blalock who also lighted the candles.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Bronson Minor. She was a picture of loveliness in a white brocade two piece dress trimmed in a white fur. She was wearing a white hat with sequins with veil. She carried a white Bible, topped with a yellow throated white orchid and a cascade of yellow rosebuds with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Billy Gene Wyatt played the nuptial music at the piano.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Sims of Birmingham, Mrs. Zane Turner, Mrs. Raymond Edwin Jones and children, Eddie and Susan of Prattville.

After a wedding trip to places of interest in Georgia the couple will be at home on Elwyn St. in the Gore Addition in Clanton.

The Class of 1953 will hold its tenth year reunion, December 27 in the private dining room of the Holiday Inn. Places may be reserved by sending names and $2.50 per person for meal to Mrs. Earl Smith. Route 5, Clanton, Ala.

LOCAL BAPTIST NEWS ACTIVITIES

Renew Resolutions

A special time is about to arrive to make and renew resolutions to serve Christ through the church at any cost or sacrifice. In reality this can only be done by attending regularly and cooperating with the total program of the Lord's church under the leadership of the Holy Spirit. Recently in a letter to a friend the following sentence by the sender, a church member, was noted, "Our family attended church last Sunday for the first time in six months. Isn't that awful."

This could be the reason why so many are practicing the sin of indifference--church members that is. The majority of the people being taken into custody by the Police today are the ones who leave Christ and his church out of their lives.

Every church should be filled with church members on the first Sunday in 1964, expressing a deep resolve to put Christ and his church first and to serve him daily. We wish for every one a very prosperous new year in the Lord.

Fifth Sunday Hymn Sing

The greatness of a church service can be measured in many ways. One great measurement would be the kind of music used which relates to the total gospel mission responsibility of the church. The Fifth Sunday hymn sing, which meets at th Macedonia Baptist Church, Sunday December 29, 2:30 p.m., is designe to train, inspire and spirituali choir members, special singers, a who sing or love good gospel singing The officers of the music department of the Chilton-Unity Association, are deeply concerned abou helping to improve the music ministry in every church. Everyone is cordially invited to make plans to attend the hymn sing at the Macedonia Church Sunday afternoon. This church is located on the Randolph Road one mile west of the Jemison Maplesville Highway.

GOODWORKERS S. S. CLASS HAS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Penny Clayton was hostess to the Goodworkers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church on Friday p.m., December 20 at 5:30.

The Clayton home was all a glow with Christmas decorations.

Contests and games were enjoyed of which prizes were won. Delightful refreshments were served further carrying out the theme of Christmas. Mrs. Lamar Clayton was assisted by Penny with the serving. After the refreshments were served an exchange of gifts were enjoyed having been placed under the beautifully decorated tree in the living room as the group came.

GLEANERS CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Gleaners Class of the First Baptist Church met with their teacher, Mrs. A. R. Taylor, at her home on December 12. The house was beautifully decorated in the Christmas theme.

Mrs. Clay Moatts, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. B. L. Adams presented a Christmas devotional program. All the members enjoyed participating in amusing games led by Mrs. Lake Jones. Gifts were placed under the Christmas tree and exchanged; the class presented a gift to Mrs. Taylor.

The class gave an offering for the orphans home. Each member brought food for a basket to be given to a shut in. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Other class members present were Mrs. D. H. Askins, Mrs. Raymond Cox, Mrs. Clarence Easterling, Mrs. Howard Johnson, Mrs. Thomas McKee, Mrs. Homer Melton, Mrs. J. M. Moliston, Mrs. Marvin Sutley, Mrs. J. L. Teel, and Mrs. Luther Mims.

Teens Turn Out by Thousands To Join March of Dimes TAP's

GETTING TO KNOW YOU: Little Virginia Paige, 5, who was born with a birth defect, gets acquainted with Philip Dawson, 18, of Jamestown, N. Y., and Judy Meyers, also 18, of Aurora, Colo., who were appointed national co-chairmen for the 1964 Teen Age Program (TAP) of the March of Dimes. Thanks to the latest medical techniques, provided by March of Dimes funds, you'd never know that Virginia, who lives in New York with her parents, was born with a serious birth defect.

Thousands of teenagers across the nation have found a way to have fun while doing an important community project.

They have joined the Teen Age Program (TAP) of the 1964 March of Dimes in the fight against birth defects and arthritis.

Many are helping to carry out the public education program against birth defects, today's greatest unsolved childhood medical problem. Others are assigned to help with the Mothers' March for the March of Dimes. A great many choose to think up their own projects in their schools or suburbs.

Whatever job, it is important, because the fight against birth defects is vital to every young person who plans to have his own family someday, after completing school and career preparations.

Heading the TAP program are Judy Meyers, 18, Aurora, Colo., and Philip Dawson, also 18, Jamestown, N. Y., who are the national TAP co-chairmen for the 1964 March of Dimes this January.

Judy, a freshman at the University of Colorado, was a vice president of Mu Alpha Theta, mathematics honor society at Aurora High School, and Philip, a freshman at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, was a member of the National Honor Society at Jamestown High School.

Both young people feel that a high scholastic rating is not only desirable but necessary in today's world. Both feel that good marks give a teen leader added prestige with his peers.

"It's terribly old-fashioned to think that the Big Man on Campus is a 'C' student," Judy and Philip said. "More often than not, he's an 'A' student who is also aware of the importance of community activities."

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Meyers of Aurora. She became a March of Dimes volunteer several years ago because she wanted "to do something useful." She decided to study languages at the University of Colorado for the same reason, because she thinks that linguists can be of service to their country in the coming years.

Philip, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Dawson of Jamestown, comes from a family active in community service. His father is a deacon in the First Presbyterian Church of Jamestown, and a district commissioner for the Boy Scouts of America. Philip first heard of the March of Dimes through his mother, who was active in the Mothers' March for the March of Dimes during the years the Salk vaccine was being developed and tested.

Currently, Philip plans to go on to law school after college. He has tentative plans for a career in politics, "because I feel that this is an interesting part of our present-day life."

Both young people feel that if teens throughout the country are told the importance of the March of Dimes programs against birth defects, arthritis and polio, they will volunteer in great numbers for January's March of Dimes.

They based their predictions on two things, (1) neither Philip nor Judy ever had any trouble in finding volunteers for their March of Dimes projects in their home states, and (2) both teens pointed to the fact that the Peace Corps never has any trouble in finding volunteers.

"Young people today want to do something useful, along with putting forth every effort to do justice to their scholastic programs," the two national March of Dimes volunteers said. "Just because a teen wears sloppy clothes sometimes and is a little loud other times doesn't mean that he doesn't want to do something worthwhile. The vast majority of teens want very much to be good, useful citizens."

Sunbeam Meeting

The two Sunbeam bands met at the Baptist church, Tuesday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock, with Mrs. J. O. Cobb and Mrs. H. T. Welles, leaders.

Rev. Louis Brasher told a Christmas story. Members repeated the watch word, Rally Cry and John 3:16. All repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Gifts exchanged from a gaily decorated tree. Tables were decorated with Yule ornaments and small trees. Refreshments were served.

ISABELLA COMMUNITY EXTENDS SYMPATHY

The community extends its sympathy to Mrs. C. S. Bonds in the passing of her mother, Mrs. Alice McClendon, who passed away at the home of a daughter at Trussville, Alabama, Tuesday morning of last week, (December 17) after a couple of months illness. Funeral services were held Thursday of last week at 2:00 p.m. from the Pleasant Hill Methodist Church at Springville, Alabama.

Faith Class Party

The Faith Sunday School Class met at the Baptist Church Friday night, December 20th for a party. Each member had a part in furnishing refreshments.

Mrs. Leslie Guy was in charge of games. Then an exchange of gifts. As music was furnished, gifts were passed in a circle, when the music stopped each one kept the gift they were holding.

The refreshment table was covered with yule cloths and centered with small trees, lustered balls and holly.

O. E. S. Party

Following the regular meeting of OES, Thursday night, December 19, members assembled in the dining room of the hall.

Mrs. Pat Clements Mrs. Alma Hand and Mrs. Jewel Ellison conducted games.

The refreshment table was covered with a Holiday cloth and napkins matched. Members were served chips, nuts, candy, fruit cake and lemon supremen cake. All then were seated at a table ornamented with red candles, red and green net puffs. Fun gifts were presented to the worth matron and worthy patron, Mrs. Elsie Smith and Mrs. Alma Hand. Then an exchange of lovely gifts between all.

P.-T.A. Meeting

At the regular P.-T.A. meeting on Monday night, December 16, Mrs. L. L. Hale, program chairman, presided. The devotional was given by Rev. L. L. Tryon. Mr. William Vines "What Chirstmas Means To Me."

Games were played with members participating. Christmas carols were sung led by Rev. Brasher. Refreshments were served.

Circle Meetings

Circle One and Two met Monday afternoon, One with Mrs. Donald Jones, Two with Mrs. Herman Shirley. The groups studied the life of the late Dr. Theron Rankin, one time secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of Southern Baptist Convention. The groups read the call to prayer. Miss Mary Clements read verses from Matt: 2 and led in prayer.

Group Two arranged three baskets of fruit and candy for shut ins.

The homes were decorated in Yule motifs and refreshments were in keeping.

March of Dimes Girl Visits Alabama Senators

26 YEARS
MARCH OF DIMES

SIGHTSEEING IN THE SENATE the 1964 National March of Dimes Child, Mary Lou Graves, 5, Flint, Mich., meets Alabama Senators Lister Hill (left) and John J. Sparkman at the nation's capital. Mary Lou, victim of the birth defect known as open spine, symbolizes the 250,000 American children born each year with a serious defect. Contributions to the January March of Dimes also will assist arthritis and polio victims through research, patient care, professional and public education.

Comment from the Capital —

ARE WE A NATION OF SHEEP?

by Vant Neff

Making a 100-year forecast is one thing. Having history prove it right is another.

Alexis de Tocqueville, world-famous commentator on American democracy, did both.

Well over a century ago, he warned how the growth of big government could put the skids on our free enterprise system and reduce us to "nothing more than a flock of timid and industrious animals, of which the government is the shepherd."

What's more, he was right. That's exactly what's happening today.

The fact is that our government is mushrooming into a massive monster, with an insatiable appetite for power.

And as it grows bigger and bigger, it's crowding the priceless American traditions of rugged individualism, freedom and self-reliance, closer and closer to extinction.

Let's take a close hard look at what's going on.

Fifteen years ago, there were 7.1 million workers on public payrolls. Now there are 12.3 million—a jump of 73 percent. And don't expect it to stay at that.

But that's only a small part of this story. Those on the receiving end of federal program funds, and their dependents, plus those on federal, civilian and military payrolls, and their families may well add up to half the population of the United States.

Who says so? A highly respected Democratic congressman—Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

All this, of course, takes money, and in the end it's always the taxpayer who suffers. Federal, state and local taxes take away from us about 35 percent of our national income—more than third of what all people and business corporations earn.

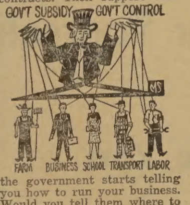
Naturally, a big fat bankroll like this commands a lot of deference in the nation's marketplace. And well it should. One out of every five dollars spent on goods and services is spent by the government.

Now take a good look at those government dollars and you'll make an important discovery. They have strings attached to them—long strings that more often than not stretch all the way back to Washington.

When the strings are pulled, people and companies all over the country dance to whatever tune the Administration chooses to whistle. No dance, no dollars.

After all, does it make sense to bite the hand that feeds you?

For the sake of example, let's say that you head up a major steel corporation. To stay solvent, you need your share of United States defense contracts. Then suppose that the government starts telling you how to run your business. Would you tell them where to go? Or would you toe the line in order to keep those defense contracts?



Or suppose you are the head of a great university with a contract to train members of the Peace Corps. The government tells you not only what you will teach but insists on passing on the members of your faculty who will be allowed to teach. Do you surrender your academic freedom or give up the Government contract?

Suppose you are a farmer. The Government offers you a subsidy with the one hand and with the other it compels you to grow or not to grow whatever the Government chooses on acreage which the Government determines, with your product to be sold at a Government-established price. Will you knuckle under or forego the subsidy?

It happens far more than you think, even though you don't read about it in your daily paper.

And there doesn't seem to be any end to it. The federal government keeps growing bigger, spending more money and acquiring more and more power.

As a result, there's practically nothing of any significance that hasn't been meddled with, in one way or another, by the administration.

For example, radio and TV stations can't operate without a license . . . who issues the license? The government, of course. But only if they decide you deserve one.

Railroads, electric-power companies, pipelines, interstate truckers and barge lines aren't permitted to set their own rates. The government tells them what they can charge.

"Management of the news" —a new polite term meaning "distortion"—has apparently become a standard government procedure. (It's no secret that the White House virtually ostracized reporters from a famous New York newspaper because the President resented something it printed.)

In labor-management relations, government meddling has been downright disastrous. It's all but hamstrung business and it's also deprived the American worker of his basic freedom to decide for himself whether he joins a union and what he settles for.

Remember that the White House has issued directives to all government agencies, even the military, virtually inviting unions to move in and sign up civilian employees.

The administration's tolerance of monopolistic unions is obvious, and leads to an inescapable question: Why?

Could it be to curry favor among unions for votes that would perpetuate an administration's existence?

All this just doesn't add up to the American way of doing things. The tragic fact is that within the past few decades the government has spun a web of supports, subsidies, interventions and controls that threaten to extinguish the spirit of free enterprise.

It would be difficult to name a basic American freedom that has escaped the long arm of government. Power breeds on power, and the bigger the government grows, the more greedy its demands become.

I refuse to believe that self-reliance, thrift and freedom of the individual are obsolete and have no place in modern society.

To me, just to sit back and let the Big Government take over all of my freedoms and responsibilities, and make all the decisions would be intolerable.

How about you?

To Our Many Friends and Customers;

Our hearty best wishes for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you and your family!

Yuletime is drivingtime for the entire family. Time for visiting friends . . . for picking up the family Christmas tree. . . for looking at neighborhood Christmas decorations . . . perhaps for taking a trip to share the holidays with loved ones. These are the warm, full days of cheer . . . enjoyment. . . relaxation.

May we suggest you discuss the six driving tips below with your family? Resolve to DRIVE FOR A SAFE HOLIDAY and make your motoring this season the safest and most enjoyable ever.

ALLOW ENOUGH TIME. Whether going downtown or on a trip, allow time to avoid feeling rushed. On long trips make frequent stops. Arrive relaxed.

HAVE YOUR CAR CHECKED. Drive with good tires and properly adjusted brakes. Make sure lights, turn signals and windshield wipers function properly.

USE SEAT BELTS. They help save lives, prevent injuries. Seconds will buckle a belt; a flick of the wrist will release it. Use them whenever and wherever you drive or ride.

BE ALERT TO HAZARDS. Adjust your driving to road, traffic and weather conditions. Give yourself and others an extra margin of safety.

USE COURTESY ABUNDANTLY. Everywhere--at intersections, while passing or being passed, at night when your headlights are on high beam--"Make Courtesy Your Code Of The Road." It pays!

FOLLOW THE RULES OF THE ROAD. Signs, signals and road markings are your guides to a safe, enjoyable drive around town or on a long trip.

Our best wishes for safe and pleasant holiday motoring for you and your family this Christmas season.

Cordially,
